Spirit rises

As August 26 approached, most J-Hawks had to reluctantly give up their carefree days of summer and once again begin thinking about homework, early rising, and practicing for athletic competitions.

The halls were crowded as 1,515 students pushed and shoved to get to class.

The year was divided into trimesters so students had the privilege of taking many interesting, exciting classes. The students enjoyed spirit days and were proud of their colors, blue and white.

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors combined to produce winning athletic teams as well as excel at fine arts and academics. The year's theme, "The J-Hawks Have Arrived", was certainly a winner!

We're involved

Study, study, study. Doesn't it seem that all we ever do is study? Contrary to many beliefs, there is life after studies!

Students have many other activities in which they can be involved. If athletics is your scene, Jefferson offers sports from football to bowling. If you're into music, check out the Band of Blue or one of the fine choirs. Lastly, you can get involved in drama from acting to construction crew.

Whatever your interests may be, Jefferson can provide excitement after long days of studies.

Expressions vary on the faces of these J-Hawks as they participate in school activities: (1) Last year's queen Julie Schmitz, Sonya Feaker, Joel Hachey. (2) Toni Gearhart. (3) Kara Kelsey. (4) Deb Meier, Teri Swore. (5) Mike Cheney, Jill Haight. (6) Teri Skelton, Brian Hall, Val Jensen. (7) John Kenjar, Jim Fields, Matt West, Yousif Sheronick. (8) Sue Wiltgen, Amy Oliver, Lina Sigrist. (9) Rick Schmidt, Karen Scholl. (10) Joan Schultz, Julie Ewert.

Expressions may vary throughout the year, but the J-Hawk spirit always remains: (1) Cross Country initiation, (2) Kara Kelsey, Alicia Michel, (3) Flag girls, Mr. Allen, (4) Paul Betterton, (5) Joan Schultz, (6) Scott Meier, (7) Pom pon girls, (8) Band members, (9) Boys' basketball players, (10) Seniors, (11) Colleen Sylvester and Mom, (12) Rick Schmidt, Karen Scholl.

J-Hawks unite

As the school doors opened for another year, sophomores, juniors, and seniors got acquainted and united into J-Hawks.

Many new and stricter policies were introduced causing minor disagreements but no major protests. Students were free to choose a variety of interesting classes. Many courses helped students gain responsibility and helped them earn valuable credits toward graduation. Some classes offered on-the-job training to help students in the future.

J-Hawks enjoyed the year at Jefferson while keeping in mind that 1983 is the best there will ever be.

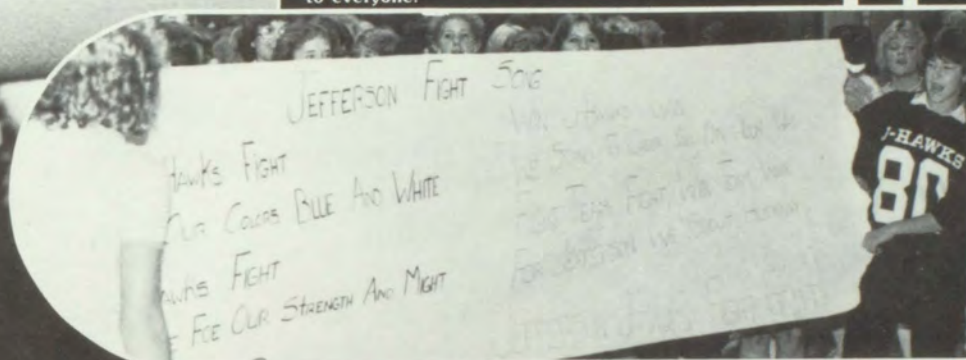

Spirit rises in '83

Student life was expressed in many ways as the year's theme, "J-Hawks Have Arrived", was unveiled. A change came to the students as pep assemblies were moved from 10:20 to 8:20. Still, this couldn't stop the energy the J-Hawk spirit gave to cheering the athletes on to victory.

Homecoming, W.P.A., and mixers also kept enthusiasm high. Many clubs sponsored fund raisers as a variety of J-Hawk mugs, bumper stickers, and candy circulated the hallways. Student life with its vitality proved 1983 is definitely the best there will ever be.

During a halftime performance, pom pons show the fans a new routine. (Below) At a fall pep assembly, the fight song is taught to everyone.

You and me in '83

The graduating class of 1983 has arrived! The J-Hawks have returned again this year and carried on with their tremendous spirit. "The J-Hawks Have Arrived" was chosen as the theme for the 1982-83 school year by Senior Senate.

As sophomores, the class of '83 showed great potential as winners in and out of the classroom. At pep assemblies and as athletes, we have pulled together as a class and as teams to become a select group of individuals who will go far and do great things.

Band members show enthusiasm at a home football game.

Working together to form a team is what winning is all about. We at Jefferson proved it when we pulled together as J-Hawks instead of becoming divided into three separate classes, something that can happen so easily.

"When you have arrived, you follow your inner guidance rather than the crowd" stated Principal William C. Jacobson.

The place has been set, progress has been made, goals have been reached, and "The J-Hawks Have Arrived!"

The wait is over as Sonya Feaker smiles with relief.

Who will she be?

Stomachs starting turning and hearts skipped beats as senior class president, Lonnie Zingula, started reading the list of 26 girls who would be semi-finalists for Homecoming queen. The mood in the Jefferson gymnasium on the morning of September 10 was one of anticipation and excitement. When asked what she felt when her name was read, semi-finalist Kathi Hanson replied, "It was a feeling of total surprise. It felt like the feeling you get when you're on a roller coaster, your stomach kind of flips!" When asked the same question, Kara Kelsey added, "I can't even explain it. It was just really neat!" Surely each girl had several different thoughts as she was being escorted down that isle, one being anticipation.

Homecoming Queen

Ten days later, on Monday, September 20, ten girls were selected as finalists. Each girl's parents were present to pin a corsage on their daughter. These excited and flustered girls consisted of, Mary Cole, Jennifer Peters, Sonya Feaker, Renee Steuber, Stacy Rowles, Kathy Welsh, Jill Hupfeld, Karen Scholl, Carmen Hewitt, and Vicki Jellison. Blood pressures rose as each girl hugged her mother.

"I was totally shocked; I about died when I saw my mom walk out!" commented Jill. "I wasn't even expecting it," expressed Jennifer Peters. These 10 girls had a big night ahead of them, the night of September 24. Half time at the varsity football game finally arrived and the queen was crowned. The flag girls stood at attention as each girl was escorted past them. Mr. Robert Gueder kept the crowd in suspense until the final moment when he announced the words everyone had waited so long to hear. "Your choice for the 1982 Jefferson High School Homecoming Queen is . . . Sonya Feaker!"

The punk craze is worn to school for New Wave Day by Debbie Tompkins, Vicki Edwards, Lisa Hoefer, and Brad Stoltzenberg.

From streaked hair to shades, these enthusiastic J-Hawks did their part to guarantee a successful New Wave Day.

J-Hawks go punk

It was not just another ordinary day for most J-Hawks. They probably started out giving their parents quite a shock when they sat down for breakfast that first morning of Spirit Week. For the first time in Jefferson's history, the student body was able to participate in punk rock day. Showing up in wild outfits and even hairstyles ranging from a bright red, to a purple in color, many people "punked out" for this day.

An assortment of punk outfits was seen about the school. There were mini-skirts, colored tights, Devo glasses, electrified hair, garish make-up, and even a few safety pins were seen dangling from some J-Hawk earlobes.

Spirit Week was invented to get the students fired-up for the big Homecoming game each year. It also helped to break the monotony of the routine, everyday classes and added excitement and variety to the week. Even though Spirit Week also included special days like blue and white day, inside out and backwards day, and tie and shades day, punk rock day seemed to be the one the majority of the students enjoyed the most.

Yes, the J-Hawks first punk day was a success! Who knows? Maybe next year punk will be so popular we won't even need a special day to "punk out."

Long sweatshirts, garbage bags, and tights are the latest in new wave fashions as modeled by Jean Jurgensen, Cheri Landis, Leann Barth, and Debby Landis.

Punk Day allowed students to create their own style as portrayed by Toni Gearhart, Brenda Guyer, and Jodi Sickels.

Terri Skelton, Brian Hall, and Val Jensen show appreciation for Punk Rocker Adam Ant on New Wave Day.

Showing their spirit, a group of juniors get on their feet at a pep assembly.

Senior swimmers Lisa Becker and Nancy Carlstedt present the Mississippi Valley Conference plaque to the school.

Pep prevails

Yelling, screaming, cheering, and total rowdiness. What is this? This describes a typical J-Hawk pep assembly. Throughout the year, cheerleaders provide skits and special cheers to keep things from becoming dull and routine.

The pep assemblies this year were totally dominated by the senior class which won the spirit stick at every assembly. Their spirit and enthusiasm overwhelmed students and faculty. Even so, the underclassmen provided stiff competition throughout the year.

Pep assemblies are also scheduled to usher in each new sports season. These assemblies are to fire up the teams and to show them school support and appreciation.

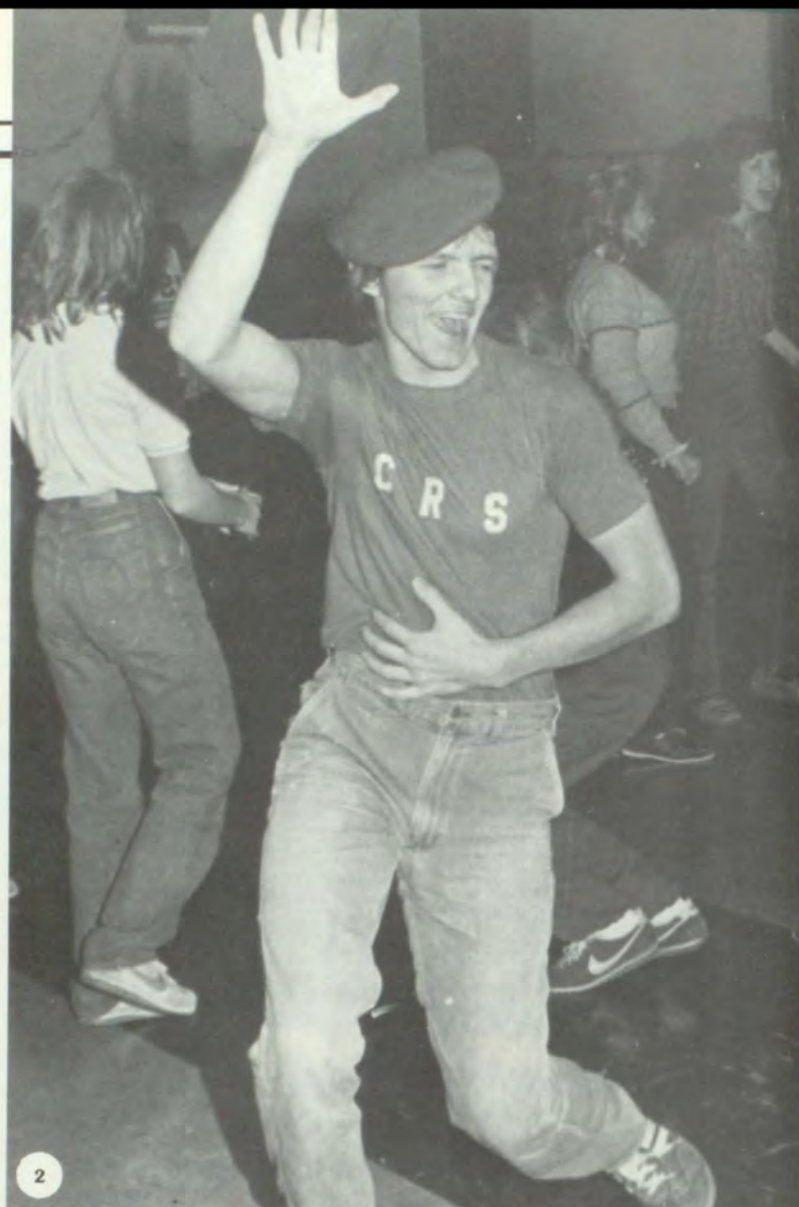

All in all, the J-Hawk pep assemblies proved to be successful and highly creative.

