Sharing memories

We often hear that high school is supposed to be the best years of our lives. It seemed hard to believe that after a fun-filled summer, school could be anything but work.

However, once classes were chosen, friendships renewed, and various activities began, life at Jefferson was far from uneventful. There were mixers, athletics, WPA, prom, and graduation.

Even academics were a challenge with the new + and — grading system. Whether in school or out, J-Hawks shared many special moments this year. Teri Hansen

We're back!

The summer fun slipped away and once again school began. Sophomores scurried to find their classes, crowded hallways, and familiar faces. It took awhile to get into the swing of things, but soon J-Hawks became involved in a variety of activities. Mixers, athletics, performances, and homework became a way of life.

The "Big Blue Wrecking Crew" and "Silver Rush" emerged as Jeff's mottos at pep assemblies and school spirit was at a peak. The early morning practices, extra effort, and serious dedication paid off and many J-Hawks were rewarded for their accomplishments. Even the academically-oriented students faced a challenge when the grading system was altered. No matter what the activity, in 1985 "Winners Appeared Out of the Blue!" Teri Hansen

A high school education not only means classes, homework, and grades, it also means getting involved. In '84-'85 J-Hawks had the positive attitude and spirit that made participating and that extra effort worthwhile. What better way to make new friends and enjoy being a J-Hawk than to take part in school activities or simply spend time with others. Whether it was an extracurricular activity, pep assembly, mixer, a Friday night game, or planning a ski trip with friends, J-Hawks were involved and having fun.—Teri Hansen

Spirit reigns

When the hot days of August creep up, so does that first day of school. Many students walk through the halls enthusiastically, because they are J-Hawks beginning a new school year.

The year started out differently with pep assemblies being moved from 8:20 to 9:20, and homeroom was switched from 8:20 to 10:20. This didn't stop the never ending J-Hawk spirit for dressing up at pep assemblies, however.

Through the year students attended various events from Homecoming to WPA. J-Hawks proudly displayed their spirit and proved that "Winners Appear Out of the Blue" in 1985. Nancy Greiner

Spirit soars high

Jefferson students seem to have a way of showing that "Winners Appear Out of the Blue." No matter what the activity, you're sure to find a J-Hawk participating, doing their best, and having a good time at the same time.

Jefferson students take pride in being known as winners. Winning is not just excelling in sports. J-Hawks succeed in every aspect, whether it be performing arts, academics, clubs, or spirit.

Our students at Jefferson aren't the only winners. The administration, teachers, and staff also prove that Jefferson has a winning tradition. They participate in many activities and strongly encourage the student body.

This combination of teachers and students is producing a winning team. The next time you hear one of the many "winner phrases," remember that winners really do appear out of the blue, that is the blue and white school high on the hill.

—Janis Seaton

A special kind of spirit shines through on these J-Hawks wherever they are found: 1) Mr. Ron Smrha's birthday celebration, 2) Kim Heiken and Lynda Hooten, 3) Muna Koudsi, 4) Dawn Rogers, Kori Foss, 5) Couples at the Homecoming dance, 6) Sherry Gardemann, Miss Sandee Walton, Debbie Schneekloth, 7) Juniors at a pep assembly, 8) Sam Whitney, Lila Igram, 9) Senior girls at the state wrestling tourney, 10) Westside Delegation members, 11) Mark Tiedtke, Carol Ashley, 12) Bedora Sheronick.

From strange masks to bizarre clothes, these J-Hawks show their enthusiasm on spirit days: 1) Nancy Greiner and Sue Scholl, 2) Senior girls at a pep assembly, 3) Bill Viers, 4) Sue Stagg and Missy Neblung, 5) Cheri Landis, 6) Shotan Gibson, 7) Tammy Stastny, 8) J-Hawks showing their spirit, 9) Mr. Ron Smrha, Tim Gearhart, and Kristy Beaton, 10) Tad Caldwell and Mark Reynolds.

Bizarre faces fill halls

It's a new student's first day at Jefferson High School. It is during football season and spirit around school is high, as it always is in September. As the new student enters the door, the strangest thing catches his sight. A weird person, or thing, is approaching him. No one recognizes this person because he is dressed in a strange outfit with a gorilla mask hiding his face. Walking on down the hall his eyes are caught by a number of other students who are dressed in bizarre clothes.

Why did so many people look so strange, yet exciting? As this new student soon discovers, the day when strange beings wander the halls is known to all as a spirit day. During these days, which happen all year long, students show their spirit by dressing up in wild and zany outfits, from twins to Hawaiians.

Sophomore Donna West explained, "The first time that there was a spirit day, I was really surprised at how outgoing students were. It was neat to see everybody dressed so crazy!"

Spirit days at Jefferson are just one way J-Hawks show their true spirit. Year round there is a sense of pride flowing around Jefferson High School, but during these days students express themselves even more to build up school enthusiasm.

During Homecoming week, days such as blue and white day, hat and shades day, and Hawaiian day were enjoyed by all. Wendy Wink

Memories: Queen Lynda reigns over special dance

The chill of Friday night at Kingston was warmed by the decorated Jefferson cafeteria where the 1984 Homecoming dance was held September 29. The excitement of the evening built as the students awaited the arrival of the newly-crowned queen.

Students danced to top ten sounds and consumed the refreshments provided by the Student Council. The climax of the evening arrived when senior class president Rod Meyers introduced the finalists and their escorts. Queen Lynda Hooten and her escort, Brian Anson, danced to the theme song "Almost Paradise" along with the other finalists and escorts.

Finalist Lynne NejdI stated, "It was one of those special moments. As a senior you'll remember it for a long time, especially if you were one of the candidates."

Seniors ask . . .

Who will win?

The excited students piled into the decorated gymnasium and occasionally, trying not to be too obvious, glanced at the 26 chairs standing empty before them. "I was really excited to see who the candidates would be," explained Kim Judge.

After the crowd settled down, Rod Meyers, senior class president, appeared before the student body ready to announce the 26 semi-finalists for 1984. The mood was set as soft music filled the room and the lights were dimmed.

Everyone watched and listened with intense excitement as the candidates' names were read off, one by one. "As soon as Rod started reading off the candidates' names, my stomach started jumping all around," commented Shelly Miller. "I was totally shocked when I heard my own name."

"It's hard to explain what it felt like to walk down the gymnasium floor. I felt mixed emotions from pride to excitement. It's like you had to experience it to understand it fully," stated Kim Hieken.

Candidate Lynne NejdI added, "When my name was called off I didn't hear it, and my friend nudged me and yelled, 'Go'." Debbie Schneekloth Concentrating on each step, candidate Maria Chicchelly is guided to her chair by escort Brett Lund.

Surprised yet happy, Sherry Gardemann shares her excitement with escort Mark Tiedtke.

A smile, an escort, and a carnation are all part of being named a Homecoming queen semi-finalist. These three lucky girls are Carol Ashley, Kim Judge, and Cheri Landis.

Lynda wins

The Big Blue Wrecking Crew had another win in reach as the ten Homecoming finalists were escorted onto the field that cold September evening. Excitement rose among the girls as well as throughout the crowd. Soon Mr. Robert Geuder announced, "and the queen for the 1984-1985 year is . . . Miss Lynda Hooten!"

The crowd roared and a proud smile of happiness overcame Lynda's face. "I'll never forget the way I felt that night," reflected Lynda. "Everyone was cheering and clapping for me before I even realized I'd won!"

Finalist Angie Crumes added, "It was a real honor being one of the top 26 semi-finalists, but being one of the top ten finalists was an extra special honor." To make the evening even more memorable, the football team went on to win the game, 22-6. Lynne Nejd

Lynda Hooten and her escort, Brian Anson, feel the excitement in the air, and she releases it as the crown is placed on her head.

Seniors Michelle Bush and Missy Neblung, decked out in army fatigues, battle to control the noisy crowd.

Got that spirit

Sophs, juniors, and seniors were full of spirit, and showed it in a number of different ways. Whether it was cheering the football team on to victory, going to mixers, or selling candy, spirit was seen everyday. This year, pep assemblies were one of the major ways of showing spirit.

Teachers and students both were involved in these assemblies, sometimes joining in on the competition yell, which was very popular among the students. When asked about the pep assemblies, Micky Jones stated, "I think there is a lot of spirit towards the major sports like the football and wrestling teams." She also noted that her favorite part of the pep assemblies is the competition yell.

Senior Char Lowderman agreed with Micky that her favorite part was the competition yell. She added, "I love showing our senior spirit! It's also one of the few times we're allowed to get rowdy! I think the kids really participate with the whole pep assembly. The attendance has increased—at least now it seems there's never enough seats."

The reactions of many J-Hawks were quite similar to those voiced by Micky Jones and Char Lowderman. Pep assemblies gave the students a chance to let go of schoolwork and have a chance to show their school spirit. Participation at assemblies displayed the winning attitude Jefferson thrives on. "Winners appeared out of the Blue—J-Hawk Blue."

Showing spirits

Chants of "We're number one", "The Big Blue Wrecking Crew", and "Less Filling, Taste Great" filled the ears of many J-Hawk fans. Whether it was supporting the football, volleyball, basketball, or softball teams, screaming J-Hawk students filled the stands.

Support wasn't just limited to the athletic field. Students packed the cafeteria while attending school sponsored mixers. Each was a great success as the students enjoyed dancing and being with friends.

Concert Choir, Mixed Chorus, and Concert Band were all well received by appreciative audiences and the Westside Delegation was once again a crowd favorite.

The drama productions were attended with great support. Students greeted cast members after each performance, congratulating them on a job well done.

Senior Allen Chism summed it up best, "Students got more involved this year. People took a lot more pride in their school."

On their way

The gymnasium started to fill as students anxiously awaited the announcement of the 1985 WPA candidates. There were 10 senior candidates announced along with 5 juniors and 5 sophomores at the WPA assembly. It was a tradition at Jefferson that each candidate had to answer a question after they were announced. The questions were sometimes embarrassing since they were answered in front of the entire student body.

This year was special since a foreign exchange student was chosen as one of the candidates. Danilo Ventura was selected as an honorary senior class candidate. Danilo's homeland is Argentina. When asked what his feelings were toward being chosen, he replied, "I was very happy and it was very much an honor."

Kings chosen

Rockin' to the beat, students at Jefferson attended a fun filled evening at the annual WPA dance. WPA was a chance for girls to ask that special guy out. It involved the gals taking the guys out for dinner and making all the arrangements, but most of all paying for all the expenses.

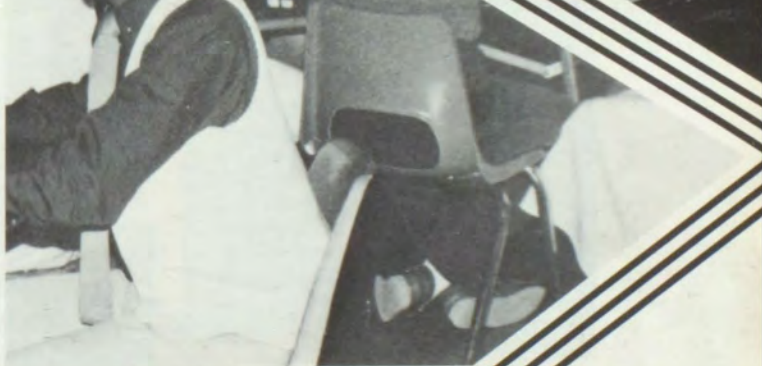

Friday, March 15, WPA was celebrated with a dance and the crowning of three kings, one from each class. The crowned winners were sophomore Dave Vanous, junior Mark Weber, and senior Bernard Dutchik. An added treat found foreign exchange student, Danilo Ventura, crowned honorary J-Hawk king. The dance, which was held in the cafeteria, carried out the theme song, "I Can't Fight this Feeling."

Senior Craig Furnish thought, "It was great having a girl take me out instead of me taking them out." Senior Deanna Neblunge felt it was great asking out that certain person you've been wanting to get to know for a long time.

