Believe it or not...

IT'S THE

Believe it or not these words accurately describe the activities that involve residents of the "Home of the J-Hawks." Infrequent pep assemblies and lunchroom gossip sessions about midnight mischief all seemed to make the school day seem shorter. Some students turned to athletics while others looked to money-making projects to help the year along. Whatever the situation, believe it or not, it was the real thing!

REAL THING!

GOOD TIMES

Startling differences in classes, attendance policies, and fashions paved the way for another school year. A typical J-Hawk's day starts out pretty rough. It's practically getting up in the middle of the night to wash your hair before dragging yourself to a 7:20 a.m. gym class, only to find out you're low on gas and no station is open that early because of the fuel pinch. You finally make it to school but you're 10 minutes late—and that was your third tardy this week. What a hassle, but believe it or not, it's worth it!

VISIONS

Ask a J-Hawk about his favorite and most memorable event of the school year. After he laughs and asks you which one, he might seriously try to select the event that meant the most to him. "Was it the choir-orchestra trip to Florida or the big Homecoming dance—"I got some really great new clothes for both." No . . . maybe it was those terrific gymnastic meets, or the winter mixers, or perhaps the Outlook staff's Christmas party—those presents were wild. The numerous activities at Jefferson keep the majority of the student body busy. One might wonder what else a J-Hawk does besides spending his spare time doing all the fun stuff Jefferson provides. Well, believe it or not, that's exactly what the rest of this yearbook will portray. Read on!

HOMECOMING

JUST YOU'N ME

Kristie Lester bursts with excitement as she is crowned Jefferson's 19th Homecoming queen.

Candidate Karen Kisch informs the student body of some activities she has participated in during her three years at Jefferson.

Clutching Scott Bruzek's arm, Julie Snyder walks down the gym floor to join the eight other queen finalists.

Homecoming week proceeded with the football game with Dubuque Hempstead. During halftime, the nine finalists were driven around the track at Kingston Stadium in Corvettes. A "minor" alphabetical mistake provided amusement for the fans when Karen Kisch was announced as Kristie Lester, and vice versa as they neared the Jeff side of the stadium. Anticipation mounted as Joe Podzimek, Student Council vice president, prepared to announce the nineteenth queen. Cheerleaders shot into the air as Kristie Lester was crowned by former queen Debbie Lamb.

Awaiting halftime activities, contender Sue Hansen becomes wrapped up in the intense action on the gridiron.

Lester, Sue Hansen, Julie Snyder, Terri Stoltenberg, Karen Kisch.

Taking a breather from dancing, Randy Rooney and his date, Jean Karteus, relax in the hallway.

Homecoming began with the announcement of the 26 semifinalists—yes, that's right, 26 instead of the usual 25, since there was a tie between two girls. Later that same week, the juniors and seniors voted for nine finalists who were announced to the impatient crowd by Student Council President Ron Hoffman. Selecting the queen was done differently to avoid the traditional "campaign week" of worrying what to wear, who to talk to, and what to say. At the end of the nine finalist assembly, votes were cast for the queen after impromptu speeches were made. Students had mixed reactions about this new procedure. Senior Gayle Mead liked it better. The girls were "fresh in my mind," and Gail Rank felt it was "more effective." The nine finalists were also in favor of the new voting procedure, "because we didn't have people saying we were trying to get votes just because we said hi to them," stated candidate Sue Hansen.

Anxious to begin the second half of play, the varsity football team charges through the traditional hoop.

Beth Bruce wades through the senior section to take her place as one of the 26 candidates.

Rounding out the Homecoming weekend, couples dance to the music of American Legend in the dining room.

Under beak and feathers, junior Beth Baker portrays Jeffy J-Hawk to arouse spirit in anxious football fans.

Enthusiastic crowds dwindled to bored spectators as school spirit dropped to an all time low. Administrative concerns over length and student apathy deterred planning of more pep assemblies. "Most students wanted to let somebody else generate school spirit", remarked junior Deb Current, pep club secretary. The Hat Gang attempted to spark up the students only to be warned "to keep behavior respectable and at a decent level." Dampened spirits bogged down the student body as mixers became the next victim to fall by the wayside. Discouraged J-Hawks haven't all given up, however. They still stand with pride as the first words of the fight song, "Fight, J-Hawks, fight," sound through the gym. Believe it or not—this spirit is still there waiting for a chance to ignite the student body as it did in years gone by.

Memorizing steps and music becomes routine for marching band members as they perform at half-time.

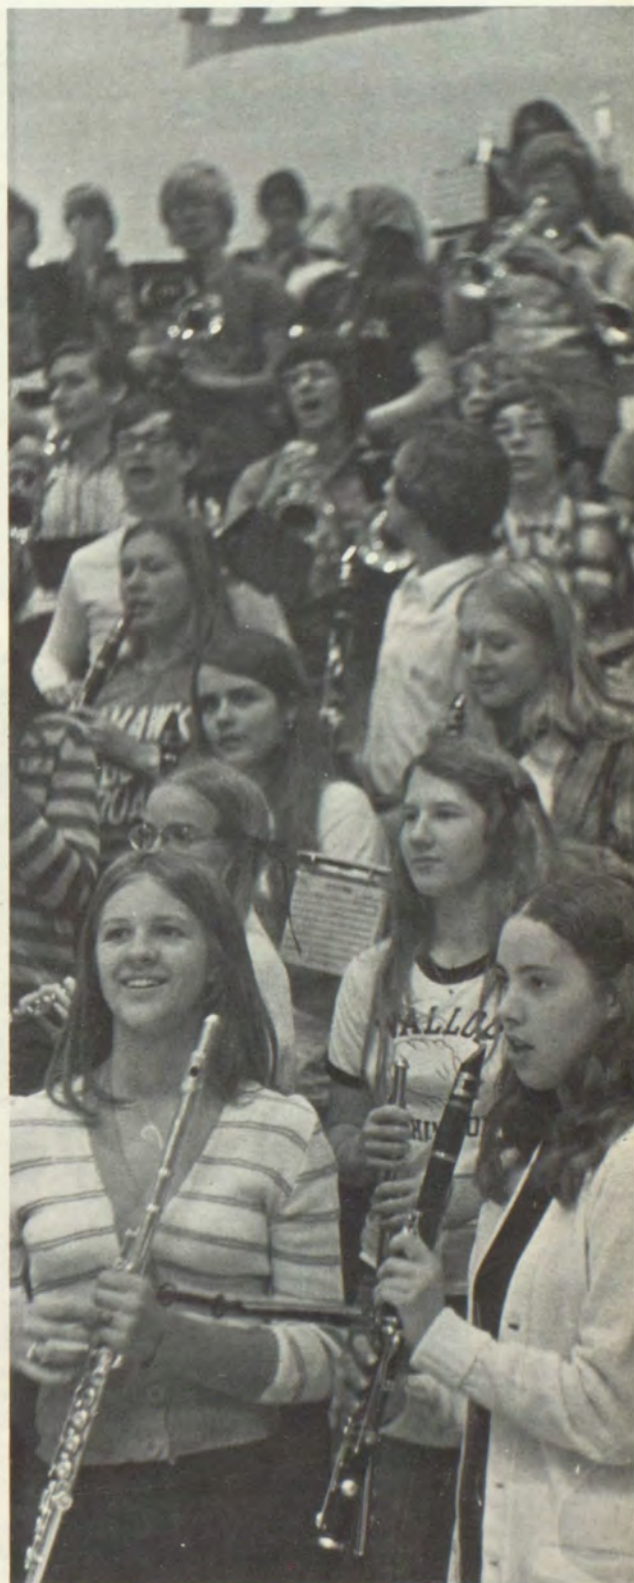

Combining their spirits, blue and white squad cheerleaders entertain the crowd with the echo cheer.

Demonstrating that parents have spirit too, Mr. Kenny Hansen announces door prizes during the Band Carnival.

Generating spirited music and enthusiasm, members of pep band anticipate their cue to play the fight song.

Taking a breather, juniors Steve Carter and Patti Bottoms find an uncrowded spot to unwind.

After a hectic week, students boogie to the sound of Headstone during one of the few scheduled dances.

Exhausting her supply of energy, senior Erin Shanahan gives the dance her all.

Jim Beam, Johnny Walker, and their companions put a damper on the administration's spirits when they invaded the February dance. When the administration found empty liquor bottles in the school, they needed no more excuses to cancel remaining dances this year. Principal William Jacobson admitted this was not fair to all students concerned, but the school must uphold the law. "The inability of the students to act in a respectable manner is the reason the activities committee made its decision." Students, for the most part, were upset with the decision. Sophomore Teresa Doyel didn't agree with it. "I think it's bad, a lot of kids looked forward to the dances." Bob Hackney, junior, felt the same way many other students did. "It's unfair to the students, a few are ruining it for everybody." Though carelessness and lack of student concern brought mixers to an end for good, dances that were held boasted record crowds. Hopefully next year, students will take a more responsible attitude and enable the administration to reverse its decision.

While surveying the crowd, senior Scott Campbell steps out to the beat of the music.

Definitely the most popular girl watching zone is the balcony above the foyer.

Sauerkraut pizza and a free sundae on your birthday attracted crowds of hungry kids to Happy Joe's.

Wednesday's Peanut Night at Maidrite helped to combat that midweek boredom.

Pinball Wizards Tim Trickey and Linda Young pass the time away at May City Lanes.

'I'll meet you at Charlie's after the game." This was a familiar phrase among students since Charlie's was a popular hang-out for pizza or just to meet your friends. Of course, there were some lucky seniors who turned 18 who made the Eastside Maidrite their "home away from home." But there were always a few brave juniors and sophomores who ordered a drink, and when asked for an I.D. quickly changed their mind and ordered a Pepsi. For something cool and sweet on a humid spring night, many students dropped in for a banana split, a malt, or just a cool drink at the Dairy Queen. But with the price of sugar up, chocolate was more expensive and that sometimes meant a 20 cent price hike. Oh well, look at it this way, it's still cheaper than drinking and a lot easier to get. Whether students interest lied in attending football and basketball games, eating pizza, bar hopping, or cruising the avenue till all hours, they seemed to find somewhere to get out with friends and forget about books and assignments.

During the winter months, bus loads of active students covered the slopes of various ski resorts.

What would a yearbook be without the services of dependable photographers? And yet, how often does the staff pause to thank them for a job well done? The Statesman staff has been blessed with four talented photographers who have placed the taking of pictures before all else during the school year. They've been seen standing in the rain covering the Jeff-Kennedy football game, arriving at 7:10 a.m. to take photos of the winners in the state DECA contest, or loading film for the next day at 1 a.m. No other staff member has been expected to be in ten different places at the same time. So, it's to you devoted photographers that we dedicate this spread. Thanks a million Keith Jensen, Steve Kramer, Cindy Williamson, and Mike Mercer! For whoever heard of publishing a yearbook without photographers.

PHOTO LOGS

Mixing pleasure with work, Dan Kaiser takes time out from his job at Hy-Vee to talk to Barb Vance, another junior.

'Don't complain to me that our gas is 56.9, I only work here!" protested senior Bobbie Graham, who worked at a local gas station. "It looks somewhat strange for a girl to pump gas, but I really like it." To some kids a job seemed to be all work, but to others it's spraying someone with the fire extinguisher while they are sitting on the jon, playing volleyball with cardboard boxes, or getting chocolate cream pie tossed into their face. Of course, these little incidents happened only when the supervisor left the room! Movies, dances, food, gas, parties, clothes . . . were some of the good reasons kids had jobs. "I work at a grocery store so I have extra spending money," remarked junior Dan Kaiser. Although some complain about dragging themselves out of bed at 6 a.m. after a wild Friday night, they look forward to next Friday—for again it'll be payday and another wild party! Others save their money. "I'm not one to go out very much and spend my money. You might say I'm very tight with it," revealed senior Chris Bouzek. "I'm saving it for a car, college, and I'm planning on getting married soon."

