J H A W K S S O A R in EIGHTY FOUR

Sharing times with friends is what being a J-Hawk is all about: (1) Lisa Jahncke and Cecil Anderson (2) Senior girls (3) Lisa Djerf and Marty Stine (4) Jill Heese (5) Pom Pons (6) Mike Ludvick (7) Senior ski bums (8) Lisa Heiserman (9) Roger Bouzek (10) Jodi Sickels and Debbie Tompkins (11) Lisa Suchomel, Erin Casey, and Trudi Stuckenschneider (12) Mary Still and Dave Bequeaith (13) Alicia Michel and Lisa Djerf (14) John Waddilove.

J-Hawks smile

Ah, what a life . . . sleeping and dreaming about summer fun, like swimming and staying out all night. But all of a sudden you woke up and realized it was August again. Time to go back to that dreaded school. This feeling was somehow broken though, by the thought of greeting old friends you didn't see all summer.

The year began to roll by and you made new friends, who joined in the fun of all the mixers, sports, and fine arts events. Championships were not abundant, but there were a few. The year ended and you felt as if part of your life was over too.

J-Hawks again

After a "silence is golden" summer, the halls were once again jammed with old friends talking and laughing, the slamming of locker doors, and the sound of scurrying feet trying to get to class on time.

Walking down the hall on the first day of school and wondering where in the heck room 201 is left bewildered looks on the faces of many sophomores. Finding rooms was further complicated by being shoved in all directions by the upperclassmen. The traditional saying, "Must be a sophomore", could be heard from many upperclassmen.

June Frank, sophomore, commented, "The first week was the worst. It was difficult getting used to the unfamiliar surroundings. It was crazy; all those people. Even after half the year has gone by, I still see faces that I have never seen before."

The first year at Jefferson left a certain impression on many sophomores that will remain memorable for many years to come.

Football fans Dawn Strait and Doreen McVay let the crowd know which team they're backing at a home game.

Standing solidly for over 25 years, Jefferson High School has welcomed many students who come in search of knowledge.

J-Hawks enjoying themselves on and off campus are: (1) Nancy Chihak and Kris Beaton (2) Chalet Johnson and Mike Ludvick (3) Varsity football players (4) Junior quintet (5) Keith Olson and Marty Pearson (6) Spirited Juniors (7) Lisa Djerf, Angie Pedersen, Debby Landis (8) Varsity swimmers (9) Lisa Jahncke and Becky Conway (10) Angie Pedersen (11) Senior guys (12) Diane Rasmussen (13) Kim Frank and Marty Pearson (14) Karla Davis (15) Jodi Dauenbaugh and Debby Landis (16) Kris Beaton, Tina Brown, and Karen Oellrich.

Special moments

Rrrring!!! Another day ended at Jefferson High School. In the hall what did we see . . . pushing and shoving to reach the front door. When they did finally reach their goal, they could "hang loose" and have fun. Did they have fun? You bet! School is not just an education, it's a chance to make friendships. Through the '84 school year students made many new friendships and kept many old ones, too. Enjoying these friends is part of the fun. Whether it be an over-nighter at Djerf's place or hanging out at the mall, to eating out with style or catching a bass, the year was truly memorable.

Student Life

When walking through the halls of Jefferson High few things come to mind. . .wondering if you'll pass 3rd hour (which happens to be American Government), skipping last hour to go munch out on Taco Tuesday, hoping you'll be able to get through the halls in just 5 minutes, and most of all, wondering what the yellow pass to the associate principal's office is all about.

Jefferson is no ordinary school filled with ordinary people. True J-Hawks are found dressed up wierd at pep assemblies, cheering our team on at an away game, or simply attending classes.

From Homecoming to WPA, J-Hawks participated in various events. By attending a club sponsored mixer to cruising the avenue, many J-Hawks realized that friendships are an important part of their lives. Getting involved in Pep Club or trying out for the fall play helped make the "J-Hawks soar in '84." Lisa Hoefer—

J-Hawks have that special spirit and can usually flash a winning smile: (1) Jeff Meyer, Rod Miller, and Brett Hansen (2) 1983 girls' state softball champions (3) Flags and marching band (4) Varsity cheerleaders (5) Spirited juniors (6) Jean Jurgensen and Mary Sedlacek (7) Sophomore class (8) Sophomore male singers (9) Bob Driscoll (10) Winter cheerleaders (11) Russ McKinney (12) Mr. Larry Niemeyer.

Fun with style

The other day I was driving by Jefferson High School and I heard a loud ruckus. Being the curious person I am, I drove back towards the school. The closer I got, the louder it got. As I entered the building I nearly went into a coma; you wouldn't believe what I saw. I came to the conclusion that it was a new breed of very strange students. Some were wearing safari gear, others were running around in underwear, but most of them were screaming. I ran to the most normal person I could find and to my surprise he was calm. He looked almost pleased with his crowd of maniac students. I asked him what was happening. He replied, "Why, it's a typical J-Hawk pep assembly!"

A big joy of their lives!

As the students finished filing into the gym and were rapidly trying to find their assigned places, the excitement of wanting to know who the twenty-five semi-finalists were arose throughout the student body. Julie Heese, vice-president of Student Council, started announcing the names of the girls. As the names were read, the girls popped up with excitement and made their way to the gym floor. Their escorts awaited and presented them with a pretty red rose.

One semi-finalist, Alicia Michel, stated, "I was so shocked when my name was said, I sat there for a minute, surprised." Being picked as a candidate meant a lot to Alicia because it made her feel good about herself. Being a cheerleader has kept Alicia busy in her spare time.

Laura Mullin, another fortunate candidate, explained, "I was both surprised and shocked when my name was called." Laura found that she felt better about herself after being chosen. Activities Laura has found time to participate in are yearbook and cheerleading.

The assembly to present the twenty-five queen semi-finalists occurred on Thursday, September 22, and proved to be suspenseful. Deanne Beltz

Finalists await crowning

"Your choice for the Jefferson High School 1984 Homecoming queen is . . ." The crowd at Kingston Stadium waited anxiously as words similar to these were addressed by Mr. Robert Geuder over the p.a. Half time of the October 14 varsity football game marked the memorable event, at which the 1984 queen was soon to be announced. As the evening proceeded, each of the ten finalists waited anxiously for their turn to walk along the white carpet.

"The thought of walking out in front of all those people really scared me," commented finalist Connie Jacobson.

As tense moments arose, the cape and crown were placed on Mary Still, the new Homecoming queen for 1984.

The entire week preceeding the Homecoming game was filled with festivities. Participating in the powder puff game and the annual Homecoming dance were only a few ways J-Hawks expressed their true blue spirit!

Exciting moment

Cheers filled the J-Hawk gym as the ten Homecoming finalists were announced. Each girl's parents then presented their daughter with a rose.

Keri Butterfield, finalist, commented, "I was super surprised when I heard my name. I didn't expect to be in the top ten at all. I was just happy to be a semi-finalist, and when I became a finalist I couldn't believe it."

These ten girls were in for a night to remember . . . half-time of the Homecoming game. Each girl was escorted onto the field as Mr. Geuder, Language Arts and drama teacher, announced her name. The moment everyone had waited for had arrived.

Sonya Feaker, the 1982 queen, and Rod Myers, junior class president, walked behind the finalists and waited for Mr. Geuder to announce who the 1983 Jefferson High School Homecoming queen was. They then placed the crown on Mary Still's head, wrapped her in the newly made cape, and presented her with a dozen red roses. Both the cape and crown were new this year, compliments of Student Council.

The Homecoming dance was held October 15, from 8 to 11, and approximately 450 people attended. The theme of the dance was "Making Love Out of Nothing." The band that entertained the crowd was Red Wing. The Homecoming festivities were planned by Student Council. Karen Hanson

Sitting in the stands, queen candidates Kristy Richardson and Connie Jacobson await the half-time crowning.

After being crowned, queen Mary Still and her escort, Dave Bequeaith, representing basketball, accept the crowd's applause.

After the half-time ceremony, the new queen and her escort are all smiles.

Candidate Colleen Maher and her escort, Roger Cassill, enjoy the game while awaiting the half-time ceremonies.

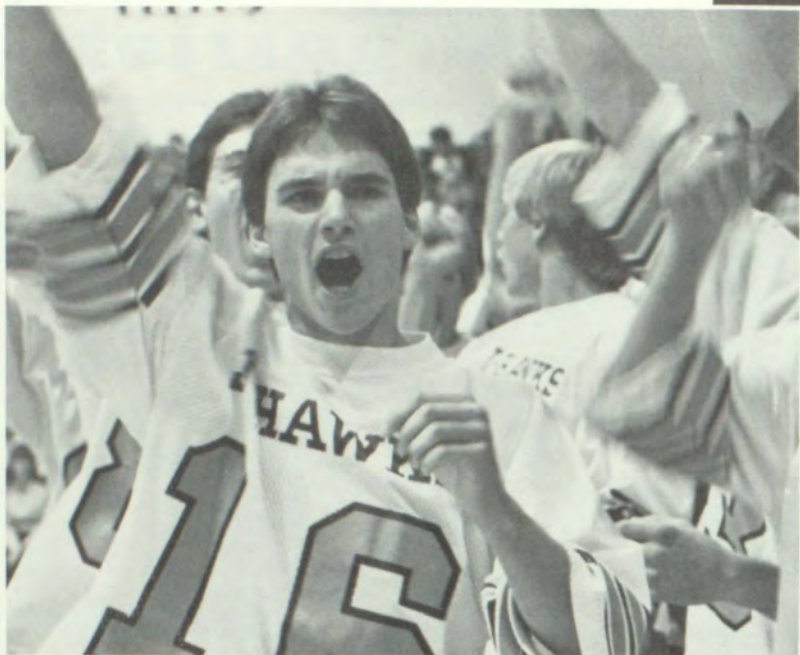

Finalist Jodi Dauenbaugh and her escort, Doug Ramsey, representing basketball, walk to meet Jodi's awaiting parents.

We've got spirit!

"What's that glowing orange thing with purple polka dots walking down the hall?" asked Trudi.

"Don't be silly Trudi, it's a special spirit week and everyone is supposed to dress up to raise spirit to beat Washington Friday night," stated Chalet.

Spirit days are those picked by Student Council to fire-up students for an upcoming event.

During a casual week of attending school, many J-Hawk students are found dressed up as tourists, wearing outrageous hats, or looking like they are ready for W.W.III.

Senior Jean Jurgensen stated, "I think the spirit days really raise the spirit at school, and it gives people a change from the everyday school routine."

Another way to show spirit is by attending the pep assemblies. These assemblies give students a chance to scream and yell or a perfect chance to stand out in the crowd by dressing up to show that their class is the best.

Senior Mary Sedlacek stated, "I'm not afraid of being recognized as showing my school spirit. I feel that if no one shows any sort of spirit our school activities would fall apart." This opinion is also shared by senior John Wirth who said, "If our school's spirit died, getting involved in sports would decrease extremely because everyone likes to have a lot of support when they are competing."

There's nothing like a good rowdy crowd of wild students yelling to show that they are the best in the school.

Pep assemblies and spirit days are special ways to help the students come together and form the best school ever.

Spirit days provide the opportunity for students to show their craziness. Lisa Hoefer

Dan Egger and his friends enthusiastically display their true J-Hawk spirit at a fall football game.

At the close of each pep assembly, a frequent scene is students filing out, inch by inch.

During a competition yell, junior Russ McKinney assists the varsity cheerleaders in a cheer for victory.

Acting as cheerleaders during a pep assembly, Miss Helane Golden and Mr. Mark Stewart help fire-up the audience.

Led by a few spirited guys, the senior class unites in hopes of winning the competition cheer.

Good times

"Jefferson J-Hawks, fight, fight!"

As the pep band plays the fight song, the pep assembly officially starts. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors all stand up to chant for their respective class. Pom pons do routines to pep band music and cheerleaders show off their spirited cheers and latest mounts. The sports for the present season are then introduced along with the athletes who participate in them.

Often a skit or two will accompany a pep assembly. This year "The Twelve Days of Christmas" was presented at a December pep assembly. Thomas Jefferson (also known as Mr. Geuder) acted as the master of ceremonies. At another assembly selected sophomore, junior, and senior men showed their J-Hawk spirit by singing the fight song. The senior group (consisting of Roger Bouzek, Kyle Cobb, Rob Edgeton, Todd Miskimen, Tim Moore, Mike Vercande, and John Waddilove) and the sophomore group (consisting of Mark Hartman, Brian Kaliban, Randy Meier, Matt Usher, and Mark Weber) tied for singing the best rendition of the fight song. Each winner received a candy bar.

Junior Tina Ilten commented, "I like pep assemblies because they get everyone fired up before a big game and they also give everyone a chance to show their true J-Hawk spirit." Kristi Carroll

Wearing the latest fashions at a mixer, senior Angie Pedersen moves to the beat.

A rockin' good time is had by Cindy Beary, Jill Wenzel, Karen Hanson, and Debbie Meier.

Michael Jackson's exhilarating songs filled the J-Hawk cafeteria as students boogied to the beat. For the first time ever at mixers, a breath analyzer was used to calm the wild and obnoxious behavior of some students. Because of this, the mixers weren't as popular, but they still helped organizations raise needed money.