Mixers mean fun

Outrageous clothing, indescribable hats, and a variety of spirited J-Hawks. These were all important parts of a Friday night Jefferson mixer.

Mixers were definately one of the most popular Friday night hangouts. Seniors, juniors, and sophomores crowded into the cafeteria with hopes of having a good time and dreams of getting the long awaited chance to dance with that "special" guy or girl.

Mixers gave various groups a chance to earn much needed money in addition to giving students a chance to relax and get together.

A new set of guidelines was introduced. These, together with the administration and the support of chaperones, helped to make mixers a big success.

"Mixers give me a chance to dress up, act crazy, and to meet new people," commented senior Todd Hoover.

The Senior Senate mixer was one of the most successful and most enjoyable mixers of the year. Careful planning and a fog machine helped attract a very large crowd.

Homecoming, W.P.A., and prom were a bit more formal as students traded in their blue jeans for suits and dresses. Various bands provided the music for these dances.

Overall, mixers and dances were appreciated and enjoyed by J-Hawks.

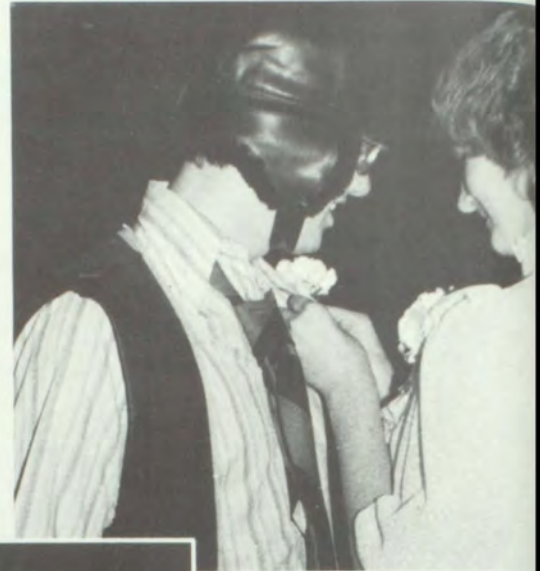

J-Hawks enjoying club sponsored mixers are: (1) Dave Bishop, Jennifer Wetherbee (2) Todd Miskimen (3) Sean Benson, Angie Crumes (4) Julie Vosmek, Pamm Mihal (5) Tim Moore, Jennifer Jacobs (6) Juniors (7) Keri Butterfield, Trina Levy, Connie Coulbourn.

Junior W.P.A. candidate Bob Driscoll is escorted to his seat by junior Jodi Dauenbaugh.

The W.P.A. assembly has been a long standing tradition at Jefferson. In 1983, a change was made regarding the selection of the king candidates. Student Council decided to increase the number of senior candidates from the traditional five to ten, thus giving the senior guys a better chance to become a king candidate.

The ten senior boys chosen by their classmates were announced at the spring sports pep assembly. The candidates were Steve Wise, Scott Meier, Tim Carson, Brad Stoltenberg, Joel Colbeck, Rich Pazdernik, Lonnie Zingula, Rick Schmidt, Greg Michel, and Todd Hoover.

The second W.P.A. assembly was for the introduction of five candidates from each class. The sophomore candidates were Kelly Mihal, Russ McKinney, Marty Stine, Blake Edwards, and Dave Dighton. Juniors chosen by their classmates were Steve Beer, Roger Cassill, John Hansen, Bob Driscoll, and Scott Lund. The five seniors were Scott Meier, Greg Michel, Tim Carson, Steve Wise, and Rick Schmidt.

As spring rolled around, the gals at Jefferson became very jumpy. Sweaty palms and butterflies set among them as they thought of asking that special guy to the annual W.P.A. (Women Pay All) Dance.

As the dance drew near, the most popular question asked throughout the halls was, "Who did you ask?" The more hesitant girls continued, "If I could only get up enough nerve to ask him."

Enthusiastic couples filled the cafeteria on April 15. Once inside, couples were greeted by girls in pastel colors and bobby socks while the guys sported various colors of oxfords with narrow ties.

Students enthusiastically danced to the music of the band "Sage" from 8-11 p.m. The evening was capped by 3 king crownings.

Winning smiles

Smiles from special people are like rays of sunshine that beam through the window on a bright day. Jefferson is full of special people, and smiles are found everywhere.

Smiles on rain soaked football fans greeted the players. Smiles welcomed each pep assembly and the opportunity to get out of class for awhile. Seniors smiled with relief as they ended their last year, juniors finally became upperclassmen, and sophs were thankful to have made it through the year . . . even without the "elevator!"

Smiles were always found on the faces of pom pon girls, cheerleaders, and West Side Delegation members. These weren't the only people with reason to smile. Kim Jones, senior, explained, "A happy ending to a sad movie and feeling good inside help make us smile."

Whatever the occasion might have been, whether it was scoring high on English test, or being chosen as a Homecoming queen finalist, a smile could be found.

So the next time you see a ray of sunshine, turn around and take a look because it just might happen to be a Jefferson student's beaming smile.

After a hard workout, the end of another race will be rewarded with a big smile from Jim Brouard.

Trying on the latest ski apparel brings a pleasant smile to the faces of juniors Teri Skelton and Todd Miskimen.

A hug from Julie Schmitz, former queen, and a radiant smile sets off Sonya Feaker's reign as Homecoming queen.

Displaying her school spirit, Becky Seichert smiles during a pom pon routine before the student body.

Sophomore Dawn Crumes' expression reveals that her big bubble has just unexpectedly burst.

Smiles are part of turning out with friends to see your team defeat a tough opponent or attending that Homecoming dance with a special date.

When Brenda Guyer shows her true J-Hawk spirit on backwards day, she really goes way out!

J-Hawks boost spirit by attending many different events: 1) Dan Gallo, Tami Stanfield 2) Kelly Mihal 3) Rick Schmidt, Scott Meier, Steve Wise, Greg Michel, Tim Carson 4) Amy Homan 5) Students attending a mixer 6) Sherry Gardemann, Chris Frazier 7) Cross Country 8) Laura Mullin, Lisa Hoefer, Diane Rasmussen 9) Brian Franck 10) Michelle Collier, Wayne Tabbert 11) Denise Horak, Colleen Sylvester, Joan Schultz 12) Mary Hoppenworth.

Friends have fun together

J-Hawks have arrived and arrive they did. Sporting events throughout the year were crowded as spirited J-Hawks cheered their favorite teams to victories.

Support wasn't limited to the athletic field. Students packed the cafeteria while attending school sponsored mixers and dances. Each mixer and each dance was a great success as students enthusiastically danced the night away.

Large audiences greeted the cast members of this year's four drama productions, again displaying outstanding school support.

Concert Choir, Mixed Chorus, Hilltop Singers, and the Madrigals were well received by appreciative audiences. The crowd favorite, Westside Delegation, continued their string of fine performances throughout the year. Numerous rehearsals paid off as the group earned a third place at the Coe State Swing Choir competition.

J-Hawks have pulled together at various events and have represented Jefferson well. A successful year was attributed to great crowd support and loyal fans.

Memories linger of major events

Sophomores in the parking lot, a peaceful ordeal this was not . . . It was the first year prom was free, but only the best for the class of 1983 . . . Famous sayings painted on the walls to educate the students who did roam the halls . . . The L.E.D. indoor message display was the gift the class of 83 gave . . . The new football coach Calloway had his team in control right away . . . The first picture of the senior class will insure that the memories always last . . . Senior W.P.A. candidates there were ten, the senior girls voted for five extra men . . . After twenty-six years at Jefferson High, Hiding and Shackford say good-bye . . . Twenty-six girls came down from the bleachers, the only one crowned was Sonya Feaker . . . The women swimmers were really great, they made it all the way to state . . . The sport of soccer was recognized and played, official in the system we hope it will stay . . . Lisa Becker retired her jersey, now she'll go on to play at Iowa University . . . The lead in the musical came down with mono, she was replaced by Missy Beastrom from Coe . . . What an unusual year this was, we don't know why, just because . . .

1983 was Mr. Hiding and Mrs. Shackford's last year at Jefferson before announcing their retirement in May.

For her outstanding contributions to the girls' basketball program, Lisa Becker's jersey was retired at the season's end.

Preparations for the first ever free prom were done with the help of senior Theresa Patterson.

Soccer was officially introduced as a spring sport at Jefferson this year. The sport included much action as shown here when senior Tom Mason attempts to kick a goal.

1983 marked the end of an era as the final episode of the T.V. show M*A*S*H was aired on February 28.

The Royal family once again made headlines in 1983 with the birth of a successor to the throne, Prince William.

Famous faces

The 82-83 school year is in the books but it had a few highlights which will be remembered for many years to come.

On the national scene there was the tragic Tylenol poisonings. In Chicago, 7 people died of cyanide poisoning. Copy cat poisonings threatened the safety of all Americans.

Americans lost one of the most popular TV shows as the final episode of M*A*S*H was aired. The movie industry put out two big box office hits. E.T. and Ghandi were two favorites, with Ghandi winning 8 Academy Awards.

In the area of medical research, doctors took a giant step with the implantation of an artificial heart in recipient Barney Clark.

Iowans saw a new governor for the first time in 14 years as Robert Ray stepped down and Terry Branstad took office.

Hawkeye fans enjoyed the success of the Peach Bowl champion football team, the wrestling team with a fifth straight NCAA title, and the basketball team with a record fifth straight NCAA appearance.

A major breakthrough in medical history was made in 1983 when Barney Clark received the first artificial heart.

The motion picture industry once again had a major blockbuster in 1983 with the movie "Ghandi," which won eight academy awards.

Fun times

Clubs have given students a chance to have fun and get involved at Jefferson. Besides fund raisers, clubs sponsor many activities. Student Council planned activities like Homecoming and WPA. They also organized events, from special days and spirit weeks to pep assemblies. Each Senate worked hard preparing for its senior prom. Mixers were held by groups such as T & I, Thespians, and Senior Senate. The Statesman and Outlook staffs kept a close watch on all of the happenings, and they worked hard to report and savor the year's events. All clubs showed how special it is to be a Jefferson J-Hawk.

Staff members Jim Brouard and Tammy Hedlund work hard on layouts to be used in the yearbook.

Memories linger

Late nights, long hours, and many headaches were endured by the yearbook staff, editors, and the advisor, Mr. Ron Smrha, in order for the 1983 Statesman to become a reality. To make all the hard work worthwhile, it was essential that everyone fulfilled his/her responsibilities.

The yearbook staff had to design layouts, write copyblocks, write captions, crop photos to fit on the layouts, and do many other odds and ends.

The photographers had to cover all the events to which they were assigned. They also had to develop all of their own film and make prints.

The editors chose layouts, made appointments for group photos, chose copy blocks, and finally they had to make sure their section was complete.

In the end it was up to the co-chief editors, Karen Scholl and Teri Swore, along with the much appreciated help of Mr. Ron Smrha, to add the final touches to assure that the yearbook was a success. The 60 members of the staff worked together using the theme, "1983 . . . the best there will ever be."

Busy in the darkroom, photographer Greg Kuhlman carefully focuses the enlarger before making prints.

Colleen Sylvester searches for the exact pica as she draws up a layout in triplicate.

Staffs produce

The Outlook, Jefferson's monthly newspaper, received an All-American Honor rating again from the National Scholastic Press Association. The 26 member Outlook staff consisted of juniors and seniors. "I think the members of the staff portrayed a lot of professionalism this year. We once again proved that we are the best in the area," commented editor Steve Clark.

Ten members of the Outlook staff and ten from the yearbook staff were selected for induction into the Quill and Scroll society. Quill & Scroll is made up of seniors who excel in the field.

Offhand, the school's literary magazine, accepted contributions from any student, noted Sue Sasek, editor.