Insuring a proper fit is Scott Walker's business at Baker's Shoe Store.

Chris Bouzek's job entails taking orders and giving quick service during the daily noon rush.

Rod Clark fills out a bowling sheet for a customer at May City Lanes.

Keeping a watchful eye on the measuring graft, Cindy Kula helps a customer at Fab's.

A clean back window will hopefully impress Bobbie Graham's customer so he'll return for another fill-up.

Rings, bracelets, and watches added the final touch and were worn with any dress item, from casual to formal.

"Two all

Girls adorned their feet with bizarre fashions such as platforms, wedgies, and four inch heels.

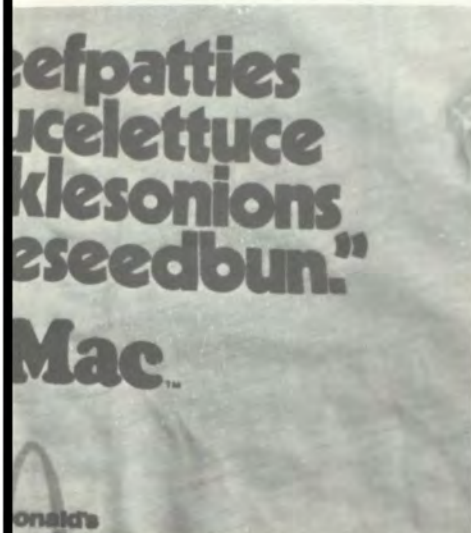

Junior Mike Mercer's overalls and earth shoes were two popular dress items worn by many students.

Cindy Williamson, Debbie King, Jodi Ficken, and Linda Waite display their unusual patterned socks.

Saying this phrase in three seconds won many kids a free McDonald's T-shirt.

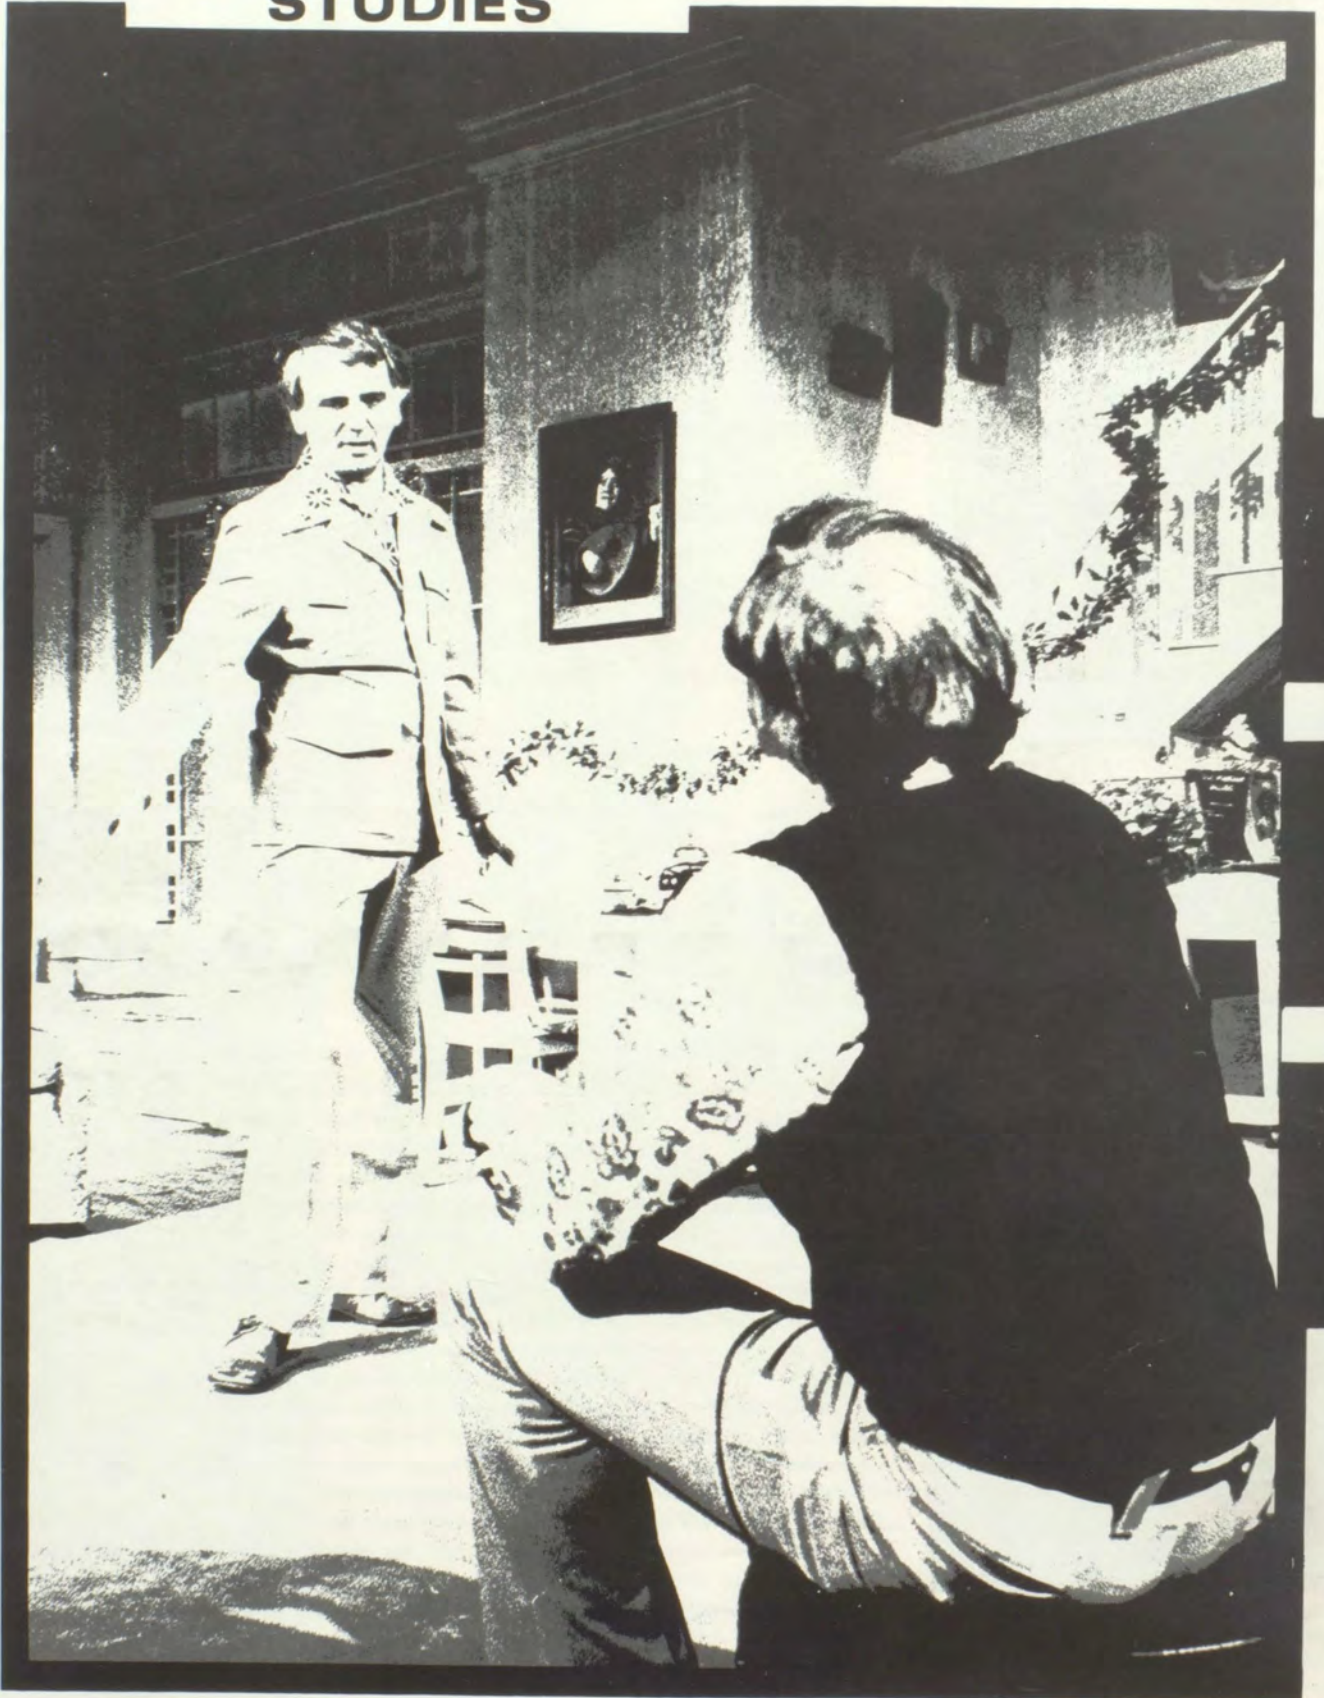

Showing the contrast of styles, from long skirts to worn-out jeans, are sophomores Judy Carlson and Sue Jorgenson.

Noticeable changes were evident in the appearance and actions of the student body. Longer skirts for gals, shorter hair styles for guys, newer shoe styles, ranging from wedgies and platforms to earth shoes, were all the rage along with vibrantly patterned socks. Jewelry—from large, wooden beads to dainty nothing necklaces—was worn to accent any style clothing. Hooded fashions were stylish especially when worn with the ever popular jeans. Clothing was not the only thing that changed. Along with reborn 50's hits, country and western style songs began to creep into popular radio stations. Alcohol consumption was on the rise, thanks to the lowering of the legal drinking age. Boy-girl relationships tended to go beyond steady dating. More couples were getting promised and many more were getting married prior to graduation. Along with an increase in marriage came more student employment. This meant many kids scheduled a shorter school day so that they could fit work into their hectic schedules.

STUDIES

JUST

LEARNIN'

HOW

Sophomores in Mr. William's point of view class explain how television programs receive weekly ratings.

During his auto mechanics class, Dave Beer applies a strobe balancer to a wheel.

Seniors Debbie Novak, Vicky Novak, and Pat McCarthy wait in line to have their schedules approved by Mr. Shipman, counselor, during registration.

Getting to know one's self is the goal behind these small group discussions in Mr. Pilling's Psych I course.

Migraine headaches and frustration, along with more freedom, seem to have developed from the new seven-hour day. However, more kids were forced to drive, which hiked expenses and the chances of conflicts arising increased significantly. Problems arose when some people came at 7:20 a.m. and left at 1 or 2 p.m. Some came at 8:20 a.m. and left at 3 p.m. Yet, for some students there were advantages to the seven-hour day. Mr. Donald Abney, a counselor, commented that students had more of a chance of when they wanted to come to school.

Registration by individual teachers proves to be an easier method of signing up students for required gym courses, explained Mr. Schirm.

"I've had that yardstick you broke Scott for 10 years," explained a saddened Mr. Smrha to yearbook sports co-editors Scott Campbell and Kathy Campbell.

Junior Tim Wink fulfills part of his job as a lab assistant by watering plants in the greenhouse.

Spanish students pool their ideas collectively to complete a daily assignment.

One of Bob Gallagher's projects in metal shop is making a hammer on the metal lathe machine.