"I think the breath analyzer ruined the attendance and made them boring," remarked junior Julie Heese.

Many students did go to the mixers, though, and enjoyed themselves.

Girls choose

Waiting patiently for their names to be called were the ten senior WPA candidates. For the past two years there have been ten senior candidates. These ten were later narrowed to five.

At an assembly introduced with the top five seniors are also five juniors and sophomores. Because of an unusual three-way tie there were eight junior candidates. Each candidate was asked a humorous question in front of the student body. These questions were to hopefully help the girls decide for which candidate they wanted to vote.

Junior Kelly Baker commented, "I was surprised and embarrassed when I was crowned. I was super happy to be the WPA king."

WPA week was held March 12 through March 16. It was filled with spirit days and a dance on Friday. For most this is a time they will always remember. For once the girls ask the guys out and pay for everything.

"I think WPA is a good idea because it might encourage girls to ask guys out more often," added Leann Barth. Karen Hanson

"Hey Roger, it's Sharon. Would you like to go to WPA with me?"

"Well, Sharon, I don't really want to go, but thanks for asking."

"Hello, Mike, it's Sharon, I don't suppose you would like to go to WPA with me?"

"Well, Sharon, I'm already going with Jill."

"Bob, you don't want to go to WPA with me do you?"

"Sure Sharon, I'd love to."

Sweaty palms and butterflies in the stomach were a couple of the reactions that the girls at Jefferson High School had as they thought about asking that special guy to WPA. WPA stands for Women Pay All. It is a date where the girl makes all the plans. She asks the guy to go, pays for dinner, and a boutonniere.

WPA was celebrated with a dance and the crowning of three kings on March 16. The dance, which was held in the cafeteria, carried out the theme song "Time Will Reveal." The crowning of the anxious kings was awaited by all. Senior Homecoming queen Mary Still had the honor of crowning three lucky young men.

And the lucky winners . . . sophomore king was Rob Sydnese, junior king was Kelly Baker, and the senior girls choose John Waddilove as their king.

WPA was one of the many events that highlighted the 1983-84 school year and was planned by Student Council.

Living it up

What happens after the final bell has rung and the halls of Jefferson no longer echo the noise of 1,500 teenagers? What is the common habitat of a J-Hawk when school is out? Since J-Hawks are big on fun, there are several places you would be able to find them.

Athletic events bring out the spirited J-Hawks and attendance was high in 1983-84! During fall term, Kingston Stadium becomes a Friday night hang-out. What could be closer to heaven than snuggling close to your sweetheart, cheering on your favorite football team?

As for fun with no season, movies attract teenage couples. Risky Business and Footloose were big hits this year, with rock-n-roll sound tracks. Movie dates are often topped off with a pizza from Godfather's, or for the finicky couple, a visit to Jimmy's American Cafe.

Now you know some places where J-Hawks roost when not behind a desk, so get your specs and let's go bird watching! Tami Meskimen

Showing thumbs-up, junior Darrell Long enthusiastically supports the J-Hawk football team.

Juniors Lila Igram, Lisa Heiserman, Tina Ilten, Cheri Landis, and Kim Judge share a friendly moment.

Smilin' faces

A smile here, a smile there, smiles were seen everywhere at Jefferson during the '83-'84 school year. Smiles ranged from happy pom pon girls all the way to the joys of lunch on Taco Tuesday.

Pep assemblies welcomed all kinds of smiles, even from the bewildered sophomores. Football, basketball, and softball games were greeted with smiling fans no matter of a win or defeat. Smiling students crowded into the cafeteria on Fridays for a night on the dance floor. Smiles even helped some students pass their toughest course.

Smiles came from people such as the '83 Homecoming queen Mary Still, the WPA kings, and West Side Delegation members. Cheerful smiles could be found almost everywhere at Jefferson.

Sophomores smiled at the excitement of being in high school. Juniors smiled at the thought of becoming seniors, and seniors smiled at the mentioning of graduation. Many J-Hawks wore a contagious smile.

1984 has been the year of alteration. Led by British stars Boy George and David Bowie, the "macho man" image has been dissolved and guys have willingly took on a less-than-masculine look.

The Eurythmics' Annie Lennox has led today's woman away from the "Valley girl" and dressed her in a suitcoat and tie, and other things our mothers never wore!

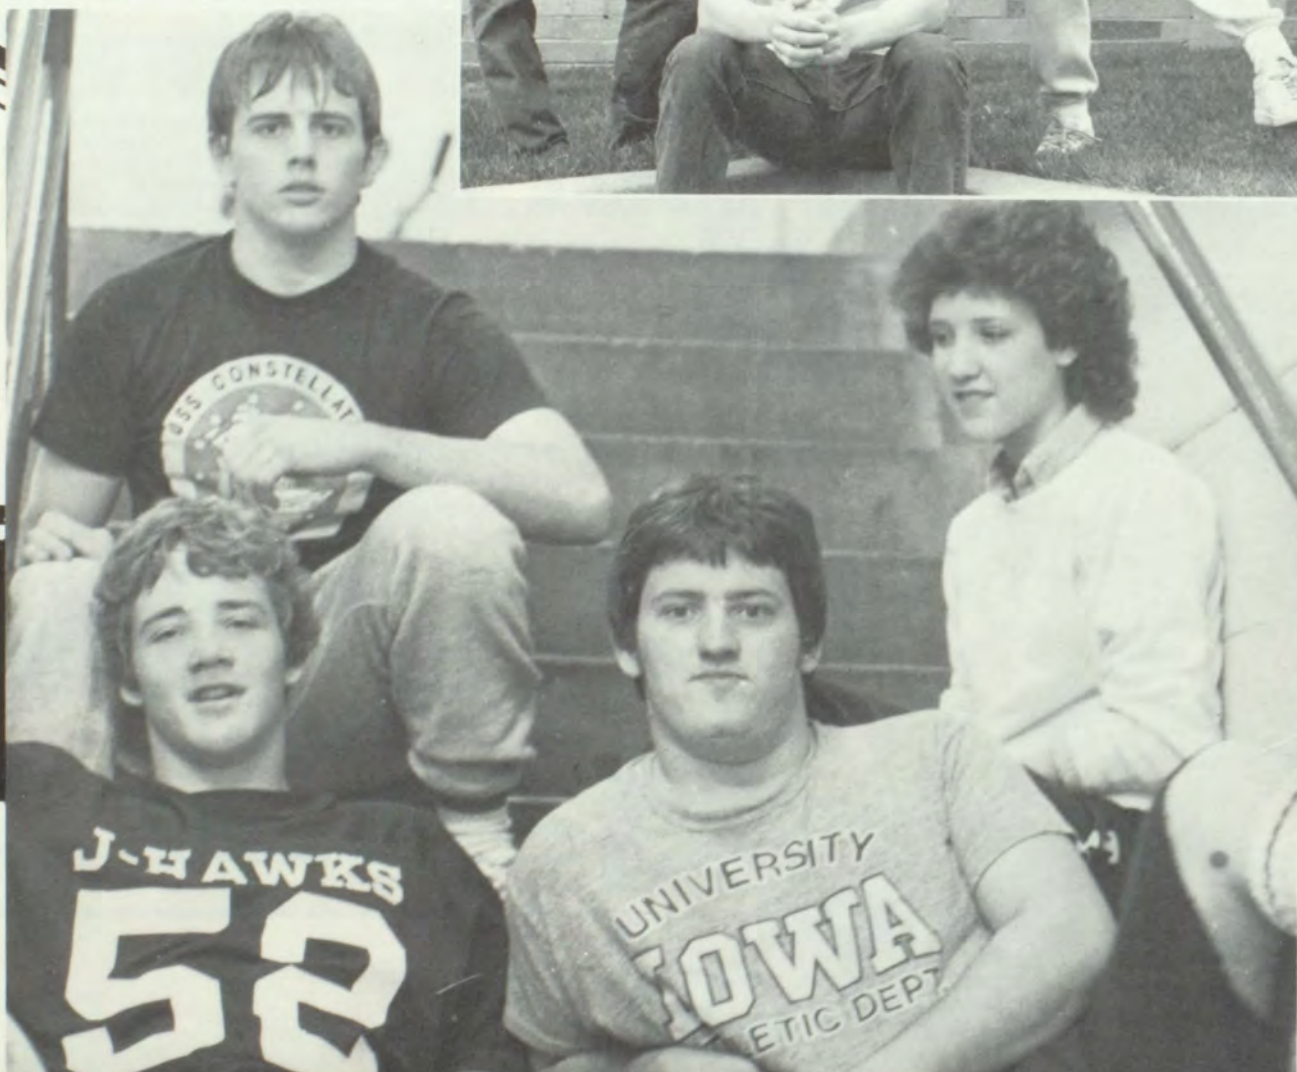

Along with the warm weather was the coming of new spring fashions. Embarrassment is no longer the price paid for jeans that linger above the ankles. Capri pants are in! And how about those high heeled pumps from cousin Ethel's wedding? Dig them out and feel an instant wave of fashion acceptance!

The more subtle fashions remained from the previous year.

This quartet models the casual look found frequently in the hallways at Jefferson.

Some common attire found in gym class in spring are jerseys, T-shirts, and the ever popular sweat pants.

FASHIONS

While glancing through a well-known fashion magazine, senior Laura Mullin sports a popular look.

Upon arriving at the senior prom, these formally attired couples stop to display their dressy outfits.

Dressing up to attend school on a spring day is junior Angie Crumes, attired in white from head to toe.

From the classroom to the ski slopes, many different styles of clothing are worn by these guys.

Among the many styles of clothing found at Jefferson, argyle sweaters, vests, and pin-striped jeans are a frequent sight.

Events at Jeff

School events offer J-Hawks a chance to relax and have fun while also breaking the monotony of the school year. At the various events scheduled throughout the year, students sat back and enjoyed West Side and Concert Choir performances, fired up at sporting events, and danced the night away at mixers and dances.

The performing arts were a main attraction for both students and faculty. A full auditorium was common during appearances by the highly ranked West Side Delegation. Plays and musicals were also crowd pleasers for all ages.

For the sports fans there were endless chances to show your J-Hawk spirit for your favorite team. All sports, from football to track, were greatly supported, which led to many victories.

Another good way to get away from it all were the mixers and dances. Not even the breathalyzer kept students from living it up and having fun together!

Angie Pedersen

Dancing to the beat, seniors Greg Current and Becky Conway attend a T&I mixer.

After a soccer game against Iowa City West, junior Rod Fiser is interviewed by sportscaster Pete Seyfer.

Mixers are a great time to be with your friends, and it was no exception for these spirited juniors.

Looking back

The 1983-84 school year is now history, and many things will be remembered along with our memories of school.

One of these is the popularity of Michael Jackson and his music. Girls all over the world dreamed of seeing him in person.

The phrase, "Where's the beef?" originated from a commercial for Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers. Clara Peller was the actress who made that line famous.

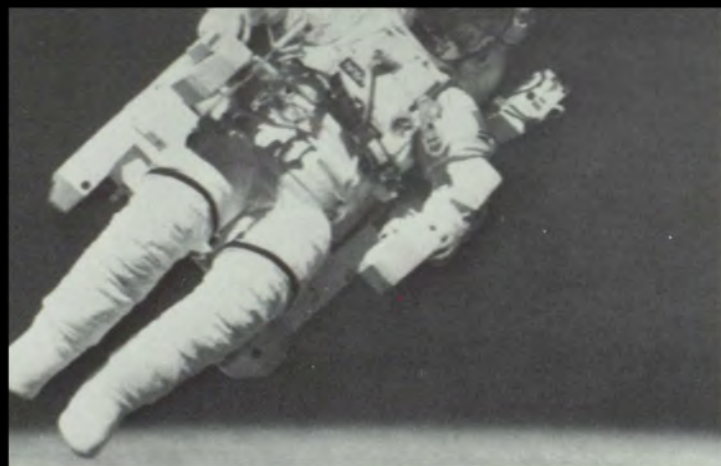

Another entertainer in the spotlight was Boy George, of the rock group Culture Club.

There was a first at Jefferson too. Junior Tina Fritz requested to play on the boys' soccer team. That was denied, but a girls' team was originated and for the first time girls played soccer.

It was also an election year, in which Fritz Mondale, Gary Hart, and Jesse Jackson all competed for the right to run against President Reagan.

This year also claimed the life of Yuri Andropov, the leader of the Soviet Union.

Bill Cruise.

Among the year's newsmakers are: 1) Michael Jackson 2) Tina Fritz 3) Boy George of Culture Club 4) Bruce McCandless in the human satellite 5) Fritz Mondale, Gary Hart, and Jesse Jackson 6) Clara Peller from the Wendy's commercials 7) Yuri Andropov, the late Soviet Leader.

Popping a roll of film into her camera, senior Barb Benford preps to cover a home football game for the yearbook.

Students in the newly organized International Club discuss items to sell to help raise money.

Clubs

Getting involved at Jefferson can really make a difference in a student's attitude. Most J-Hawks took the time to get involved by joining a club. Clubs also offer students a chance to find out their interests and meet new people at the same time.