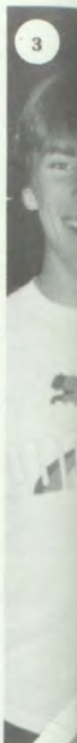

WPA was very successful and credit goes to all the people who put a lot of time and effort into making the entire evening worthwhile. Student Council provided the refreshments and Read Photography captured the special evening in pictures. WPA was certainly an 84-85 highlight.

Out come the grins!

"Miss, the doctor will see you now." Knocking knees and all, Patty followed the nurse down the hall, hesitating with each step she took. All the time, she wondered to herself whether this was worth her time as well as her parents' money.

"Hi Patty!" the doctor said as he displayed a slight grin. "We're ready to take off those braces of yours." Patty took a firm grasp of the chair. "Wire cutters," the orthodontist requested. "Here Patty, rinse out your mouth, you're all finished. No more braces!"

Once a shy, insecure girl, Patty flashed her new pearly whites. Like a miracle, Patty changed into an independent young lady! "I've never wanted to smile so much in my life!" she raved.

Is a smile really worth a thousand words? Maybe it's worth more than what we realize. A smile will brighten up any grey day! Just ask Patty. She worked two years for her great smile. Why don't you break out the toothpaste and try one on for size? You might find it worth your while, too. Sue Scholl

Time to dance

The top ten hits of "Heaven's on Fire" and "Careless Whispers" filled Jefferson's cafeteria with the sounds of 1985. Mixers were a popular and inexpensive source of entertainment. Senior Tania Aschbrenner commented, "They are good fund raisers and they help support athletic events."

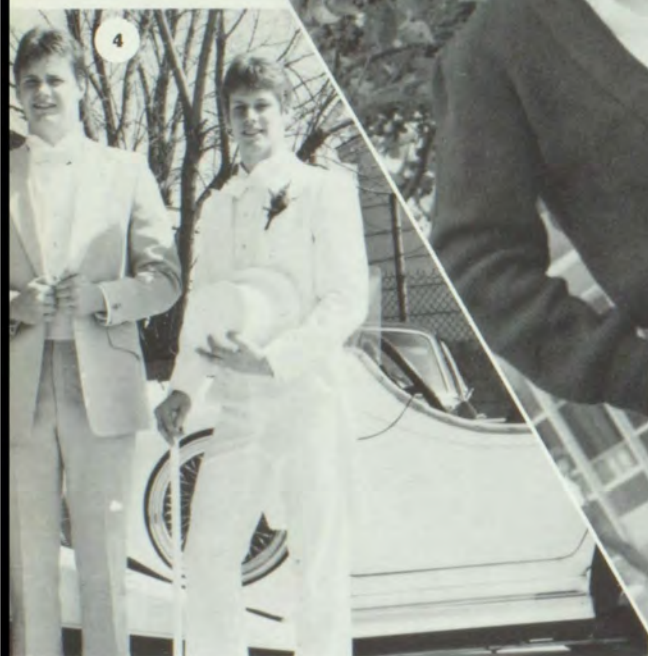

Senior Carol Pulkraab expressed, "I enjoy dressing up and acting crazy with my friends!" For added excitement, break dancers demonstrated the new craze and a new dance called MORP, prom spelled backwards, made history at Jeff.

What's 'in'

With bright neon colors, tropical prints, and the "Madonna Look," the students provided a colorful scene around campus.

The colors of this year's rainbow were dictated by Cyndi Lauper's style of mix, match, and wear. Tanning booths, hair mousse, and the old fashioned bobbed hair were all most popular. "I try to dress differently and to be a trend setter, not a follower," stated junior Dana Hardiman.

In the fall Jefferson saw Jellys, walking shorts, baggy sweaters, and the new "Madonna" look. As the year progressed out came fluorescent clothes and accessories, along with cropped pants and pumps.

Many fads were inspired by singers and movie favorites. Fashions will come and go, but this year's latest style will always be remembered for their boldness and exotic look. Students aren't afraid of embarrassment these days. They wear what they want and do not worry about what others will say. At Jefferson the styles and trends were found in groups as well as bold individuals.

Hanging out

It was Friday, and when that final bell rang at 3:00 the hallways quickly emptied. Plans for the weekend were underway. Many friends got together to attend a cold J-Hawk football game at Kingston Stadium. Afterwards there was even the possibility of a party or a mixer.

When the warmer weather hit, senior students who had enough credits to leave school early had a great time enjoying the summer breezes of Palo Beach, or Lake McBride, improving their lost tans.

For some students Fridays meant going to work at a part time job or receiving that long awaited check.

Another great past time after school was shopping. Students had to keep up with the popular fads and new fashion trends to be accepted by their peers.

Senior Rick Parizek stated "Fitness is important to me so I spend a lot of time at New Life Fitness World with my friends when I am not in school."

Working a lot to lose extra weight gave our J-Hawks something to do and a reason for doing it. There were also those athletes who kept training all season long to be the leaders of many J-Hawk teams. Swimmers lifted weights during the off season to be ready to reach new goals in the upcoming season.

Jefferson's fine arts department staged many different plays throughout the year; Down in the Valley and Cinderladdin were only two of the plays which could be seen in the Little Theater.

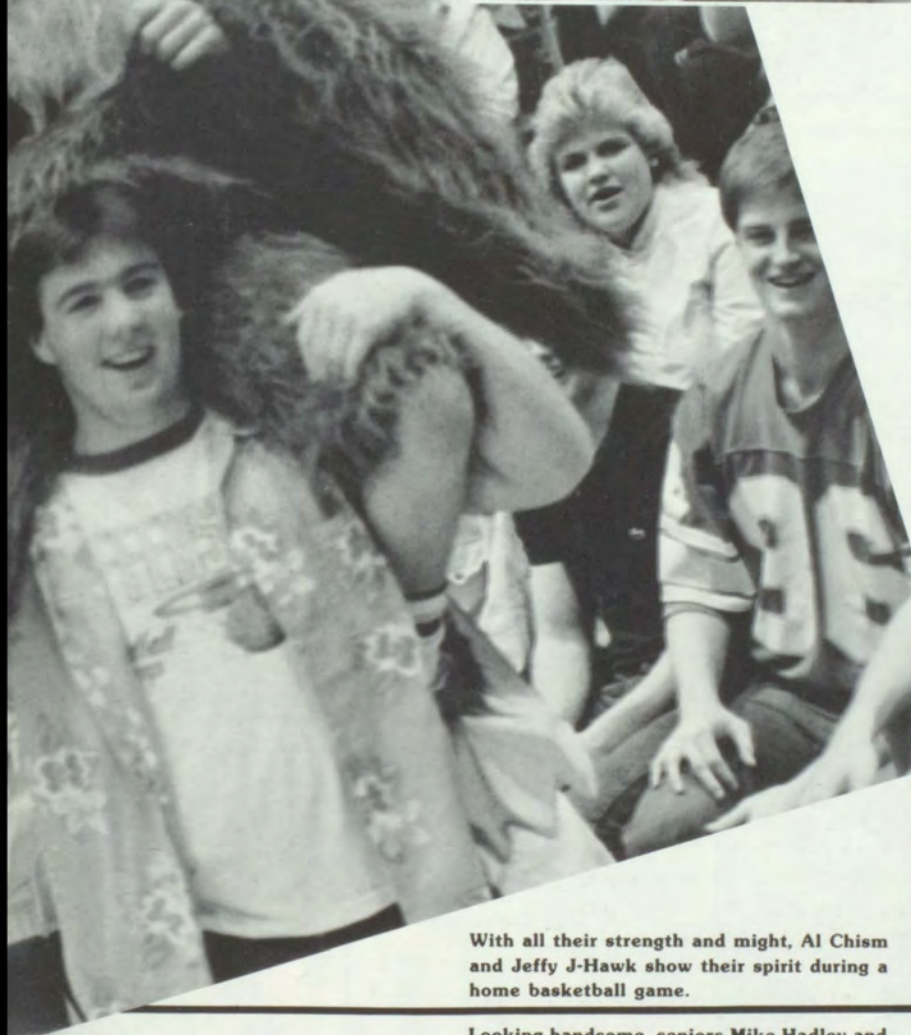

Concerts held at the Five Seasons Center also brought out many J-Hawks. Students listened to their favorite groups in hi-fi.

One thing was true of all J-Hawks no matter where they could be found, J-Hawks everywhere enjoyed the weekends.

Men work to repair the Statue of Liberty who has welcomed millions of immigrants to the land of the free.

Throughout the 84-85 school year our world celebrated numerous events. These events added to the memories of an already spectacular J-Hawk school year.

In the world of music, USA for Africa emerged raising money to aid famine relief in Africa. On the movie scene, "Beverly Hills Cop," starring Eddie Murphy, was a favorite among teens.

Politically, the first woman, Geraldine Ferraro, ran for vice-president and President Reagan was elected to a second term in office.

Nationally, work began on the restoration of the Statue of Liberty and Baby Fae received a baboon heart.

Locally, Governor Terry Branstad legalized an Iowa lottery.

British singers came together to do their part for relief in Africa.

Studies

Studies are not just those long classes you attend Monday through Friday. Studies include every aspect of education.

Jefferson's 28 years has developed a curriculum and faculty that has produced many great students.

Recent changes have been made, including the new system of grading. Many of the changes have brought mixed emotions, but nevertheless, J-Hawks benefited.

While perfecting their skills and broadening their knowledge, students overcome the new challenges that the school year brings. Hi! Welcome to the first ever J-Hawk guided tour. To-day we are going to spend some time looking at the scenes around Jefferson High School. Before we begin, sir, would you please remove your hat so those in back can see?

On your right you will see a J-Hawk pep assembly. Notice how the hard work has paid off for the pom pon girls and cheerleaders as they perform before their screaming peers. What, ma'am? No, that's not a newspaper reading session, it's just the class of '85 showing the underclassmen what spirit is all about!

As we move down the hall you will find, to your left, the Jefferson study hall. Observe the carefully hidden candy bars and potato chips and the eyes that are slowly closing to grab a few minutes of sleep. If you look closely you might even find a student with an open book, to whom study hall owes its name.

As we climb the stairs to the publications room, prepare yourself for an extraordinary treat. Arranged by students, a local Cedar Rapids belly dancer has come to surprise teacher Mr. Smrha on his birthday. The students felt it was the least they could do for all the dedication he has put into teaching. Judging by the tears of laughter rolling down his face, this is a birthday Mr. Smrha will not soon forget.

just for students; even teachers come down for a snack once in a while.

We are now crossing the arcade to the fine arts wing. This auditorium houses the highly regarded musical and theatrical productions at Jefferson. I must ask you to stand back as the prize-winning marching band makes its way up from the field. After a hot two hours of marching, these 150 instrument clad students are anxious to get inside.

Today I have let you glance at some of the scenes around Jefferson, ranging from the hard work to the more relaxed. Now you know why the pride of Jefferson remains in the heart of each J-Hawk long after graduation day.

Seniors are first

Mr. Walt Hartman teaches a lesson in electronics to a group of enthusiastic students.

Sophomores rush into the gym with a handful of registration cards. Most end up taking six hours of required classes which can make for a very long day. Juniors have it somewhat easier. They too are trying to get their required classes out of the way, but usually have room for one or two electives. But seniors . . . they have got the easy life.

By the time a student reaches his/her senior year most required courses are safely behind them. A senior's schedule may consist of typing, cooking, yearbook design, and gym. Seniors are also the only students who can leave before 3, while sophomores and juniors usually have more trouble filling up their schedules.

Elective classes make up 90.0 of the 202.5 credits needed to graduate. Kristi Carroll

"Can you believe it? They actually are going to require me to take a term of government!"

"What's wrong with that?"

"Well, if I don't pass it, I won't be able to take it again because this is my last term."

"Don't worry about it. You know, if everyone could choose when they wanted to take it, it would be overloaded some terms."

"Yeah, I guess you're right. But I still have five more required classes to take!"