National Honor Society inducted 61 new members into the Aristotelian Chapter on April 21. Students were recognized for attaining leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

Seniors in the top 15% and juniors in the top 7% of their class were eligible for this honor.

The ceremony was held in the Jefferson High School auditorium where 30 juniors and 31 seniors were inducted.

Dr. Norman Felland was the featured guest speaker. He is the Coordinator of Language Arts-Foreign Language for the Cedar Rapids Community Schools.

Contributing to the ceremony were Dave Bishop, Mary Walter, Richard Pratt, Rhonda Vosdingh, Miriam Mishal, former inductees, and Dr. William Jacobson, principal. Each explained the merits of the National Honor Society.

Worthwhile projects provided by Council

Student Council is in charge of many activities throughout the year. They plan varied events for student participation. Some of these include W.P.A., Homecoming, and pep assemblies. Student Council also does many things outside of school. Students go on school exchanges to see what other schools are like. They also sponsor can drives for needy families and do many other projects to help the community.

Planning activities and knowing she's done something for the school are just two of the reasons why senior Julie Lockett enjoys being involved in Council projects.

Student Council helps individuals be responsible and teaches them to be organized under pressure. It provides a lot of fun, although it requires a lot of hard work and dedication.

Senior Karen Scholl, Student Council president, commented, "Student Council helps me be more responsible. It has helped me realize that you have to meet your priorities when planning activities." Karen also added that you must be organized or everything will fall apart.

Student Council plays a big role at Jefferson. Members plan many activities to help promote school spirit and to benefit the students' interests.

Senates work toward prom

This year the senates continued to make money for their prom and class gift. After three years, Senior Senate showed that hard work pays off by making enough money to have a free prom.

During the winter term, Junior Senate showed off their selling abilities by launching a two week campaign selling Christmas ornaments. All the hard work and effort put the total in their class treasury up to $2,800. President Mona Igram led the juniors.

Led by Rod Myers, Sophomore Senate began their first money-making project by selling candy. This proved to be a very successful project to start out the year since they made approximately $3,800.

Headed by Lonnie Zingula, Senior Senate spent their last year working hard planning for their long awaited prom. The prom was held May 7 at Iowa Hall at Kirkwood College. After a lot of consideration, the class of 1983 decided on a computerized message sign for the foyer. "The Senior class' excellence in athletics, fine arts, and all-around spirit stretched over to the senate for the third year in a row," commented senior Lonnie Zingula.

Girls hold jobs

This year's Office Education and Data Processing students showed that J-Hawks have arrived. Having won many awards at the state contest qualified the first, second, and third place winners to move on to the national conference held in Chicago, Illinois. Senior Amy Oliver, a DP student, and junior Janice Kalina, an OE student, went to the national conference April 22-25.

To round out an active year, both groups were honored at an employer-employee banquet.

OE deals mainly with improving clerical skills. During the course of the year, students learn how to type various kinds of business forms and documents one would encounter in an office situation. DE, on the other hand, covers subjects like sales, accounting, and business management. Senior Amy Oliver stated, "During the first term we worked with typewriters and now we're working with adding and keypunch machines."

Senior Stacy Hansel's O.E. job at the Educational Services Center includes running the duplicating machine.

Learning skills ... through working

Gaining experience at jobs can be most valuable. Preparing seniors for the world of work is the main goal of Trade and Industry. Through various class activities and projects, the students learned all about the requirements and responsibilities of a working environment.

Distributive Education gives students the experience they need for entry level career positions in marketing and distribution. They are given this experience by combining classroom instruction, on the job training, and DECA activities. DE students had an opportunity to demonstrate their occupational skill level and ability by attending the area and state leadership conferences. They were judged by business people as to how well they performed their job skills.

Distributive Education and Trade and Industry help build better futures in the particular field of work in which students are interested, along with providing a valuable learning experience.

3 clubs combine to show support

One good way to get involved in school was to become a Pep Club member, Timer, or Mat Maid, as many students found out. It only took a little time and effort.

"Mat Maids kept score," remarked sophomore Michele Barkdoll, "and at home meets we ran the time clock. We did mainly whatever the coach wanted."

Having a secret pep pal and decorating his/her room was a large part of Pep Club's activities. To show their support they attended many of the sporting events of fellow J-Hawks.

Keeping score, holding the rope, and timing the races were the main jobs of the timers, according to senior Rhonda Vosdingh. The timers went to the state swim meet which was held at the University of Iowa to show their support for the team.

It was agreed upon by all three groups that it was fun being involved in their respective clubs. They were able to meet a lot of new people. Since most of the sports had outstanding seasons this year, it made the efforts of the Pep Club members, Mat Maids, and Timers much more enjoyable. Coaches and players agreed that these support groups were invaluable to their teams.

Lending a hand

In an attempt to free the faculty of menial tasks, media, lab, and office assistants allow the staff to enforce rules and teach efficiently. Sacrificing a study hall period enabled these loyal J-Hawks to aid in the preparation of classes.

Shelving books, running audio-visual equipment, and working at the circulation desk are tasks which are performed daily by the media and audio visual assistants.

Lab assistants prepare the daily experiments in which science students participate. Measuring chemicals, cleaning test tubes, and testing lasers are common responsibilities fulfilled by these advanced science students who have prior knowledge of the various labs.

It is evident that these assistants hold a true interest in helping the staff because the 1-2.5 credits earned don't provide much incentive. Assistants sharing their knowledge prove beneficial to students as it results in maximum attention from teachers. However, office, lab, and media assistants receive little recognition for the vital role they play at Jefferson.

Athletes excel

J-Hawk athletes certainly didn't take anything away from the theme, "J-Hawks Have Arrived." The success of all teams proved to be outstanding. In the fall, the girls' swim team dominated the metro area by defeating Wash for the first time ever. In the winter, girls' basketball finished with an incredible 25-1 record breaking season and three wrestlers qualified for the state tournament. In the spring, the boys' and girls' track teams overpowered everyone. The '82-'83 athletes let everyone know that the J-Hawks have ARRIVED!

Gridders come back with strong finish

First year coach Bill Calloway brought some drastic changes to the J-Hawk football program. The introduction of a wide open offense was the main ingredient for an exciting season. Calloway was truly surprised by the enthusiasm of the Jefferson students towards football. He relayed, "I was really impressed by the pep assemblies, the students showed true spirit."

This spirit rang true on the football field as the Jefferson gridders bore down on their opponents. After a shakey start, the J-Hawks came back to finish 4-5 for the season. Two tough losses to Waterloo East and a big Dubuque

Hempstead squad put the J-Hawks into an unwanted position at 0-2. However, the character of the team showed as they finished with impressive wins over cross town foe Kennedy, Iowa City West, and Ottumwa. Senior corner back Mike Potter commented, "Several of the players were down after the Dubuque Hempstead game, but coach Calloway really kept us together."

Hard at work

Pat Robinson was named 2nd team all state in one poll, while several team members were given all-metro or all-conference honors. However, Calloway feels that the win-loss record affected the all-state picks for Jefferson. The post season honors did not show the true ability of the J-Hawk team.

The sophomore squad finished in great form. With new head coach Fran Moe, the sophomore team gained experience towards a varsity position next year. Highlights for the year included a win over cross town rival Kennedy. Coach Moe is a teacher at Taft Junior High School, and was given the job as head coach after the position was vacated. Obviously the season was a success, as many players plan to play football at the varsity or junior varsity level, coaches Calloway and Moe are looking forward to next year.

Swimmers: Team has best season record

The girls' swim team exemplified the theme "The J-Hawks Have Arrived." They arrived with a first time ever undefeated season. Eight times they performed better than any records ever known in the history of the school. School records were set in the 200 medley relay, 200 individual medley, 100 butterfly, and in the 100 backstroke. Even though there are five graduating seniors, the success of the team won't stop here since many records were broken by freshmen.

Coach Jim Taylor stated, "The excited and successful attitude of the girls was a major factor in their success. They were very aggressive and they earned everything they received. They were a wonderful group of girls to work with."

Lisa Becker and Nancy Carlstedt were voted by their team members as co-captains. Kathi VanCleve was awarded hardest worker, most improved was Mary Dwyer and Kim Chabak, and most valuable for the fourth year in a row was Nancy Carlstedt.

Any one of these accomplishments the girls were able to achieve by itself represents a successful season . . . but all together they represent something incomparable.

Girls set high goals

"J-Hawks Have Arrived." This, the theme of the 1982-83 school year, became a well-known fact in girls' volleyball. From the first practice on August 16, it became clear that this was going to be a great season.

Many improvements were made from the past year. The idea that everyone worked more as a team was a common feeling. Most players agreed that everyone improved on basic skills, which are necessary for a good team. Linda Herman felt that the JV squad had more confidence than they did as sophomores. Coach Weld agreed with the players that they had improved their skills. He stated, "There weren't any real weaknesses this year. Our talent was more spread out, which made us a better all-around team."

Daily practices were an important part of Jefferson's winning season. The games were exciting, but the practices were needed to prepare the girls for upcoming meets. This season there were a few variations to a regular practice. The stretching and running remained the same but different things were added to the drills. Sonya Feaker, Pam Swanson, and Kathy Kelsey agreed when they said, "Having variations of old drills helped to make practice less boring." Kathy added, "We worked more on perfecting our offense during practice, too." Coach Weld had high expectations leading into this season, and it was obvious by the way he conducted practice. Michele McNeal stated, "Practice was more strict than it was last year."

Highlights were many this year.

Team achieves trip to state

Beating I.C. City High for the regional championship and going to state topped the list for all of the varsity girls. "Beating Wash and Kennedy our first time out was great," reflected Noelle Hawk. The JV members agreed that beating those teams was a highlight for them also.

However, varsity and JV were not the only teams to have an exceptional season. These sophomores made a great transition from junior high volleyball to that of high school. In comparing the two, Kelly Cline, Amy Homan, and Julie Kuhlman stated, "The competition was harder." Volleyball is taken more seriously in high school," added Sue Staggs.

The girls felt that they had greatly improved their basic skills. Julie mentioned that communication and hustle were also improved.

Coach Cox stated, "I set a goal to be MVC champs and it was the highlight of my season when that goal was accomplished."

"We were all good friends on and off the court," stated Julie Jurgensen. This helped contribute to the three winning seasons of 16-10, 6-5, and 13-2. The sophomores and juniors are looking forward to next season with great enthusiasm, as is Coach Weld. In summing up the final season for the seniors, Kathy Kelsey stated, "It was a lot of fun this year, and it was an honor being one of the 8 teams out of 96 to make it to state."

Teams improve

Anyone can run, but it takes a certain kind of person who is willing to work and put their body through all kinds of pain. A person who runs a 2 mile course might not always win, but he has enough pride in himself to keep going and receive so little recognition. The only people who fit this description are the cross country runners.

What is cross country? It's a sport that requires dedication and a lot of hard work. The first week of practice for the cross country teams began August 16. Trying to get into shape seemed impossible, but after the aches and pains were gone, the J-Hawks were ready for the season ahead. Though they encountered rain, cold, and scorching hot weather, they ran on, pushing themselves to the best they possibly could.

On the first day of practice the boys' cross country team set a goal that a lot of people would think was impossible. They wanted to win the MVC championship. On Saturday, October 16, the team accomplished the impossible.

The team members weren't the only ones that were rewarded with a good season. Coach Noonan was named "Coach of the Year." "He's a great coach. He always kept us loose by joking around," disclosed the team's best runner, Joel Hachey, also team co-captain.

Even though their record did not show it, the 1982 girls' cross country team had an exciting year.

"I feel we improved meet by meet," replied senior Deb Clark.

"I expect great things from next year's team; if we work hard we will do fine," commented Coach Larry Nolting.

Teams work hard

Despite their 0-9 record, the girls' gymnastics team gained valuable experience. Composed mainly of sophomores, the girls team was spirited by captains Jennifer Hanzelka and Lynne NejdI.

Freshman Lisa Sonka and sophomore Yolanda Daye both made it to regionals. Lisa was the team's high scorer in beam and floor exercise while Yolanda led in tumbling and vaulting.