The journalism clubs, Outlook and Statesman, let students try their hand at various tasks of putting a publication together. Office Education gives students a sense of responsibility by letting girls work at a job for credit outside of class.

Pep Club allows the spirited students to show it! Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Senates are voluntary clubs that raise money for each class's treasury, which is used for prom expenses and to buy a class gift.

Sixty produce yearbook

While typing a copy block for the yearbook, editor Jodi Sickels pauses to select the right word.

At a tennis match, photographer Jeff Butterfield concentrates on getting a good shot of the action.

Designing layouts, writing copy, and a lot of hard work was the foundation to making the 1984 Statesman successful.

With a staff of sixty, Mr. Ron Smrha, advisor, taught with style. His off-the-wall humor and rare, unusual classroom decor kept the staff on its feet.

Keeping a tab on all the upcoming events is the duty of every photographer. Without them, this Statesman would not have been completed on time.

Co-editors Jodi Dauenbaugh and Jodi Sickels joined together to lead the Statesman staff through eight deadlines.

Everyone's efforts have made this the best Statesman ever, noted Mr. Smrha. "I hope the student body enjoys it."

Staffs write

Enter the land of newspaper publication and you enter the land of story writing, tooling lines, interviews, features, sticky rubber cement fingers, opinions, late nights, paste-up, headlines, and Grrr—Smurfs—!

Journalism lab, more simply known as the newspaper staff, under the supervision of Ron "Smurf" Smrha, gave talented J-Hawk students each term an outlet for their creative efforts.

Positions held by staff members ranged from editor-in-chief to staff photographers to reporters. Students on the staff were responsible for publishing and distributing nine issues of the All-American newspaper.

Honor earned

Being chosen for membership in the National Honor Society is something that every junior and senior has a chance to achieve. This year Jefferson's Aristotelian Chapter inducted 29 senior and 30 junior members.

The 28 members from last year hosted the induction ceremony which was held April 26. Superintendent of schools, Dr. Harold Guthrie, was the guest speaker and senior Karla Davis provided music accompanied by Kyle Linscheid.

The new members were sworn in and filed up on stage to receive membership cards and pins from Jill Heese and Michele McNeal. Escorts were Doug Ramsey and Vicky Jacobs for the seniors and Karen Fifield and Mark Kaschmitter for the juniors. Other old members contributing to the ceremony included Lisa Hemesath, Don Bronsema, Keith Olson, Sarah Elmshaeuser, Nancy Boelter, Steve Hanshaw, Nancy Chihak, Steve Beer, and Dr. William C. Jacobson, principal.

To be considered for Honor Society a student is evaluated on four qualities: character, service, scholarship, and leadership.

Council aids class spirit

The Student Council was kept busy this year with planning such activities as Homecoming, WPA, pep assemblies, and a leadership breakfast. They were also involved in a food drive in which the food was donated to a needy family at Christmas.

"J-Hawk of the Day" was originated this year by the Student Council. Teachers nominated students whose names then flashed on the data board, as "J-Hawk of the Day."

Student Council also plays a big role in promoting school spirit through such things as spirit weeks and having the pep stick at assemblies.

"I like Student Council because I can get involved in school activities," commented senior Kelli Eggers.

Junior Jenny Stewart revealed she enjoys Council because she is able to be a part of starting new projects around the school.

The Student Council has been very successful in its many activities throughout the school year. Without the Council the students would not benefit from the variety of social events.

Senates work

The class gift, prom, raising money, and having meetings—what do all these things remind you of? Why, of course, the Senates. Whether it was planning a fund-raising event, thinking of ideas, selling garters, or decorating for prom, no matter what, members were always busy. The seniors finished their fund-raising by selling suncatchers at Christmas. The junior's major fund-raiser was selling cheese and sausage, while sophomores were busy selling gift wrap.

Senior Senate members worked hard on their prom. Decorations had to be ordered, tickets needed to be sold, and a band was hired. Of course, all these tasks were accomplished in time. Anyone can see being involved in Senate is a lot of work, but it's very rewarding, noted Jodi Dauenbaugh, Senior Senate president.

Helping his class raise funds, sophomore Larry Langer sells a pizza raffle ticket to Randy Meier.

Team helpers

Pep Club, Timers, and Mat Maids interest students who are willing to devote extra time to help athletes and their sports. Getting involved with one of these groups meant putting in extra time, usually after school.

Pep Club is a school sponsored organization intended to raise enthusiasm throughout the student body, fire-up athletes for an upcoming game, or help out at an athletic event. Members were expected to meet every Wednesday morning to discuss events and to plan what they could do to make more students get involved with activities.

Pep Club President Barb Benford remarked, "We decorated lockers, held breakfasts, and had pep pals for the athletes this year."

Where would the swimming teams be without Timers? These girls helped at home meets by clocking events, holding the recall rope, and running the entry cards. They helped both swim teams run their meets more smoothly.

Running the scoreboard, recording statistics, and helping out the coach kept the Mat Maids busy throughout the wrestling season.

During the '83-'84 season of sports, these supportive groups did a lot of special things to show the athletes how much they were appreciated.

Assisting the timers, Coach Carolyn Taylor gives advice to Terri Moser and Theresa Carlson.

Students hold jobs

Having the opportunity to receive experience at jobs is very valuable. Preparing seniors for the business world is the main goal of Trade and Industry. This class can provide a job for students in a field that especially interests them.

The students learn about requirements and responsibilities of the working world.

Distributive Education is a cooperative vocational education program designed to prepare students for entry level career positions in marketing and distribution.

The students are given experience by classroom instruction, on the job training, and DECA activities.

"We take a lot of field trips to area businesses to see the type of work they do. We have area businessmen come to talk to us about their work," commented Greg Kuhlman, Trade and Industry member. "I think Trade and Industry is a worthwhile class and it should be required for all seniors."

"In Distributive Education we get a lot of experience in the field of marketing and distribution. Since we get our jobs through D.E., we get experience for later years," commented Lisa Jahncke, a member of D.E.

"People come in to talk to us about their field of work. We meet a lot of people in class and on the job. We're like a big family," added Tina Carney, also a member of D.E.

Trade and Industry and Distributive Education help to build better futures in a particular field of work in which students are interested, not to mention the valuable learning experience that is also provided.

Groups learn

Finding a good job is tough these days, and it's especially hard for teenagers with little or no experience. However, all is not lost for the ambitious student, thanks to the several business classes offered at Jefferson.

Data Processing is a class that deals mainly with the handling of information. Throughout the term, students work with various business machines while increasing their knowledge of office occupations. Anyone taking the class next year can look forward to working with microcomputers and learning data entry skills.

Miss Loraine Bomkamp, instructor, has had some trouble in helping students find jobs due to the economy, but there have been jobs found at places like Iowa National, C.R. Bookkeeping, and Target.

Office Education is another business class at Jefferson that gives students the chance to learn office skills. OE student Karmen Honzik received her job at Torrence Electric by an instructor's recommendation. At her job she uses many of the skills she learned in OE. When asked what she thought of the OE program, she stated, "It's a good way to start students' careers."

Assistants help teachers

Students don't realize the many tasks assistants really do. Take for instance media assistants. Some of the things they do include running notices for overdue books, pulling cards from the card catalog, making sure the book shelves are in order for the students, so they can find books without too much trouble.

Assistants learn a lot from working in the library. For example, where all the class rooms are located. Another job media assistants do is keep the magazine rack filled with up-to-date magazines. "We couldn't get along without them," stated Mrs. Sharon Miller, head librarian, referring to the help she gets from the media aids.

Two other groups also help teachers and office secretaries. First, lab assistants do a lot to help science teachers. They set up and take down science labs for students. They also record papers and do a variety of odd jobs for science teachers.

Office assistants give their time by helping the secretaries. They primarily run passes and pick up attendance slips.

Sports

J-Hawks displayed an effort this year that made us proud of our sports tradition of excellence.

Girls' swimming put forth an all out effort and went to state. Girls' basketball had a good season, along with volleyball. Boys' swimming went to state and the wrestlers, under new head coach Dick Briggs, experienced a reputable season.

It's not necessarily if you win or lose, it's how you played the game. The individual improvement of each team member helped to build a better team overall. Next year's athletes will be better prepared because of this year's efforts.

This concentration on individual effort has made us a better group of athletes. From experiences learned at games and meets, J-Hawks know that good sportsmanship is a must! Once again J-Hawks did soar in '84.

That's spirit!

As the school year began, the four fall cheerleading squads started off with a new look when physical education teacher Miss Sandee Walton took over Mrs. Beulah Lanes' position as sponsor. Mrs. Lane chose to step down.

In order for the cheerleaders to present a more positive image, some new guidelines were established. One, each girl must be a model student. Two, she must act like a young lady at all times, whether she's in or out of her uniform, and lastly, Miss Walton commented that she must be a good school citizen.

According to Diane Rasmussen, being a cheerleader gave her the chance to help support the various teams and do her part to help promote school spirit.

"A cheerleader's life can be very exciting and fun, but there is also much work to be done."

Pride shines

Coach Bill Calloway's face dripped of sweat as the opening of the J-Hawks first ever football camp arrived. The turnout was a success as the J-Hawk pre-season raced off to a good start. The first day of practice had arrived all too soon. The long, hot, two-a-day practices wore out the hopeful players. Intensity mounted as the first game drew nearer. At the first pep assembly, students united to support the team.

Both fans and players showed enthusiasm as the J-Hawks battled the Trojans. The season was less than expected, but the players still held their pride. There were ten returning lettermen to Calloway's fighting fleet.

Juniors made up a large part of the team. The combination of seniors and juniors made no difference on the field, for everyone felt the cohesiveness. Although the juniors needed the leadership from some of the more experienced seniors, the seniors needed skill and support from the juniors.

Coach Calloway had a rough season at the helm. No one expected the J-Hawks to finish 1-7. Even though the team didn't do so well as a whole, there were some individuals who shined and received honors. Probably the most memorable player this year would be Bob Driscoll for receiving all-state, all-conference, and all-metro honors for an outstanding year in football.

Gridders improve as season closes

Jeff's sophomore football team started off slow but finished with style. They won three out of their last four games, to improve their record to 3 wins against 6 losses.

New sophomore Coach John O'Dell replaced Coach Fran Moe who moved up to the varsity squad. The team gelled very well at the end of the season, and should help out the varsity next year.

Highlight for the year was the win over cross town rival Kennedy. The season was deemed successful as many players expect to try out for the varsity or junior varsity squads next fall.

Coach O'Dell plans to return next year and hopefully lead his team to the conference championship. As for the next year's outlook? Hopefully, they will surprise many teams.

No stopping us now

"There's no stopping us now" was a slogan the 1983 Jefferson girls' volleyball team adopted in the middle of their season. This developed from a slow start for the team. But when they had a big long talk, T.N.S.U.N. started to affect the team's playing and enthusiasm for winning. The team advanced to finals in the regional meet where their opposition was Kennedy High School. Unfortunately the team lost, being only one game away from the state tournament.

Helping the team along this year were returning letter winners Erin Casey, Denise Horak, Shelly Hendrickson, and Lori Forrest, who was named to the seventh all-state team. Head coach John Weld stated, "I feel this year's team was a better team than the year before."

Teamwork and a lot of dedication were put into the 1983 season which ended with a 17-12 match record.

Sophs finish great season

Hard work was the key to success for the sophomore girls' volleyball team. The team excelled in bumping, setting, and spiking.

The volleyball season started out on a winning note. The team won the Metro tournament for the first time ever. They also repeated and won the sophomore invitational for the third time in four years. They wrapped up their season with an impressive 15-2-2 match record.

As summed up by a more than proud Coach, Mr. Jim Cox stated, "In many ways I considered the season to be one of our most successful yet, at the sophomore level. Most noticeable among the team's achievements was winning 15 matches, which is more than any sophomore team has won in the school's history."

The entire team was credited for the success while a few received honors. Lisa Sonka was named most outstanding, and Amy Bowen was named serving champion.

Bang! The J-Hawks were off to another great season. Coached by Jim Taylor, his wife, and Les Santee, the girls had their second best season ever. Breaking school records were J. Meier, K. Freshour, K. VanCleve, and J. Tauber in the 200 yd. medley relay; K. Freshour in the 200 yd. I.M.; J. Meier in the 100 yd. backstroke; and C. Simmons in diving for eleven dives.

After winning the J-Hawk Relays for the first time in '82, the girls renewed the championship by tying with Iowa City West.

At the district meet the J-Hawks finished second after Wash. Chris Simmons stated, "At first I was scared about making it to state, but I started to think about first place at districts, and it happened." Chris was the only first place winner.

Jefferson sent seven girls to state this year and they finished twelfth all around as a team.

The girls swim banquet was held November 15. Awards were given to J. Meier for hardest worker, J. Tauber for captain, K. Freshour for MVP, and K. Blackwell and C. Simmons for most improved. Kathi

With thoughts of previous races, the JV runners await the firing of the gun to start the race against Dubuque Hempstead.