"I solved that problem a long time ago. I talked to my school counselor before I registered as a sophomore. He told me how to even my required classes out over my three years so I wouldn't be confronted with taking them all in my senior year. Why don't you go see your counselor before it's too late?"

"Thanks. I'll do that."

Government is one of the required courses that students at Jefferson must take. Others include Language Arts, science, math, and physical education. Unlike all the rumors about how awful these classes are, they are very important in helping find success after graduation. Counselors are very helpful in aiding students and planning a working schedule, which will work to your convenience.

Sports

This might have been the year of the "Big Blue Wrecking Crew," but that spirit and enthusiasm showed up in every other sport at Jefferson as well.

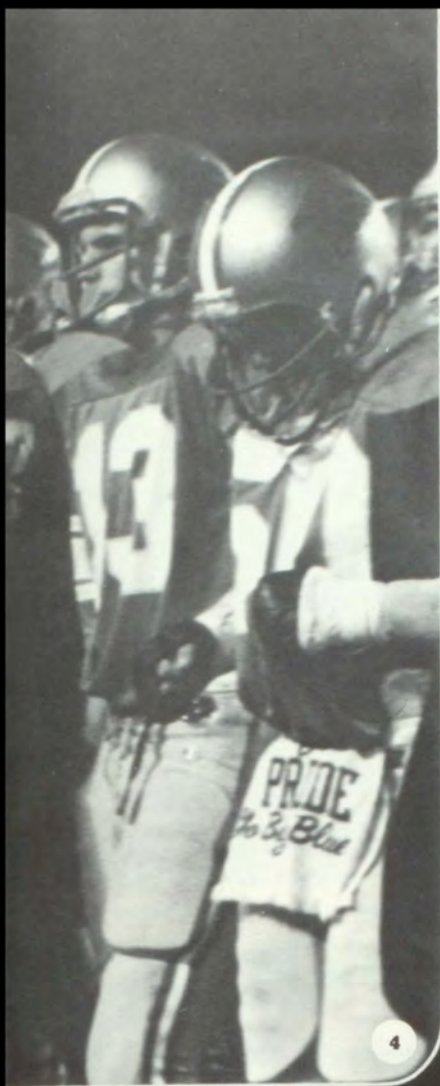

The J-Hawk sports program underwent many changes, everything from the football team's new uniforms to the girls playing 5-on-5 basketball.

A lot of hard work, dedication, and long practices paid off for the Jefferson athletes, with the year producing many records and winners.

Defense leads J-Hawks

They called themselves the "Big Blue Wrecking Crew" and by the end of the season, the Jefferson football team had proved it true. The J-Hawk defense led the Mississippi Valley Conference, giving up 135 yards per game. "Defensively, we were one of the best teams ever," explained defensive line coach Bob Allen.

The offense finished powerfully, scoring 105 points in its last three games. The strong J-Hawk offense and defense led third-year coach Bill Calloway to his first winning season with a 6-3 overall record, and a 6-1 conference loss to Washington earned the J-Hawks second place in the MVC. Coach Calloway said, "The main reason for the success of the team was the off-season weight training."

MVC honors went to eight J-Hawks. Named to the first team were Dave Simon, Chris Lien, Darrel Long, Scott Wischmeyer, and Gary Feaker. MVC second team honors went to Randy Meier, Chris Watson, and Scott Gull.

Sophs work hard

The season started in late July, when the sophomores gathered in the weight training room. The door opened and in walked the new sophomore head coach.

Coach Jim O'Brien is a part of Jeff's faculty, serving as an industrial arts teacher. In the past, he coached the ninth grade team at Roosevelt Junior High, and now the administration had asked him to coach again. Coach O'Brien offered the team respect and authority and in return it gave him dedication and hard work.

When asked if the year was a success, Coach O'Brien replied, "Win-loss wise, no. But when it came to attitude and hard work, I was very pleased."

The defense was the hub of the team, with Dennis Dye and Matt Lund as linebackers and Derek Moser at tackle, leading the way for the team.

Their record in the conference was 3-4, but overall it was 3-6. Barry Bissell felt the toughest team the J-Hawks faced this season was, "Dubuque Wahlert, because they hit the hardest."

The secret aid for the sophomore squad could be weight training. If squad members take the program seriously, it could spell success for next year, when the players advance to the varsity level. Glenn Barth

Spikers exhibit awesome defense

Looking back over his eleven years as head volleyball coach, Mr. John Weld replied, "This year's team had the best defense we have ever had!" From the difficult practices that began in August to the last game against Anamosa, the 1984 volleyball team strived to be the best. The four returning letter winners were Amy Homan, Sue Stagg, Lisa Welch, and Tania Aschbrenner. Tania also earned MVC honors.

When asked what her most memorable moment of the season was, Sue Stagg explained, "Beating Dubuque Wahlert for the first time in Jefferson's history. We lost the first two games and then came back to win the last three, for the match."

With the "I can" attitudes and the Kamikaze defense, the varsity team sacrificed bumps and bruises to finish the season in the top half of the conference. Mr. Weld felt the highlight of the season was the type of girls he had to work with. "We had great team unity and were like family," he reflected.

During the banquet, at the end of the season, awards were given to these outstanding players: Lisa Sonka and Tania Aschbrenner, most valuable players; Tania Aschbrenner, captain; and Julie Bell, most improved. The serving champion award was given to varsity member Mary Baloch, and sophomore member Tracie Hodina. Hustle and enthusiasm helped the team reach many of the goals it had set back in August. Tammy Sebastian

Hard work, determination, and ambition help these players in reaching their goal of working together as a team.

Weld leads

When the sophomores began school in August, many girls decided to go out for a fall sport. Some of the girls chose volleyball. Since it was their first experience with high school volleyball, it meant long hours of practice. "These girls have worked hard all season and have done a good job," stated Mr. Jim Cox, coach. The sophomore volleyball team ended with a season record of 14-4-1.

The sophomore team was excited entering the 1984 season. Mr. Cox and the team set five goals for the season. The main goals were: to finish the season undefeated, to win the Metro championship, to win the Jefferson sophomore tournament, and to beat Kennedy the last game of the season. Three of these goals were met.

The three goals reached were: winning the Jefferson sophomore tournament, beating Kennedy in the last game of the season, and winning the Metro championship.

Some of the outstanding players included Michelle Hebert and Jenny Crow, who were named most improved players; Tracie Hodina, who served 97.7% of her serves good; and Penny Potter, who was named most valuable player. All the girls worked hard for a place on the varsity team next year. Jody Kepler

Runners earn good seasons

To many, the words cross country mean nothing. They're just something they've heard over the intercom once a week. But to a number of athletes, cross country is a way of life.

The boys' and girls' cross country teams began the year with a lot of ambition and high goals. The teams worked hard during practices, running anywhere from an hour-and-a-half to two hours each night.

Mr. Larry Nolting, girls' coach, felt that the girls had a good attitude toward practices and meets. When asked what he thought the highlight of the season was, he stated, "The triangular when we beat Wash and Walhert."

Boys' coach, Mr. R.J. Noonan, was very pleased with his team's performance. The team's goal was to qualify for state. They reached their goal at the district meet in Clinton when they placed fourth. But the real treat was the boys' ninth place finish at state.

Though the girls didn't qualify for state, they still performed well. Senior Kelly Fox stated, "I think the highlight of the season for us was MVC. You could see the determination of the runners, even in the bad weather, and our high finish made it even better."

To some, the season seemed long, but now it's over and the uniforms are put away until spring.

One thing that will last forever is the memories of fun and hard work of both the boys' and girls' '84 season. Janis Seaton

Swimmers plunge ahead

Stephanie Kemmerer strives for perfection as she completes her competitive dive.

1984 turned out to be a prosperous year for the girls' swim team. Headed by Coach Jim Taylor, Coach Les Santee, and Assistant Coach Cindy Brown the girls' team experienced an increase in the number of participants, a 10th place finish at state, and a new record in the 100-yard back stroke set by Julie Meier.

Captain Jill Tauber led the team with help from seniors Steph Kemmerer and Kariena Conrad. Steph felt there was good team unity and that all of the girls got along. She sees this as one of the main reasons for the amount of success and fun the team experienced this year. Janis Seaton

At athletic events and pep assemblies, crowds were led by 6-8 girls cheering their hearts out for the J-Hawk teams. Each cheerleading squad performed at 15-20 games or meets, including tournaments, sectionals, and district competition.

These girls not only helped during games, but before and after as well. They made posters, cookies, sent messages, and did locker decorations for encouragement. Sophomore Ami Heiken stated, "Although the work is hard, it's fun and exciting! Our work is appreciated by all the athletes."

Senior forward Bernard Dutchik attempts to block a Washington player's shot.

New coach sparks team

Give the man a blue ribbon! Coach Don Ziegler that is. In his first year, he turned the boys' basketball team from a basement dweller to a contending team in the MVC. The boys had the best finish they have had in a long time with an overall record of 9-11 and they tied for third in the conference. Fan support for the team increased with the improved record.

Junior Mike Ivester commented, "Our team was not made up of superstars, we all contributed to the team's winning season." Receiving honors in the Metro were first team, Bernard Dutchik; second team, Mike Ivester; and honorable mention, Scott Gull, noted Coach Ziegler.

The pivotal game of the season was against cross-town rival Washington. Coach Ziegler replied, "It was the change in the attitude of the players that turned the team into winners." Senior Sean Benson added, "The whole attitude about the program changed. Last year the team hoped to win, but this year we expected to win!"

Three ... two ... one ... swish! Jeff Hightshoe sinks a shot at the buzzer to defeat Kennedy in the J-Hawk gym. Although the final record was disappointing, the season had its high points.

The sophs finished at 3-15 overall. When asked if he thought the season was a success, Coach Joe Benedict replied that he was pleased with the team's progress on fundamentals, and with the fact that they kept improving throughout the season.

Two of the high points of the season were Jeff Hightshoe's game winning shot, and the victory over Dubuque Hempstead in the J-Hawk gym, after losing in Dubuque by 45 points earlier in the season.

Coach Benedict felt that the team achieved its goal of preparing for varsity competition next year.

Girls' basketball in 1985 will be remembered as a season of change and adjustment. For the first time in Iowa's history, girls played the full-court, 5-on-5, instead of the traditional 6-on-6. For Jefferson's athletes, this meant digging deep within themselves to find the extra strength and endurance that 5-on-5 required.

Coach Larry Niemeyer was pleased with the girls' performance throughout the season. "The girls played very well, and I think we had a very good season."

Junior Robin Becker, who made the All-Metro and All-Conference teams, liked the switch to 5-on-5 because it gave the players a chance to do more things.

The varsity squad posted a 15-10 record.

History made by team . . .

New rules begin

"Girls playing five on five? C'mon you're kidding!" This was one of the many thoughts running through the minds of J-Hawks and fans alike. For the first time at Jefferson, the girls and coaches were asked to change their offenses and defenses and play 5-on-5.

Point guard Melissa Schaffer stated, "When the change came I didn't really approve of it, but I tried my best to accept it and do my best for myself and the team." The girls had to concentrate on the basic fundamentals and the differing rules of the new game. The guards especially had to put forth a lot of time and effort to get their shooting touches back on track. For those who had never shot a ball before, there was a demand for twice the dedication and endurance, but there was also a great sense of accomplishment.

The team finished 7-11 overall and had a 5-9 MVC record which led them to a fifth place finish in the Valley. The girls adjusted to the changes quite well and Coach Stewart emphasized, "There were no individual standouts. They played together as a unit." Melissa commented that the highlight of the season was when the J-Hawks, made up of only 10 girls, came 2 points away from upsetting the MVC champs, C. R. Washington.

Coach Stewart felt that the lack of girls didn't affect his coaching in a negative way, but helped him to be on a more one to one basis with each girl. The lack of interest had an effect on the players, as well as the fans, but the girls still managed to make the best of what they had and made this year both a learning experience and a successful season.

Take'em down

The J-Hawk varsity wrestling team ended its 1984-85 MVC season with an 8-3 record. "We had a very successful team this year because we continued to improve each week on the mat," boasted Coach Briggs.