Exciting classes were still found in the curriculum, yet according to some students, they are rapidly becoming obsolete. Student opinion seemed to vary as to what ingredients are necessary to make classes enjoyable. To junior Bill Kulhavy, classes were more fun when the teacher added excitement. "For example, Mr. Smrha uses his moods to teach his beginning journalism class. Like when he got upset with us for making the same mistakes repeatedly and stood up on a desk!" Another student remarked that he enjoyed his biology class because they were able to make terrariums for Christmas. Many students liked gym class merely for the chance to be out from behind a desk and be able to run around. Jeff Kaiser, junior, favored Social Psych because of the deep class participation. "I liked Psych because everyone revealed what was on their mind."

Realizing that her last term of registration is finally here, senior Anita Jones smiles with delight.

'What! Not another class closed" was a familiar cry heard ringing throughout the gym on registration day. To some students registration was a pain but others faced the day with the anticipation of getting the classes and teachers they wanted. Miss Mary Patrick, a home economics teacher, said that she felt that she liked registration day itself, but she thought it was wrong for students to be in such a hurry to get home that they just signed up for any class, and then on the first day of the term dropped the course. Miss Patrick believes that the students she's had in the past should have priority over the new students signing up.

Punch and a lot of goodies are served at a tea given for their employers by Office Education students.

Students follow along while Mr. Rodriguez, Spanish teacher, explains a difficult passage from a dialogue.

While Mr. Schenken takes attendance, first term Chemistry students take a break to pose for a snap shot.

For an hour of sheer relaxation, many students found ping-pong to be an enjoyable gym class elective.

As French students look on, Miss Maitland demonstrates how to make crepes.

With accuracy in mind, Dave Gerber lines up his ruler to draw in a cutline on his yearbook layout.

Revised attendance procedures evoked classroom controversy when the easy-going liberal policy of previous years was replaced with a more strict one. The new procedure was designed to insure teachers that students would make it to class and be there on time. Mr. Steve Dinger, business education teacher, said, "I like the part of the policy where if a student misses class ten times, he automatically fails. The students must learn responsibility sometime." With the new policy came a clause stating that a one day suspension would be issued to any student having three unexcused absences from any class, including study halls and homerooms. Senior Kevin Shaver stated, "If you are going to sign up for classes, you might as well attend. Consequently, this policy wouldn't effect you if you always went." For insurance of promptness, three tardies were considered as one unexcused absence and often a student's grade was dropped a letter. Students seemed to easily adjust to the new system, however, by making fewer and faster hall chats, restroom stops, and cutting short trips to Donutland or McDonald's.

Working out of lab manuals, Sherrie Tierney and Janet Bales do an experiment on chemical changes.

Small group work provides an opportunity for individual opinion in Mrs. Jackson's Contemporary Living course.

Staff members Kristie Lester and Scott Walker work hard to meet their first yearbook layout deadline.

Guys in aprons and girls caked with grease highlighted the change in choice of elective offerings. Men's liberation took over as boys began to cook, and women's lib continued as girls appeared as grease monkeys. "Somehow guys in aprons looked kind of funny," stated senior Judy Bushee. Commenting on his Foods I course, Randy Rooney said, "I signed up for the class because I wanted to learn more about cooking — to see if it's really as easy as it looks. Other guys were signing up for it and it sounded like fun." Both classes provided a general background for those interested individuals. "On the whole, boys make good cooks and seem to pay more attention," commented Miss Cheri Dickey. Mr. Bill Schultz added that "most girls are dumb with cars — so they ask questions that help teach the boys." Boys commented that they weren't impressed with the bookwork, but girls felt it was most helpful.

Sophomores Betsy Bonar and Phyllis Payne select props for the fall play under Dennis Hruby's watchful eye.

Lab partners Jim Albert and Steve Magoon begin their experiment with a positive attitude.

Mrs. Lane and her folk dancing class step lightly to the music.

For opening night, Mr. Geuder skillfully applies make-up to Francis Payne for his leading role in the fall play.

ORGANIZATIONS

THING

Chocolate pudding, eggs, oatmeal, and peanut butter are just ordinary foods that don't usually stir up many memories—unless having had a face-to-face encounter with them in the past. Initiation rites have played a big part in some clubs activities at Jefferson. The ordeal that inductees must go through can be anywhere from humorous, watching others get initiated, to embarrassing, from the stares from passersby. Two groups that go all out in greeting new members are JJ Club and Thespians. "For initiations into Thespians, they chained our ankles together and made us scrub a floor with toothbrushes. Then, for breakfast, we had green Cream of Wheat and red pancakes," revealed senior Sherri Tierney. Senior Erin Shanahan has been participating in the initiations of the JJ Club for two years. She believes that the messier the initiation is, the more important the club seems.

Senior Jim Albert works with the power saw in shop to gain points before an upcoming Thespian initiation.

"I promise to uphold the principles of good writing," pledges David Harwood during the Outlook's initiation.

Bobbie socks and uniforms from past years made the scene as part of the sophomore cheerleader's initiation into Pep Club.

Drenched jock-ettes climbed out of the pool after a brief and unexpected swim.

Spaghetti and coke were on the menu as Sue Davenport enjoyed the informal initiation for Thespians.

Senior Len Frondle, first Jeff student to ever qualify for national competition, displays his trophies.

During its first year, a large number of individuals participated in the forensics program.

From the state one-act "I'm Nobody", Robyn Loss and Brad Whiteman pantomime cutting down a tree.

Steve Van Steenhuyse's precise movements are captured while doing his award winning pantomime, "The Touch".

Looking back, a record number of trophies reveals a successful season.

'You've come a long way baby', to coin an old phrase, and what more can be said about the first year forensic and speech team that proudly displays 14 newly-acquired trophies and numerous division one ratings. Under the guidance of Mrs. Norma Wenzel, the program has risen from total obscurity to a position of high respectability in any type of competition. Phases of competition include duet, humorous and dramatic acting, besides one act plays. Speech categories range from original oratory, debate, storytelling to reader's theatre, choral reading, and after dinner speaking. Highlighting the season was senior Len Frondle's eligibility for national competition. There are many talented "students who have been fun to work with," disclosed Mrs. Wenzel, "and I'm extremely proud of their accomplishments."

Months of endless practice were required to perfect the many intricate water formations.

Barb Funke, Colleen Thompson, and Robin Stanek swing to the Hawaiian music prior to their water routine.

Preparing for the spotlight, Linda Frazier helps Barb Fackley on with her costume.

'Doll-fin-nette Airways Takes

You Around the World" was the theme chosen by the girls who participated in the aquatic show April 3-4. Despite inconveniences in the scheduling of practices caused by basketball practices, boys' swim team, and student jobs, the show did finally go on. Lasting approximately forty-five minutes, the program centered on the music and dress of various countries of the world. This theme was enhanced by the use of slides as scenery. Each group of girls portrayed a different country. As music from Hawaii was played, girls in grass skirts appeared to swim. When Japanese music played, the girls, dressed in kimonos, swam to the music. Money received from the two performances of the swim show went toward a dinner at the Longbranch Supper Club.

When Africa is the theme, elephants are included as Barb Feckley and Linda Frazier do their "Baby Elephant Walk" number.

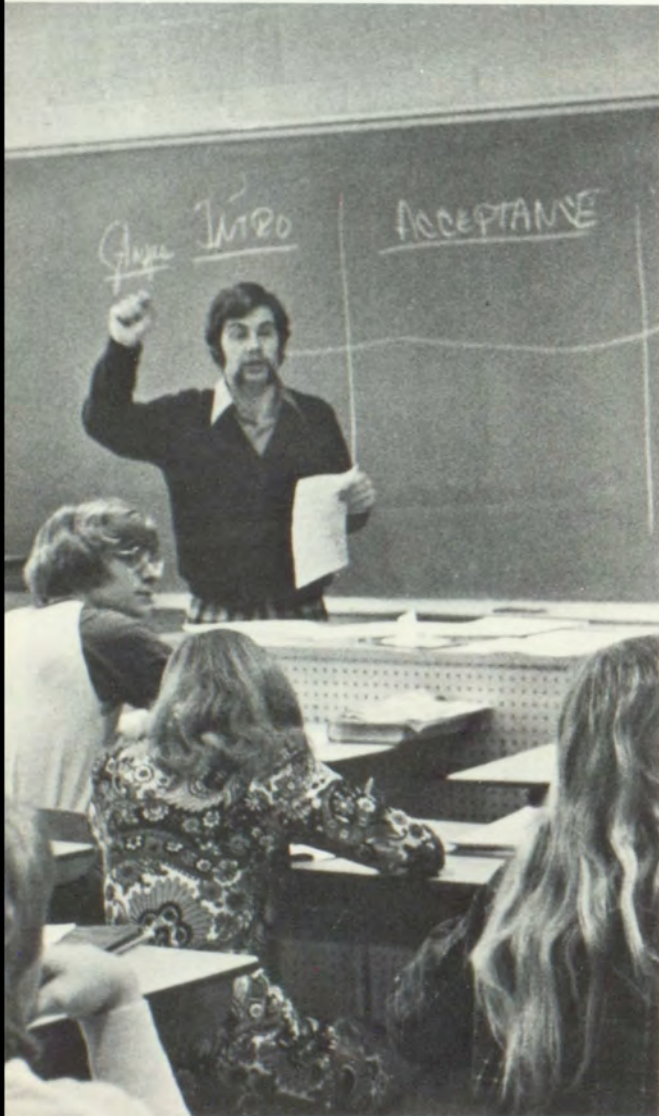

Precise routines are fun to do but rough to pull off effectively as witnessed by the mixed expressions on the girls' faces.

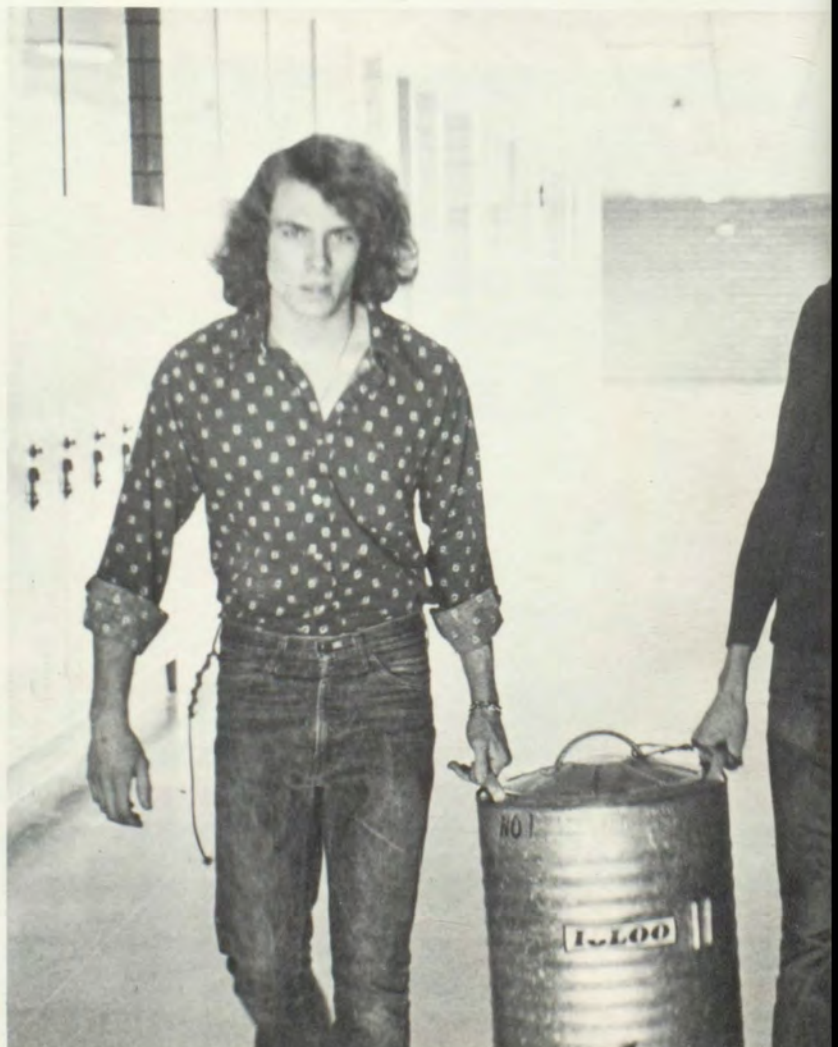

Senior Sue Decker serves punch to visitors at the annual OE Employer's Tea.