At the races

With the summer coming to an end and the beginning of a new school year on the horizon, many students were spending their last free days in the summer sun. That is, except for a certain number of students on the boys' and girls' cross country teams. While most students were going to the beach and having fun one last time, these J-Hawks were beginning to prepare for the upcoming season.

Although some of the runners ran throughout the summer, others didn't. Whether they ran in the summer or not, the runners knew if they were in shape as they heard the gun go off and they competed in their very first meet of the year.

Junior Nancy Greiner stated, "I was really scared to run in our first meet, but after competing in a couple of meets, it got easier."

Although the girls' cross country team was young and inexperienced, they finished the season better than expected. The team was led by senior Mary Sedlacek and junior Janis Seaton.

The team should do well next year with the experience they gained as they are only losing three runners to graduation. The highlight of the season for the J-Hawks came at districts as Sedlacek placed 10th while the team finished 9th. "Although we had fun, it took a lot of hard work and dedication," said senior Debi Dostal.

Unlike the girls, an experienced boys' team fared a little better in their season. The boys were led by senior Rob Delp and junior Dave McVay. At districts their top finisher was McVay in 9th place as the team finished with a 10th place showing. The boys, like the girls, lost 3 runners to graduation.

Coach R.J. Noonan commented on the season, "Cross country for men in 1983 was a very inspiring experience for the coach and the team members. The team was predominately made up of young men, with almost all of them returning to next year's team."

Raise morale

Despite many weather complications when the winter cheerleading season opened, the girls stuck together and showed their true J-Hawk pride.

From trampling through those five foot snow drifts to cautiously driving on several inches of ice, extra efforts had to be made to cheer at events during December's blustery weather.

From practicing their routines and jumps, to selling candy and decorating the team members lockers, a cheerleader's day was never done.

"When a game comes around, you'll find us leading the crowd in chants and cheers to get the athletes fired-up to lead them on to a victory," remarked Geri McClure, boys' swimming cheerleader.

Being a cheerleader is not all the glamour it's cracked up to be. There are many responsibilities and expectations one must live up to before you can qualify to be a cheerleader. "One, she must be a model student. Two, she must act as a young lady at all times, whether she is in or out of her uniform," commented Miss Sandee Walton, advisor. "Lastly, she must be a good citizen."

Boys' basketball cheerleader, Laura Mullin, summed it up by saying, "I liked our squad a lot. We worked great together and it was fun! I'm sad to see it all end."

Girls toughen up

Many J-Hawk fans predicted 1984 to be a rebuilding year for the girls' varsity basketball team. From last year's 25-1 squad, four of the six starters graduated, leaving quite a gap to fill this season.

Mr. Larry Niemeyer, head coach, admitted that much of the offensive strategy had to be changed. "Last year we had a girl who could score around 60 points a ball game, but this year we had a little more balanced scoring. We didn't have a dominant player, so we had to count on three people to do the job." Starting forwards on the team were seniors Lori Forrest and Denise Horak, and junior Amy Homan.

Unfortunately, the team was continually plagued by injuries. Sophomore Robin Becker was a starting forward before being sidelined with a knee injury. Also out with a knee injury was senior Mary Sedlacek. These injuries made other players shift positions to make up for the loss. "When you lose two out of your first seven kids, that hurts," stated Mr. Niemeyer.

Even so, no excuses were made for the losses. "We made crucial mistakes at crucial times, and we could've very easily won four or five more games."

Junior Amy Homan commented on how she felt about the season. "I really think we had a better team than what the record shows. We worked hard, but we just didn't win the close ones. I don't see this season as disappointing, it'll just be an incentive to improve next year."

The team finished the season with a 10-12 record, 6-8 in the MVC.

Go team

After lots of hard work and dedication, the sophomore girls' basketball team ended its season with a 6-8 record in Mississippi Valley Conference action.

Good sportsmanship, combined with patience, played a big part in developing good attitudes. Valuable experience was gained which should hope to produce a winning squad next year.

Sophomore Lisa Sonka stated, "The season started out really slow but toward the end of the season things turned around and we started doing better."

The team could not have succeeded without the support and knowledge they received from head coach Mark Stewart, along with the hard work and effort the team put forth.

Boys fall short

The varsity boys' basketball team ended its season with a record of 6-14, but the record could have easily turned out 11-9. They had five disappointing losses of five points or less, not to mention the many other hard-fought games. The J-Hawk fans were never deprived of a good basketball game.

Senior starter and honorable mention all-stater Bob Driscoll reflected this in saying, "The season was very worthwhile despite our record because almost every game was played down to the wire. Regardless of the outcome, the crowds were always enthusiastic."

Other team members earning starting positions throughout the season included senior Doug Ramsey, and juniors Rob Kitterman, Scott Gull, Jim Lockett, and Bernard Dutchik. Driscoll was also a first team all-conference player, and Ramsey earned honorable mention. At the end of the season the team voted on special awards. Those receiving recognition included: Doug Ramsey—most improved; Scott Gull—best defensive player; Bob Driscoll—most valuable player; and Keith Olsen—spirit award.

Coach Glenn Smith summed up everyone's feelings about the season when he commented, "The competition in the Metro area and MVC was the best ever. In spite of our record, the season had many successes because of the types of people on the team."

Boys try hard

Under the authority of new head coach Joe Benedict, the sophomore team experienced a disappointing season. Finishing with a record of 4 wins and 14 losses, the team ended up 8th in the conference with a 3-11 record.

Mike Ivester, 6'6", along with 6'4" Matt Wall, provided the team with height and should give the varsity an advantage next year, noted Coach Benedict.

The year was not all that disappointing, however, as the team was very thrilled to play in the Five Seasons Civic Center.

The leading scorer for the team was Jason Miller and the leading rebounder was Jason Hunt. The assists leader for the team was Jim Welsh.

"We had the talent, but we just couldn't put it all together as a team," commented Coach Benedict.

Outlook for next year? The team should add height and quickness to the varsity squad next year. Experience was gained and should hopefully help to produce a winning squad next year.

The junior-varsity record was much the same as for the varsity and sophomore teams. They just couldn't produce a winning record. "Although the junior-varsity team did not have a winning season, they gained a lot of experience for next year," commented junior-varsity coach Joe Kenney.

The squad experienced a 3-8 season. Their wins came over LaSalle, Linn-Mar, and Marion.

The junior-varsity letter winners were Tom Brown, Phil Hansen, Kevin Nanke, Sean Benson, and Jim Albright. There were others who saw action on the junior-varsity squad, but these five guys played the most.

These athletes, along with the returning lettermen from the varsity, should produce a winning season next year.

The boys' swim team finished its season with the best showing at state since 1977. Eight swimmers and one diver qualified for the state meet with hopes of attaining a better team finish over the previous year. Finishing 11th at state in the 400 free relay, Dwayne Thompson, Mike Achey, Chris Schoentag, and Jamie Arntzen set a new school record for this event.

Many goals were reached including: sophomore Chris Schoentag dropped 18 seconds to break the school record in the 500 free, the sophs captured the Valley title, and the J-Hawks placed 20th at the state meet.

Earning awards for the season were Chris Schoentag—hardest worker and most valuable; Todd Dalecky—most improved; and Dwayne Thompson—captain.

The season ended with a record of 7 wins to 3 losses which pleased Coach Taylor. "I was happy with this season's accomplishments," Coach Taylor added. The improvement in individual performances and the team's overall record depended on experience, hard work, and how well the seniors took on the responsibilities of the team.

Team at work

The 1983-84 varsity wrestling season is back on the winning track due to a lot of hard work, determination, and the help of new head coach, Dick Briggs. Coming to Jefferson from Washington was a big step for Coach Briggs, a former J-Hawk wrestler. He was impressed with the quality of wrestlers here, and is optimistic about the future.

At the All-Conference meet the J-Hawk team placed a successful third. Junior Kelly Mihal (105) earned the only first team honors for Jefferson. However, four J-Hawks did receive second team honors. They were Brian Bos (145), Jeff Knox (155), Darrell Long (167), and Mike Knox (185). Third team honors went to senior Jon Wirth (Hwt).

Eight well earned awards went to eleven wrestlers for their tremendous efforts: Captain and Hustler Award to Jeff Knox; Pinner, Takedown Champion, and Most Valuable Award, to Kelly Mihal; Most Improved Wrestlers to Dan Denlinger and Darrell Long; Russ Daniels Team Man Award to Rick Berg; and Guts Club to Brian Bos, Rod Fiser, and Mike White. Seniors Jeff Knox and Dan Denlinger were the only state qualifiers.

Matmen win seven

When looking at the 1983-84 sophomore team one can only think of a promising future for J-Hawk wrestling. Their successful 7-1 record and dual championship with Iowa City West at M.V.C. is proof of their quality season. Coach Jim Cox described them as, "The best sophomore team in ten years in terms of their achievements and personal character."

One of the highpoints of the season was the S.E. Polk tournament. The J-Hawks made finals, capturing 11 medals. Most Improved Sophomores were Paul Arthurs and Mike Henle. Outstanding Sophomores were Mark Hartman and Dean Spicer.

The junior-varsity team also had a winning season with a record of 7-4. The J.V. squad included John Anderson, Kevin Bowden, Scott Cook, Rod Fiser, Jeff Garman, and Chris Watson. Coach John Hegarty commented, "They're a fun, hard-working group, of which I'm proud to be a part."

Striving to win

The 1984 girls' gymnastics team worked hard to improve over last year's record of 0-9. Their task was realized with the help of a new head coach, Rhonda Frye. The improved team finished with a 2-8 record.

Many of the J-Hawk gymnasts have had previous experience with the graceful yet difficult sport by participating in local gym organizations. This experience had a great influence on the overall success of the season.

Coach Rhonda Frye enjoyed both her first year at Jefferson and working with the girls as a team. One highlight of the season was freshman Julie Miller's high placing at sectionals and making it to regionals. With the dedicated team effort, the future looks promising for J-Hawk girls' gymnastics.

The boys' soccer team also worked hard all season. The returning lettermen aided in the experience of the team, which was coached by Sean Shanahan. The season will be remembered for the controversial game, in which the J-Hawk team was ordered off the field by school board directors when opponent Iowa City West put in a girl player. The act led to the organization of a girls' soccer team, a first for Jefferson sports.

Hard work

Some signs of spring . . . warm weather, sunshine, flowers, budding trees, and of course, the boys' J-Hawk track team.

The team started out fresh this season with four dependable seniors to lead the upcoming sophomore and junior squads. "I am very pleased with the efforts of our seniors, Roger Cassill, Rob Delp, Bob Driscoll, and John Waddilove. These four were dependable and they put forth fine efforts and set good examples for the underclassmen, who found themselves in varsity roles this year," stated head coach Ron Schirm. Mr. Schirm also noted that a dependable nucleus of at least a dozen seniors makes up a successful league, which was evident this spring season. He emphasized that adequate senior leadership is essential.

Not only did seniors show leadership, so did several underclassmen. One person who ran well was junior Dave McVay. Dave was recognized as Most Improved and Top Junior. He ran long distance. Another junior was Blake Wilkinson, who earned a fifth place medal in the 400 low hurdles at the Drake Relays in Des Moines.

With the help and hard work of an entire squad, a successful season is bound to happen. The boys' track team is an example of hard work and showing the true J-Hawk spirit!

Runners have winning ways

The year comes to an end and the girls' track team finds itself bidding good-bye to this year's seniors.

The season started out differently for the J-Hawk girls. Mr. Bill Calloway joined the team as the coach for the sprinters. When asked what he felt the high point of the season was for him, he replied, "When the majority of the sprinters on the team learned their work and dedication became worthwhile."

The goals for this year's team were the same as last year's, to win the district meet and MVC, and place in the top five at the state meet. The team's hard work paid off with victories at the district and MVC meets.

The J-Hawk girls qualified nine girls for the state meet. Bad weather made competing tough, but the 800 meter relay still placed third.

But now as the seniors leave, the juniors and sophomores look forward to next year when they can continue their winning ways.

With determination and concentration, Tina Ilten, junior, works to perfect her backhand.

Junior Tim Gearhart readies himself to hit a backhand, while junior Wayne Jandik hits a forehand.

Both teams excel

Due to cold weather and snow, getting onto the courts immediately was impossible, so both tennis teams were forced to practice inside the gym. Soon warm weather arrived and the girls and boys teams were out on the courts, ready to play challenge matches.

Dawn Crumes, Denise Horak, Michelle McNeal, and Bridget Stastny were the four returning letter winners this year. Dawn Crumes stated, "If I had to name one outstanding player it would be the whole team. Everyone played exceptionally well." The girls' team ended up with a season record of 3-8.

The boys' tennis team was lacking experience with only two returning lettermen, Steed Smith and Wayne Jandik. A lot was expected from head coach Ron Capps and from the boys themselves. The team ended up with a season record of 3-9.

Focusing his eyes, junior Mark Cutler takes a swing and hopes he hits the ball.

Coed golfers in the swing

The boys' golf team consisted mostly of juniors and sophomores, with only one senior, Curt Brown. The team ended up fourth in the Metro Tournament and eighth at the Conference Tournament. "If we wouldn't choke so much, we could have won more meets," commented Mark Cutler, junior.