Many goals were accomplished this year, as was expected. The squad took first at districts, they were co-champions in the conference meet, and there were six state qualifiers; Brian Bos, Richard Neese, Darrell Long, John Anderson, Kelly Mihal, and Scott Mihal. This was the first time since 1973 that so many individuals have gone on to state.

Out of the six state qualifiers, senior Darrell Long placed second and junior Scott Mihal finished fourth. When asked how the crowd affected his performance, Scott replied, "It was fun wrestling in front of a big crowd because it psyched me up more."

There was no doubt at all when the season ended that the J-Hawk wrestlers were true winners!

"Moving up from fourth to second place after beating undefeated Dubuque Walhert in their last meet of the season was certainly the highlight of our wrestling season," remarked Coach Jim Cox. Sophomore wrestler Quentin Dye added, "It was probably the most exciting meet of the year."

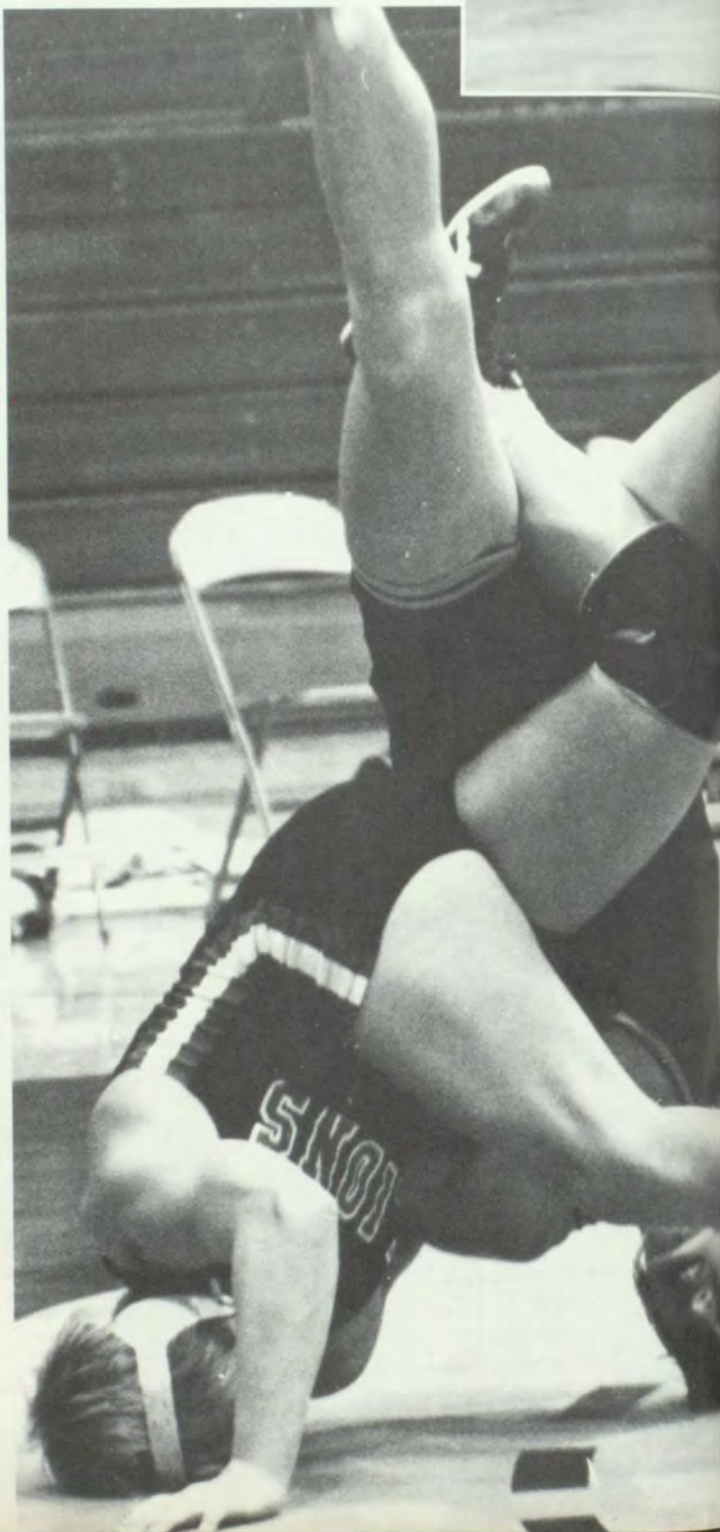

One of the greatest achievements was when Bob Bevins, Greg Garman, and Dave Simmons became champions and Tony Threatt, Shawn Martz, and Dennis Dye were runners-up in their weight class at the MVC tournament. At the season's end Shawn Martz was named Most Improved Sophomore Wrestler and Outstanding Wrestler was Greg Garman. Coach Jim Cox also remarked that Brad Durbala made the greatest progress throughout the season.

Waterloo Columbus was one of the best meets for the junior-varsity team. They took twelve wrestlers to this meet and had ten finalists. According to the junior-varsity match record, Rod Fiser, Nathan Williams, and Brett Lund were the top three wrestlers.

These J-Hawks spent an average of 2-2½ hours each day practicing to help them prepare for competition. The effort and dedication proved worthwhile. Sophomore Dennis Dye remarked, "We worked just as hard as varsity to achieve our goals."

Records fall

Swimming in the fast lane this year, Jefferson managed to become noticed as a significant swim power in Iowa as the boys finished 13th in the state.

Four school records were broken; the medley relay, the 200 yard individual medley (a record held for 20 years), the 100 yard free style, and the 400 yard free style relay.

Among the outstanding swimmers were Chris Schoentag, who was voted most valuable and also qualified for state in 3 events; Jamie Arntzen, who broke 3 school records and made state in 3 events; and Rod Miller, Todd Dalecky, Larry Thomas, Paul Betterton, and Bill Viers, who all contributed in breaking one of the school records and went to state.

Many goals were set and attained this year, such as finishing higher in state and placing 2nd in the varsity conference, not to mention defeating Kennedy.

Coach Taylor felt this was a successful season as well as a competitive one. Competition was tough against both local schools and within the team itself. A lot of goals were set and personal standards were high.

Physical preparation was also required, due to the intensity of practices. Every morning and after school they swam more than 3 hours and covered 7,000-13,000 yards. Coach Taylor expected them to give 110% effort and to devote themselves to the sport and life necessary to become successful.

The rewards for this hard work were time improvements and the achievement of goals. Setting goals is what kept the swimmers motivated and mentally prepared.

This year was especially rewarding and the extra effort paid off. As Coach Taylor stated, "Swimming was fast this year and we were competitive."

Throughout the year at Jefferson, often one could walk into a silenced gym. This silence was not because the gym was empty but because the sports spectators were required to maintain a certain amount of silence; one crunch of a candy wrapper and a girl could be found in extreme danger. Concentration is the key to this sport and the sport is girls' gymnastics.

Jefferson's girls' gymnastics team reached new goals with returning gymnasts as well as new, younger experienced gymnasts. A record of 6-2 was attained by the girls through serious work and their will to win.

"We didn't go into meets with negative attitudes, we went into gymnasiums, home and away, giving our all and hoping to win," stated junior Robin Accola. The team finished one meet away from state, but with the positive attitude of this young team they'll go far next year.

Team's hard work brings major wins

"Reach!" yells Randy Meier as the 4x100 meter relay warms up. This is just one of the many events in which the men's J-Hawk track team excelled this spring.

From Dave McVay in the 3600 and 1600 meter runs and Blake Wilkinson in both the 100 and 400 meter hurdles, to Scott Wischmeyer in the 100 meter dash, the men were only 15 points away from winning the M.V.C. meet. These are just a few of the strong events. "I was pleased with many of the runners and the effort was there. A few injuries held us back," noted head coach Ron Schirm.

A major disappointment of the season came when the state meet was scheduled on June 1, the same day as the Cedar Rapids high school graduations. Dave McVay commented, "Both are important to me and it's the last chance for both too." Scott Wischmeyer agreed claiming, "It (graduation) wasn't planned well at all." Another disappointment came with the cancellation of high school pole vaulting in Cedar Rapids.

With the exception of these two letdowns, the season was indeed an exciting one.

Girls strive to win

As the sun shines brightly, you can hear the birds singing and see the sprinklers lightly bathe the thick grass of Kingston Stadium. Soon three o'clock will draw close and you will find a group of girls striving to perfect their individual goals as well as their team goals. These athletes are the members of the girls' track team.

When good weather was provided by Mother Nature, the girls were hard at work running warm-ups, build-ups, and individual group work-outs.

The hard work that continued led to several girls qualifying for state. Among the girls were two juniors who did very well. Julie Davis won the long jump with an 18-foot, 7-inch effort, thus setting a school record. She was runner-up in the 100-meter dash, anchored the J-Hawks third place 400-relay, also a new school record, and led off the 800-relay that finished eighth in the finals. Another junior, Lisa Shaver, a two-time junior qualifier in the discus, placed third with 125-10. Overall the team finished fifth in the state.

With a big smile, junior Ethel Brown prepares to heave the shotput.

Giving it her all, Julie Davis attempts a school record in the long jump.

Kicking high, swinging low

The boys' golf team took on a new look this year. Under new head coach Don Ziegler, many players had hopes of improving their game. With 41 golfers out at the beginning of the season, the team had to be cut down to 10. With hard work the team cut 25 strokes off its score. Senior Kelly Anderson shot a season best one under par 36. This is the best a J-Hawk golfer has shot in many years. Next year's team looks strong as many key golfers return.

The boys' soccer team also worked hard all season. Despite a 0-16 record the team made many improvements. Head coach Sean Shanahan commented, "We are 50% better than we were last year." Captains Andy Bruzek and Paul Hazzard played a big role in the offensive end while defensive improvements by Greg Roloff and Craig Nelson helped the team immensely.

The first full season of girls' soccer was rated a success by the coach. With a 3-4-1 record head coach Dick Briggs stated, "With the team's talent, knowledge, and skill we did pretty well." Disappointment set in with double losses against Washington and Iowa City, but wins came over Davenport West and a double win over Kennedy.

Serve that ball

Striving for that "perfect" serve, each tennis player practices harder than ever, reaching higher and hitting each ball with more power. Working for every point, players concentrate on getting the opponent at a disadvantage by strategic placement of the ball and devastating volleys.

For the tennis teams, this grueling exercise takes place after school until 4:45 everyday. When players aren't competing in a meet, they challenge each other to matches in order to attempt to rank higher on the team. This constant pressure to win is what helps to make Jefferson's tennis teams so successful.

This year's tennis practices began Monday, March 18, when eager participants were required to run a certain distance, do some championships, and drill on several tennis techniques such as forehand, backhand, volleys, overheads, and serving during nightly practices.

Eventually the players were ranked according to their performance in challenge matches. Each player set his/her own goals and individually worked to achieve them. This constant reaching for improvement was what made this year so successful as we carried on our winning tradition.

"Take me out to the ballpark, take me out to the game!"

"Wait a minute! This is the Jefferson baseball team, not the Reds!"

Anyway, it was time again for summer, swim suits, and baseball. The Metro Tournament kicked off the season where the eight area teams competed in the tournament. Jeff has come in first three of the last four years, but finished fifth this year.

There were nine returning starters from last year, including Gary Feaker, Marty Stine, Tom Brown, Sean Benson, Kyle Bye, Rob Kitterman, Craig Furnish, Todd Van Horbeck, and Bernard Dutchik. They played a long and grueling schedule over the hot summer.

These are the freshmen who 3 years ago went 19-0. If they keep improving, they should have a prosperous season, predicted coach Joe Kenney.

When head coach Larry Niemeyer got his club ready early in spring for the campaign which laid ahead of them, the expectations he was setting for his team were very high. Niemeyer always has demanded a lot out of his athletes, but he was expecting nothing but the best from this crew.