Trying to make an advertising principle perfectly clear, Mr. Dinger uses the blackboard to illustrate his point.

Taking their turn at selling orange juice and donuts, DE students Rick Robertson and Scott Bemer carry juice to the selling area.

Mr. Gary McCright of Armstrong's, answers questions after speaking to the business classes.

Working some thirty to forty hours each week was not uncommon for some seniors in addition to the number of hours they spent at school taking regular classes. There are four major programs designed to give students some experience in the working world. They are Distributive Education, Data Processing, Office Education, and Trade and Industry. All work experience programs had related classes in the mornings, and students went to work during the afternoons. They were full-year programs, and credit is given for on-the-job training, as well as for related classes. Mr. Ron Tower guaranteed at least 20 hours of work to Trade and Industry students. Mr. Tower revealed that most jobs weren't glamorous, but that the employers worked with the students to help them gain needed experience. Mrs. Mary Harker, Office Education co-ordinator, summarized a basic goal of the work experience programs for seniors. "This year's experience is to your benefit," she stated. "It lets you know that you can do it!"

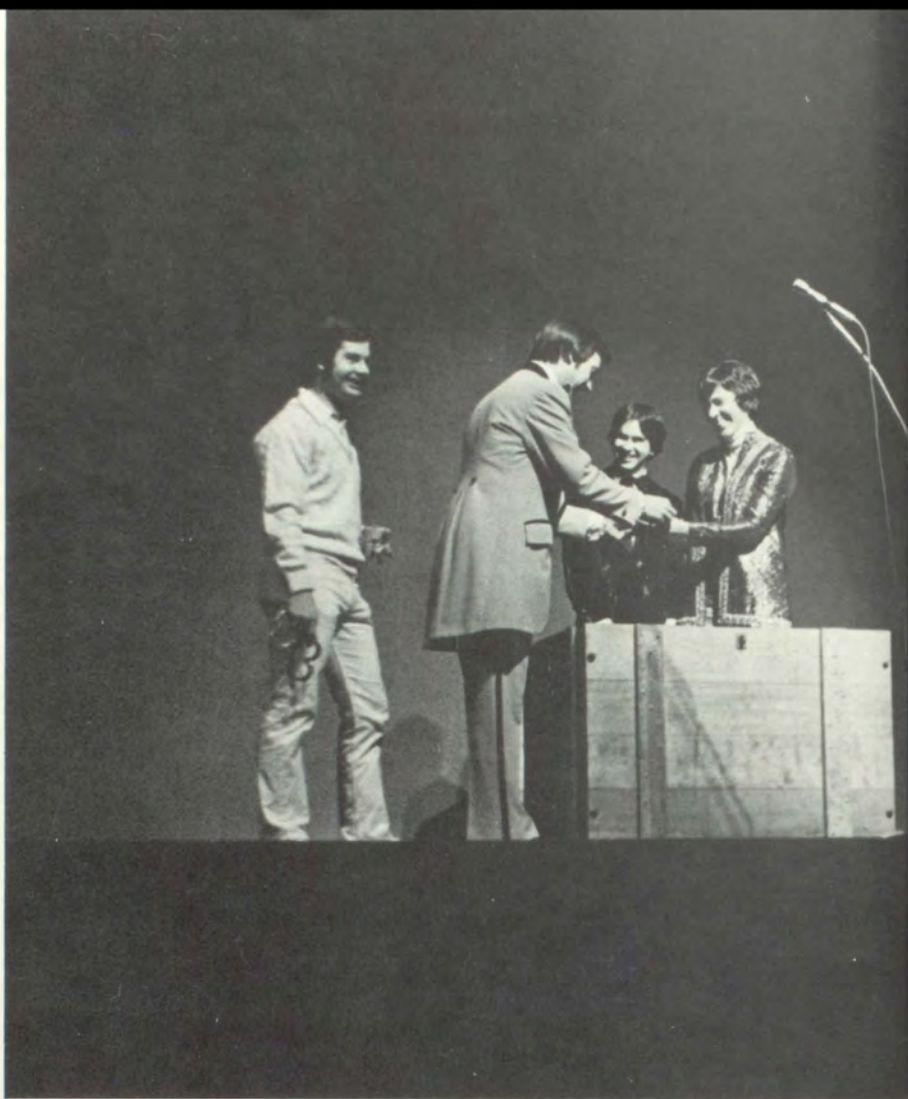

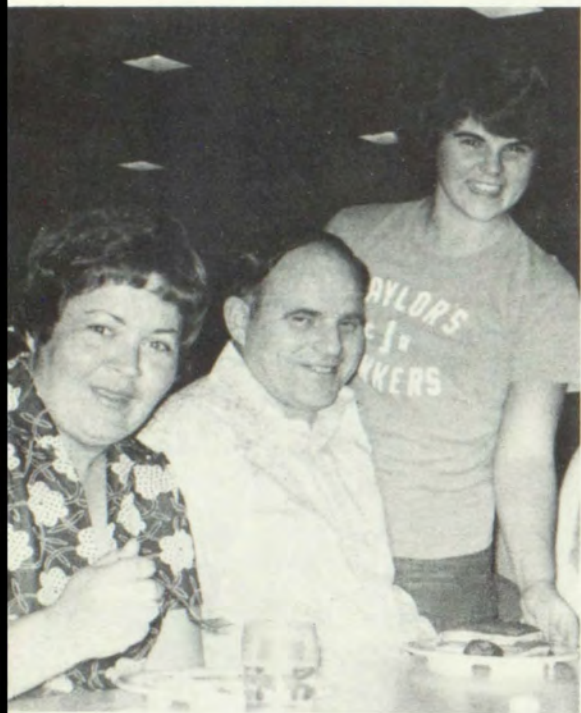

The OE Employer's Tea gave Mr. Mork, work experience co-ordinator, time to visit with several employers.

During Chautauqua Day, Jarona the Magician receives help with a trick from Mr. Steve Dinger and junior Doug Noring.

Deb Buchheim serves pancakes to her parents during the Pancake Supper hosted by Senior Senate.

Trying to keep up with the orders, Senior Senate members worked hard to earn enough money for prom.

Under the joint leadership of seniors Ron Hoffman and Randy Phillips, student government gained a significant voice. Senior Senate concentrated its efforts upon raising money for its two major obligations—the annual prom held May 3 at the IBEW Hall and the traditional class gift. The needed $1,200 was raised by hosting a dance and the annual dirty dribbler basketball game in March. Meanwhile, Student Council's biggest undertakings were Homecoming and Chautauqua Day. The April event provided students and faculty members alike with an opportunity to hear noted speakers and view presentations ranging from magic to music. Plans to host the first Metro Mixer were curtailed when the Activities Committee decided to ban all mixers for the remainder of the school year. The decision came about after liquor bottles were discovered inside the school following a mixer in February. A majority of the Council members agreed that the Activities Committee was fair in the way it handled the situation. But, the only comment Council President Ron Hoffman had was, "We had a lot of breakthroughs, but . . ."

Ron Hoffman, Student Council president, gives last minute instructions to Homecoming queen finalists just before the start of half-time events.

With roses, crown and cape in hand, secretary Patti Novak approaches the field for the crowning of the new Homecoming queen.

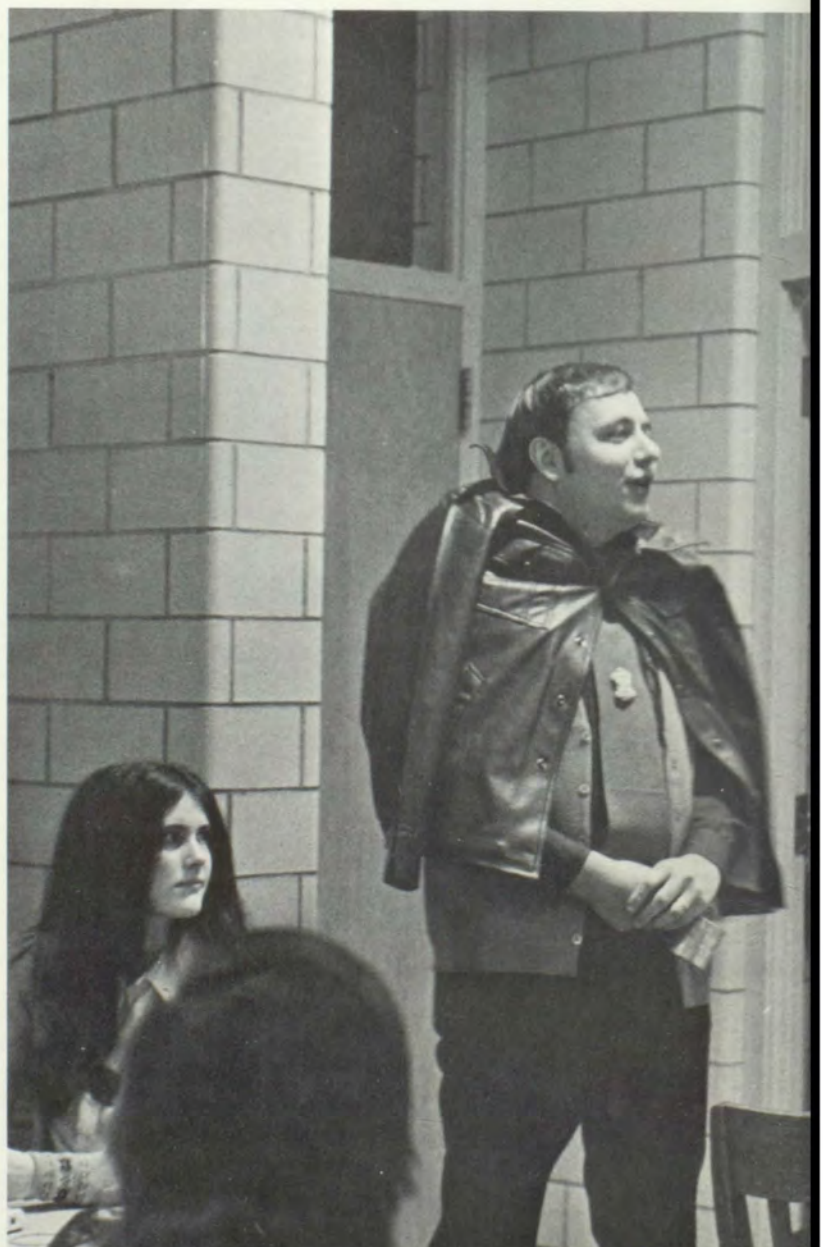

Revealing a perfect fit, Erin Shanahan displays her happiness as she opens her gag Christmas gift.

One spin of his priceless Christmas gift and Editor Scott Campbell does not have to ask which fair maiden is tops on his list for that day.

As the jury watches, Judge Smrha pronounces sentence upon a guilty editor-in-chief.