Sophomore Lynne NejdI noted, "Our team was larger and more powerful this year. Compared to last year, this season was better, mainly because we had a lot of previous experience."

Led by high scoring juniors Brett Hansen and Mike Ludvick, the boys' gymnastics team readily improved to earn a seventh place finish at the state meet, despite their 0-9 record.

The dedication displayed by the boys' gymnastics team enabled them to gain a new confidence which should help them return for a strong senior year.

Determination lifts team

A season full of frustration and a schedule packed with four opponents ranked as the number one team in the state . . . the boys' basketball team suffered a disappointing season with a record of 4-16.

Although the team's record showed a lot of losses, it didn't show the determination the team expressed as it fought some close battles with powerhouse teams such as Kennedy, a team that was rated number one for the majority of the season, defending class 3A state champion Dubuque Walhert, 1982 class 2A champion Regis, and 1983 class 3A champion Linn-Mar. Coach Glenn Smith added, "The competition in the Cedar Rapids area was as good as it has ever been. We played some good basketball although a lot of the time the games did not end in victories."

Junior Bob Driscoll and senior Dave Edwards led the team in the scoring department, averaging 13 and 12 points respectively. Driscoll was voted most valuable player by his teammates and coaches. "Bob is a strong 6'3" basketball player who has the capability of taking the ball to the basket. He is a very unselfish player," remarked Coach Smith.

The club was struggling before Christmas break but made vast improvements over the vacation. "I think improvements made by individuals came from a lot of effort," disclosed Coach Smith.

Even though the team's record wasn't as good as the players and coaches would have liked, their hard work and good attitude always represented Jefferson well.

Led by the scoring of Jim Lockett, the team stayed in the race for the conference title until the last two games of the season.

Undeclared before the Christmas break, the squad lost its starting center, Scott Gull. Gull was promoted to the varsity team after playing in six sophomore games. Gull added depth to the varsity bench averaging 3 points a game.

Good sportsmanship combined with a lot of patience played big parts in developing good attitudes throughout the team. Much needed experience was gained and should help to produce winning squads next season.

Girls set mark with 25-1 year

Victory rang through the gym every time the 1983 girls' basketball team took to the court. Honored as the number two team in the state throughout most of the season, the J-Hawks were a thrill to watch.

The squad's determination and impressive team work gave fans a feeling of great pride. Chants of "Let's Go Blue" rang from the crowd, which seemed to increase with every game.

The team was led by returning All-Staters Lisa Becker and Sonya Feaker. The squads other four starters, Colleen Sylvester, Joan Schultz, Lori Forrest, and Denise Horak, added a considerable amount to the team effort as well. These six, along with the moral support provided by the fans and other team members, gained the team its best record ever of 25-1.

The team was coached by Mr. Larry Niemeyer, who was assisted by Mr. Dennis Roloff and Mr. Mark Stewart. With their constant encouragement, the J-Hawks provided the school with various trophies. The team served as Metro champs and conference champs during the regular season. They also served as sectional champs and regional runners up. The girls' basketball team gave all J-Hawks a feeling of pride this year.

This was a year of learning for the Jefferson girls' sophomore basketball team. The team compiled a 6-11 overall record and a 4-10 M.V.C. record which qualified them for sixth place in the Mississippi Conference. Although the squad didn't gain a winning season, they did learn many valuable skills that will help them during the next two seasons.

The squad, coached by Miss Sandee Walton and Mr. Mark Stewart, did have impressive victories over Prairie, by eleven points, and Iowa City High, by twenty-six and twenty-five points. The sophomores also beat Linn-Mar by nineteen and Iowa City West, by twenty-one and eleven.

The team consisted of nineteen members. All of them saw playing time during the season and all won sophomore numerals.

The Junior-Varsity team had an extremely successful season of 6-2. The team was made up of twelve sophomore and varsity members. All three girls' basketball teams showed us the true meaning of the words, "J-Hawk Pride."

Attitude promotes Successful season

Mental toughness, physical strength, and self-discipline were qualities that promoted individual and team success for the boys' swim team during the rigorous winter season. Eight individuals qualified for state this year in seven different events. This was the first year we scored at state in three years. Three school records were broken this year, in the 400 medley relay, 100 butterfly, and the 100 breaststroke. This is the first time in four years that a school record was broken. Allen Fitzgerald and Tom Mason were chosen captains of the team, while Tom Mason was voted the team's most valuable swimmer. Other awards were earned by Allen Fitzgerald, hardest worker; and Dwayne Thompson, most improved. Coach Taylor stressed, "The men's attitude was a major factor in attaining the successful season."

Season has thrills!

Starting out the season with nine returning lettermen, the outlook for the 1982-1983 varsity wrestling season looked very bright. The J-Hawks were coming off a season that produced a conference title, so much was to be expected.

Although the season didn't turn out as hoped, Coach Tim Fowler stated, "This year was a success, not in terms of wins and losses, but because the team developed as a unit. In spite of the tremendous number of injuries that we had, the team finished with a 5-6 record and a 5th place finish in the Valley. Also, I feel the young men that we had in the wrestling room my final year were as good of a group as we have had in the five years I have been at Jefferson

The sophomore wrestling team finished its season with an impressive 6-2 record and a 3rd place finish in the MVC. The sophomores placed 5 wrestlers in the top 3 at the conference meet. Coach Jim Cox commented, "I was pleased with the efforts of the sophomore team, particularly in the light of the fact that this was my final season and I wanted to leave a solid foundation." Team victorious

Despite uncooperative weather throughout the entire season, the J-Hawk girls' track team pulled off an impressive season of 8-0. At the M.V.C. and district meets, the girls came out the victors by defeating Kennedy by two points in each meeting.

The girls qualified 11 for the state meet and finished ninth with a fine placing by the 4x200 meter relay, which placed second and set a new school record. Placing a surprising fourth was the shuttle hurdle relay and also placing fourth was the 4x100 meter relay.

Numerous records were broken throughout the season and many personal records were achieved.

As the season ended, it not only meant the end of the track year, but the end of Mr. John Weld's coaching career. He announced his retirement at the end of the season.

Sophomores Nancy Greiner, Liz Nelson, and Sue Stagg compete in their specialties at a home meet.

Team strides to victories

Hard work makes a team better than the average. Talent makes a squad tough to beat. When you add the two together, rumors of a state championship arise.

So was the situation of the boys' track team. With an extremely high ranking as one of the top three teams in the state, the J-Hawk tracksters proved to be a powerhouse squad.

Balanced efforts in all areas was a key factor as the team walked away with the conference title. "Our success this year came from senior leadership and our overall team scoring," revealed head track coach Ron Schirm. For the training and coaching of the MVC champions, Schirm was named "Coach of the Year" by his colleagues.

The team took advantage of the new state qualifying rule and sent participants in every event except for the two mile run. Pat Carnes, Drake Relays champion, was ranked number one in the 400 meter low hurdles. The season also saw Craig Dietrich break the school record in the high jump.

Teams invade golf courses

Both the boys' and girls' golf teams experienced successful seasons this spring. The two squads improved as their seasons progressed.

The boys' squad, primarily consisting of underclassmen, was led by seniors Craig Erickson and Allen Fitzgerald.

"With such a young team, the future of the men's golf team looks promising," commented Coach Glenn Smith.

"It's a sport where you can become fairly proficient with a lot of practice and without having to be a great athlete. A lot of times the best golfers are not of great physical stature," commented Coach Smith.

The girls' team, consisting of only five members, experienced a satisfying season considering there were mainly inexperienced golfers.

"Even though our record was 0-8, I believe that we all improved individually, and we learned how to play a sport that will be useful forever," commented senior captain Jackie Peet.

Teams swing to win

Cold wind, rain, and very little sun greeted the 1983 J-Hawk tennis teams as they stepped out onto the courts this spring.

With only two returning letter-winners, the girls' tennis team had a tough job ahead of them. Despite their losing season of 5-7, this year was full of improvement from beginning to end. "This varsity squad was made up of mostly new people," commented Mr. Jim Lockett. "I'm not at all unhappy with our record, because we had two extremely close matches with Hempstead and Mt. Vernon where we lost the matches 5-4 by games with scores of 9-11. We could be sitting 7-5 instead of 5-7!"

Although they ended the season at 3-9, the boys' team had good play from senior Dave Funke, who was voted Most Valuable Player. Coach Ron Capps commented on the team when he said, "Our biggest problem was a lack of year-round play by enough players to have a strong team. But next year we will have Steed Smith back along with a promising sophomore class."

After returning a baseline shot, senior Noelle Hawk watches and waits for the return.

On the ball

As the softball season began, many high hopes for a victorious year began to unfold. With a winning season in 1982 and many letter winners returning, the excitement was felt by everyone involved as practice began on May 10.

The season began with the J-Hawks hosting the Jefferson Invitational on May 26. Along with that tournament, the girls held three other tournaments on the Jefferson diamond. Of course, the team also traveled to participate in other tournaments such as the Jack North tourney in Story City, the Adel Classic, and the Huxley-Ballard tourney.

The year brought back 12 returning letterwinners. Seven were seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores.

Each year the four-year-old diamond is improved to make the facilities even better than before. This year, with the help of head coach Larry Niemeyer and assistant Mark Stewart, sod was laid around the infield and cement was poured around the concession stand. Everything was in top condition and so were the players.

Various strategies are discussed by Coach Niemeyer and his team members before the game's start.

Warming up before a game, senior Jennifer Peters swings two bats.

Coach Kenney guides squad

As summer approached a successful baseball team was in the making. Since the starting date was pushed back to May 9, the team had little time to prepare for the May 26 Metro Tournament.

Returning lettermen Dana Benson, Brad Stoltenberg, Dennis Novak, and Mark Behrens provided a strong, experienced pitching staff to aid the J-Hawk attack. The junior players were well experienced and caused the seniors to play to their maximum ability.

With a schedule of over 39 games, the team played an average of 4 games every 5 days. Such a hard schedule enabled many players to play different positions when the pitchers rotated, displaying the versatility of the team. Sacrificing spare time and summer jobs enabled the J-Hawk baseball team to prove who was really number one.

Heading for the bull pin to warm up before the Metro Baseball Tournament is pitcher Brad Stoltenberg.

Good times roll

Making its debut as a high school sport, soccer has finally been recognized locally. In previous years, there wasn't much response to getting a soccer team started, but thirty athletes agreed to pioneer the world renowned sport at Jefferson.

Under the leadership of senior Julio Veron, a Paraguay native, the soccer team learned basic moves and rules since few players had previous experience. Since Julio is a foreign exchange student from a soccer dominated country, he greatly aided in teaching the fundamentals. As junior team member Craig Sommer noted, "Julio provided an unexpressed team spirit. Since he had the most experience, everyone looked up to him for leadership."

Although the soccer team got off to a slow start, the experience gained will pay off for future teams. Perhaps with some of the same dedication displayed by other Jefferson teams, the soccer team could very well become a fine tradition at Jefferson.

Eyeing the ball, Junior Tom Barrow strives to score in a home game.

Seniors Scott Behel and Scott Meier work on moving the ball up the field for a goal.

Robin Tomney and Scott Behel attempt to keep the ball away from an opponent.

Students pursue

Students at Jefferson do not live up to the 1982-83 theme, "J-Hawks have Arrived," unless they have put in a lot of hard work and time studying. Sometimes the pressures of registration, lecture classes, and the dreaded winter blahs can set in. However, many students set goals for themselves, such as obtaining a 4.0 or being inducted into the National Honor Society. Teachers and students both work together to lighten those everyday routines and make it a better learning experience for all concerned.

Graduating is a full time job

“Like school is totally blowing my social life. 202.5 credits to graduate. Do you realize that's 11,070 hours spent at school if you have perfect attendance. I'm dying to get my 30 language arts credits bagged. All of these required classes are really grody to the max. Psychology isn't a required class? I'm sure. Have you ever tried to go through high school without knowing who Sigmond Freud was? It's totally boggus. Having physical education every other day five days a week for three years is enough to tire anyone out. Satisfying requirements can really be awesome.”