The 1985 squad featured a cast in which almost everybody saw action in 1984. Some key players to watch were All-Tournament and All-State selections Lisa Shaver, Melisa Schafer, and Tania Aschbrenner. All of

The season opened very impressively with the J-Hawks winning the J-Hawk Invitational, through lots of lopsided victories. Coach Niemeyer's team also made its annual appearance at the Jack North tournament at Roland Story.

Sports year in review

The 1984-85 sports season has come to a close, but not without a lot of great memories to expose. We all can recall the chants of "Go Big Blue," and the new motto of the "Big Blue Wrecking Crew."

The girls' basketball team took it all in stride, when they began to play the new game of 5-on-5. "Briggs Brigade" laid its opponents flat on the mat, only the J-Hawk wrestlers could have done it like that.

We all could see the dedication of the J-Hawk swimmers, because when they got their heads shaved, not even one quivered.

Both the guys' and girls' soccer team played the game tough, this can be one game that is challenging and rough. For all golfers, they strive for a hole in one, but for only the J-Hawk golfer this is easily done. We've come to the close of the year and we'll end it with track, we know everyone will remember the J-Hawk spirit, and next year they'll be back.

As if athletics weren't your bag and school work just wasn't enough, many J-Hawks could be found involved in various clubs. There was the International Club for linguists, Pep Club for spirit, Swim Timers, Mat Aides, and other varied organizations.

These members had an opportunity to meet new friends, get involved, and promote J-Hawk spirit as well. Dedication and hard work brought rewards of satisfaction, accomplishments, trips, and being a part of Jefferson's winning attitude.

Seniors hold outside jobs

Distributive Education and Trade and Industry are two organizations that have become increasingly popular with many students at Jefferson. These vocational education programs prepared students for a better future in the job world. They gave individuals a chance to earn credits for working at various jobs and their employers graded and evaluated them by the quality of work they did.

These organizations gave students the opportunity to build better futures for themselves and discover what added problems and responsibilities a job contains, especially for teenagers just entering the job market. Through these programs students acquired knowledge and experience they would not have been able to attain in classrooms. Senior Chris Peterson replied, "Working In T&I helped me find a job I liked and was comfortable with. It has been a lot of fun this year and really helpful."

These programs, headed by Mr. Kent LaVelle and Mr. Bob Vrbicek, inspired many J-Hawks to plan ahead for their futures and shape the goals and attitudes needed for success.

Explore jobs

Many students were given the opportunity to take business classes at Jefferson. The classes were offered to get students ready for college and jobs in the future.

Office Education, directed by Mr. Larry Niemeyer, was designed to teach individuals how to handle an office job and cope with customers. In class they typed, worked on answering phones, and how to handle different situations. Senior Sue Ellen Kaness worked at the school board and enjoyed the occupation and atmosphere, "The people there were very friendly and I've learned a lot."

Another option was Data Processing, which was instructed by Miss Loraine Bomkamp. This class was taught by using computers which have become very popular and essential for the future. "The data processing field looks very good for the kids of today," replied Miss Bomkamp. Students often held related jobs in banks, or large companies while attending this class which enabled them to practice their skills.

These classes helped individuals to expand their knowledge of the working world and gave them the incentive to be winners.

Honor students get recognition

The induction ceremony for the Aristotelian Chapter of the National Honor Society was held on April 22 at which time 61 members were inducted.

Choosing members took great consideration and time. First, people were selected to receive applications based on their grade point and good references. Upon completion of these applications, faculty members examined them and decided who to select for membership. These decisions were based on how the student complied with the ideals of the National Honor Society; character, scholarship, service, and leadership. Students who had best displayed these qualities were chosen.

This year 30 seniors and 31 juniors were added to the 30 former members. Many responsibilities were placed upon every member as they pledged to uphold the Society's expectations. Mr. Richard A. Osing, Executive Director of the Council on Aging, was the guest speaker featuring "A Passion for Growth . . . A Passion for the Future." Student speakers included Sean Benson, Kalpana Ramanathan, Martha Boysen, and Daniel Aalberts.

By planning activities ...

Group helps Jeff

Homecoming, pep assemblies, W. P.A., and a leadership breakfast were just a few things that kept this year's Student Council members busy.

Their hard work, time consuming effort, and dedicated time really paid off as each activity turned out to be very successful. Few were acknowledged for their dedication to Student Council yet knew they were appreciated. "I know, although many never said thank you, students appreciated the time we took to make each event just a little more special. Just seeing people having a good time and enjoying themselves at something we took time to create is a big enough thank you to me," explained senior Vincent Poole.

Student Council also played a big part in promoting school spirit, whether it was having a spirit week or a competition yell for students at a pep assembly. Each class learned just how important school spirit really is throughout the year.

Not only was Student Council involved with helping around Jefferson, but it also got involved with outside of school events. Having a good drive in which the food was sent to needy families around Christmas time, or sending May baskets to the elderly, were just a few ways they helped out. A special event Student Council held this year was raising money for former Iowa star Kenny Arnold after he underwent brain surgery.

"Out of all the events we get involved with during the year my favorite ones to participate in are those that help others. It just gives you a good feeling inside knowing you made someone feel a little better about themselves," commented secretary Kim Levy.

The Student Council has much to be proud of as each event made everyone feel a little better. Without Student Council many students would not have the opportunity to benefit from the variety of social events. President Tania Aschbrenner commented on how fun it was to get involved with the social events at Jeff by being a Council member.

This year's senior class worked hard raising money to finance its prom and the class gift. They ended the year with a volleyball tournament and beach party. Senior class sponsor, Mr. Mark Stewart, stated, "This year was the best ever in leadership influences among the few who participated."

Junior President, Mark Hartman, noted, "The junior class was busy selling wrapping paper and posters." Meanwhile the sophomore class jumped off to an early start when members sold chocolate Easter bunnies and cookie pies.

Clubs unite

Each provide assistance

Jefferson's behind the scenes supporters included loyal clubs such as Spirit Club, Mat Aids, and Timers. Each played an important part to the morale of the various athletic teams.

The Mat Aids started their season by selling ad space for the wrestling programs. They made stars to sell for a new wrestling mat and to support the team's trip to the state finals. "Going to state was worth everything we did to help the wrestlers," reflected junior Mat Aid Micky Jones.

The Spirit Club supported J-Hawk teams with locker decorations, Homecoming balloons, notes of encouragement, and parties. Team members each had secret spirit pals to boost their spirits. "We wanted the players to know we stood behind them," commented Karen Bowden, the club's football director, during an interview.

The swimming Timers kept the times and recorded scores during the meets. They also helped run entry cards and they held recall ropes under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Taylor, sponsor.

These clubs displayed their school spirit faithfully and their efforts were deeply appreciated by athletes, coaches, and fans.

Lending hands

Being involved in International Club, and serving as lab and media assistants, helped not only teachers, but the students as well throughout the year.

The forty students in International Club were kids interested in global awareness, who usually came to appreciate and understand other cultures. They gained awareness by eating a Christmas dinner with foreign foods, and in May they had a picnic with guest speakers. A major trip was taken to Chicago and students listened to speakers from other cultures and individuals who had visited foreign countries. These students expanded their views of the world and shared their experiences. Members of International Club hoped to become better world citizens.

Students in the library provided great assistance along with those in the science department. The media assistants ran passes, shelved books, and worked at the checkout desk. These students received a grade, but didn't get any credit. They felt it was fun working with other kids and finally had the time to study for tests. It also permitted the librarians to work with classes instead of doing these tasks.

On the other hand, lab assistants did receive credits, and beforehand, completed a course such as Botany or had a B-average. Lab assistants set up labs, made solutions, made sure equipment was ready, or graded and recorded worksheets. Mr. Crandall said, "They also take care of plants, such as water, fertilize, cutback and repot them as well as feed the fish and clean the tanks."

All of those students have been commended for their efforts during the year to help out teachers.

Writers progress

Jefferson's paper, the Outlook, was honored as one of the top prep newspapers in the country again in 1985. It was the publication's 16th straight year to be honored by the National Scholastic Press Association. Mr. Ron Smrha was the man behind this outstanding publication. He was assisted by Editor-in-Chief Jeff Korn and close to 30 staff members. Everyone had specific responsibilities like photo assignments, reporting, layout design, and working on ads.

The school's literary magazine, Offhand, was also student oriented and was advised by Mr. Reitz. Students applied for the various editor positions and staff members read through literary pieces and chose the best of the submissions. After its publication in May, the issues were available to students for purchase.

Quill and Scroll inductees were notified of their acceptance in April. These members were selected as honorary students who displayed outstanding achievements in yearbook or newspaper. Twelve journalists were recognized this year.

Working hard

Tooling lines, dominant photos, cutlines, and copy blocks were terms that may have been unfamiliar to many J-Hawks, but not to the 90 Statesman staff members.

For the first time in years, yearbook class was offered periods two, four, and five instead of only two and four. Interest was high and everyone spent endless hours of preparation towards the 1985 Statesman. "This year there are only about 30 seniors not pictured. That's great because in the past there has always been 50 or more," commented Senior Class Editor, Tammy DeLong.

Under the supervision of Mr. Ron Smrha, editors, as well as staff members, typed, wrote captions, designed layouts, and cropped photos to make the 85 yearbook the best it could be. Working well together helped the staff meet all the required deadlines. Also, due to the hard work and talent of all photographers, there were many excellent photos from which to choose.

Each individual helped to produce a number one yearbook. Hours of hard work and dedication paid off as the 1985 Statesman grew from 90 different ideas into one final product.

Jefferson's fine arts department boasted a successful year of many productions. Whether it was vocal, instrumental, or dramatic, the participation was high and the support overwhelming.

New challenges were faced when the band divided into two concert bands and Westside membership completely filled the stage. Orchestra, band, and choral students worked hard raising funds for trips and 18 individuals worked especially hard preparing themselves for All-State.

Individuals also sought new and demanding goals as Karen Swanson and Ron Conner discovered a new facet in dramatic performances when they produced individual projects, "Down in the Valley" and "Ordinary People".

The 1984-1985 Westside Delegation reached new heights when for the first time in five years the 40 member group placed first over 48 competitors at the annual Coe competition. For the second year in a row, under the direction of Mr. Pete Eklund, the group also won the overall and first place trophies with perfect scores at the McDonald's swing choir festival.

Westside enjoyed many other performances throughout the year as well, including the annual Dollars for Scholars concert at the Paramount, which was a big success. For the first time at Jefferson, Westside held its own swing choir competition. The Jefferson Invitational hosted 13 groups in the school's auditorium. Westside performed while the judges selected winners among those in competition.

Carla Scheidt, a two year member, commented, "This year was great! I think we accomplished a lot. I've made friends in our group and in other swing choirs during competitions. I really enjoyed Westside and I feel I have learned a lot. I'm going to miss performing."

Westside changed its look again this year. New shiny black tops with colored stripes and black skirts were worn by the girls while the guys sported black suits.

Singers face the music . . .

Vocalists shine

Jefferson's Concert Choir proved that 1985 was indeed its year to shine. Led by vocal director Mr. Pete Eklund, the choir carried on tradition, broke tradition, and reached outstanding goals.

Members of the choir included sophomores for the first time following a long tradition which excluded their young music talents. The result was a year of success and no regrets for the new change. Keeping tradition, however, the entire group performed in the spring musical, in May.

"Although everyone didn't always like to work, Mr. Eklund made each individual put forth his best effort and we appreciated it after the rewards," reflected senior Ron Conner. These rewards included the trip to Chicago and the outstanding results of the Chicago competition. The choir was the only choir to receive a gold rating—the best possible! This accomplishment was one of the major highlights of the year. They also received division I ratings for both men and women ensembles at state large group contest.

Students who gave that extra effort were the 1985 officers: Brad Wermager, president; Karen Swanson and Rod Carlson, vice-presidents; Sharon Roehrich, secretary; Carla Scheidt and Daniel Aalberts, treasurers; Janet Baldus and Carol Ashley, librarians; Susanne Shedenhelm, alumnus secretary; and Lynda Hooten, Choir historian.

"Being a member of Concert Choir has been very rewarding both vocally and personally. Through our efforts we have grown considerably since the beginning of the year and our accomplishments reflect this," expressed senior Brad Wermager.