The team had up to twenty-five players at one time, but some of them quit during the season. That was the most that ever went out in Coach Glenn Smith's years of coaching golf. "If they play a lot of golf over the summer we should come back strong next year," predicted Coach Smith. Jefferson will say goodbye to Coach Smith next year and the administration hopes to find a new coach so there can be a golf team.

The girls' golf team didn't do too well. At the beginning of the season, there were three girls out but in the middle of the season two of them quit. With only one girl out, the team had to forfeit all the rest of its meets. New head coach Rhonda Frye will need many prospects for the '85 season, so any girl who wants to play golf is encouraged to join the team next year.

State champs defend title

Hoping to make it to state again this year, the girls' softball team started practicing for the season. The team opened up with the J-Hawk Tourney, May 24-26. In addition, the girls played in the Jack North Tourney, Jefferson Classic, and in the Adel Classic. Hopes for a victorious season never left the players' minds. Determination was an effort made by all.

Ushering in the season were nine returning letterwinners including seniors Kim Miller, Shelly Hendrickson, Erin Casey, Brenda Sanders, and juniors Tania Aschbrenner, Amy Homan, Tammy Delong, Lisa Shaver and sophomore Julie Davis.

Hoping to retain the state title again this year, senior starter Shelly Hendrickson remarked, "After we accomplish getting the players positioned right, and everyone has plenty of experience, I feel we will have another great season."

With the help of Head Coach Larry Niemeyer, and with a lot of hard work from the team, another successful season is in store for the J-Hawks.

It's a homerun!

Spring arrived and so did the J-Hawk baseball season. The season opened with the Metro Tournament on May 24 to test the strength of this 1984 team. Defeating Linn-Mar 8-2, the J-Hawks started the season with the right thought in mind. Placing second in the Metro Tournament, the J-Hawks looked forward to the rest of the season's games.

"I think we will finish better than last year overall. We should have a solid infield and play well as a team," remarked senior Marty Pearson.

The starting line-up consisted of 6 seniors and 3 juniors, which proved to be the winning combination the team needed. Seniors Dan Duffy, Keith Olson, Marty Pearson, Trent Kibby, Paul Donnan, and Mark Wise provided a strong, experienced field to bolster the J-Hawk power.

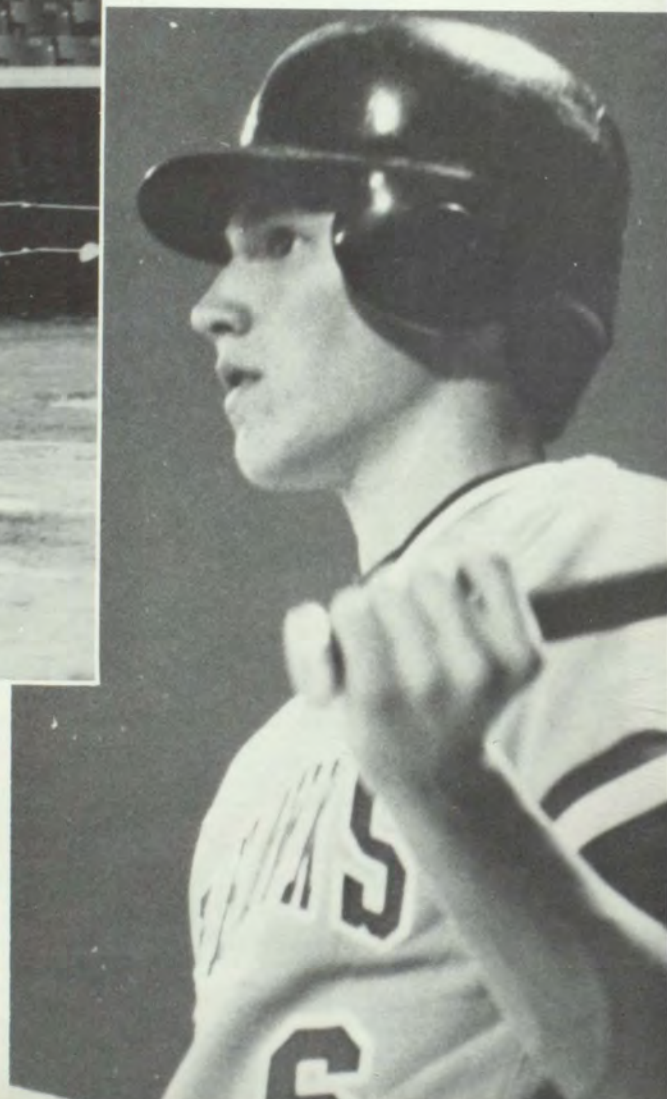

Playing well over 30 games, the J-Hawk baseball players sacrificed most of their spare time this summer for practices and working to fulfill the number one reputation.

Studies

When we say "J-Hawks soar in 84" we mean it! Living up to a reputation of trying harder and always striving to improve grades was a repeated effort this year.

Encouragement from faculty and administration helped our attitude of wanting to improve. The J-Hawk Winners Club, which was initiated by Dr. Jacobson, encouraged students to work harder and to improve their grade point.

Teachers also seemed to review information more instead of hoping we learned it in just one lesson. This was done to make sure the students remembered the information.

It seemed students and teachers were more willing to help one another this year. If a teacher shows they care, the students will reciprocate. This team effort proved to be most successful in our quest to learn.

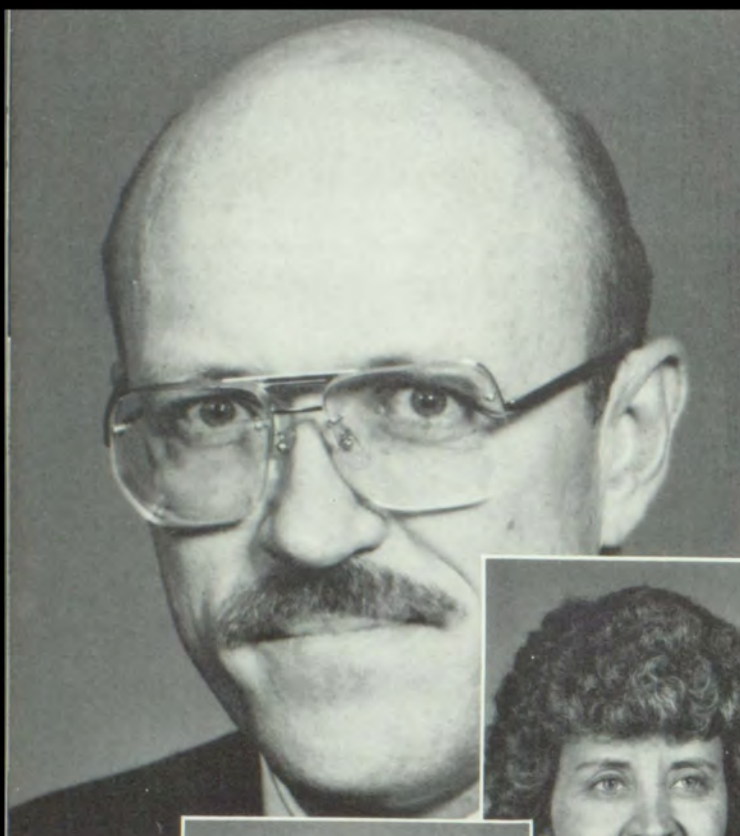

Miss Barb Maitland reacts to a humorous statement during her French class.

At the start of his Distributive Education class, Mr. Kent LaVelle checks to make sure everyone is present.

Duties continue

Believe it or not, the teachers at Jefferson don't solely live for the gratification of educating their young, but ever so wise students. Sure they spend their days enlightening us, but they spend their nights, weekends, and summers doing what they like best.

Some spend their time coaching athletes, and others have their own special and unique hobbies. Each member of the staff uses his time to his best advantage . . . whether it be watching television, reading, cooking, or just spending time with their family.

Mr. Larry Nolting, driver's education teacher, spends his falls coaching girls' cross country, his winters as assistant coach for boys' swimming, and his springs coaching girls' track. Although this takes up a lot of his time, he still finds time to read and ride his motorcycle.

Mr. Dick Briggs, physical education teacher, enjoys sky diving. He's been sky diving on and off for the past eight years, with only one minor injury, a slightly sprained ankle on his second jump. Mr. Briggs also actively snow skis, water skis, and jogs.

But one of his favorite past times is coaching wrestling. When asked if he enjoys coaching wrestling, he replied, "Oh, I love it. That's what I look forward to every year, every day."

The next time you look at one of your teachers as being placed on this planet for the sole purpose of giving you home work, think twice.

Dressed as Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Robert Geuder announces class and Student Council officers at a fall pep assembly.

Coach Fran Moe gives his advice and comments to a huddled group of varsity football players.

Dressed alike, sophomore Ethel Brown and Mr. Jim Taylor strike a cheerful pose in the lunchroom.

Showing a tremendous amount of spirit as a cheerleader, Mrs. Beulah Lane gets the crowd going at an assembly.

Coach John Weld settles back to listen to music on an away bus trip with the volleyball team.

During a class discussion, Miss Barb Maitland reveals her humorous side to her French students.

Graduation 'musts'

"Hey Diane, how many credits do you have left to take?"

"Well, Lisa, I only need 10 more required credits in my favorite science department."

Required classes take up most of a student's time at Jefferson. Required classes are those in the language arts, science, social studies, math, and physical education departments. Senior Diane Rasmussen stated, "I feel that the graduation requirements are really pretty fair. We are learning enough in required classes and yet we have a chance to take a variety of electives too."

To graduate, a student must have 202.5 credits. For the '84 seniors, 107.5 required credits are needed, whereas the juniors and sophomores need 112.5 hours of required credits. They must have an additional 5.0 credit hours in the social studies department. Junior Nancy Greiner stated, "I really think we should have to take 25.0 credit hours of social studies just like the seniors, but I guess it will do me good later on."

A new regulation made this year by the school board was that the sophomores had to stay until 3 p.m. every day. This rule was made to give sophomores more opportunity to better their education by taking more classes. The classes following the '86 sophomores will also be required to remain at school until 3.

Sophomore Lori Suchomel stated, "I don't really like staying until 3. I feel that if we can work things out, get our classes taken that we need, then we should be able to get out earlier." These changes that have been made in school requirements are the first of many on the horizon. Trudi Stuckenschneider

Taking time out from grading papers, Mr. Glenn Smith stops to answer senior Jennifer Ruiz's question.

While teaching the basics of layout design, Mr. Ron Smrha uses the tabletop to emphasize a point.

Working out in the new weight room is a healthy and demanding experience for students in required P.E.

Kim Reames carefully draws out her design for her stained glass project in art class.

Learning how to operate machinery correctly is learned in industrial arts class by Senior Marty Pearson.

Mastering the flag takes long hours of hard practice for Terri Kenward during fourth hour band class.

Electives rate highly. . .

Choices vary

"Hey Julie! What classes did ya end up with?"

"Cooking, typing, Outlook, Student Council, and gym."

"Talk about easy classes!"

"Yeh, the good old electives to the rescue!"

"But that isn't fair."

"Why not?"

"Cause all I could take were more less than exciting required classes."

"Required classes aren't dumb, Lisa. They're part of your graduation requirements!"

"Then why did you get to take all those electives?"

"Because when I was a sophomore and junior, I took all my required courses."

"I get it. So when I become a senior, I too can take all those fun courses."

"Now, slow down Lisa. I never said they were easy classes! To graduate you need 202.5 hours. Well, 97.5 of this requirement consists of elective courses you must choose to graduate. So, they are almost as important as those required."

"Oh, so electives are offered to give the students a choice pertaining to their special interests and needs?"

"I think you're finally getting the picture!"

"Yeh, so do I. Thanks a lot Julie!"

"Any time. See ya Monday Lisa." Leann Barth

During their sixth hour class, West Side members rehearse a difficult dance step for an upcoming show.

Preparing his page for the Outlook, editor-in-chief Doug Raplinger makes certain each line is positioned straight.

Office Education students Connie Coulbourn, Keri Butterfield, and Mickie Ritter visit Taylor School with gifts at Christmas time.

Junior Rene Swinder tackles writing with mittens the day the heating system malfunctioned in December.

Electives vary

Just imagine three years of required classes! Doesn't sound fun does it? That's what school would be like if there weren't any elective classes in Jefferson's curriculum.

Elective classes provide the opportunity for many students to participate and learn more about certain things that interest them. These classes are also very helpful in the selection of a future career.

The range of elective classes varies, everything from music to jewelry construction. No matter what your interests are, you are more than likely to find something that interests you.

Out of 202.5 credit hours required for graduation, 90 are devoted to elective classes. During your sophomore and junior years it seems like it will take forever to complete your required courses. But after you finally complete them your senior year, it's time to enjoy a course that appeals to you.

And finally your high school days come to an end. You look back and think of all the fun you had. It's then that you thank the administration and the staff for teaching more than just the 3 R's, Readin, Ritin, and Rithmetic.

During the advertising unit in Journalism class, Nancy Greiner completes a dummy layout paste-up.

Helping promote yearbook sales are juniors Tina Ilten, Lynette Houdek, Amy Clark, and Cheri Landis.