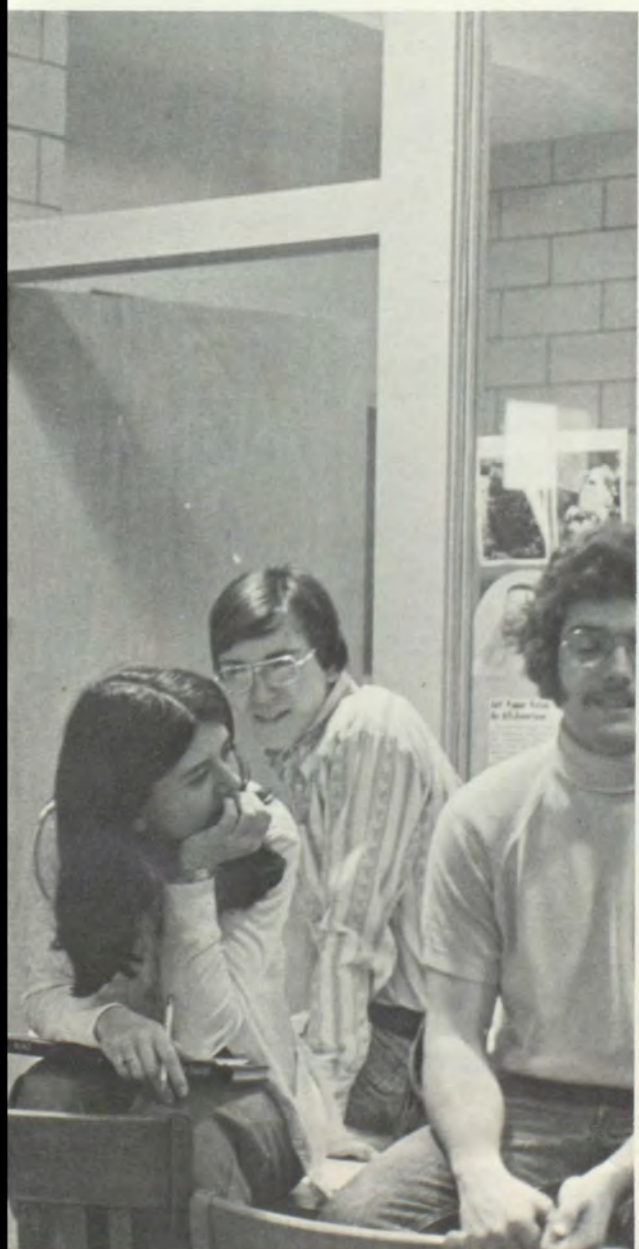

Mr. Smrha points an accusing finger at his two elves as he portrays the perfect Santa at Christmas.

Kristie Lester receives the oath from Kevin Shaver as she takes the stand during the infamous trial.

Objection Your Honor . . . over-ruled . . . I'm innocent . . . Guilty . . . These were just a few of the words one might have heard if he were present during the Outlook's "Editor vs. Adviser's Rights" trial. The infamous trial came about when the question of authority arose between the adviser, Mr. Smrha, and the editor-in-chief, Scott Campbell. The case was brought before the entire staff, who in turn decided in favor of Mr. Smrha. On a lighter note, bras, Ex-lax, and Bloody Mary's were all present at the annual Christmas party in the form of gag gifts exchanged by staff members. Even Santa Claus and two of his elves made a special guest appearance. Sandwiched in between the pranks and enjoyable moments were many hours of work in writing top-notch stories and putting together an ALL-AMERICAN paper.

Looking through exchange yearbooks for new ideas, staffers Tim Turner, Jeff Foster, and Robin Walker collect ideas.

Making class more interesting, Deb Louvar uses a cheer to help teach type size and style.

During the spring sales campaign, Lori Schreder collects $8 from another interested customer.

Adviser Ron Smrha stresses the importance of factual copy blocks to Karen Kisch and Kathy Stangl.

Enter the land of Pica Pygmies — and you enter the land of Statesman. Amidst the Rah! Rah! Rah! Back! Back! Back! and Ho! Ho! Ho's! of adviser Ron Smrha, the Statesman staff succeeded in attending a state yearbook convention at UNI, meeting all deadlines on time, and keeping third and fifth hour disputes to a minimum. The yearbook took on a new look by placing all group photos in the back of the book, besides creating an expanded curriculum section. Student life really became student life, with much more emphasis placed upon the students and their activities after school. This was done by adding spreads concerning students on their jobs, trends, fads and fashions, "Break-away", and popular student hangouts. The combination of fun and responsibility has made it possible for a student to meet his Language Arts requirements by signing up for yearbook design. "All details fell into place nicely and everyone worked hard on their sections," concluded Editor Scott Walker.

Statesman editor Scott Walker pays close attention as instructions are given for drawing final layouts.

PERFORMING ARTS

JUST PLAYIN'
MY ROLE

The surfing gang enthusiastically receives a surprise visit from the Peach Boys.

Karen Kuebler's yellow polka dot bikini brings varied reactions from the beach girls.

Jodi Kropuenske encourages audience participation by persuading Kerry Hansen to join her in a dance.

The crowd sways as John Hegarty and Diane Brown convincingly portray Sonny and Cher.

Surf City, USA, made its splashing debut November 23, and provided Thespian Troupe 561 with the necessary funds for its annual trip. Hectic last minute rehearsals and frantic scene construction on registration day were necessary to put the show together. "The greatest thing about Chili Dinner Theatre," stated Mr. Geuder, Thespian sponsor, "was that it was in all aspects a student project. Written, directed, and performed by students, Thespians were very excited and enthusiastic about Chili Dinner. This is what usually makes it so fun." Highlights included audience participation and guest appearances by Sonny and Cher, the Peach Boys, and the world renowned Chipmonkees.

The entire cast participates in one of the many zany musical numbers in the show.

Rewarding his efforts, Bob Harrelson finds a moment to relax and enjoy some chili.

Playtime Poppy made its annual appearance in the auditorium for eight performances of "Land of the Dragon". Junior Gary Moss donned the ear of corn costume to welcome the enthusiastic children. The Chinese version of the fairy tale "Cinderella" underwent many difficulties before the final curtain came down. Drama Director Robert Geuder, student director Sherrie Tierney, along with Steve VanSteenhuysen stepped in at the last minute when members of the cast were unable to perform because of illness and an accident that caused a broken foot. The extraordinarily colorful costumes and exaggerated makeup helped to enhance the Oriental atmosphere. Mrs. Roger Meeker spent endless hours painting Oriental dragons, trees, and mountains on large bamboo drops that served as scenery.

A Cockroach City, a mummy case, a wheelchair, and a crate full of penguins left the prop crew for "The Man Who Came To Dinner" with numerous trips from the prop room to all corners of the city. The realistic and humorous mood of the show was enhanced by the creativity of technical director Roger Meeker, who returned after a two year leave of absence. The play was originally produced in the later thirties and script alterations were necessary to update references to famous characters. "For instance, instead of mentioning the name of Katherine Cornell, the name of Racquel Welch was substituted," revealed drama director, Mr. Robert Geuder. "Good comedy and interesting characters for students to portray were reasons we staged the production," he continued. Held over for an additional night because of sell out crowds, Koffman and Hart's production of "The Man Who Came To Dinner" opened the theatre season this fall.

After his escape from prison, Dave Ellis and Becky Readnour take a moment to reminisce about happier times.

Cubicle suspensions served as screens for a series of Andrew Wyeth paintings which provided the needed atmosphere for the Mixed Chorus musical, "Down in the Valley." The audience witnessed an unusual effect in the use of only a single prop—a knife which served as the murder weapon. Mr. Roger Meeker's use of detailed lighting contrasted sharply with the simplicity of set design, costumes and make-up. Long and tedious after school and evening practice sessions were the main reasons why the production was so successful, noted Len Frondle, director. In fact, the entire musical turned out to be a student-oriented project with Len solely in charge of the directing and staging. Sophomore Brenda Williams provided all of the needed musical accompaniment and seniors Sean McDonough and Jodi Kropuenske served as choreographers.

Len Frondle, realizing his battle is won, takes a moment to taunt the broken spirited shrew, Sherrie Tierney.

Upon their arrival in Padua, Len and his servant Dean are confronted by many peddlers selling their wares.

Julie Johnson takes a moment to contemplate which suitor shall become her future husband.

The three household servants join Len and Sherrie in saying grace before their evening meal.

Gary Moss' sudden decision to change identities brings varied reactions from his servant Kurt Diers and his friends Sean McDonough and Dean Deaver.

Impossible to put a whole Shakespearian comedy on in only three short weeks! Nonetheless, the cast of 31 worked diligently in hopes that the winter play, "Taming of the Shrew", would be successful. Mr. Robert Geuder, drama director, cited some reasons for the revival of the "Shrew", last seen on the Jeff stage in 1961. "Shakespeare," he stated, "is considered to be one of the best playwrights; consequently, he should be performed in an educational environment. It's always fun to prove to students that Shakespeare can be both entertaining and enjoyable." Senior Sherrie Tierney was cast as the shrew, and her domineering husband was played by Len Frondle, also a senior. Their violent courtship and marriage is highlighted by slaps, kicks, and insults until Len finally tames the spirit of the shrew and turns her into a more submissive and proper wife. Len not only wins a bet with his friends, but also adequately entertains Jeff theater goers with his taming of the shrew.

In one of the final scenes, Gary reveals his true identity and announces his elopement with Julie, much to everyone's surprise and disbelief.

Opening the second act with an air of elegance, the courting couples strut down the street.

"You're looking swell Dolly" sing the waiters as Sherrie Tierney enters the Harmonia Garden Restaurant.

Linda Kolosick startles Francis Payne as she makes her boisterous entrance.

'Call on Dolly' was heard throughout the auditorium as the curtain went up on choir and orchestra members who combined their efforts to bring "Hello Dolly" to life on the stage May 9,10, and 15,16,17. "An extremely strong cast," was the comment made by drama director Robert Gauder and music director Allen Koepke alike. With "Dolly" being the biggest show of the year, all crews were working diligently every spare minute on making parfaits for the waiters' number, putting posters in every store window, and making numerous costumes including 47 waiters vests and aprons. Working until midnight or later every night, technical director Roger Meeker and his wife, Suzie, produced another superior set consisting of engraved backdrops, a lighted semicircular runway ramp, large scenery wagons, and a life-like train and trolley car.

'Let's try it again. Let's try it again.'

Such was the way with musical directors in their daily experience to help students expand their understanding of music and through practice to bring about perfection. Seeking novelty this year, orchestra members went caroling through the halls at Christmas and staged a spring concert in the dining room complete with pie and ice cream. Meanwhile, Hilltop singers joined in the singing of Handel's "Messiah" at the all school Christmas assembly and embarked on a three day spring tour to windy Minneapolis. Besides their numerous concerts, choir members sang the national anthem before athletic events and worked endless hours on their spring musical, "Hello Dolly."

To conclude the Christmas concert, Mixed Chorus, Hilltop Singers, and Concert Choir members combine their efforts in singing Handel's "Messiah."

10-4 was the message transmitted over the four citizen band radios and word was spread that the two bus, three car and one equipment truck parade was ready to depart on the nine day excursion to Florida, the sunshine state. The first concert engagement of the 100-member choir and orchestra delegation was in Chicago. The next day it was on to Columbus, Indiana, for the second concert date. Members spent the night in Georgia before arriving in Florida for a day with Mickey Mouse and the rest of the gang at Disneyworld. Other activities in the Tampa area included a third and final concert, a New Year's Eve party, and an outing to the Tropical Cypress Gardens—not forgetting a ride on a glass bottom boat in Silver Springs. A last stop in Nashville, Tennessee, to see the Grand Ole Opry and the exhausted but nonetheless happy music members left the 80 degree weather laden with oranges, pecans and Mickey Mouse ears only to greet the Iowa snow upon their return to Cedar Rapids, January 5.

Opening the second half with a bit of sparkle and smile, the girls concentrate on the fast movements of "I've Got Rhythm."

Both uniformity and microphone technique are exemplified in a portion of one of the groups many medleys.