Voices blend songs

Enjoyment for many students was fulfilled by participation in either Hilltop Singers or Mixed Chorus, open to any student considering a high school career of vocal performances. Both groups met every other day and were directed by Mr. Pete Eklund.

Hilltop, a female chorus group, was deleted spring term due to the conflicts in scheduling with other musical classes. Concerts before this change were performed for the public in the school's auditorium. The Madrigal Singers replaced Hilltop during spring term, Mr. Eklund explained.

Consisting of both male and female singers, Mixed Chorus thrived throughout the year with a large following within the student body. Music performed was with a lighter musical emphasis, containing both classical and modern selections.

Director of Music, Mr. Pete Eklund stated, "I think the two groups performed just fine." When questioned on his musical preference, he replied, "I like the light, relaxing kinds of music."

Although Mixed Chorus and Hilltop are considered by some as stepping stones to Concert Choir, each group's work was done in a professional manner.

Band rates #1

The Jefferson Band of Blue marched through a rewarding season this fall. The band received its sixth consecutive division 1 rating at state contest and out of 33 bands that performed at Kinnick Stadium, Jefferson ranked in the top three.

Besides performing at the state contest, Jefferson also marched at the Marion Invitational, was a co-host with Kennedy for the first Five Seasons Band Festival, and performed during half time at all home football games. The band formally concluded the marching season with its annual Band-o-rama, but really went out in style by marching at the state football finals in the Uni-Dome.

For the sixth year, Mr. Earle Dickinson was the director of the band. Kristi Carroll

A talented pom pon squad shows its precision at a pre-game performance.

Across the darkened room a telephone rang loudly, causing Kristi to jump from the warmth of her bed. "Hi!" a voice said as she picked up the phone, "Are you ready for 7 a.m. practice?"

Kristi let out a moan, but before she knew it she was standing on the practice field, sleepy-eyed and shivering, with the 39 other pom pons and flags who were members of Jefferson's award winning color guard.

The countless number of hours spent practicing, alone and with the band, paid off when the girls won high color award honors at the Marion Invitational. The poms also devoted part of the summer learning the routines performed before games and assemblies.

When asked what she gained from all the hard work, senior Kristi Carroll replied, "I got to be involved in the excitement of fall sports, and helped promote school spirit!" Tami Meskimen

Music excels

The horns rise as the conductor waves his baton, bringing the band to life. Del Borgo's "Festa" fills the air. Sounds soft at first crescendo to fortissimo and then gradually diminish. The band finishes this song and begins concentrating on yet another. The band is at it again; rehearsing.

The concert band enjoyed a very busy and productive year, with a few changes. The 106 members were divided into two bands at the beginning of winter term. Band A was conducted by Mr. Robert Manson and Band B was led by Mr. Earle Dickinson. Mr. Dickinson stated, "In having two bands the students got more individualized attention and the more advanced got to play harder music." The two bands combined after the winter concert for the remainder of the year.

To prepare for state contest, where the band received its tenth consecutive Division 1 rating, the band took a three day trip to Kansas City and participated in a contest at Worlds of Fun. The band finished the year by performing at the graduation ceremony June 1.

The orchestra was once again led by Ms. Jackie Halbloom. The 34 member group enjoyed a busy and productive year. The symphony orchestra performed many concerts at various functions throughout the year. Many 7:30 a.m. rehearsals resulted in a successful year.

Play is smash hit

"Look, life passes up and down here like a regular parade," noted Mr. Appopolous. This quote comes from the comedy, "My Sister Eileen," which was performed November 8-10 in Jefferson's Little Theatre.

Eileen, played by Mary Novy, wanted to become an actress. Her older sister Ruth, played by Jenny Sullivan, dreamed of becoming a writer. The two set out from Columbus, Ohio, to New York, seeking fame and fortune.

First, they were tricked into renting an old apartment, with small rooms, no lock on the door, and worst of all, a large window with no shade. This window looked out onto a street and everyone passing by could see in. At night, a glaring lamp shined right in on the girls as they tried to get to sleep. With all their neighbors and all the people they met through trying to find a job, they ended up meeting a parade of creative, unusual, and different people. Other crazy circumstances and happenings were added to make this play a humorous one.

Asked what she thought of her experience as an actress, Mary

Novy commented, "I really got a lot of it. The rest of the cast was made up of really fun people; we all worked very hard. Working with Mr. Geuder was a good opportunity, and I think the people enjoyed it."

Great acting and hours and hours of preparation made this year's fall play an extraordinary one. The cast had large crowds every night, and Saturday, performed to a sold out audience. Sharon Roehrich

Jodi Ahrens becomes interested in Jeff Hegland, who is intent on fixing the lock on the patio door.

While Jenny Sullivan and Eric Ring discuss going home, Ron Conner tries to talk Tami Meskimen into renting a run down apartment.

An interested Paul Young gets a good look at Jenny Sullivan's new outfit.

Mary Novy struggles to get away from Ron Conner, who has made a pass at her.

A happy couple, Debbie Haeg and Brian Tomasek, announce that they have finally tied the knot.

A shocked Jenny Sullivan learns that six Portuguese admirals have followed her home.

Paul Young watches as Brad Wermager presents Mary Novy with a fan.

Cinderladdin

Once again Jefferson's drama department delighted hundreds of children with its version of Play Time Poppy's "Cinderladdin."

With the help of a magic genie, Cinderella and Aladdin found themselves living a fairy tale romance.

Cast in the leads, Debbie Haeg played Cinderella, Brad Wermager played Aladdin, and Dan Clark portrayed the genie. They were chosen from approximately thirty students who tried out for the fourteen represented roles in the play.

The use of special lighting preceding the appearance of the genie startled and charmed an audience of adults and children alike.

because you see the children laughing and smiling, It makes you feel good inside and you get as much out of it as the kids."

An energetic Play Time Poppy, a tradition of Children's Theater, was performed this year by Karen Swanson and Christie Dyrland on alternating nights.

"Cinderladdin" was presented in seven different showings beginning January 30 through February 2, with crowds reaching near capacity levels at some showings.

It was the goal of Cinderladdin's cast and crew to present an enjoyable hour of entertainment. Through the response of the children, their goal was obtained.

The drama department faced a challenge this year when they presented their version of "The Corn is Green." The actors and actresses were asked to emphasize maturity and emotion because of the seriousness of the play.

The central idea stressed throughout the play was education, while the setting was in Wales in the late 1800's.

Drama director, Mr. Geuder, summarized the story, "A school teacher (Jenny Sullivan) comes to a small mining community to start a school, and is faced with a conflict among parents. Very little is accomplished in the beginning, until she discovers a boy (Paul Young) with great potential and works to get him into Oxford University." There were several conflicts and challenges which led to a happy ending.

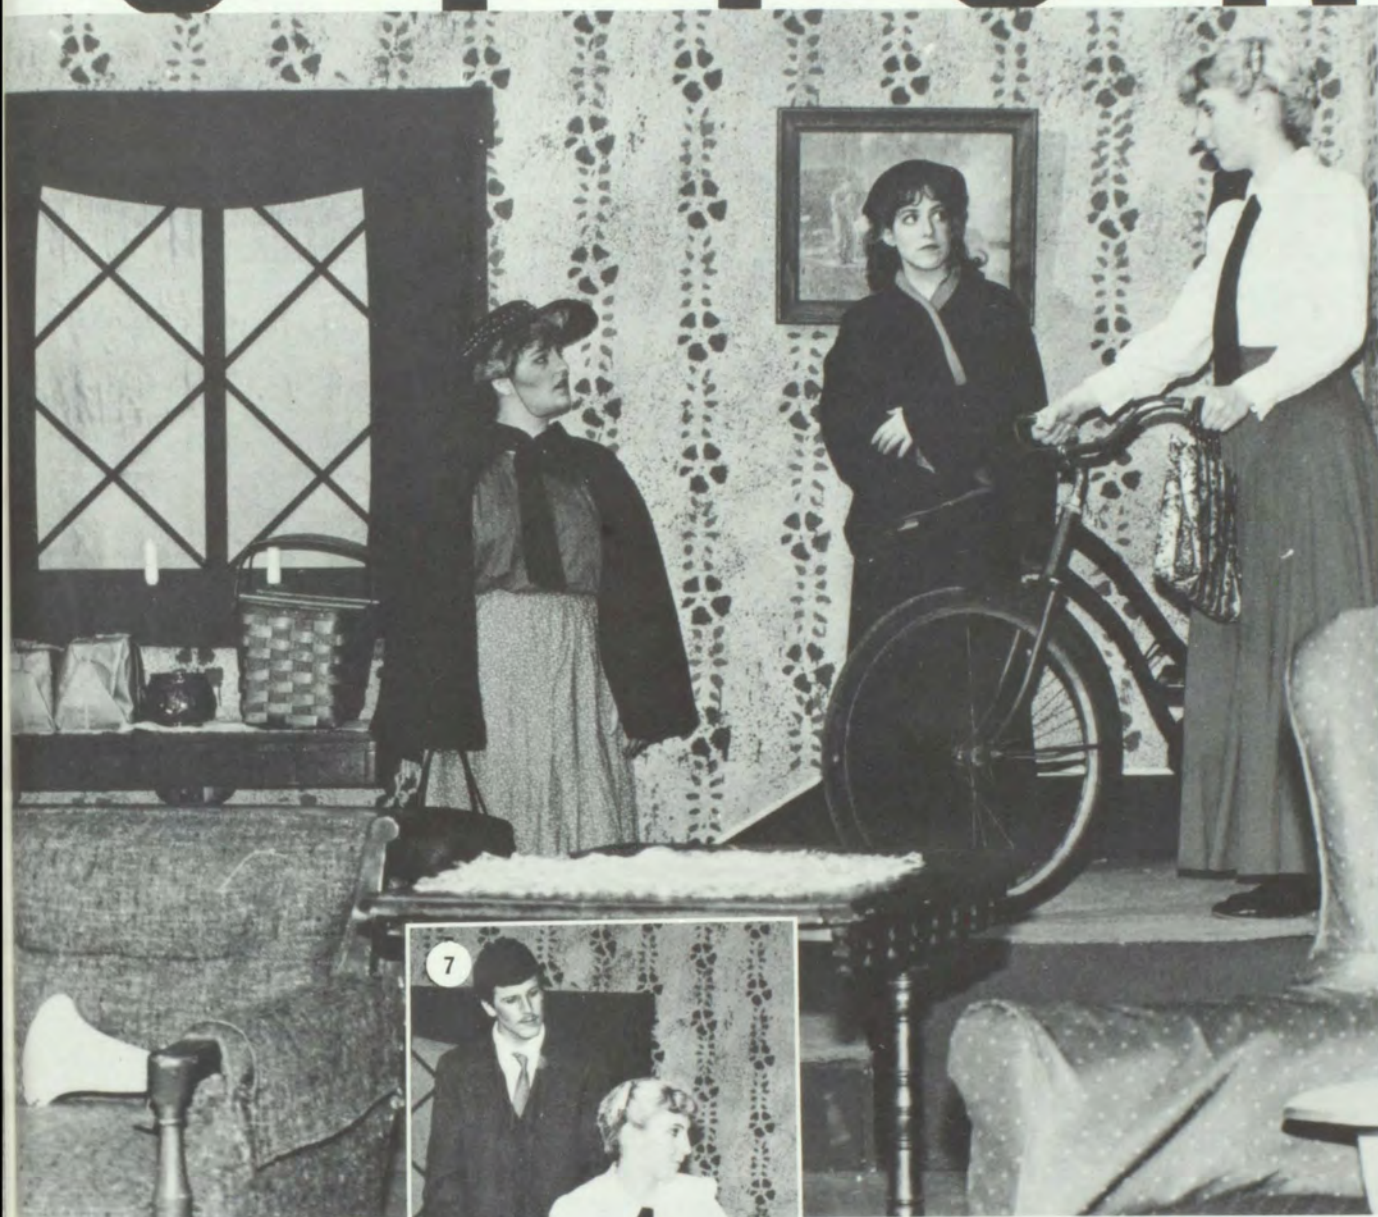

The production was entertaining as well as a learning experience for all involved. —Jodi Ahrens

'Dames': Out to sea for spring musical

A Broadway show on a battleship? Impossible! This year's spring musical, "Dames at Sea", proved anything is possible. It ran May 10, 11, 17, 18 on the auditorium stage at Jefferson.