Recording the growth of a plant, seniors Rick Konecny and Blake Heiken complete a Botany lab experiment.

During chemistry class, Rod Lympus carefully weighs some chemicals for an experiment he's conducting.

Edward Kellogg enjoys the benefits of having a student teacher to give him additional help with a French assignment.

Taking part in a group discussion during creative writing are Dave Synacek, Matt West, and Lori Cook.

Using a ruler to keep her copy lines straight, senior Stacy Whitney completes an advertisement dummy for her journalism class.

Before going to state, volleyball coach John Weld receives a balloon bouquet from Pep Club members.

Finding the answer to a problem in his electronics class is senior Todd Stelling's immediate task.

Junior Jim Hendershott displays his finest piece of work made in a stained glass crafts class fall term.

From ceramics to sewing . . .

Electives spice up day

Sammy Sophomore exited the gym with the rest of the J-Hawk students at the end of the pep assembly. He could hear the seniors cheering in the background because they had won the spirit stick again! Sam, like all other sophomores, dreamed of being a senior. Sam knows school would be great as a senior because seniors "Rule the school." Seniors always win the spirit stick, get out of school early, and best of all, get to take a lot of elective classes. Boy, would it be great to be a senior!

Most seniors can remember those feelings as a sophomore. The majority of seniors' schedules are made up of electives. Almost all of their required classes are taken their sophomore and junior years. Electives take up 97.5 of the 202.5 credits needed for graduation. Electives give students the opportunity to enroll in classes that interest them.

After required subjects are completed, students can take elective classes. Industrial arts, home economics, music, foreign language, and vocational courses are some of the electives available to them.

Elective classes fulfill the interests of the students and also help them prepare for their future lives. Students look forward to their elective classes during the day.

Intently reading her assignment, junior Lisa Hemesath took biology to satisfy her required credits in science.

Showing off their talent by making pizza in foods I class are seniors Joel Hachey, Scott Cross, and Steve Wise.

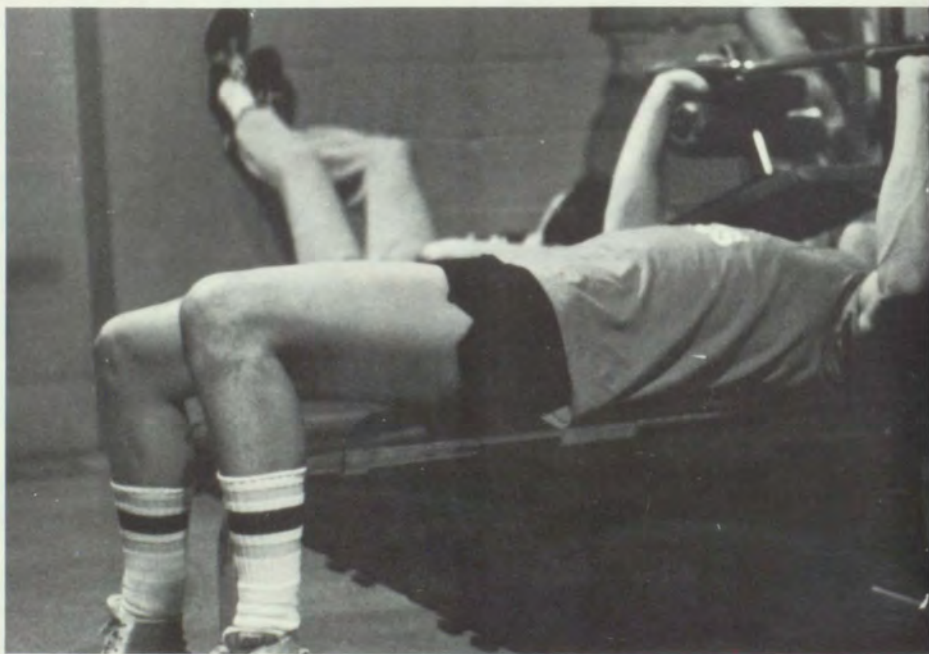

Senior Maryln Rouse carefully pins together material for a new project in sewing class.

Representing Concert Choir, senior Julie Lockett sings the national anthem at a home football game.

After finishing his race, senior Matt Becker confers with Coach Jim Taylor at a home swim meet.

Lifting weights in the weight room during gym class, senior Kevin Heck works to improve his strength.

Students' choice of classes varies

In wood shop, senior Jim Hicks is in the process of drilling posts for his waterbed project.

Adding variety to life enabled J-Hawks to enjoy a well balanced school day. Whether taking electives to break up school work, or going to work in their extra time, most students found that an extra activity helped defeat boredom and the blahs.

Although academics are stressed at Jefferson, it is a necessity to get involved in various activities to release tension which often accompanies hard work. Many students enjoy taking classes such as machine shop or music. These courses not only enrich the students' awareness, but also allows them to excel in a field which they enjoy.

Senior Lisa Melichar noted, "After receiving division 1 ratings in band contests, I feel like I've accomplished something and now I have a better appreciation toward music."

Like students, teachers sometimes feel the need to expand in various fields. Coaching offers teachers a chance to share their knowledge with students in a variety of sports. In addition, many coaches train athletes for personal satisfaction.

As swimming coach Jim Taylor noted, "Satisfaction is watching young people grow and mature from dealing with victory and defeat. Satisfaction is derived from watching athletes achieve higher goals than they had previously set."

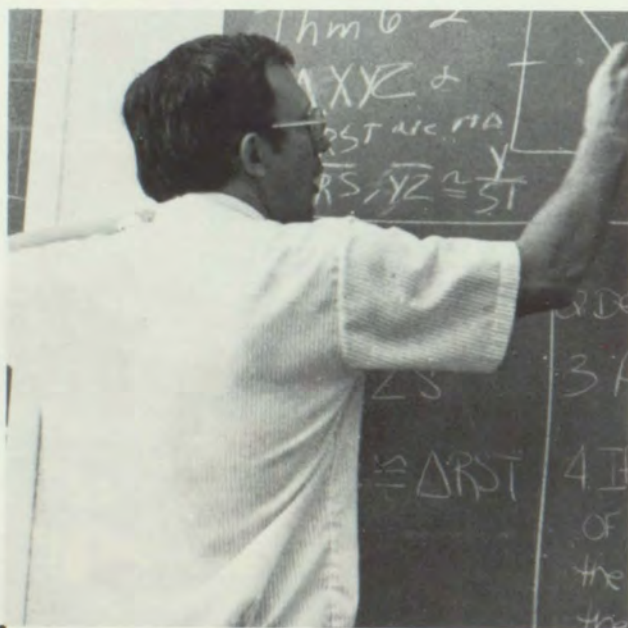

Extra activities help give students a way to get involved and are a way to enjoy extra time.

As Tracy Langhurst and Ric Martin enter the Thespian sponsored mixer, Cindy Wray takes their money under Mr. Geuder's supervision.

In woodworking class, senior Jim Hicks works at carving a headpost for his waterbed.

Adding the finishing touches to his wood-working project, senior Dean Hupp insures a smooth surface.

Mr. Dennis Ferreter explains to his class on the chalkboard how a geometric theorem is proved.

Fulfilling the responsibility of a yearbook staff member, senior Lina Siquist mans her post selling yearbooks.

Learning skills

Electives are an important part of the 202.5 credits required for graduation. There are many different kinds of classes offered to fit the wide variety of students' interests and needs. A few of these electives include accounting, Jewelry Casting and Construction, and Office Education.

"In accounting kids learn what's happening in the business world. They learn how to keep records because all businesses must keep facts and figures," explained Mr. Dick Manson, instructor.

Students with artistic interests may want to take Jewelry Casting or Jewelry Construction. "In casting, students learn to make jewelry in wax. First they make a mold, then the metal is put into the mold. For the most part, students make rings and pendants," revealed Mr. Horton. However, in Construction, sawing and filing on sheets of metal is taught along with silver soldering. "The most important concept I teach in both classes is craftsmanship. I want my students to be fussy with details."

"Office Education is divided into two classes," explained Mr. Larry Niemeyer, "O.E. Prep. and O.E. Related."

In O.E. Prep, basic office skills are taught. Filing, answering a telephone correctly, typing letter styles and manuscripts, proofreading, working on a word processor, dictaphone, and memory skills are some of the skills that are learned in the classroom. Students also learn the correct way to apply for a job and to handle an interview.

"In O.E. Related, students type a practice set which includes many different business forms. Spelling tests are given and they must research 12 career opportunities," added Mr. Niemeyer.

Carefully lining up the material to be sewn, senior Annette Metcalf skillfully works on her project.

Sharpening his ability to type, senior Mark Ozmanski runs through a drill before beginning his daily assignment.

Hobbies keep faculty busy

Rrrring! The final bell just rung. Lots of shouting, laughter, slamming of locker doors, and mad racing are all that can be heard as everyone prepares to leave after another grueling day of school. What most students don't realize is, that there are some special people that must stay until late at night. Who are these "ghosts" that roam the halls of Jefferson High School?

Teachers, of course! Should any one happen to wander into the auditorium, gymnasium, swimming pool, or even the tennis courts, teachers can be seen pointing out mistakes, teaching students new tricks of the game, or trying to improve important skills required to make the next performance even better than the last.

What most people don't know is that a teacher devotes almost as much time in the after school preparation of a performance as is devoted in a full eight hour working day.

With the start of the school year, the teachers start the long and tiring job of preparing students for their future.

Mr. Pilling, psychology instructor and community agent, enjoys jogging, helping others, and spending time with his family.

Mr. Ball, art teacher, likes taking art classes at the University of Iowa in his spare time. He also enjoys spending time just drawing on his own.

Many teachers spend their free time in their own way. Some have many activities they are involved in and some enjoy spending their extra time with their families. Don't be surprised if you see your favorite teacher out at your favorite spot enjoying their free time.

After a tiring road game, volleyball coaches Jim Cox (feet) and John Weld find little trouble in sleeping on the way home.

After the assembly, Principal William C. Jacobson congratulates Debbie DeGroot on becoming a Homecoming queen semi-finalist.

During a power failure in October, office secretary Mrs. Wanda Ribble works by candlelight in the main office.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smrha watch the action on the dance floor when they helped out by chaperoning at the Homecoming dance.

After an active day of teaching physical education to some 150 students, Miss Sandee Walton still manages to smile.

Completing a race, junior Chris Hansen compares his time with coach R.J. Noonan during the cross country season.

Jill Tauber walks along side Coach Jim Taylor as he gives instructions to swimmers in the water.

Outside of the regular school day, Coach Larry Nolting and Mr. George Hidingier lend a helpful hand to the athletic program in their respective ways.

Performing in the Children's Theatre production of "Half-Past Wednesday" are Dave Riha, Ray Schwitters, Mary Cole, Roger Bouzek, and Kurt Vander Wiel.

Juniors Roger Bouzek and Lisa Hemeseth express their real feelings toward each other in the fall play, "The Love Doctor."

The West Side Delegation reaches out to its audience during the song, "Let's Hang On."

Drum majorette Mary Cole marches in stride off the football field along-side the band.

Performances delight all

Events in the Performing Arts area play a vital role. Drama presented many plays, under the guidance of Mr. Robert Geuder, including "The Love Doctor," "Half-Past Wednesday," and "Look Homeward Angel." The musical, "Brigadoon" was performed by choir members for two week-ends in May. To provide entertainment for all, groups like the West Side Delegation, concert choir, and the concert band performed several concerts during the year. To end the year, concert choir took a trip to St. Louis, and the band traveled to Kansas City in April.

Band is #1!

Mosquitos, sunburns, and Mr. Dickinson. All began two weeks after summer vacation started with weekly band practices. As new music was learned, hints of a successful band soon became a reality.

In August, band members began mixing the music and marching at band camp. "The camp enabled us to get a head start in marching and also gave band members the opportunity to become acquainted with each other," stated Director Earle Dickinson.