Patriotic red, white, and blue costumes exploded on stage as the West Side Delegation burst forth with enlightening vitality. New mikes, better sound equipment, old hit tunes, and familiar costumes all added to the group's polished appearance. The Delegation's new dimension was, "More emphasis put on movements from the waist up and not just the feet," stated choreographer Robert Geuder. An additional five mikes and an expensive sound amplifier increased the sound and mobility of the group considerably. The All-American costumes and a wide variety of songs, including "Cherish", "Put On A Happy Face", and a flag-raising finale number, "Stand Up and Cheer", highlighted the well balanced program.

"It's love, love, love . . ." sings the front row of basses in one of the more light-hearted numbers in the program.

Displaying their usual spirit and vitality, the group strikes up a pose used in one of their more modern songs, "Spirit and Celebration."

'LOVER' was one of the many songs that could be heard floating from the marching field on early fall mornings. The many early morning rehearsals that were held paid off with the marching J-Hawks receiving a Division I rating at State marching contest. The band performed five half-time shows for the home football games. Spring brought back marching, this time in parade style. The Jeff Band joined with many other bands from Eastern Iowa in the annual Eastern Iowa Band Festival Parade, with Jefferson being the host school. Senior Judy Bushee was voted band queen to represent Jefferson by fellow band members. Milwaukee was the site for the annual band trip, with one concert at an Illinois high school. This was the first year that stage band became a credit class, meeting every other day of the week. Mr. Luman Colton, band director, noted that to him one of the highlights of the year was playing at the Tall Corn Band Festival at the University of Northern Iowa.

' "Have you got that spirit? Yeah man!" More girls than ever before were involved in cheerleading. A White squad was added and the Blue squad found it necessary to add another girl to maintain their original number. Sophomores broke tradition by being chosen during the spring instead of fall. The cheerleaders also acquired a new adviser. Long hours of practice and dry-cleaning bills were forgotten as they tried to lead the crowd in chants. The games ended, but the cheerleaders never quit. There was Pep Club, sponsoring a dance, exciting games, parties in the room, pep assemblies, State, watching a fellow cheerleader be crowned queen, and the banquets.

Exhaustion is evident on Deb Louvar's face as the gridders begin an unbelievable second overtime.

Sophomore Jill Schaefer expresses a worried look as the J-Hawks encounter serious trouble.

WHITE SQUAD Top to bottom: Kim Van Bogart, Sue Hansen, Christy Shonka, Jean Karteus, Kathleen Casey, Karen Anderson.

Versatile Quarterback Fred Stoeker turns the corner for another long gain.

State play-offs, a conference championship, and many individual honors loomed in the eyes of the gridders as they began their trek for another successful season. Displaying a wide open offensive attack and an awesome defensive alignment, the J-Hawks marched to six victories but suffered three heartbreaking losses on their way to a four way slice of the conference crown. Hopes for a trip to the state play-offs diminished when the J-Hawks were stunned by Dubuque Hempstead in the Homecoming tilt. "It really felt good to be on a team like the one we had this year," commented starting defensive back Dave Alberts. However, Quarterback Fred Stoeker took another approach. "This was a very disappointing season. I expected our team to at least make the play-offs for it was obvious that we possessed a great deal of natural talent." Perhaps Head Coach Jack Fisk summed it up best of all, "The J-Hawks played some fine football in the toughest conference in the state."

J-Hawk gridders dominated intra-city play and consequently they were well represented on the annual All-Metro squad. Running back Bruce Feuerhelm landed a berth on the first team by running for 678 yards and eleven touchdowns throughout the nine game season. Other All-Metro selections were end Al Selinger, center Dave Millis, quarterback Fred Stoeker, and defensive end Terry Earnest. Millis and Earnest were also named to the All-Mississippi Valley first team along with defensive tackle Mark McCalley, and Stoeker, who was cited for his place-kicking. Feuerhelm, who doubled as a defensive linebacker, was named the squad's Most Valuable Player, and along with Stoeker, was selected as Honorary Team Captain. Stoeker was also given the Ken Stewart Award, representing hustle in practice.

After a narrow 13-8 loss to non-conference foe Davenport West, the sophomore gridgers rolled over eight straight conference opponents. Included in the string were victories over intra-city rivals Washington and Kennedy, and a come from behind title clinching victory over Clinton. Honorary team captains, selected at the season's end, were Ed Kotaska and Dave Wise, while Randy Bouzek was honored as the Most Valuable Player. Most valuable offensive and defensive linemen were Mike Carson and Bruce Pike. Rick Beachler, who led the team in touchdowns with 11, was tabbed Most Valuable Offensive Back. Most Valuable Defensive Back, Bob Tiedtke, registered the most tackles. "The conference championship was one of the highlights of my coaching career," stated Coach Gary White. He predicted, "If they keep improving, they'll win more championships in the future."

Winning teams? No, but the combined Cross Country teams possessed at least two great aspects of a true winning team — dedication and self-confidence. Senior Ed Hoyum revealed that, "It takes a lot of hard work and concentration, and even if you've run a poor race, you know that you've done your best." The boys ended their season with a 2-4 dual meet record and a disappointing 22nd, out of 23 possible places, state finish. Coach R. J. Noonan termed it as "not a very good year." As for the girls, senior Joni Cimburek, sophomore Sandy Walkner, and freshman Nancy Munson were standouts for Coach Larry Nolting. "They came out every night and really gave it their all. I have to say this is the best team Jeff has ever had," he revealed. They finished off their season with a 2-1 dual meet record and placed third in the city meet. Both coaches agreed that "this was a really tough year for us."

'Best in the West' is a slogan that could easily be attributed to the boys' gymnastic team, as cross town rival Washington was the only team to dent the J-Hawks hopes for an unblemished record. Sophomore Mark Johnson led the team with Mike Mercer, Gregg Fontana, Steve Hangartner, Brad Driscoll, Len Bonar, and Tom Chapman advancing to the state finals, only to finish second to the Warriors. Team members Mark Johnson, juniors Tom Chapman, and Steve Hangartner "guarantee the team will take state next year." Of the nineteen competitors there will be thirteen returning lettermen. Returning or leaving, most teammates will remember senior Gregg Fontana, who was killed in an auto accident in November. The same teammates, who elected Gregg co-captain of the squad, came to Mr. Hiding about establishing a memorial. The student body and Jeff's and Wash's Booster Clubs contributed $434 to the fund that will be used to build a trophy case to display gymnastic trophies.

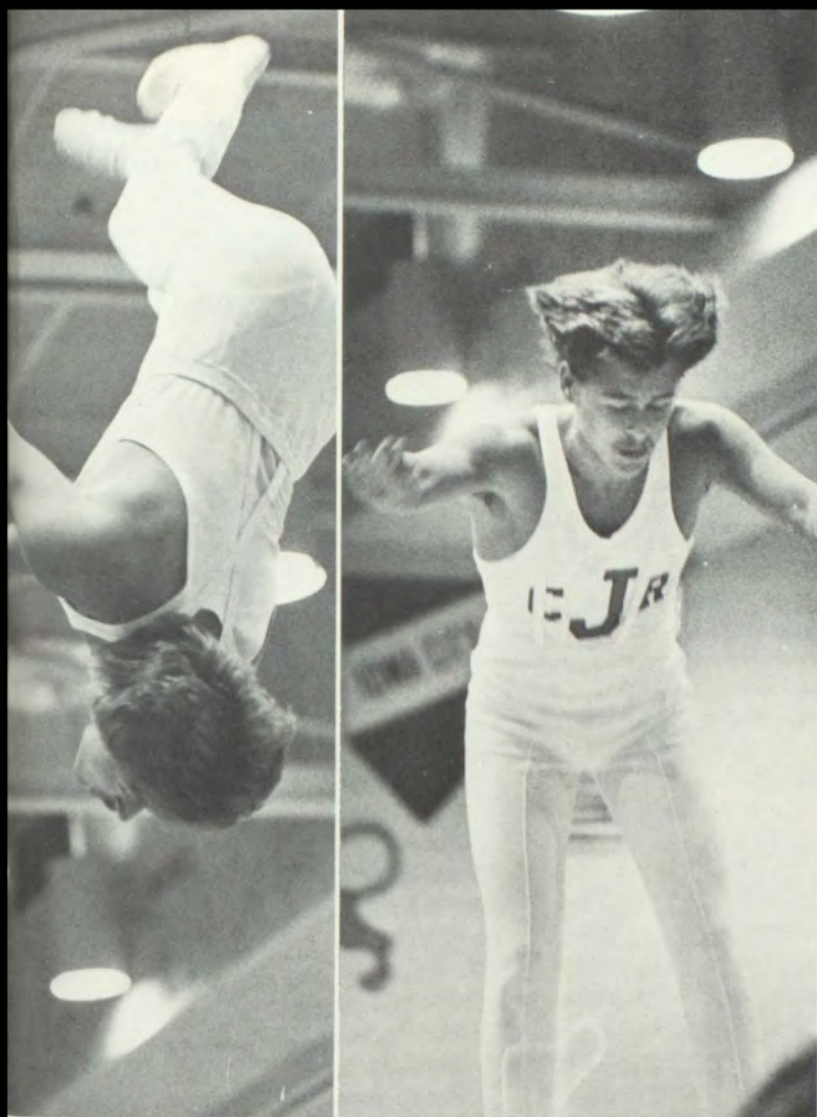

Determined effort secures sophomore Mark Johnson a second place state victory in the side horse event.

Anticipating the outcome of the Jeff-Kennedy clash, the swimmers portray different emotions.

Record-breaking performances by a team dominated by underclassmen highlighted the female version of the 1974 Taylor's Tankers. Dedication and self-perseverance marked the steady progress of the swim team, according to Coach Jim Taylor. Although the overall team tally was dismal, individual achievements assisted in making records drop like flies. Excitement reached a peak in November when the state meet approached. Two divers and five swimmers qualified in the districts in their home pool to represent Jefferson at the finals in Ft. Dodge.

Second row: Mrs. Bogguss, Sue Petrzalek, Patty Mahan, Suehila Igram, Linda Floyd, Mary Goodson, Wendy Stoeker, Sandy McLellan, Ann Poisel, Linda Frazier, Marlene Florang. Back row: Jody Reeves, Kelli Strausser, Jody Molitor, Terry Johnson, Pegl Petersen, Tammy Paeth, Diane Harney, Barb Feckley, Maria Jensen, Beth Ortmayer, Mr. Taylor.

If an outsider would take time to look at the Mississippi Valley conference title holders in football and wrestling, he would tend to think that Jeff, Washington, and Bettendorf were all kissing cousins. As was the case on the gridiron, these three teams also dominated the wrestling season. Sporting an impressive 11-1-0 dual season mark, the 1975 edition of J-Hawk matmen added another conference title to their already loaded belts. Stunned by a loss to the team across the river, the J-Hawks came back to nip state runner-up Bettendorf before heading into sectional and district competition. The matmen journeyed to Des Moines with a nine man contingent in hopes of defending their state title in the AAA division. As the final night came around with the team championship hopelessly out of reach, Jim Comreid produced the J-Hawks only state crown.

Fourth in state didn't quite impress anyone. You see, the kids at Jefferson expect firsts, or all other efforts simply go unnoticed. But, it's not all that easy to be a state championship team three consecutive times. Just ask a wrestler or better yet his coach. First, the wrestler. State champ Jim Comreid remarked, "I didn't figure myself as a state champ. Now that it's all behind me, I can't figure out how it all happened. I don't remember anything but my hand in the air when I won the title!" Head Coach Bill McNeil added, "The competition this year was a lot stiffer. The season got rough after our team loss to Washington. But we worked and came back to defeat Bettendorf—who had beaten Washington. So, we felt we ended with a good season. Fourth in state isn't bad at all."