It takes place back in the 30's on 42nd street at the Hippodrome Theatre. Ruby (Karen Swanson) is a simple girl from Utah who wants to be a big Broadway star. Dick (Brad Wermager) is a sailor boy who wants to be a song writer, but meets Ruby and the two fall in love.

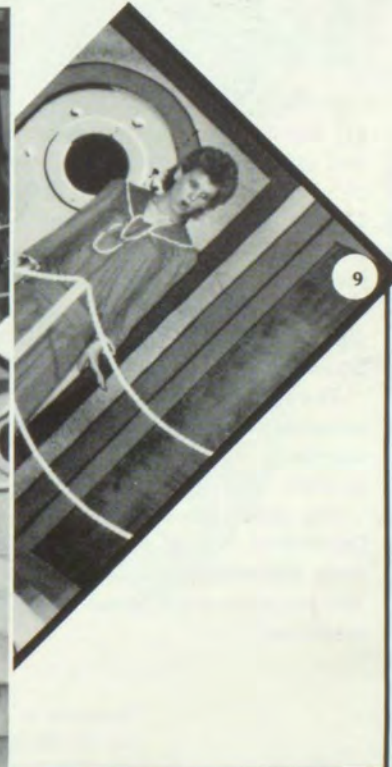

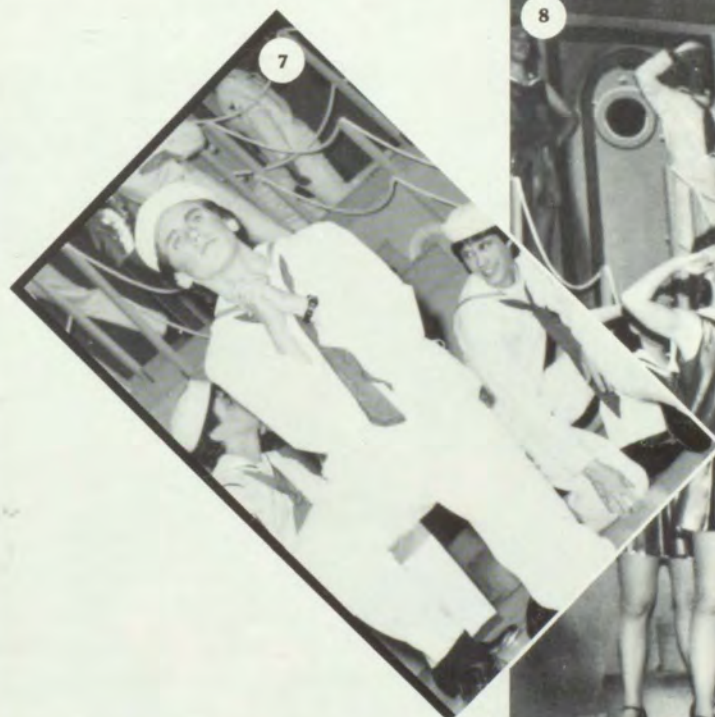

Meanwhile, the cast finds out that the theatre is being torn down and in its place a roller rink will stand. Dick, with the help of Lucky (Dan Aalberts) and all the sailor boys, works to convince the captain (Paul Young) to have a Broadway show on his ship. The plan seems to fail until Mona Kent (Sharon Roehrich), who is the Broadway star of the show, turns out to be one of the captain's old flames. Mona persuades him to put the show on his ship, much to the cast's delight.

Everybody is satisfied to know that the show will go on as scheduled. But tragedy strikes when on opening night after her first performance, Mona becomes sea sick when the stage spotlight ruins her number. The next scene goes on in five minutes and there is nobody to replace her. Ruby bravely takes over and finishes the show. Ruby wins her dream of becoming a big Broadway star and Dick becomes a famous writer. Thus, everybody lives happily ever after.

With the cast of 61 people, dedicated directors, and a talented orchestra, the great tradition of the Jefferson spring musical lives on with this year's production of "Dames at Sea".

Group plans busy season

Jefferson Troupe 561, under the direction of Mr. Robert Geuder, had a most successful year. Along with the two student directed productions, "Down in the Valley" by Karen Swanson and "Ordinary People" by Ron Conner, they also had four honor star recipients this year including Brad Wermager, Dave Douglas, Debbie Haeg, and Karen Swanson, all seniors.

The Thespian trip was taken in January to Chicago where members saw the Broadway production of "42nd Street".

The Thespian banquet was held on May 24 where members enjoyed a slide presentation consisting of productions over the past three years, received various awards, and initiated the new members.

The performers of 1984-85 worked hard sponsoring a December mixer and on the necessary preparations both backstage as well as performing for audiences. The rewards were found in enjoyable evenings of entertainment.

Underclassmen

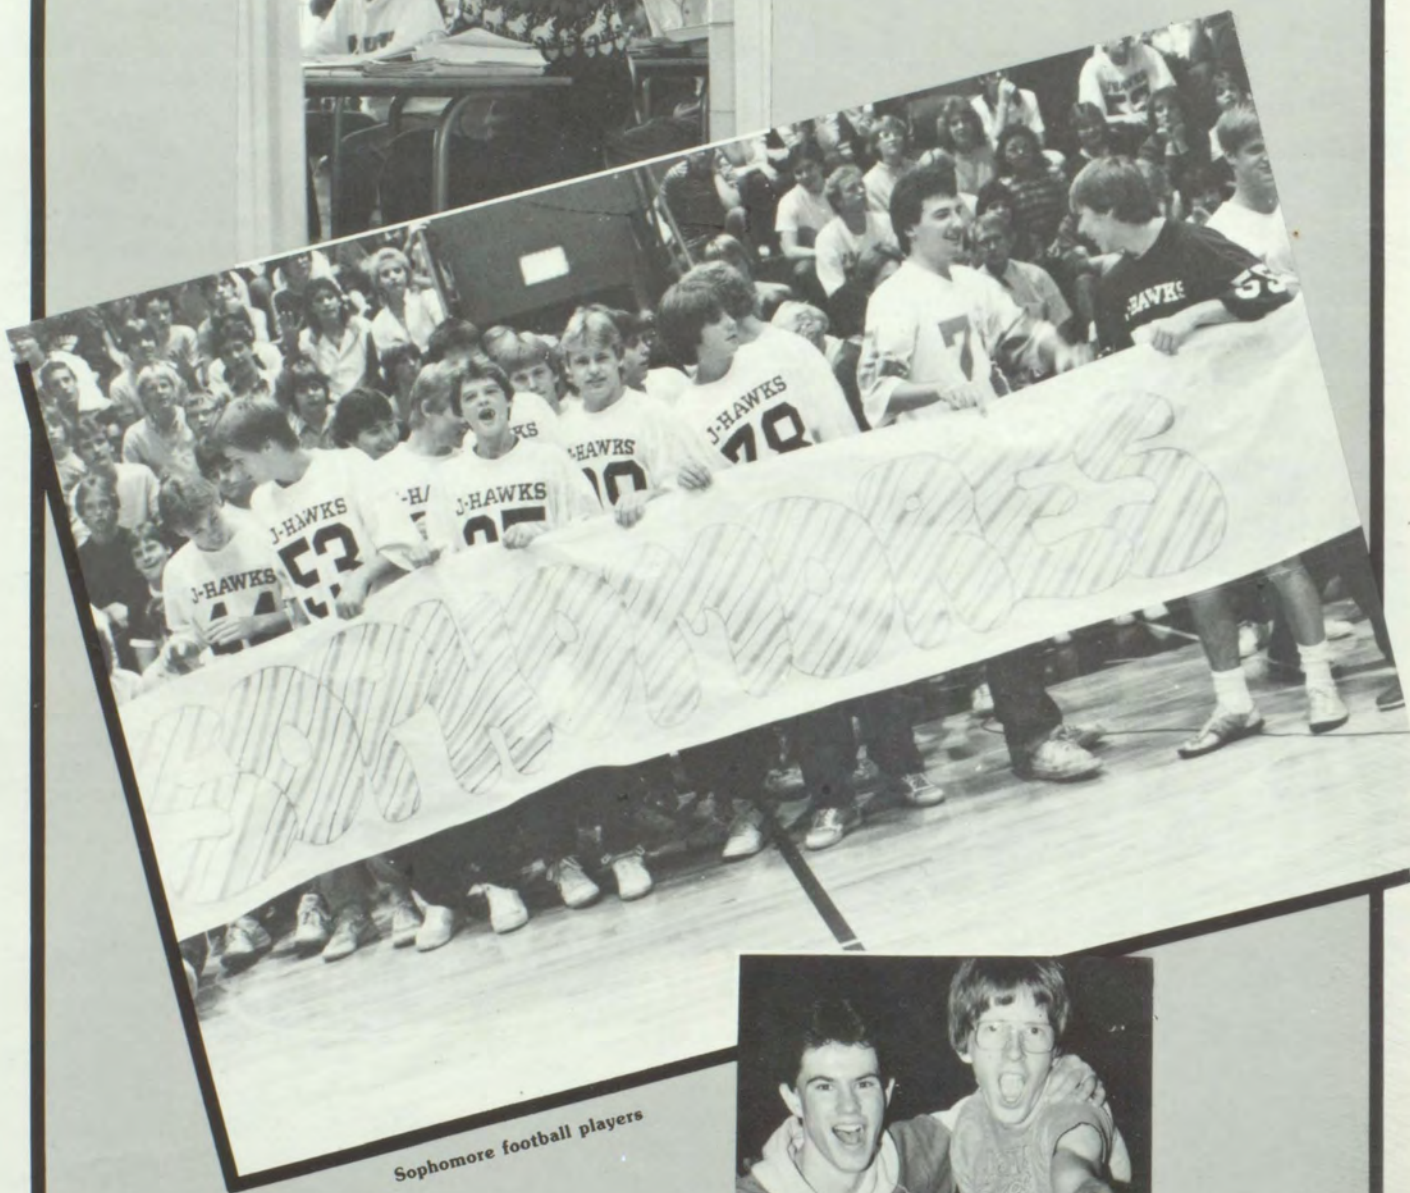

For some, the year started out as a totally new experience, for others it was a step up from being a sophomore. But whatever the case, the underclassmen proved that winners do appear out of the blue.

Underclassmen joined many activities during the year. But all minds seemed to drift to next year when the juniors are finally seniors, and sophomores are no longer scoffies.

High school friends are one of a kind,
they're the best
you'll ever find.
They are there
when you need them,
through thick and thin.
They'll be there forever,
again and again.
So the next time
you feel alone and sad,
just remember
things aren't so bad.
Think of the friends
in high school you made,
for those friendships
will never fade.

The senior year was memorable and filled with plenty of good times. Mixers, football games, and going out with special friends were ways seniors could pass the time away. Pictured here are: (1) Cindy Beary and Jim Baseman (2) Kim Levy (3) Lanette Poole and Eydie Hoeppner (4) senior section at a pep assembly (5) Dawn Crumes, Nancy Greiner, Cheri Landis, and Shannon Sacora (6) football squad with Mr. Calloway.