Seniors Mary Cole, Karlene Lehmen, and junior Doreen Schrader acted as the "Band of Blue's" drum majorettes. They helped lead the band to a first place finish in the Iowa Homecoming parade as well as a Division I rating at state contest. Mr. Dickinson concluded, "A lot of the band's success was due to its well disciplined members."

Showing their J-Hawk spirit at a football game and at Band-o-Rama are Francine Gray, Jana Diers, Joanne Vest and Jim Van Manen, Lori Stout, Todd Martens and Dan Gallo.

In her dual role as a drum major and a queen finalist, Mary Cole directs the band's half time show before taking part in the crowning ceremony.

With the blow of a whistle, the Jefferson Band of Blue anxiously awaits the start of its half time performance.

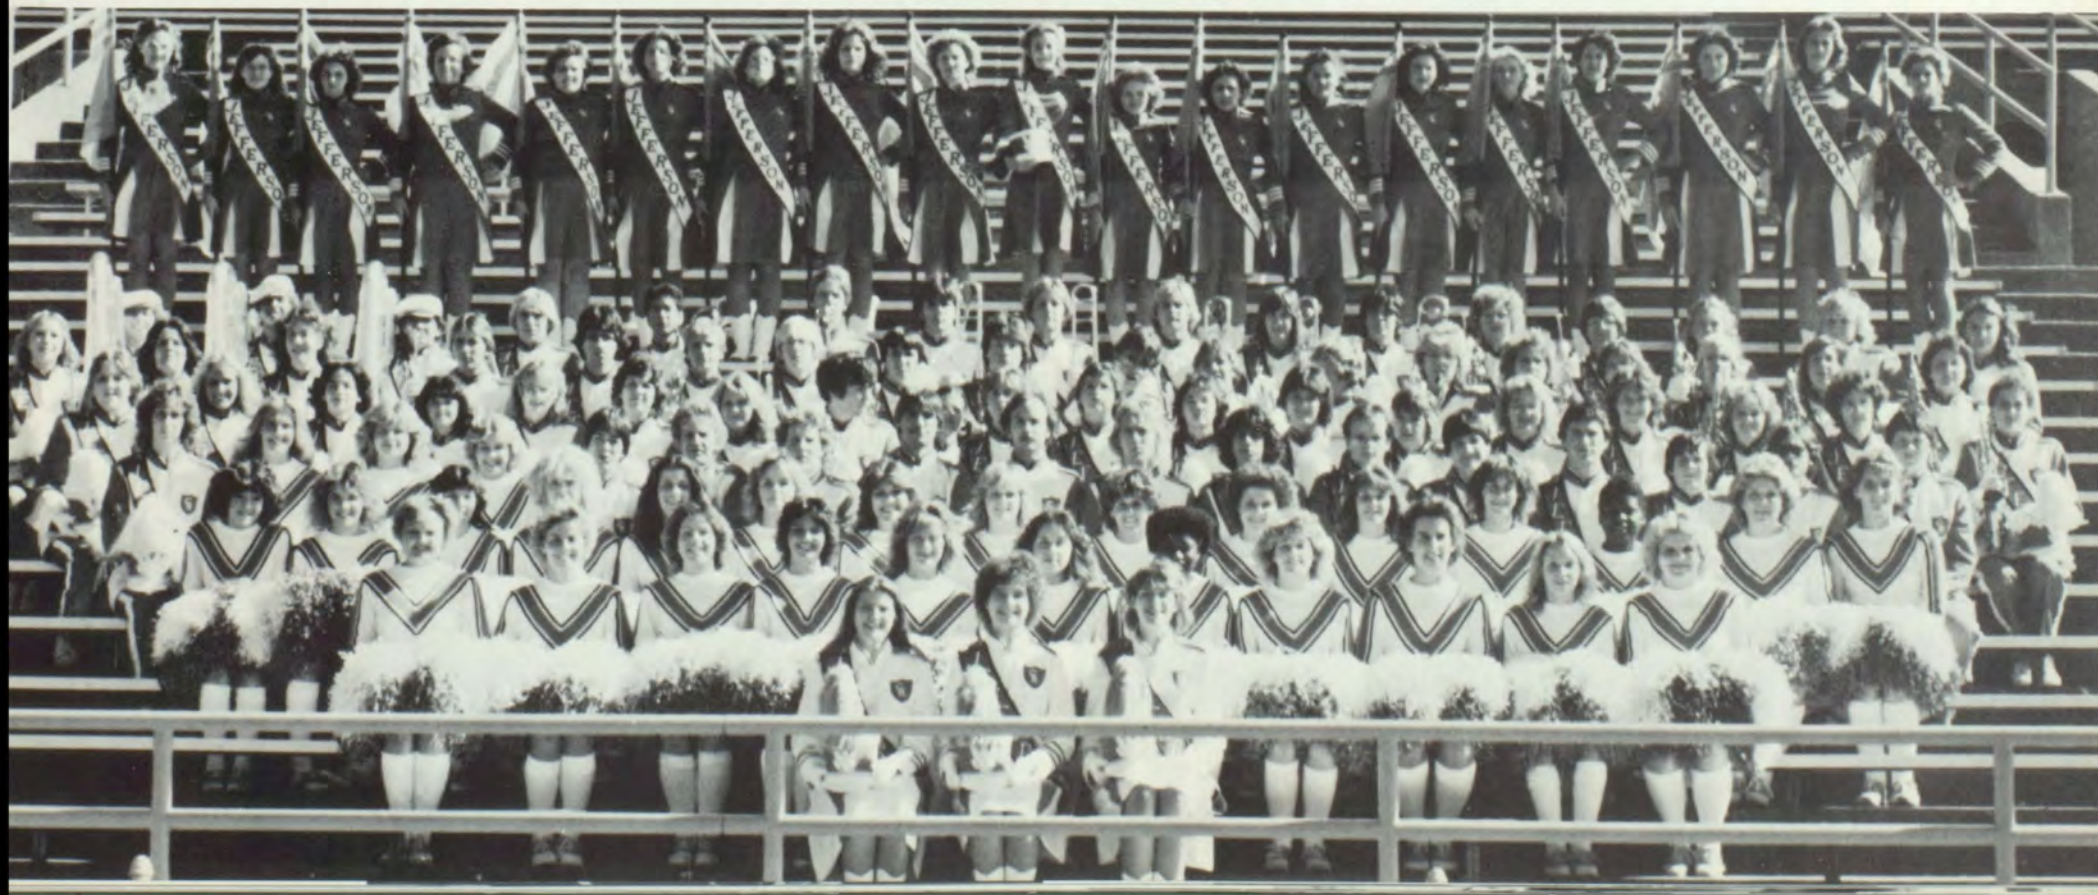

Concentrating on a half time performance, Lori Cox, Jenny Sedlacek, and Gail Baldus play the tune, "You've Lost that Loving Feeling."

Effort pays off

Remember all those cold raining days that you woke up to realize that during the night your ceiling leaked and your whole room was under water? The members of the colorguard and Pom Pon squads remember those days well. Bright and early every morning they slid down the muddy hill to the beckoning sound of Mr. Earle Dickinson's bull horn. Those morning practices paid off though. The marching band received a division one ranking in October at the state contest in Iowa City.

Many people have never heard the word colorguard before. Some think of the band as being made up of musicians and Pom Pons, so the flags don't get much credit at all. You need a great deal of skill and coordination to be part of colorguard. It takes a lot of effort and dedication from everyone in the colorguard to live up to the high expectations. Senior Michelle Collier has enjoyed participating in colorguard for over three years.

"Jefferson's colorguard is both colorful and professional," commented Michelle.

Captain of the poms, senior Cathy Hulbert, recalled the amount of time put in to teaching all 29 girls. "Whether it was a summer practice, a pep assembly, or just marching on the field, they worked hard and liked performing," Cathy commented. To be successful as a pom pon girl, you need to spend a lot of time preparing and you must also catch the audience's eye. Every one of the 29 girls on the squad met these tough requirements.

The pom pon squad had many early morning and after school rehearsals to help them continue their tradition of excellence.

Colorguard and Pom Pons are both separate groups that train many hours during the summer so they can join and become one during the fall term. "This year was a great success," sighed Cathy.

Pleased by the flags' polished routine, senior Sue Dostal smiles as she leaves the stage during Band-o-Rama.

Bands boost spirit

Adding a spirited atmosphere to various events, the Jefferson jazz and pep bands have successfully completed another year of fine performances.

Derived from Concert Band, pep band members added excitement to pep assemblies and sporting events. The loud, popular music played by pep band helped promote school spirit as well as a winning attitude.

Aiding the pep band were pom pon members who choreographed routines to pep band music. Often performing geometrical patterns on the gym floor, pom pon members enhanced pep band music. Senior pom pon captain Cathy Hulbert noted, "I feel the pom pon squad received recognition from promoting school spirit."

Playing a variety of jazz music, Jefferson's jazz band enjoyed performing at a number of social functions. Many standard jazz charts were played as well as recent rock music, emphasizing the versatility of talent.

In addition to the jazz class, members also participated in an improvisation class, which enabled students to express their own style of playing while staying within the boundaries of the music. Numerous social functions and concerts offered jazz band members recognition.

Concentrating on playing notes right is important to Band of Blue members Francine Gray and Roxanna Kanpp.

Fine arts on parade

Excellence in instrumental music has been proven this year through the Jefferson Concert Band and Orchestra. The 79 member band under the direction of Mr. Dickinson and Mr. Rowley performed many concerts after spending long hours rehearsing. The city and state contests as well as the city band festival were hosted by the Band of Blue.

The highlight of the year was a tour to Kansas City, Missouri. They performed in the Worlds of Fun national contest where they received a 1 rating. While in Kansas City, they also enjoyed seeing the Truman Library, a Royals game, and a dinner theatre presentation at the Waldorf Astoria. The Concert band topped their year with a 1 rating at state contest.

The 30 member orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Hoffman had a rewarding year. They performed in 6 concerts, including those at the junior highs. They worked very hard to finish the year with a 2 rating.

Members of band and orchestra show the fun and serious sides of each group: (1) Kane Brolin at honor society, (2) Karla Davis on band tour, (3) Cathy Fonck at the band carnival, (4) Tim Hoffman during orchestra practice, (5) Kurt VanderWeil during band tour.

Members sing

Mixed Chorus has been a very good group this year, according to Mr. Tom Lippert, director. He feels that the group has a lot of talent and that although it is a very large group, it is still very productive.

Sophomore Mikki Mason likes Mixed Chorus a lot since it gives her more of a background for her junior and senior years. Sophomore Karen Swanson enjoys Mixed Chorus for a different reason. She has fun and likes learning techniques and singing.

The Hilltop Singers are another fine choir, consisting of girls only. "I like working with this group because I feel less pressurized and therefore I have a great deal of fun," commented Mr. Lippert. Senior Sherae Zart enjoys Hilltop because it gives her a chance to meet a lot of people.

Both choirs are very successful and have a lot of talented members who enjoy being involved.

Mr. Tom Lippert, director, leads Mixed Chorus members in song.

Mixed Chorus is a 2.5 elective that is open to all students who have an interest in singing.

Choir excels through year

Tryouts are over, you made it! Trying out for anything is a pretty scary experience. In order for a choir to do well, its members must have not only a great amount of talent, but they must have a sense of pride in what they are doing. That's just what the Jefferson Concert Choir members had.

The performance schedule began in September and ran all the way through June. In addition to giving performances at school, the choir taped a Christmas program for television.

The choir started off on an active note, raising enough money in their jog-a-thon to finance new choir robes.

Determination paid off as eleven auditioners made All-State Chorus.

"Brigadoon," the spring musical, was an obvious example of all the hard work and sacrificed time put in by the cast members.

Junior Diane Meeks summed it all up when she added that the long hours of hard work and dedication paid off as Concert Choir had a very successful and productive year.

Group swings

There are many areas in the fine arts department where students may participate. One of these areas is the Jefferson swing choir, better known as the Westside Delegation.