During a nip and tuck battle, Bruce Feuerhelm prepares to take his district opponent to the mat.

Performing essential tasks, teachers and students combine heads to insure exact scoring and timing.

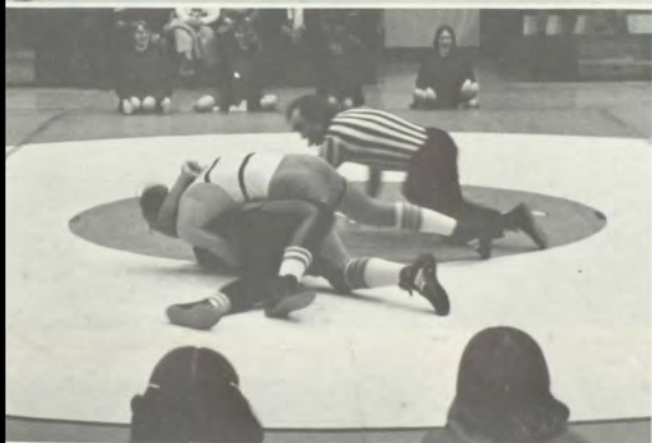

Adjusting headgear, Dave Edmonds prepares for another win en route to an unbeaten season while Casey Hartman advances in the Sophomore Invitational Tournament.

With fellow teammates and cheerleaders urging him on, Tim Jones rides his opponent to another victory.

Under the referee's watchful eye, two J-Hawks work for pins during the Sophomore Invitational.

State champs of '77? . . . Well, maybe. According to Coach John Weld, the chance is there—with a great deal of work and determination. "We were satisfied with the season, considering the small number of young men out. Actually, a 9-1 dual meet record isn't bad. So, potentially, these men could be a state championship team." The sophomore season was highlighted with a closing J-Hawk Sophomore Invitational designed as a mythical "state" tournament. Jeff competed with other sophomore teams from around the state and placed second.

Dominating his match all the way, Dave Edmonds is assured of another pin.

While earning points for her team, Jolene Slocum does the splits on the balance beam.

Anticipating her first move, junior Christa Barker prepares to do a routine on the uneven parallel bars.

With fine performances by 15 freshmen, 10 sophomores, and only 2 juniors, the girls gymnastics campaign was termed, "the best season," by junior Leah Smittkamp. Ending the season with a 12-2 record, Leah felt the freshmen helped a lot. The highest team score was recorded, and an all around record was set by Christa Barker at 29.65. Finishing with a close third in districts, the season came to a close with a fourth place in the regional meet. With injuries to Kathy Casey and Stacy Wise, the team experienced a setback. Sophomore Christa Barker expressed disappointment in the team not making state competition. "We're looking forward to next year," stated Christa. Sophomore Paula Ament felt the team could have had a better year. "The practices were messed up. The freshmen couldn't make it at 2 p.m. or else we didn't have enough room," commented Paula. "We could have gone to state maybe if we would have had more stable practices." Coach Tom Novak commented, "You could describe the team as young, yet talented, with good experience and good solid depth."

Standouts were a rarity as team balance, pride and dignity led the '75 version of J-Hawk tankers to their best dual meet mark ever, and a well deserved fourth place finish in the always tough Mississippi Valley conference. The tankers swam to a 10-6 record and a third place finish in the district meet, behind city rivals Washington and Kennedy. The tankers improved vastly since last season. "Everyone has been swimming faster this year than at the end of last season," noted District Coach of the Year Jim Taylor. At the state meet in Ames, Jeff was represented in all but three events, one of the largest delegations Jeff has ever sent to state. Taylor was more than pleased with his team's accomplishments. "These kids were possibly the hardest workers Jeff has ever had," he praised. "We also had tremendous parent support."

Opening the season by winning five of their first six games, it appeared that the varsity basketball team would fulfill the fans' expectations of a state championship contender. The squad had one of the biggest front lines in the state and lost only one starter from last year's team. But inconsistency and lack of poise under pressure saw the season crumble to a mediocre 10-9 record and a first round elimination in the sectionals. "We made a step in the right direction and hopefully a winning tradition will continue on in years to come," stated Head Coach Colin Williams. The season was highlighted by its intra-city victories, including two wins over city rival Kennedy, who had previously dominated cage competition against the J-Hawks. Starting out hot, the cagers battled for the Valley title, but as the year progressed team harmony disappeared and the season ended with five consecutive defeats.

In a closely contested intra-city battle, Seniors Randy Jacobson, Dave Alberts, and Terry Earnest race for an all important loose ball.

Various awards and achievements were credited to selected J-Hawk roundballers at the season's end. Dean Uthoff, 6'10" junior sensation, has copped 620 rebounds in his career and now stands a mere 151 caroms away from breaking the record of 770 set by Larry Baker in 1967. Uthoff also seems destined to break the school scoring record as he now totals 538, just 237 points away from the record set in 1962 by Al Jenkins. Senior sharpshooter Al Selinger obtained the distinction of being the best free throw shooter among the 1975 J-Hawks as he fired at a 67 percent clip in closing out his senior career. Perhaps the season's awards were summed up best by Head Coach Colin Williams, "Standouts were a rarity on this year's team because everyone played together as a group and not as individuals." Next year he is hopeful that the team will continue playing this way and also feels that two new records will be set by one outstanding individual—that being Dean Uthoff.

On his way to leading the J-Hawks in rebounding, junior Dean Uthoff adds another one to his total.

Guard Randy Jacobson releases a free throw in an early season encounter with Valley champ Iowa City High.

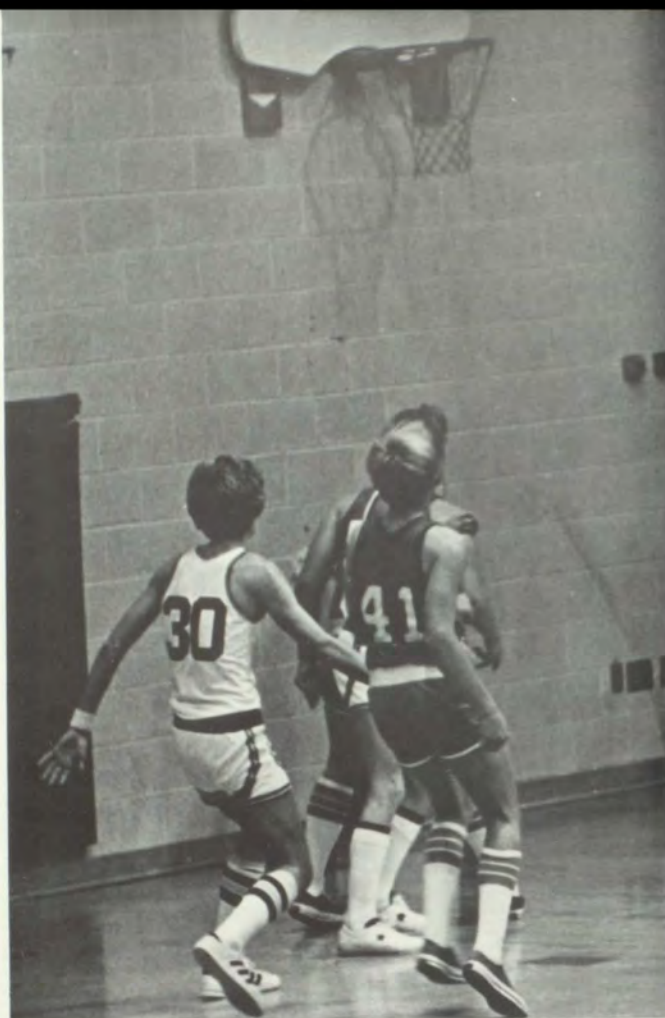

Senior sharpshooter Al Selinger displays his fine touch as he releases a baseline jumpshot.

Conference scoring leader Darryl Jones drops in two more points with a corner jumpshot against Kennedy.

Lack of height was cited as a big reason why the soph cagers went 8-10 this year, recalled assistant coach Hurley Bassett. Some bright spots, however, who put on dazzling shows for the fans included guards Darryl Jones and Mike Kenney, who finished first and third respectively in conference scoring. Along the road to a 5-9 Valley season, the following members were also recognized at the team's year end banquet. Jones was honored as Most Valuable Player and Kenney was named Honorary Team Captain. Mike Carson achieved the Most Improved Player Award and the Player who contributed most to practice was Clem Wisely. Both coaches agreed that, "With the personnel we had, we experienced a successful season."

Forward Doug Barnes sinks a last second free throw in a heart-breaking defeat to Dubuque Hempstead.

Flashy guard Mike Kenney splits the nets with a 20-foot jumper against the Little Hawks of Iowa City.

New Year's resolutions were well in the minds of the 1974-75 girls' basketball team. After sporting a disappointing 0-10 record for the first half of the season, the female cagers started to jive in '75 with four straight wins. "I really enjoyed working with the girls. I'm sure that if we had a little more time we could have had a bigger number in the win column," revealed Head Coach Jim Lockett. He also noted that besides having a steady defense his girls on the forward end improved a whopping 38 per cent after Christmas vacation. At the annual end of the season pot luck dinner, outstanding individuals were recognized by a vote of their teammates. Elected to the captain spots were guard Mary Sylvester and forward Erin Shanahan, both seniors. Other awards included the J-Hawk Hustle Award given to Chris Bouzek, senior, and junior Carol Kammerman, both defensive players. Junior guard Lynda Clark and sophomore forward Robin Smittkamp were cited as most improved players in the positions. Erin Shanahan and junior Theresa Lamb were honored with most valuable forward and guard awards respectively. Sophomore captains were forward Theresa Langguth and guard Wendy Baird. Sandy Walkner copped the J-Hawk Hustle award for her job as a starting guard. Most improved awards were given to Connie Neal, forward, and Carol Bouzek, guard. Teammates voted Theresa Langguth and Carmel Brown most valuable forward and guard respectively.

Getting off to a slow start, the dismal track season was plagued by rain and unseasonably cold weather. Efforts by the boys and girls teams were further dampened by injuries and low spirits. However, as the weather improved and the sun began to shine, the spark of competition was revived. The Drake Relays, always a highlight of the season, gave the boys some stiff competition before the all important district meet. Qualifying for the Relays were seniors Randy Jones, Randy Phillips, and Duane Poole, and juniors Mike Schmidt, Ron Harrelson, and Ken Samek. The J-Hawk cindermen found depth in the underclassmen and are looking for an exceptional season next year. Feeling the crunch of thinned ranks, the girls track team also found that underclassmen contributed immensely to the overall effort. Sophomores Hila Pusateri and Sandy Walkner proved to be outstanding hopefuls for future years. With only four seniors and four juniors remaining at the end of the season, the girls mainly gained experience and are optimistic that next year will be more successful.

Awaiting the start of the mile relay, sophomore Sandy Walkner listens intently for the gun.

Paced by veteran linksmen

Dwayne Hensch and Rick Gaskill, the boys' golf team got off to a fast start by winning four of their first five meets. The squad sustained this pace throughout their season under second year head mentor Colin Williams. With assistance from first year head coach Gary White, the girls' golf team also jumped off to a quick start. Winning five of their six meets, the girls were led by juniors Barb Feckley and Linda Frazier and were ably assisted by two sophomore standouts, Sue Frazier and Ann Stolba. These four girls formed an awesome quartet for many J-Hawk opponents throughout the course of the season. Coach Gary White lauded his squad as the "best ever" and said "this group has the nucleus to be a very tough team."

Junior Barb Feckley concentrates on a putt on the last hole at Chapman's.

With hopes of a birdie, Kathy Campbell lines up her next shot on the fairway.