Known for his humorous antics, Mr. Taylor keeps his students' attention by acting out various roles in class.

Friendships are a vital part of high school. Here Terry Cameron and Nancy Boelter take time out from their studies to attend the band carnival.

Fun memories

Walking through the halls of Jefferson High School on a typical school day, an outsider may witness many interesting sights. The lunch room, student council room, lockers, and main hallways are the scene of varied happenings.

While walking through the halls one may have trouble getting around the clustered students who always find it necessary to chat in the middle of the hall so the upperclassmen find it next to impossible to get through. Next we see the lockers which contain the Pepsi and Mountain Dew cans. These pop cans, along with M&M boxes and Taco John bags, build up in the lockers until one day when the unexpectant student opens his locker, in a hurry, only to be knocked over by the year's collection of garbage. Last, but not least, we walk down toward the lunchroom only to hear the loud chatter of students. Yes, it is lunch time and students are busy feeding their faces in between lines of gossip.

These are only a few of the interesting sights here at Jefferson. To be able to experience them all, an outsider would have to stay here many days. Hardly a day ever goes by that something exciting doesn't happen around school. Every day is unique and different, but that's what keeps the students going. Trudi Stuckenschneider Fulfilling one duty of a band parent, art instructor Mr. Horton helps out at the band carnival.

Dancing to Michael Jackson's hit, junior Kelly Baker thrills the crowd at a home basketball game.

Westside's opening number, "More of the Same," is sung by senior Diane Meeks, at one of the group's many performances.

A familiar sight for senior Kyle Linscheid is a piano keyboard. He usually practices at least four hours each day.

While in their uniforms, Jan Pearson, Jennifer Sedlacek, and Janet Baldus promote band as well as J-Hawk spirit.

Amy Bowen gets "a little heavy" on the cake make-up at the band's annual carnival.

Playing the "nerd" in Westside's "Grease" medley, junior Dan Aalberts points at the audience.

Fine Arts

With new uniforms, style, and attitude, West Side Delegation proved to be one of the best show ensembles around at this year's Coe festival.

The Thespians put on four performances this year. "Rebel Without a Cause" was the fall play. Then, Children's Theater version of "Sleeping Beauty" aired in February. The winter play was "A Midsummer Night's Dream," followed by the musical, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

Also in the performing arts department, some near professional concerts were put on by members of the concert band and orchestra.

The music groups capped their year by taking a spring trip to Florida.

Retaliating in a burst of anger, tides turn as Todd Miskimen lies at the mercy of Roger Bouzek's blade.

Surging forward with another damaging blow, Todd Miskimen connects with another jab at Roger Bouzek.

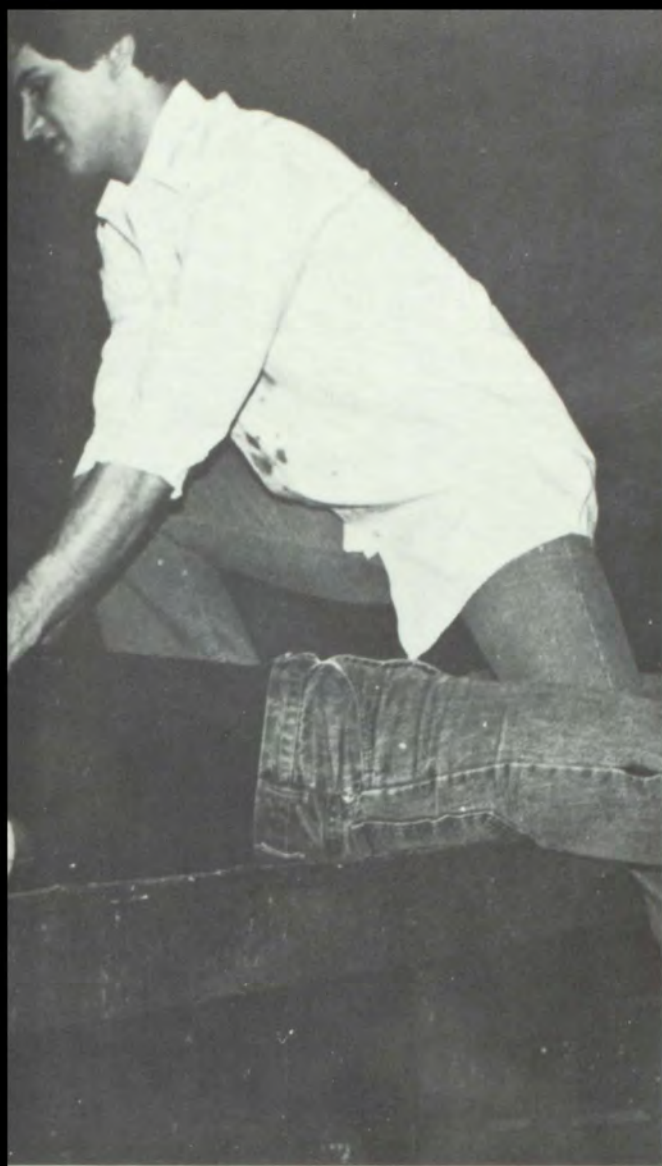

Getting a break from the bitter world, Brad Wermager, Roger Bouzek, and Michelle Mason discuss their future dreams.

Grief sweeps across the faces of onlookers as Roger says his final good-bye to his close friend, Brad Wermager.

'Rebel' is hit

Flocks of J-Hawks migrated to the little theatre in November to see the drama department's version of "Rebel Without A Cause."

The story had no set time period, yet pertained to almost any era. It followed Jim Stark, played by Roger Bouzek, through his problems with his parents, environment, and ultimately, his conflict within himself. This conflict is finally overcome when Jim Stark meets a girl named Judy Brown, portrayed by Mikki Mason, who helped him solve his problems and accept how he could fit in.

Asked what he thought of the performance, as one of the actors, Rob Edgeton stated, "I really enjoyed being in this production. It really was the kind of play most students could relate with."

Most students who saw the play will agree with Rob's opinion. This was also evidenced by the large turnout each of the three nights the play was presented, November 3-5.

Mike Boyd

Smiles arise from Steve Hanshaw, Jeff Meyer, and Jenny Sullivan after another pleasing performance.

Karla Davis is frightened by Jeff Meyer while she looks to find a magic charm in a book.

As the court sleeps, Prince Valor quietly positions himself beside the princess in anticipation of the magic moment.

Jodi Dauenbaugh kindly suggests to Debbie Haeg that her health and beauty are very important.

Standing tall and courageous, Valor listens to Treakle tell about the enchanted garden wall.

"Prince Plump is my name!" exclaims Rob Olsen as he introduces himself to Treakle.

While Hogal looks on, another prince is found by the fairies, who introduces himself as Prince Feeble.

Happy ending

And they all lived happily ever after . . . That's how the Children's Theatre performance of "Sleeping Beauty" ended, but not exactly how it all got started.

Sleeping Beauty or Rosemond's (Debbie Haeg) life changed drastically one day when a wicked fairy named Hogel (Jodi Aherns) cast an evil spell on her, proclaiming one day she would prick her finger with a sewing needle, and fall into a deep sleep.

Unfortunately, many years later, the spell came true. Fizz, the court magician (Kurt VanderWeil) swore he never would tell Rosemond about sewing needles. Accidentally Fizz bumped into Rosemond who was holding a needle, and it pricked her! Hogal's spell came true! The princess fell asleep and so did the entire kingdom.

But at last, with the help of six fairies, a prince was found. Rosemond magically awakened by the kiss of a handsome prince.

Comedy relief

"Lord what fools these mortals be!" "The course of true love never did run smooth." These immortal words, which flowed from the pen of William Shakespeare, best summarize the plot of the winter play. A strong cast and crew delighted audiences with their adaptation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" under the guiding hand of veteran director Mr. Robert Geuder. Mr. John Wojtowicz provided the technical design to perfect the setting for the March 22, 23, and 24 performances in the auditorium.

The humorous antics and slapstick farce of this comedy of confusion and mixed up love affairs, plus the hilarious consequences when a group of uneducated working men attempt to present their original play before the duke and his court, combine to produce some of the funniest moments ever put into print, noted Mr. Geuder.

The plot revolves around the deep love shared by Hermia and Lysander. Demetrius falls for Hermia which sets Helena into a rivalry with her old life time friend. At this time, Oberon, king of the fairies, sends Puck to set all things straight. During all this confusion, a small band of common folk attempt to put together a play to perform at the Duke's wedding. The tangled situation unfolds in the hilarious climax of this timeless comedy.

Bidding a final farewell to his "lover," Rob Edgeton plunges the sword of death into his heart.

Each giving his all to an original play, Kurt VanderWiel, Rob Olsen, and Rob Edgeton entertain the newlyweds.

Providing love and comfort to a transformed mortal, Titania and her fairies await their next command.

Portraying the gentle-hearted lion, Mike Vercande timidly roars as the pair of star crossed lovers look on.

Adding a dimension of grace and beauty to the production, Karen Swanson and Paul Young discuss the fate of the mortals.

Frozen with fear, Dan Aalberts attempts to carry out his part of the play before Duke Thesius.

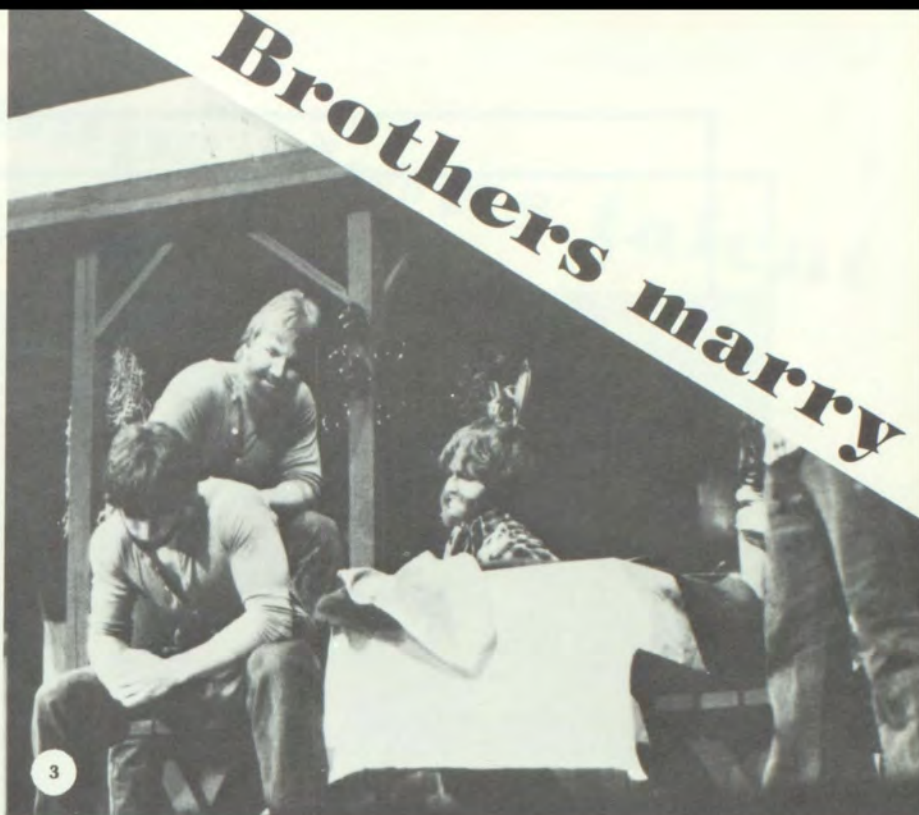

Highlights of the spring musical, which traveled to Muncie, Indiana, during the summer includes: 1) Brad Wermager and Belinda Bloor, 2) Roger Bouzek and Tim Moore, 3) Roger Bouzek, Rob Edgeton, Steve Hanshaw, 4) Brothers and Suitors, 5) Karen Swanson, 6) Cast, 7) Tim Moore, Steve Hanshaw, Dan Aalberts, 8) Brad Wermager, Joe Stahr, Belinda Bloor, 9) Brothers.

Brothers marry

In keeping with the strong 26 year tradition, the 1984 spring musical lived up to the standards set by past outstanding productions. "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" ran May 11, 12, and 18, 19.

Being one of the first non-professional groups in the country to produce "Seven Brides," Jefferson was one of five schools in the country invited to perform at the International Theatre Arts Conference in Muncie, Indiana, this summer.

The plot revolves around Adam Pontipee (Kurt VanderWiel) and his six brothers. Adam is sent to the town by his brothers to get a wife to take care of them. Adam finds Millie (Karen Swanson) and after a whirlwind courtship, she returns with Adam to find that she has seven men to care for. Millie then teaches the brothers the etiquette of "Goin' Courtin'" and sends them off to win the hand of their own special bride. After kidnapping their girls, the brothers have to "Make It Through the Winter" to finally get married in the spring.

"Act well your part; there all the honor lies." This verse serves as the motto of the International Thespian Troupe 561. Under the sponsorship of past International Director, Mr. Robert Geuder, and Mr. John Wojtowicz, Troupe 561 sponsored many activities throughout the year.