To start the year off with a bang, the group sang and danced to Let's Hang On by Barry Manilow with Kirk Griener as soloist. Over the year this proved to be the most popular song with both the group and the audience. As an opener, the show included such songs as, Celebration and Spread a Little Sunshine from the musical Pippin. Although this was an out of the ordinary opening, it proved to be successful. "I liked this opening just because it was different. One shouldn't do things over and over because it's too easy to get into a formula," explained Mr. Tom Lippert.

Songs such as Let's Groove, Somewhere Over the Rainbow, starring Karen Swanson as soloist, Zip a dee doo dah, with senior Steve Hanisch as the soloist, Long Train Running, by the Doobies, including soloist Dennis Novak, Handful of Keys, Mary Cole soloist, Rainy Days and Mondays starring Beth VanSteenhuyse, and Hair from the musical Hair was soloed on by Rob Edgeton.

On March 5, W.S.D. placed third in the annual Coe Festival, held at Coe College.

The main highlight of the year was Dollars for Scholars at the Paramount Theater, where they were definitely a crowd pleaser.

"It was an excellent year, but we really didn't do as many performances as I would have liked to," expressed Mr. Lippert. He added, "I was really pleased with the show this year."

Excitement and smiles are expressed on the faces of happy couples during the 60-minute performance.

The audience becomes involved when seniors Joel Colbeck and David Riha discuss the possibilities of becoming rich.

While watching from the balcony, Ray Schwitters and Jodi Dauenbaugh plan their defense against a cunning daughter's plans to marry.

During humorous fall play . . .

Doctor ends love woes

The doors open right on time. The ushers accompany the theater-goers to their appropriate seats. Programs rustle nervously in the hands of anxiously awaiting members of the audience. Their anxiousness is soon quenched as the lights dim and the stage curtain slowly parts to reveal the start of yet another Jefferson High School drama production.

But nervousness doesn't occur only in front of the curtain. Many long, hard hours went into the preparation of this year's fall play production of "The Love Doctor." For director, Mr. Robert Geuder, and technical director, Mr. John Wojtowicz, the pressures of putting on a play started at the first practice, getting people to remember their lines and telling the actors where to stand. All continues well after the final curtain falls as they are the ones who hear from the "critics."

The pressure is also felt by the performers. Ray Schwitters, senior, revealed, "I had a lot of butterflies right before the curtain went up. But to tell the truth, I can't wait for the next play so that I can do it all over again!"

Proposing to junior Lisa Hemesath, Roger Bouzek presents an interesting turn in the play's plot.

Senior Ray Schwitters portrays a concerned father in this year's production of "The Love Doctor."

Comedy is the best medicine as proven by these witty doctors; John Kenjar, Doug Raplinger, Rick Schmidt, and Dan Aalberts.

Children enjoy play

Every year at Jefferson, the drama department stages a Children's Theatre production. This year the cast performed "Half Past Wednesday" a shortened version of Rumpelstiltskin. The play took place February 4, 5, and 7. The cast was chosen differently this year because of the good singing and strong acting abilities of the students' auditioning.

The role of Rumpelstiltskin, the prince, and the part of Erelida were played by two different people, alternating on different nights.

Seniors Ray Schwitters and Dave Riha enjoyed singing the song, "Grandfathers" the most. Ray, who played the role of the king, also enjoyed performing for the children. He thought they were a lot of fun. Roger enjoyed seeing how the little kids reacted to him.

When asked what he liked about directing Rumpelstiltskin, Mr. Robert Geuder replied, "I enjoyed the music; it added to the show and livened it up." He added that the reason the cast was chosen the way it was, was because there were very few major parts and he thought it would give more people the opportunity to act.

Julie Lockett and Steve Hanisch shared the role of Playtime Poppy. This jovial character was a big hit with the children. "I liked the idea of alternating with Steve—it was fun," added Julie.

The main concern of the cast was to please the audience and to keep them interested. The Children's Theatre succeeded in doing this.

Kurt VanderWeil (Prince) and Mary Cole (Princess) sing about being in love.

Rumpelstiltskin (Roger Bouzek) pops out of the gift wrapped box to the surprise of the princess (Mary Cole) and the prince (Kurt VanderWeil).

The miller (David Riha) and the king (Ray Schwitters) sing about the joys of being a grandfather.

Roger Bouzek and Chris Leonard, who both played Rumpelstiltskin on alternating days, mime each other as they pose for the camera.

The king (Ray Schwitters) sadly realizes he has no money as he sits on his throne.

At Mrs. Gant's boarding house . . .

Crises unfold

Enchanting the stage with an air of professionalism, Jefferson's Thespian Troupe 561 unveiled one of its finest productions in recent years—the winter play, "Look Homeward Angel." Keeping with tradition, Troupe 561 provides its audience with excellent acting, a trait that has become a standard with Jefferson drama productions.

A total of 19 performers worked together to make up the cast. Roger Bouzek played an individualistic character, Eugene Gant, a man in his youth searching for love and the meaning of life. The Gant family members converged in a crisis situation, learning to overcome tensions and maturing throughout the play.

Under the leadership of director Robert Geuder, assistant director Joel Colbeck, and technical director John Wojtowicz, cast members all took part in the construction of the set. In addition to building lasting friendships with fellow crew workers, these ardent Thespians hope to continue acting.

First class seaman Luke Gant (Todd Miskimen) is welcomed home by his mother (Jenny Sullivan) and his sister (Amy Koepke).

Wrapped up in his own world, Eugene Gant (Roger Bouzek) dreads of being in far away places.

After a long day, Mrs. Pert (Martha Boyson) and Ben Gant (Steve Hanisch) relax and discuss life's problems.

Looking for a vision of the grim reaper, residents of Altamont listen to Mr. Gant's (Dave Riha) drunken story.

Mrs. Gant (Jenny Sullivan) introduces Laura James (Julie Lockett) to the boarders living in her house.

Eugene (Roger Bouzek) mourns the serious illness of his brother, Ben, with his father (Dave Riha).

'Brigadoon' is huge success

Annually, Jefferson stages a spring musical. This year the show that was produced was Brigadoon. Brigadoon is a village that disappears when the people go to sleep and then reappears one hundred years later. Two outsiders, Tommy and Jeff, come to the village and Tommy ends up falling in love with a girl named Fiona. Tommy leaves Brigadoon, but decides to come back.

The musical teaches us—"If you love someone enough, anything is possible—even miracles."

The musical had two Fiona's this year. Missy Beastrom, a freshman at Coe College, took the place of Amy Koepke for the first week-end of the performance, while Amy recovered from mono.

The show turned out to be a huge success.

"Brigadoon" was brought to life on the Jefferson stage by the talent and hard work of these people, including: (1) Ray Schwitters, Amy Koepke, Chris Leonard, (2) Chris Leonard, John Kenjar, Amy Koepke, Kirk Greiner, Jennifer Peters, (3) Kirk Greiner, Steve Hanisch, (4) The funeral procession, (5) Mark Greiner, (6) Dave Riha, Chris Leonard, John Kenjar, Julie Lockett, (7) Chris Leonard, Amy Koepke, (8) Rob Edgeton, Julie Lockett.

Troupe works

From their fall open house to their spring banquet, Thespian Troupe 561 made their presence known to many. Besides successfully producing four major shows, the troupe took a trip to Minneapolis and under the leadership of troupe president, Cindy Wray, revived several fund-raising traditions.

In December, the Jefferson cafeteria saw the rebirth of the Thespian Chili Dinner Theatre. Entitled, "The Audition," the show was written, directed, and performed by troupe members. Troup 561 also sponsored a highly successful Thespian mixer. The highlight of the year was a weekend in Minneapolis. Free time was allowed for the travelers to explore nearby shopping centers and to wreak havoc upon fellow hotel guests.

To those members who displayed outstanding dedication to the troupe, the title "Thespian of the Month" was given. Awards were given to the deserving at the annual spring banquet held May 27 at Stouffers. At this time troupe members were promoted to the ranks they had achieved throughout the year and officers were elected for the following school year.

Adjusting a light fixture on the set, junior Doug Raplinger fulfills part of his Thespian duties.

Working on the set for the fall play, "The Love Doctor," junior Mike Vercande stays late after school.

Counting and arranging tickets for the spring musical, senior Liz Hegarty lends a helping hand.

Building a platform for the Children's Theater production, senior David Voelkers adds to his Thespian points.

Classes display ambition

Throughout the year, underclassmen have been important in the activities held at Jeff. The soph girls' volleyball team finished first in the Mississippi Valley Conference. As the year continued, other organizations worked hard to attain their goals. Leading the sophomore class were Rod Myers, president; Lila Igram, vice president; Debbie Haeg, secretary; and Julie Kuhlman, treasurer. Junior officers were Mona Igram, president; Rob Edgeton, vice president; Karen Hanson, secretary; and Brooke Peeples, treasurer.

Sophomores Sean Benson and Angie Crumes look on at all of the dancing and excitement at a mixer.

At a pep assembly, the junior section helps to get excitement and energy flowing.

Sophs join groups during first year

From attending a Homecoming dance to learning new customs, these sophomores experienced a year of adjustments: (1) Dawn Crum, (2) Sophomore football fans, (3) Doug Elkin, (4) Sophomore football team, (5) Asmus (Ozzie) Ring, (6) Charlotte Lowderman.

Artist succeeds

Move over Grant Wood and Rembrant, here comes Jefferson's own artist . . . sophomore Dan Stuckenschneider.

He enjoyed drawing at an early age, but wasn't noticed until junior high when he won the Silver Palette Top Award for his outstanding art abilities. Dan received his first commission when his junior high art teacher bought one of his paintings.

Dan completed drawing 1, 2, and 3 in his sophomore year. He enjoys ceramics in addition to drawing and has made an elephant bank, ash trays, and an Iowa Hawkeye statue.

Dan's family enjoys his art work too. He created a set of ceramic plates and painted pictures on them as a Christmas present for his grandmother.

Dan hopes to continue his art after high school. "I really enjoy art; it's something that comes easy to me. It's the one thing that I am good at and like doing," expressed Dan.

"Dan is a good student. He is serious about art and likes the challenge. I like getting sophomores because then I have three years to work with them. This is important because art is competitive and you need as much preparation as you can get," stated Mr. William Ball, art teacher.

If he continues to excel, maybe someday the name Dan Stuckenschneider will be just as famous as the names Grant Wood and Rembrant are to students today.

Karen excels

The fall play, Children's Theatre, the Follies, and the Community Theatre are just a few of the activities in which sophomore Karen Swanson has participated.

During the summer of 1980 and 1981, Karen traveled to Arlington, Texas, where she attended classes in movement, diction, stage craft, and acting. These classes helped her earn the honor of "Outstanding Vocal Student and Outstanding Thespian."

In addition to her other activities and achievements, Karen went to Muncie, Indiana, where she performed with the Educational Dance Theatre and attended the International Theatre Arts Conference. Karen was chosen from 15 in Iowa to be in the Theatre Ensemble at the U of I where she earned some college credit.

Karen has been a member of Westside Delegation and Mixed Chorus. She also earned All-State honors.

"I hope to attend Northwestern University to study vocal music and theatre," expressed Karen.

Karen Swanson is definitely a talented J-Hawk!

Car restored

How far can $50 be stretched? Instead of buying a pair of Nikes, junior Brett Hansen opted for a used car of his own.

"The car was sitting in one spot for a long time," noted Brett. The engine was very corroded and wouldn't run. Some parts had to be replaced and others just needed cleaning. In addition, the body was rusted and the interior was faded.

Overhauling the engine and painting his car gave Brett some valuable experience. Brett added, "I'll probably drive my Starfire for awhile and then sell it."

Brett's hard work has certainly paid off.

BMX takes skill

Junior Bruce Lagerquist participates in a very demanding sport, BMX.

Bruce started racing in 1978 and now travels all around the Midwest. He competed in the 1980 Nationals in Colorado. In 1982, he finished 57 out of 500 racers for the year.