GIRLS' TENNIS Front row: Deb Buchheim, Vicki Tiedtke, Sue Graham, Sue Jorgensen, Sue Decker, Linda Payton, Roberta Spoenemann, Laurie Holub, Jill

Preseason predictions can be often made quite accurately, but early season forecasters apparently struck out when it came to the J-Hawk tennis teams. To say the least, the boys' finish was somewhat of a disappointment. When the season began the netters had high hopes as they returned a strong contingent of six experienced lettermen, along with a supposedly promising sophomore crop. However, the boys faltered to a dismal season mark. Seniors Jeff Moon, Dave Sunday, and Dallas Uifers all agreed that, "Lack of togetherness due to unexplainable coaching mistakes played an instrumental part in the boys poor showing." With only three returning letter winners back from last year, most followers of the girl netters felt they were in for a long season. But led by seniors Deb Buchiem, Sue Decker, and Sue Graham, along with a very enthusiastic coach Jim Lockett, the girls raced to a much improved 7-7 mark. Sue Decker noted, "Our improved showing this year can be strongly attributed to our better attitudes."

Senior Deb Buchheim follows through on a powerful serve in one of her number one singles matches.

Watching the ball into the racket, Sue Graham warms up before a home meet.

Dave Sunday, Scott Walker, Steve King, Todd Allison, Charles Traylor, Jeff Hassenius.

Junior catcher Mark Fleagle steps into the batter's box with hopes of getting his first varsity base rap.

With the pitch on its way, senior stand-out Randy Jacobson readies his bat for another base hit.

An unusual number of underclassmen in the starting line-up marked the 1975 version of J-Hawk varsity baseball. The team boasted four returning lettermen, but all other spots were filled by juniors. Senior Randy Jacobson continued his stellar play from his junior year and was the squad leader throughout the early part of the season. The team played only an elongated summer schedule, as the spring season was dropped. The pitching chores were handled by senior Dave Alberts and juniors Steve Rooks, Sean Gallagher, and Gordy Nordgren. Mental mistakes caused by inexperience hurt the team and caused several close defeats. The squad faced a rugged schedule, at one time playing seven games in one week. Relying heavily on lettermen Jacobson, Alberts, Al Selinger, and Fred Stoeker, the team opened the year with a resounding 21-5 thumping of Lisbon. But lack of leadership and experience hurt the team throughout most of the campaign.

Pitching stalwarts Dave Alberts and Shawn Gallagher display their smooth wind-ups in the win over Lisbon.

Impressions . . . "Being a sophomore is like being a child all over again. In junior high you're at the top of the pile. Then you come to Jefferson, and you're down there at the bottom of the heap again!"

"Usually until Christmas you're just a sophomore. After that, upperclassmen start referring to you by your name instead of just sophomore."

"The most horrible day for a sophomore is that first day in August when you're finally a high school student. Jefferson becomes a chaotic jungle and every sophomore that night says, 'I'm never going to last out the entire year.'"

 Impressions . . . "The only accurate description for the junior class is hard workers. In other words, they work."

"There are certain skills that one acquires as a junior. The first and undoubtedly most important is learning how to drive. Each trimester a new flock of juniors takes to the highways."

"Also, as a junior you discover the joy behind forging your Mom's name on a note for that class you missed for the fourth time this week."

"Being a junior at Jeff is a very middle experience. I think perhaps that's one of the best ways to describe this time in your life. It's exactly the middle of your three year experience at Jefferson."

"Some people say the junior year is definitely the best year at Jefferson High School. It's the last year of childhood before one becomes a senior."

Obviously not interested in a sophomore football game, a group of junior guys find time to chew the fat.

SENIORS

JUST PASSIN'
THRU

Memories of the senior year will always start at Homecoming for finalist Jamiely Igram.

Jodi Kropuenske serves spaghetti at the first initiation for Thespians which was one of many activities that made for a busy drama season.

The ultimate goal of thirteen years of school came to an end May 28, but will stick in one's mind forever.

Jeff's three foreign exchange girls, Luciene Diniz of Brazil, Ivonne Hidalgo of Ecuador, and Claudia Quintero of Colombia, enjoy watching couples dance fast during prom festivities at the IBEW Hall.

This is to say good-bye.
I'm leaving and I'm not sure where I'm going,
but there's lots of places
I haven't been,
and I've been here.
I can look back on these three years and remember the good times and see things I might have changed, yet I've learned from them all,
so I'll let them rest as memories.

So many think that graduation is a big step into adulthood, but lately I've realized that you never stop growing or learning.
I'm going out to grow.
So long.
Maybe I'll see you sometime.
—Jodi Ficken

Winter vacation in Florida highlighted the senior year for Concert Choir members Ron Johnson and Martha Gesme.

As the tempo slows, couples sway to the music provided by "Miles."

Showing a bit of excitement, Becki Ehlert and date Gregg Greaser step out to a popular tune.

Adding a romantic touch to a perfect night, Janet Bales and Scott Walker pause beneath the arch.

While spring fever crept into the air, so did the planning for the all-important senior prom. Committees were chosen in Senior Senate meetings and it wasn't long before the estimated $1,000 cost was dwindled away by paying for decoration rental, a band, refreshments, flowers, and assorted other items. On the night of May 3, at the IBEW Hall, kids were seen trying to dance to music provided by "Miles", a local band, in stiff multi-colored tuxes and awkward feeling long dresses. "Your Song" by Elton John was chosen as the theme. Decorations portrayed a patio scene complete with golden arches, a canopy, many colorful tables, a champagne fountain, and a wishing well. All evening Senior Senate president Randy Phillips gave away gift certificates to lucky couples and Lynn Whiteman won every girl's dream—the coveted guest book.

Jean Karteus and Terry Earnest make plans for after prom with Kathy Campbell and alumnus Mark Dukes.

Taking a short break, Dave Steff refills Vicki Fuller's glass of punch.

Salutatorian Gail Rank is introduced to school board members by Principal William C. Jacobson.

High school days come to an end as seniors bow their heads as the benediction begins.

Graduating choir members join ranks with underclassmen to sing the night's theme song, "Something for Tomorrow."

'Graduation exercises will begin at 7:30, not at 8 as your announcements read. I repeat . . ." Most seniors strained their ears to make sure they heard this important message correctly over the intercom and then rushed home to tell Mom. After all plans were shifted, invitations mailed, and post graduation party changed, the man over the intercom returned to say, "Graduation exercises will begin at 8, not at 7:30 as previously stated. I repeat . . ." A new shift in plans, one of many made by angered seniors, followed this latest announcement. Much more than just shaking a hand and receiving a diploma went into that special moment commonly known as commencement. The day was May 28, the place, Kingston Stadium, the cast, class of 1975, and the audience, family, friends, and interested bystanders, as 13 years of school culminated in one brief ceremony. For many, tomorrow poses a question mark, while others are already embarking upon their future. Marriage, forty-hour work weeks or college all loom before them. However, the high school grad, at least for the night, is oblivious of future worries, being merely content to celebrate his latest achievement.

Happiness best describes Chris Bouzek Dvorak's facial expression during the processional.

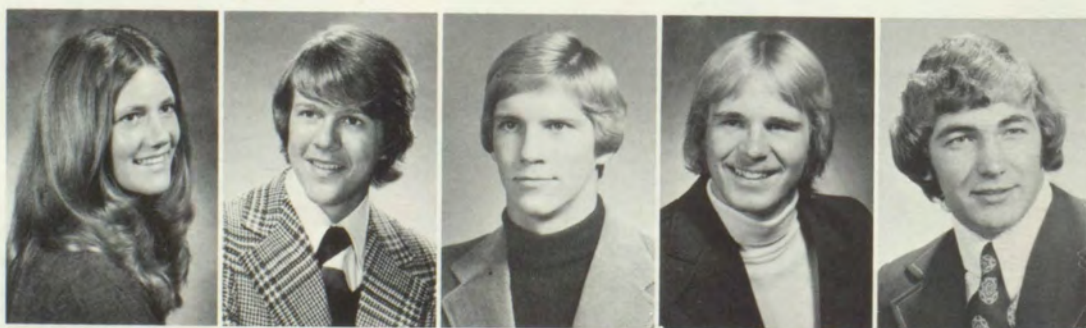

Following the recessional, anxious seniors search out their homeroom teacher for their diploma inserts.

Sue Farley and Debbie King whoop it up at spring term registration — the last during their high school days.

Impressions . . . "Being a senior is entering the real world of ACT exams, college entrance requirements, and SAT's."

"Seniors can do all sorts of things: drive cars fast, have wild parties, cut classes without batting an eye, make out like crazy, leap tall buildings at a single bound, and cry at graduation."

"It's living up to the expectations of the underclassmen for being top dogs and king of the heap."

FRESH START

Seven o'clock rolled around too early for most of the 1,700 students August 26. Sophomores, however, spent half the night worrying about their first day at Jefferson. New school policies, new classes, and new people were all a part of first day hassles, which dragged into first week hassles, and eventually into first term hassles. All the old crowds quickly reunited and school life almost became a routine before it started. Waning summer days were forgotten, as excitement built for that first important football game. Even a one-point loss only temporarily stunned fellow J-Hawks, as they bounced back. Lugging home books and cramming for those first tests soon took its toll on students. Resolutions to study began fading as excuses for that first report card were conjured up. Attempts at avoiding boredom taxed many students' brains. Winter hibernation slowly drifted in among the J-Hawks. Believe it or not—that's how the school year got started!

FALL

"As comfortable as an old shoe" might well summarize winter term. Although the first snowfall brought "oohs" and "ahs," they soon changed to "ugh" and "yuck." A familiar sight in all of Jefferson's parking lots was students scraping windows and waiting for their cars to warm up. Wet and cold halls became common as students tracked through them into cold classrooms. Openings in the windows didn't help any as snowballs bounded onward and upward. Senior Deb King remarked, "What can you say? Winter term was a bore. The only good thing about winter was Christmas vacation." Homework loads didn't lighten any as most teachers figured students had nothing better to do. Likewise, grades didn't go up as students sat and daydreamed of spring ahead. Some beat the blues by planning weekend ski trips, others exploded at state, letting themselves go after being pent up all winter. The rest stayed and ventured out to find entertainment at home. Believe it or not—as the snow melted away, none of the J-Hawks seemed saddened.

THUS ENDETH
ANOTHER DAY.

SUN

After a four day break, spring term started on March 4, bringing with it boredom, Daylight Savings Time, and more snow. But as the term progressed and the balmy Lake McBride breezes called, the Jefferson population dropped significantly. Students spent a lot of time away from school and more and more time basking in the sun or just goofing off outdoors. Even though the sunny days tempted many, there were a few students who stayed around to study—whether it was for the few remaining credits needed to graduate or building credits up so they could slack off during their senior year. There were a few good things that came with the end of the year. Believe it or not—no more tough seniors, progressing a grade, no more hassles of registration, and no more immature sophomores, until next year when the vicious cycle starts all over again.

Throughout my days spent here at Jefferson, I've heard many times the familiar phrase, "Your high school days are the best of your life, don't kiss them good-bye." The calendar on the wall reads May 28 . . . graduation's tonight. As my days come to an end, and I look back upon the past, the memories of the times spent here are rapidly becoming more meaningful. It wasn't until I was on the outside of the walls that I saw how valuable the time spent on the tennis courts, in the classrooms and the never ending hours in the publications office really were to me. Sure I'm ready to go on to better things after tonight's ceremony, but I wouldn't stand a chance without the experience I acquired as a J-Hawk. I sincerely hope that the pages of this 224 page yearbook help you relive the good times you spent at Jefferson, undoubtedly the best three years of your life. As I walk to my car for the last time as Editor-in-Chief, I look back and find it hard to say . . .