The annual Thespian open house was on September 15 and allowed the public to view what Thespians are all about. January 13 Troupe 561 sponsored a Chili Dinner Talent Show to help finance the Minneapolis trip on December 9, 10, and 11. While in Minnesota, students attended the Guthrie Theatre, Children's Theatre Company, and Channahassen Dinner Theatre. Troupe 561 also had a representative serve as the Iowa State Thespian Secretary for 1984, and Mikki Mason was elected to take over that office for the 1985 term.

In order to become eligible to join Thespians, one must work a total of 50 hours on various production crews, such as set construction, make-up, publicity, business, or costumes. To remain a member of Troupe 561, 10 hours of work per production are required, stated Troupe 561 president Steve Hanshaw.

It's show time

The 1983-84 edition of the West Side Delegation was a great success throughout the year. Under the first year direction of Mr. Pete Eklund, the thirty-eight member group made many appearances. Performances ranged from shows at junior high schools to the annual Dollars for Scholars concert held at the Paramount Theatre.

Starting off the year with many changes from past years, the group was well liked by all ages of audiences. Outfits worn by the group took on a more formal look, and choreography was changed to a jazz style.

Twenty-five years of experience from Mr. Bob Geuder, and many new ideas offered by Mr. Eklund, proved to be a winning combination. Three competitions were entered during the year. A perfect score and first place rating was earned at the McDonald's Swing Festival. West Side walked away with a first place trophy at the Creston Competition held in March. A second place finish at Coe's contest was also earned by the group.

Choir excels

Concert Choir got off to a totally fresh start this year under the guidance of Mr. Pete Eklund. Their busy schedule varied from junior high school concerts to home performances. They also participated in the State Large Group Music Contest and earned a Division I rating. Another goal that was emphasized was trying out for All-State. There were a total of four students who made it, along with one alternate.

Fund raising was a major part of the group's efforts as they raised money for their annual tour to Florida. Their tour included Disney World, the Epcot Center, and Daytona Beach. Members were busy toward the end of the year, preparing for the musical Seven Brides for Seven Brothers. All in all the year was a lot of fun and it turned out to be a success. The year ended in the usual way, with the choir making its last appearance at graduation, June 2.

Sing with us

Which two vocal music groups perform in the shadows of Concert Choir and West Side Delegation? That's right, you guessed it. It's Mixed Chorus and Hilltop Singers. Even though they are not all that well known, the students are there, in class, every other day working hard and learning new music.

Mixed Chorus is a very large group consisting of both men and women. They work on all different kinds of music, everything from classical to pop. Most members are sophomores who are preparing for Concert Choir their junior and senior year.

The Hilltop Singers have basically the same format as Mixed Chorus, both offering 2.5 credit hours. The major difference is that Hilltop is an all women's choir. They also sing a variety of music.

Next time you're in homeroom and the announcements state that there is a concert with Mixed Chorus and Hilltop, take the time to attend.

Band of Blue rates highly

100° temperatures at band camp got the "Band of Blue" off to a hot start. The band increased in spirit, talent, and members as 56 sophomores joined the group, making it 140 strong.

With the aid of 7 instructors, director Earle Dickinson managed to transform dozens of left feet into a winning performance. The band received 2nd place and the Espirit de Corps trophy at the Marion Invitational, 3rd at Charles City October Fest, and state contest boasted the 5th consecutive division I. "With more instructors helping and the attitude of the band, we had a better chance of winning this year," confided senior Lisa Stubbs.

The year was very rewarding as individual efforts were united with a display of creativity from senior drum majors Jim VanManen, Karla Davis, Lisa Stubbs, and Doreen Schrader.

An excellent duo

What would you do with about 16 hard working girls? Here at Jefferson, we send 'em outside to the football field and make them dance. The main goal of the Pom Pons and Colorguard is to keep the fans entertained during half time. These crowd pleasers must be doing an excellent job because they seem to have little trouble keeping the attention focused in their direction.

But behind those performing smiles, does there really exist genuine J-Hawk spirit? You bet! Who would spend an average of 4 hours a day practicing routines during the school year and all of 2 weeks at a summer drill camp if they weren't devoted to promoting school spirit?

Pom Pons start getting into shape for tryouts every spring. Only 16 will make it. The ones who are chosen for the squad must take a special gym class with Miss Sandee Walton, the group's leader.

Pom Pons get together just for fun, too. Activities include pizza parties and other things of that sort. Being a Pom Pon is a challenge, but it reaps the benefits of personal fulfillment, as one member of the 1983-84 squad put it during an interview.

This year's Colorguard is also looking good! Some proof of this is the first place title they were pleased to bring home from the state competition in Charles City in October.

Like the Pom Pons, the Colorguard must spend a great deal of time perfecting its performances. Enrolling in the fourth hour band class allows them to get the marching instruction necessary to keep time with the band.

When you add to a superior group of flag twirlers a terrific bunch of shredded paper shakers, the result is an enjoyable show of talent that cannot be matched.

Nice going Poms and Flags! You have contributed much to Jefferson's tradition of excellence.

Groups excel

Under the direction of Mr. Earle Dickinson, the Jefferson pep band performed at many school functions during the year. Displaying spirit and enthusiasm, the band performed at all pep assemblies, football games, and many of the boys' and girls' varsity basketball games.

Pep band's main function is to fire-up the student body at athletic events and pep assemblies. They do this by performing upbeat music, explained Mr. Dickinson.

Junior Annette Bartachek commented, "Pep band gives the members a chance to get away from concert band during the winter."

Jefferson's jazz band is also led by Mr. Dickinson. This band consists of brass instruments, saxophones, drums, a bass guitar, and a piano. This year jazz band performed a total of six times. Their performances included concerts for civic groups and appearing at the winter concert.

Tony Carter, junior trombone player, stated, "It's been a fun experience playing different types of music other than concert band music. We do some fun concerts, playing good charts. Also, some people get a chance to learn about improvisational solos, and get to play some." Kristi Carroll

Concert Band along with Orchestra excel at state

The Jefferson concert band continued its winning ways after receiving its ninth consecutive Division 1 rating at state contest, May 4, in the Marion High School gym. Since Mr. Earle Dickinson, band director, first came to Jefferson in 1978, the band has established a tradition of excellence. The band, under his direction, has never received anything less than a Division 1 rating in marching or concert band competition.

The key to this fine record, claims Mr. Dickinson, is the hard work of past directors and past and present band members.

The Jefferson orchestra has a new leader in Ms. Jackie Halbloom. After teaching at numerous elementary and junior high school, she decided to teach at Jefferson because of the challenge conducting presents at the high school level.

This year the orchestra presented numerous concerts, and on May 4, the full orchestra received a Division 1 rating at state contest.

Underclass

Remember your first pep assembly? How about walking into all the wrong classes? As sophomores, many of us faced some embarrassing moments.

Many upperclassmen tried to sell us those nifty elevator passes. Fortunately their "torture" didn't hinder our morale.

Winning the pepstick once and tying once has proven to upperclassmen that sophomores can be heard!

Breaking the tradition, the 451 members of the junior class dominated in pep assemblies. They won the competition yell five times, tied twice, and lost twice.

As juniors we could finally get into "R" rated movies, legally that is. However, it also brought on more responsibilities, such as thinking about our future and taking college entrance exams (ACT Tests).

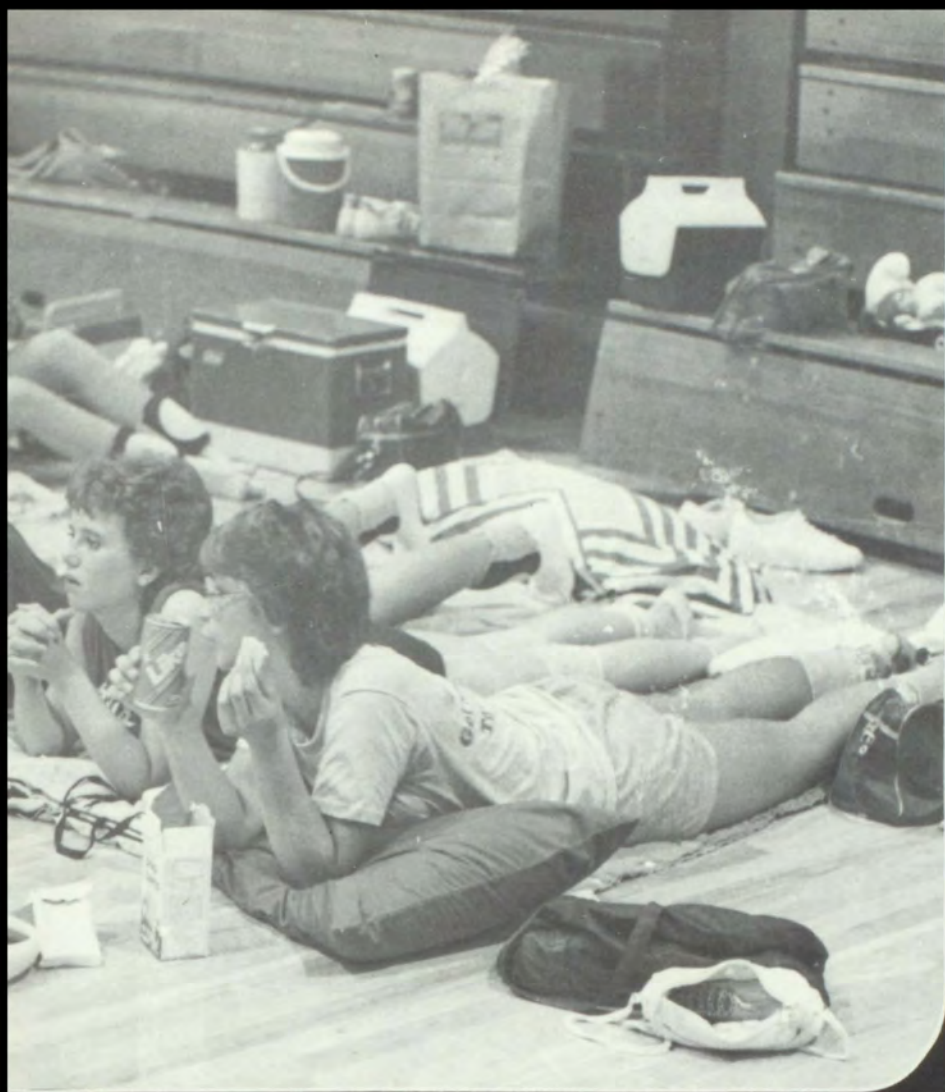

When it came to the spirit stick competition at pep assemblies, the junior class dominated throughout the year.

She has broken two school records, was voted most valuable, and qualified for the state meet in three events. Who is she? If you guessed sophomore Keri Freshour, you are right.

Keri began swimming competitively at the age of 6. One reason Keri likes swimming is because her friends are involved.

Although Keri swims many events, her two favorites are the 100 free and 200 I.M. Presently, Keri holds the school record in the 200 I.M. and is part of the record breaking medley relay team.

Keri considers her greatest achievement to be the holder of school records. After breaking the records, Keri said, "I felt like I had achieved something. It made all the hard work worthwhile." Keri's goal for the future is to finish in the top 8 in the 100 free at the girls' 1984 swim meet.

Efforts pay off

One of Jefferson's sophomores may appear rather quiet and academic-oriented, but besides taking pride in his studies, James Burns also has an interesting and rewarding hobby.

Racing in the Soap Box Derby for about three years, James has devoted over 600 hours towards a "closet full" of ribbons and trophies. Recently, he also won a week's stay in Hawaii based on a questionnaire and essay. Sponsored by a multi-millionaire, "The questions were world issues and things like what would you do with a million dollars."

Through racing James received $600 in bonds and applied it towards his latest interest, "I blew all that in computers." James also enjoys bicycling and racquetball and continues to coach younger racers.

Glenn races toward dream

The place is the 1984 winter Olympics. The event is downhill skiing. The snow crackles as the next contender approaches the starting gate. Everything is silent as the promising young skier from the United States swishes down the hill to a gold medal finish. He skillfully sprays the snow as he comes to a halt, surrounded by applause.

Of course this is a fictional scene, but this dream is a step closer for sophomore Glenn Michel than for most other students at Jefferson.

Glenn got interested in snow skiing when he was in the fourth grade. He had skied only a few times a year up until last winter. In December '83, Glenn signed up to take racing lessons with Marion Ski and Recreation. The group goes up to Dubuque to ski at Sundown every Monday night.

Glenn's favorite skier is Phil

Mahre, who won the gold medal in last winter's Olympics. Glenn has K2 racing skis and Salomon ski boots. Mahre also races with K2's and this is what prompted Glenn to buy this brand.

Glenn says that the reason he loves to ski is that, "It's a challenge because you can never know everything about it. Even the greatest skiers are always learning new techniques."

Lifting weights and working out since the age of 13, junior Kevin Schulte has made it an important part of his life.

Kevin got interested in body building for two reasons. First of all, his idol is several-time world body building champ, Arnold Schwarzenegger. The second reason was because Kevin felt he was too little physically.

Kevin's workout schedule consists of lifting for three days, then resting one or two. He works out at New Life Fitness World, usually with John Hallberg.