He races in the 17 expert class, the highest racing class before turning professional. He has won ribbons, plaques, metals, and over 80 trophies, and hopes to win many more.

In the future, Bruce wants to race professionally, move to California, and win a lot of money competing in meets.

"I started BMX racing because I like the tough competition, meeting a lot of new people, and traveling all around the Midwest," concluded Bruce.

Bruce definitely has the skill it takes to be great at BMX.

Snoopy is loved

Collecting Snoopy items since the age of five, junior Debi Dostal has kept up her hobby over the last twelve years.

Debi first became interested in Snoopy while watching specials on television. Later, she began to appreciate Charles Schultz, his ideas, and how he puts them into the minds of many children. The main reason she enjoys Charles Schultz is because he gives Snoopy human characteristics. "That is what makes him so adorable," added Debi.

Over the years,, Debi has collected all the books, posters, little gadgets, and stuffed animals that she could find. Whenever something new comes out, Debi admitted that she usually ends up buying it. Debi's favorite Snoopy is dressed in a skiers outfit.

Through the years, Snoopy has become a part of Debi and most of her friends associate Snoopy with her.

Touch of class

Entering Jefferson brought forth uncertainties about the future, but still these sophomores looked forward to the day when they would rule as SENIORS! As seniors the class of '83 distinctly proved their true spirit by winning the spirit stick approximately 17 out of 25 times in three years. They also played a large role in the 25-1 record breaking season of the girls' basketball team and helped push the girls' swim team to many outstanding victories. On the music scene, the class of '83 dominated the stage in Performing Arts. These seniors demonstrated the true meaning of being a J-Hawk in everything they did. The class of 1983 is truly the best there will ever be!

As the 1983 senior class finished off its high school career, they remember the mixed emotions and outstanding talent displayed throughout the year: (1) Homecoming Queen Sonya Feaker. (2) Forward Lisa Becker. (3) Senior class section. (4) Stacy Rowles and Dennis Novak.

Seniors enjoy eventful year

The senior class of 1983 was one of the finest classes ever. From the moment they entered Jefferson as sophomores until June 3 when the tassels were turned, they constantly excelled while meeting new challenges and setting new goals.

Suddenly it was our turn to have senior pictures taken, to order announcements, and to start thinking about that long awaited day...graduation.

Pep assemblies, mixers, and cherished friends were just a few of the things that were about to become a part of the past.

"I have mixed emotions concerning graduation. In a way I feel sad about leaving a lot of my friends and the memories of good times. On the other hand, I am looking forward to even better times ahead," expressed Lonnie Zingula, senior class president.

Talented seniors were found everywhere. Whether it was on the court or in the classroom, as a group, 443 seniors grew together and formed one of the most spirited classes in J-Hawk history.

Senior Class President Lonnie Zingula summed it all up when he said, "This senior class is better than those in years past, simply because our spirit has grown throughout our senior year. Most senior classes tend to develop a bad attitude towards high school and fail to participate. Our class has not only maintained its high level of spirit but has added on to that spirit as the year progressed."

Brad shows trumpet skill

Receiving many Division 1 ratings in city and state contests, senior trumpet player Brad Foster attributes his talents to hard work.

"I started playing the trumpet in fifth grade. Playing was very hard for me the first year, as I expected too much of myself," revealed Brad. Determination caused Brad to excel as he earned himself a first chair in eighth grade. Through a lot of practice and many lessons, Brad soon realized what an accomplished player he had become.

Playing first chair at Jefferson as a sophomore, Brad enjoyed participating in orchestra, concert band, jazz band, and also accompanied the West Side Delegation. In addition, Brad made All-State Band and the prestigious first chair position at the NorthEastern Iowa Band Festival.

"Trumpet playing not only gives me self satisfaction," noted Brad, "but has taught me that hard work and determination precedes success, a trait I will carry throughout my life."

Kern strives

Senior Renee Kern is one J-Hawk who definately has arrived. Renee picked up her first tennis racquet at age ten and the rest has been history.

Renee has held the top position on the varsity team since her junior year. She took third place in state doubles competition last year in Des Moines. In addition, Renee's talent has taken her far beyond the Jefferson courts as she has traveled to five states and has played in more than 100 tournaments.

Not only has Renee gained valuable experience during tournament action, but she has earned over 75 trophies and hopes to earn more in the future.

Dedication is very important to Renee as she plays tennis all year long at the Cedar Rapids Racquet Club and at Westfield Tennis Club. Renee averages four hours of practice a day in the summer and two hours a day during the winter, seven days a week.

Renee plans to continue her tennis career after graduation. "Tennis is my life and I enjoy it very much!" concluded Renee.

Kipp's art works earn top awards

Senior Kipp Wieland is involved in a hobby for which he has a great, natural talent.

He has been doing art work for as long as he can remember. He does not restrict himself to only one type of art. "Anything that looks good to me, I will draw," expressed Kipp.

Kipp has achieved many honors over the years. He has won two Gold Key awards, two Blue Ribbon Finalist awards, and two Hallmark awards. He has also won several honorable mention awards in various contests.

One of Kipp's drawings was a winner of the Scholastic Art Awards program. As a result of this, his picture was placed on display at the University of Iowa.

His outstanding artistic talents enabled him to compile a portfolio which was sent to New York City.

Kipp was also hired by the Board of Education to do various works of art for the school system.

He plans to attend the Kansas City Art Institute following graduation.

Kipp's outstanding art talent will no doubt take him far in his field.

Getting outdoors to enjoy the warm fall weather, senior Jerry Jensen takes time out to shine up his car before the arrival of winter weather.

At a home swim meet, senior Mary Dwyer executes a perfect dive to help her team compile its best record ever.

From decorating for the dance to that special night itself, prom provided fun and entertainment for these seniors: (1) Cindy Symonette, (2) Senior girls displaying their garters, (3) Couples dancing to the music of Men Working, (4) Kathy Welsh and Scott Meier, (5) Annette Beck, (6) Couples taking a break, (7) Laurie Eirp.

As suspense mounted . . .

Special night unfolds

The long anticipated night of our senior prom was finally here. All those questions that were nagging at the back of our minds, "Will I trip on my dress?" "Will I have enough money?" "Will my date and I have a good time together?" would soon be answered.

As we walked in the door of the Iowa Hall at Kirkwood College we could see many familiar faces dancing to the music of "Men Working." We felt the excitement in the air seeing the many beautiful dresses and handsome men in their tuxes. The stars hanging from the ceiling, the glittering ball, the blue and white streamers, and the three shimmering ice sculptures added that dreamy feeling to a most unforgettable night.

Of course we weren't the only school having a prom on May 7th. It just so turned out that six other schools were also holding their prom on the same night. This caused a problem making dinner reservations for some couples. But despite the pre-prom difficulties, 395 people attended the first ever free prom. Thanks to the hard work of Senior Senate, the prom was considered a big success.

Enjoying a once in a lifetime senior prom are: (1) Mike Bolton and his date, Angie Anderson, (2) Scott Hawkins and Stacy Rowles, (3) Cheryl Holub and her date (4) Sue Dostal and Jon Stahl, (5) Sandy Miller and Yvette Oslac, (6) Dave Bishop and Jennifer Wetherbee.

Grads have future plans

Graduation, the beginning and the end. As June 3 crept upon the seniors, they were both sad and relieved. The thought of going out into the world and being successful was a little skeptical if not optimistic.

Commencement was held at Five Seasons on Friday, June 3, at 8:00 P.M. Valedictorians Miriam Mishal, Dave Bishop, and Kane Brolin led the class of 452 graduating seniors.

As Dr. William Jacobson, principal, read off the names, graduates became nervous. They walked across the stage where they received their diplomas and shook the hands of school board members. Their faces were aglow with happiness.

Caps and gowns were the same as the year before. Dark blue gowns and hats didn't cause much trouble, but the tassels were so disappointing and too much like last year's silver anniversary, that they were sent back. Seniors then received blue and white ones.

When the ceremony came to an end, there were different thoughts and ideas going through each person's mind. Will they see their friends as often anymore, will they make it on their own, and will they be happy? More importantly, though, it was finally a relief to know that thirteen years of hard work and dedication were at long last coming to a close.

The excitement of graduation is shown in various ways: (1) Mr. Ron Smrha and Marcia Wenzel, (2) Jim Hoogestraat, Todd Hoover, Mary Hoppenworth, (3) Annette Sparks, (4) Amy Koepke, (5) Stacy Rowles, (6) Valedictorians Dave Bishop, Kane Brolin, Miriam Mishal, (7) Pam Judge and Loraine Cook, (8) Francine Gray.

Always busy

With the 1982-83 school year coming to a close, many memories of the events that kept people busy remain. Sports, academics, and performing arts were all outstanding throughout the year. The sport seasons, from fall to spring, were truly successful and performing arts dominated the stage with exciting and creative entertainment. As the years pass, new friends will be made and new life styles will form. But the precious memories that one holds will last forever while looking through this 1983 yearbook.

Throughout the year, J-Hawk students found various ways to keep busy and break up the monotony of studying: 1) juniors Kurt VanderWeil and Jim VanManen 2) juniors Lisa Hoefer, Alicia Michel, and Diane Rasmussen 3) junior Mary Sedlacek 4) senior Kathi Hanson 5) junior Brett Hansen 6) juniors Jill Heese and Debi Dostal 7) senior Theresa Meeks.

Even at year's end . . .

J-Hawks smile

As 1983 closes, we look back and remember all of the fun times we had. Pep assemblies—beginning with the pledge, then skits, and the competition yell—helped to add to our ever-increasing spirit. Football games, mixers, Homecoming, and W.P.A. also kept the excitement high during the entire year.

In sports, the girls' basketball team had a record breaking season of twenty-five wins and only one loss. The wrestling team sent three varsity wrestlers to the state tournament after having a successful season. Throughout '82-'83, Jefferson's sportsmanship and positive motivation aided every team to victory.

This year has truly been a special one. Many friendships have been made, the memories of which we'll always treasure. One thing proved to be true this year, in all areas, and that is that the J-Hawks have really arrived!

The 1982-83 school year provided many reasons to smile: (1) junior Debi Dostal (2) seniors Karen Scholl and Roxanna Knapp (3) sophomore Lynne Nejd (4) senior Kathy Fry, junior Tina Carney, senior Becky Siechert, junior Kelly Moore (5) junior Diane Rasmussen and senior Stacy Hansel (6) junior Todd Miskimen and senior Amy Koepke (7) sophomores Dawn Crumes and Lynette Houdek.

As the year closes . . .

Memories remain

Although the 1982-83 year is almost over, memories of the year will last forever: (1) sophomores Angie Crumes, Soroya Hamilton, and Lila Igram (2) junior Kurt VanderWiel and graduate Gary Logan (3) sophomore Terri Kenward, senior Brenda Guyer, and sophomore Michelle Jensen (4) senior Brian Franck.

Good-bye to 83

As we finish up this yearbook, I have many people I'd like to thank. First of all, thanks to the staff for putting a lot of hard work and time into making this edition a national salesmen's sample. Secondly, thanks to the photography staff for providing such a terrific selection of photos all year. Mr. Smrha, to you I extend a special thanks for teaching me what responsibility really means. Finally, Karen, thank you most of all for putting up with the rough times, especially at deadline time. But most of all, for being a friend. Once again we've shown all who browse through this latest yearbook that 1983 is the best there will ever be . . . Teri Swore 1983 has truly been a year of dedication on the part of the staff. Our nationally recognized book would not have been possible without the excellent layout designs, creative photographs, and story telling copy that have been produced by our staff of 60 members. I sincerely want to thank the entire staff for all the time it has spent making certain this is the best book ever. To Mr. Smrha, without your guidance we would have been lost and frustrated. To my co-editor, Teri Swore, thank you for your leadership, support, and terrific friendship. I sincerely hope the spirit that lived in 1983 will shine through as you relive our year.

. . . Karen Scholl

Co-head photographers Cindy Symonette and Richard Raygor. Each has taken numerous photos for this yearbook.