This makes him try even harder. Kevin's goal, with the support of his parents, is to become Mr. Teenage Iowa. This contest was held May 12 in Burlington. From it Kevin hoped to earn a trophy and possibly a news article. Depending on how things "work out", maybe later he'll even try for Mr. Universe.

Junior models

When you were younger, did you ever dream of becoming Miss America? Many girls fantasize of being there in Atlantic City some day with 49 other participants. But one girl at Jefferson has gotten a head start on her dream.

Junior Tami Davis was reading a Teen magazine when she saw an application for the Miss Teenage America contest. She filled it out, and sent it in. She was then asked to write an essay about herself and send it in along with some photographs of herself.

After graduation, Tami would like to attend college and pursue a career in drama. She loves acting and drama, and appeared in Jefferson's production of "Sleeping Beauty."

Even though Tami is only a junior, and has a great deal of work cut out for her, she has a great start on a challenging career.

Crista learns laws

Junior Crista Kippes took on the challenging job of becoming a page in the Iowa Senate and House during the 1984 session, while keeping up with her studies back at Jefferson.

The pages worked from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or until the session concluded in the evening. They are guaranteed a 40-hour work week and receive the minimum wage, plus time-and-one-half for over-time. "I've always been interested in government," Crista said. "This is a real good way to learn how our government works."

Kippes said she has always been interested in law and international affairs and hopes to study eventually in Washington D.C. "My big ambition is to be an ambassador," she said.

While in Des Moines, Crista stayed at the Y. "We looked out for each other," she noted. She came home on weekends to get her assignments.

Seniors

Every senior class would like to think they are the best, but the J-Hawk senior class of '84 knows who's the best!

During pep assemblies, seniors united to win the spirit stick many times. They stuck together whether it was to help one another with studies, or just to learn a line for a play.

Leaving will be very hard, as it is for every senior class. Looking back at all the good times we've had will make many of us want to stay, for these have been the most memorable years in our short lives.

Seniors had the chance to prove that the "J-Hawks soar in '84" and they did.

Senior John Waddilove raises his right hand in victory as he is crowned king at the WPA dance.

Two close friends, Leah Cihla and Connie Jacobson, live it up at a Thespian sponsored mixer.

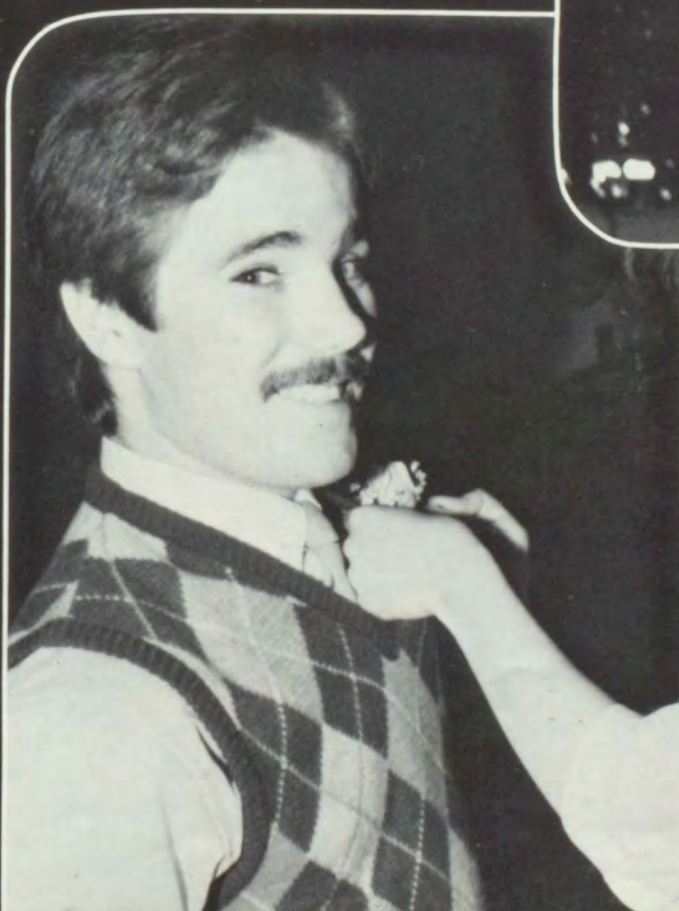

Spirited seniors help fire-up their class before the competition cheer at the first pep assembly of the year.

During a Westside concert, senior Teri Skelton sings a solo.

Wizard with cars

For some J-Hawk students, cars aren't really the most important thing in their lives, except as a means of transportation. But for senior Roger Cassill, cars mean a lot more than just transportation. When on the subject of autos, Roger thinks of Ford Mustangs, Corvettes and race cars. He is best noted for his fast cars and quality auto body work.

Roger has been interested in mechanics ever since his dad opened Cassill Motors, a family owned and operated business. He not only likes the mechanical aspect of cars but auto body work as well. He has been painting cars for approximately ten years. In the last 5 years he has painted over 300 cars. His hard work and experience has been a great benefit to him. He plans someday to own a car dealership.

Tantiana loves U.S.

As far as senior Tantiana Hidalgo is concerned, English is a foreign language to her. Tantiana, a foreign exchange student from Quito, Ecuador, attended Jefferson.

She came to the United States, last summer, and after two months started at Jefferson. This is not her first trip to the U.S. She has been here two other times in recent years. She recalls her first time in the U.S., "It was very hard for me when I first came to America. I understood most of what people were saying but they had to speak very slow. Now I usually don't have too much trouble."

Tantiana left in June to return to her own country. She said she sometimes wanted to leave, because she missed her family, but she will always love America.

Pianist achieves

Four hours of each day are spent practicing piano for senior Kyle Linscheid. Playing piano since the age of 7, Kyle has earned many honors and has certainly excelled in this field.

When Kyle first began to play the piano, he was forced to give up a lot of things that he enjoyed.

"I had to discipline myself to play the piano. It was hard for me to practice when I was younger because often my friends wanted me to do stuff with them," Kyle expressed.

The hard work and effort certainly shows from the number of awards Kyle has received.

As Kyle looks to the future, there are many goals he plans to achieve. Drake University is where he plans to continue his piano playing on his way to becoming a concert pianist.

Navy has appeal

"It's not like the Army," explained Erin Casey.

To be accepted into the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland, first you must apply and then they send you a list of requirements. One requirement is that each Iowa applicant must be nominated by Mr. Charles Grassley, Iowa Representative, Mr. Roger Jepsen, or Mr. Tom Tauke, United States Senators. This is a requirement Erin met.

Attending the U.S. Naval Academy is just like a four year college. The major difference is during the summer before new students must complete a physical training program.

She plans to major in chemistry and physical sciences, if she is accepted. Her career goals she's not quite sure about yet, but she plans to go into some type of medical or science related occupation.

Night shines

1984 Prom
 where: Gage Union
 Coe College
 when: May 5
 theme: "Against All Odds"
 band: Headliner

The mild spring weather of May 5 set the mood for the annual senior prom. Prom is one of the most memorable events of your high school years. This year's prom was no exception.

Most everyone's evening began with an elegant dinner at a fancy restaurant. At 8:30 couples were ready for a night filled with excitement.

While walking into Gage Union, on the Coe College campus, chills ran up many spines. A collage of pictures enabled seniors to reminisce about their three years at Jefferson. The Union was decorated in silver and dark blue. Streamers, balloons, and stars helped create the special mood of the night.

Catching most everyone's eyes was the grand march. The class of 1984 was the first class in Jefferson's history to hold a grand march. As each formally dressed couple walked over a bridge, Mr. Robert Geuder announced their names.

Everyone joined in and danced to the music, provided by Headliner. Remembered by many was dancing to the theme song, "Against All Odds." As the night concluded many left with the feeling that the prom will be a night remembered for years to come.

Enjoying their last big event of the senior year are: (1) Steve Beer, Wanda Williams, (2) Ray Bekeris, (3) Trudi Stuckenschneider and date, Laura Mullin, Blake Edwards, (4) Kristi Richardson, Roger Bouzek, (5) Debby Landis, Lisa Djerf, (6) Debbie Meier and date, Deanne Beltz, Terry Sund.

Prom-goers having the "time of their life" include: (1) Jennifer Kruse, Dean Hayes, (2) Kelly Smejkal, Kelly Lafferty, (3) Jean Jurgensen, Mary Sedlacek, (4) Karen FitzGerald and date, (5) Kobi Crumes and date, (6) Kelli Eggers, Jeff Knox, Lisa Hoefer, Dave Aler, Monty Tibben, Dawn McLaughlin, (7) Nancy Boelter, Terry Cameron, (8) Lori Forrest and date.

High school days — come to an end

Scenes from the 27th annual commencement ceremony include: 1) Colleen Maher, 2) Karen Hanson, Keri Butterfield, Stephanie Hiserote, 3) Valedictorian Steve Beer, 4) Valedictorian Nancy Boelter, 5) Valedictorian Erin Casey, 6) Barb Benford, 7) Graduates, 8) Chalet Johnson, Leah Cihla, 9) Chuck Chase, 10) Ron Hlavacek.

The usual plague of "senioritis" came to a sudden halt on Saturday, June 2, when the class of '84 proudly accepted those long awaited diplomas. The ceremony began as the seniors filed into their seats as the band performed "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar.

"We Must Accept Things As They Are, or Accept Responsibility to Change Them" was the theme the three valedictorians discussed. Erin Casey spoke on: "Where Did We Come From?" (past), Nancy Boelter: "Who Are We?" (present), and Steve Beer: "Where Are We Going?" (future).

After the presentation of the "Class of '84," by Dr. William C. Jacobson, the seniors left the Five Seasons Center, marching to the recessional song, "Days of Glory."

Memories of happy times make many students sad to leave: 1) Ms. Walton, 2) Joe Moon, Mr. Briggs, and Al Pulkrab, 3) Terry Cameron, 4) Jim Van Manen, 5) Doug Ramsey, 6) Jean Jurgensen 7) Girls' basketball cheerleaders, 8) Carla Swiger, 9) Stephanie Hiserote, Leann Barth, Sue Scholl, and Debby Landis.

Wave goodbye

1984, what a year this has been. Before we close the door, here's the message we will send . . . "Our class has seen these halls up and down every fall, now comes the time to say goodbye for our last spring has arrived." Knowing our effort was worthwhile has really given us a reason to smile.

All the experiences we've been through as sophomores, juniors, and the breathalyzer too! Now it's time to close the door. Thank you Jefferson from the senior class of '84.

Jodi Sickels

Through the '83-'84 school year, many students and faculty members show what it takes to be a spirited J-Hawk: 1) Mr. Briggs, 2) Jodi Ahrens and Robin Clifton, 3) Mike Knox and Myron Parizek, 4) Cross Country runners, 5) Mr. Schirm, junior Shane Wilson, and senior Roger Cassill, 6) Todd Miskimen, 7) Terri Kenward, 8) Seniors Keith Olson, Marty Pearson, and Jeff Butterfield, 9) Homecoming queen candidates.

Looking back as year ends

As the 1984 school year comes to an end, the seniors start thinking back to happy moments they've experienced. Tear-filled eyes, hugs, and saying good-bye's were a familiar sight at graduation. Juniors and sophomores end the year with different feelings. The sophomores look forward to not being the lowest on the totem pole. For the juniors, it's the excitement of finally becoming a senior. Yes, there are many memories of 1984.

Jodi Dauenbaugh

To show their true J-Hawk spirit, the following students participated in a variety of activities: (1) Andy Bruzek (2) Kurt VanderWiel, Rob Olsen, Rob Edgeton (3) Mike Knox, Jeff Knox (4) Doreen Schrader, Karla Davis, Lisa Stubbs (5) Hilltop Singers (6) Mary Still, Dave Bequeaith

Giving many thanks

Another year has ended at Jefferson High School and another yearbook has been finished. This yearbook will touch the lives of many people as they look back and reflect on their high school years.

I would like to thank all the staff members. You have all spent a great deal of time on the yearbook, whether it be cropping photos, drawing layouts, or writing copy blocks. I would also like to thank all of the photographers for their patience and their excellent photos. To my co-editor, Jodi, I would like to say it has been a great year working with you and with your talent. Without you, I couldn't have done it.

I would like to extend my greatest appreciation to our advisor, Mr. Smrha, who with his experience, talent, knowledge, jokes, and caring has made this year a fun one. He also has helped us produce a quality yearbook. Thank-you all for our 1984 Statesman.

Leading a staff of 60, Jodi Dauenbaugh and Jodi Sickels served as co-editors-in-chief of this 1984 yearbook.

Throughout the year, I've experienced many emotions; frustration being the major one. It seemed that I could never do enough to help meet a deadline.

The section editors and general staff members deserve a big hand for all the hard work and effort they put forth.

To Jodi, my co-editor, the year has been a long one but we survived. I'm glad we did it together. Our decisions were more secure, and with the help of Mr. Smrha we kept it organized and eventually pieced it all together.

Last but not least, I'd like to acknowledge Mr. Smrha as one of the greatest people I've ever worked under. He kept us laughing during the best and worst of times. Without all of his help, this yearbook would never be such a huge success. I want to thank him for being such a patient and caring advisor.