Seniors

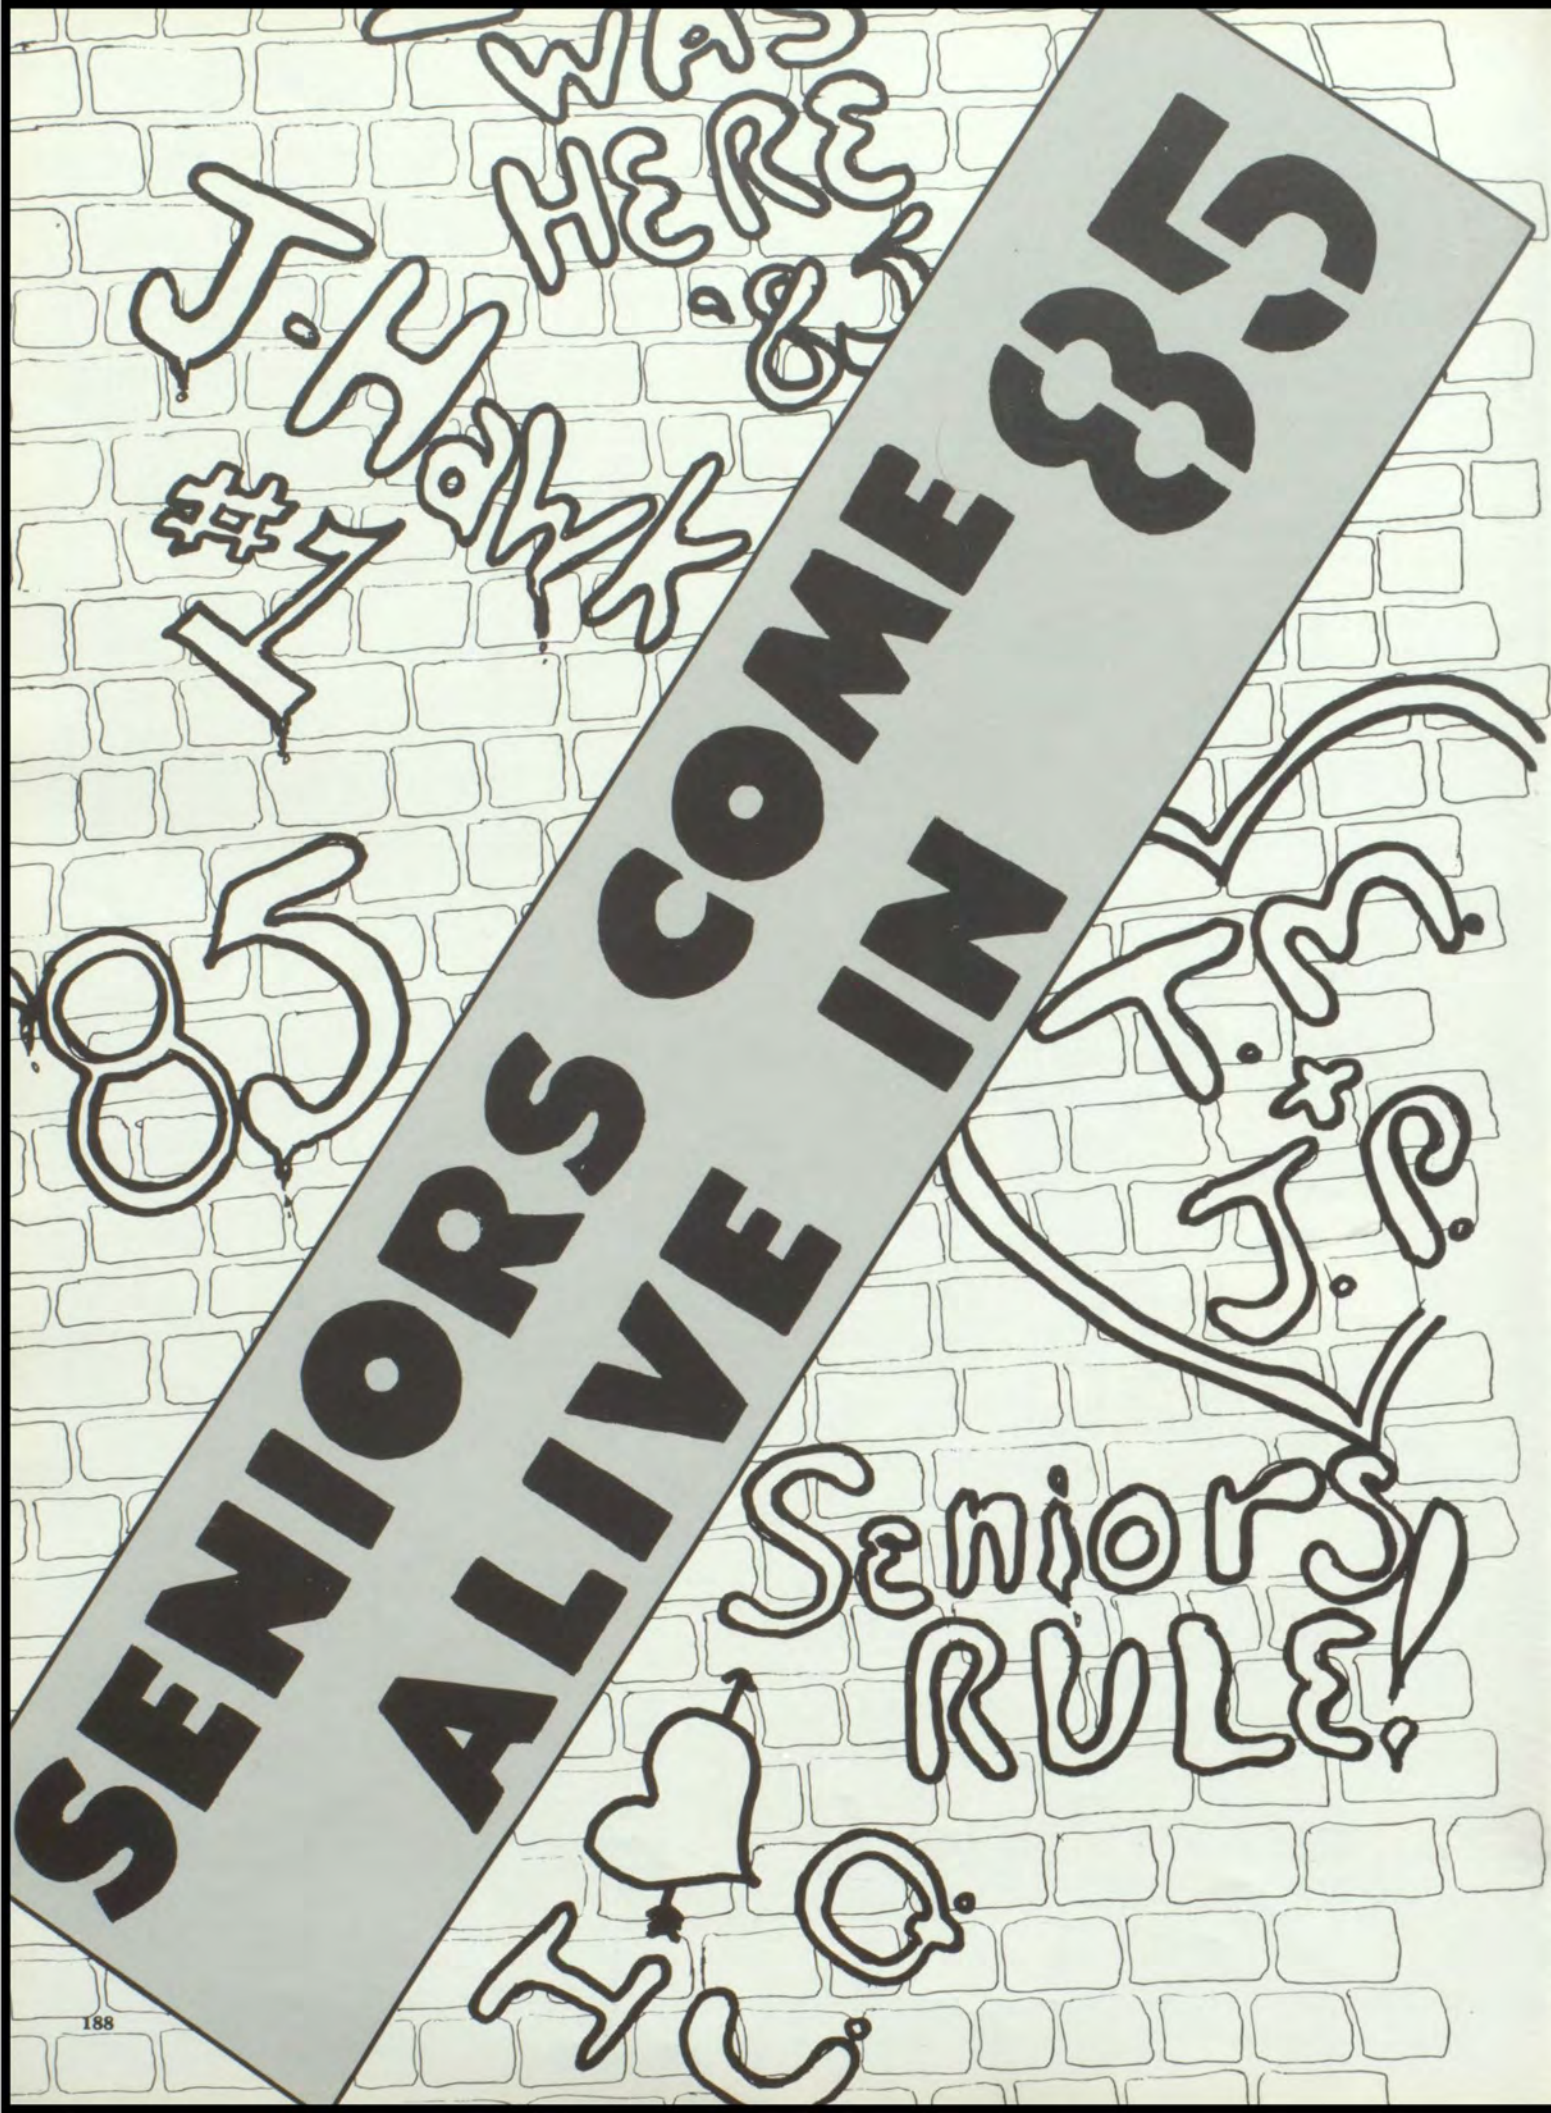

Winners appeared out of the blue in most every senior activity. Records were broken, outstanding ratings obtained, and personal goals reached. Competition was strong among J-Hawks, proving that not only groups contributed to the excellence of Jefferson, but individuals made the difference as well.

The class of 1985 consisted of winners; an attitude that could be found in the classrooms, on the practice fields, and in the hallways.

Seniors arrange big event ...

ONE MORE NIGHT

The soft breeze ruffled girls' dresses as they entered the IBEW Hall, site of the senior prom. A romantic atmosphere prevailed as couples entered through a trellis. "When I arrived the music from the band sent chills up my spine. I couldn't believe it had finally come," one excited senior girl exclaimed to her date.

The evening's excitement was preceeded by shopping for that perfect dress and matching accessories for girls, while guys were left to find an appropriate tuxedo or suit. Top hats and canes provided the final touch.

While the girl's responsibility usually ended after choosing a dress and flowers, the boy's did not; there was still the matter of transportation. For some, this meant borrowing a car, or in senior Tim Gearhart's case, renting a chauffeured driven Rolls Royce for the evening.

As the year came to an end, some of the happy faces that attended senior prom included: 1) a group of prom-goers sharing a special moment 2) Jim Lockett 3) Crystal Vasquez and Dave Fleck 4) Cheri Landis and Dan Egger 5) Sylvi Fotland and Tim Gearhart 6) Carol Ashley and Mark Tiedtke 7) Julie Sylvester and Scott Gull 8) Lila Igram, Samantha Whitney, and Gina Pedersen 9) Phil Hansen, Kris Stieger, and Missy Neblung.

Susie checked the mirror one last time before she left. Assured that everything was in place, she straightened her cap and sighed. Twelve long years of fun, friendships, tons of homework, and the dreaded school lunches were coming to a close as graduation was at hand.

Graduation ... to many seniors it meant the end of one life and the beginning of another. It was a time to look for what the future held, whether it was marriage, college, or finding a full-time job. But it was also a time to look back through the years and remember the good times, the last-minute study sessions, and the changes that everyone went through.

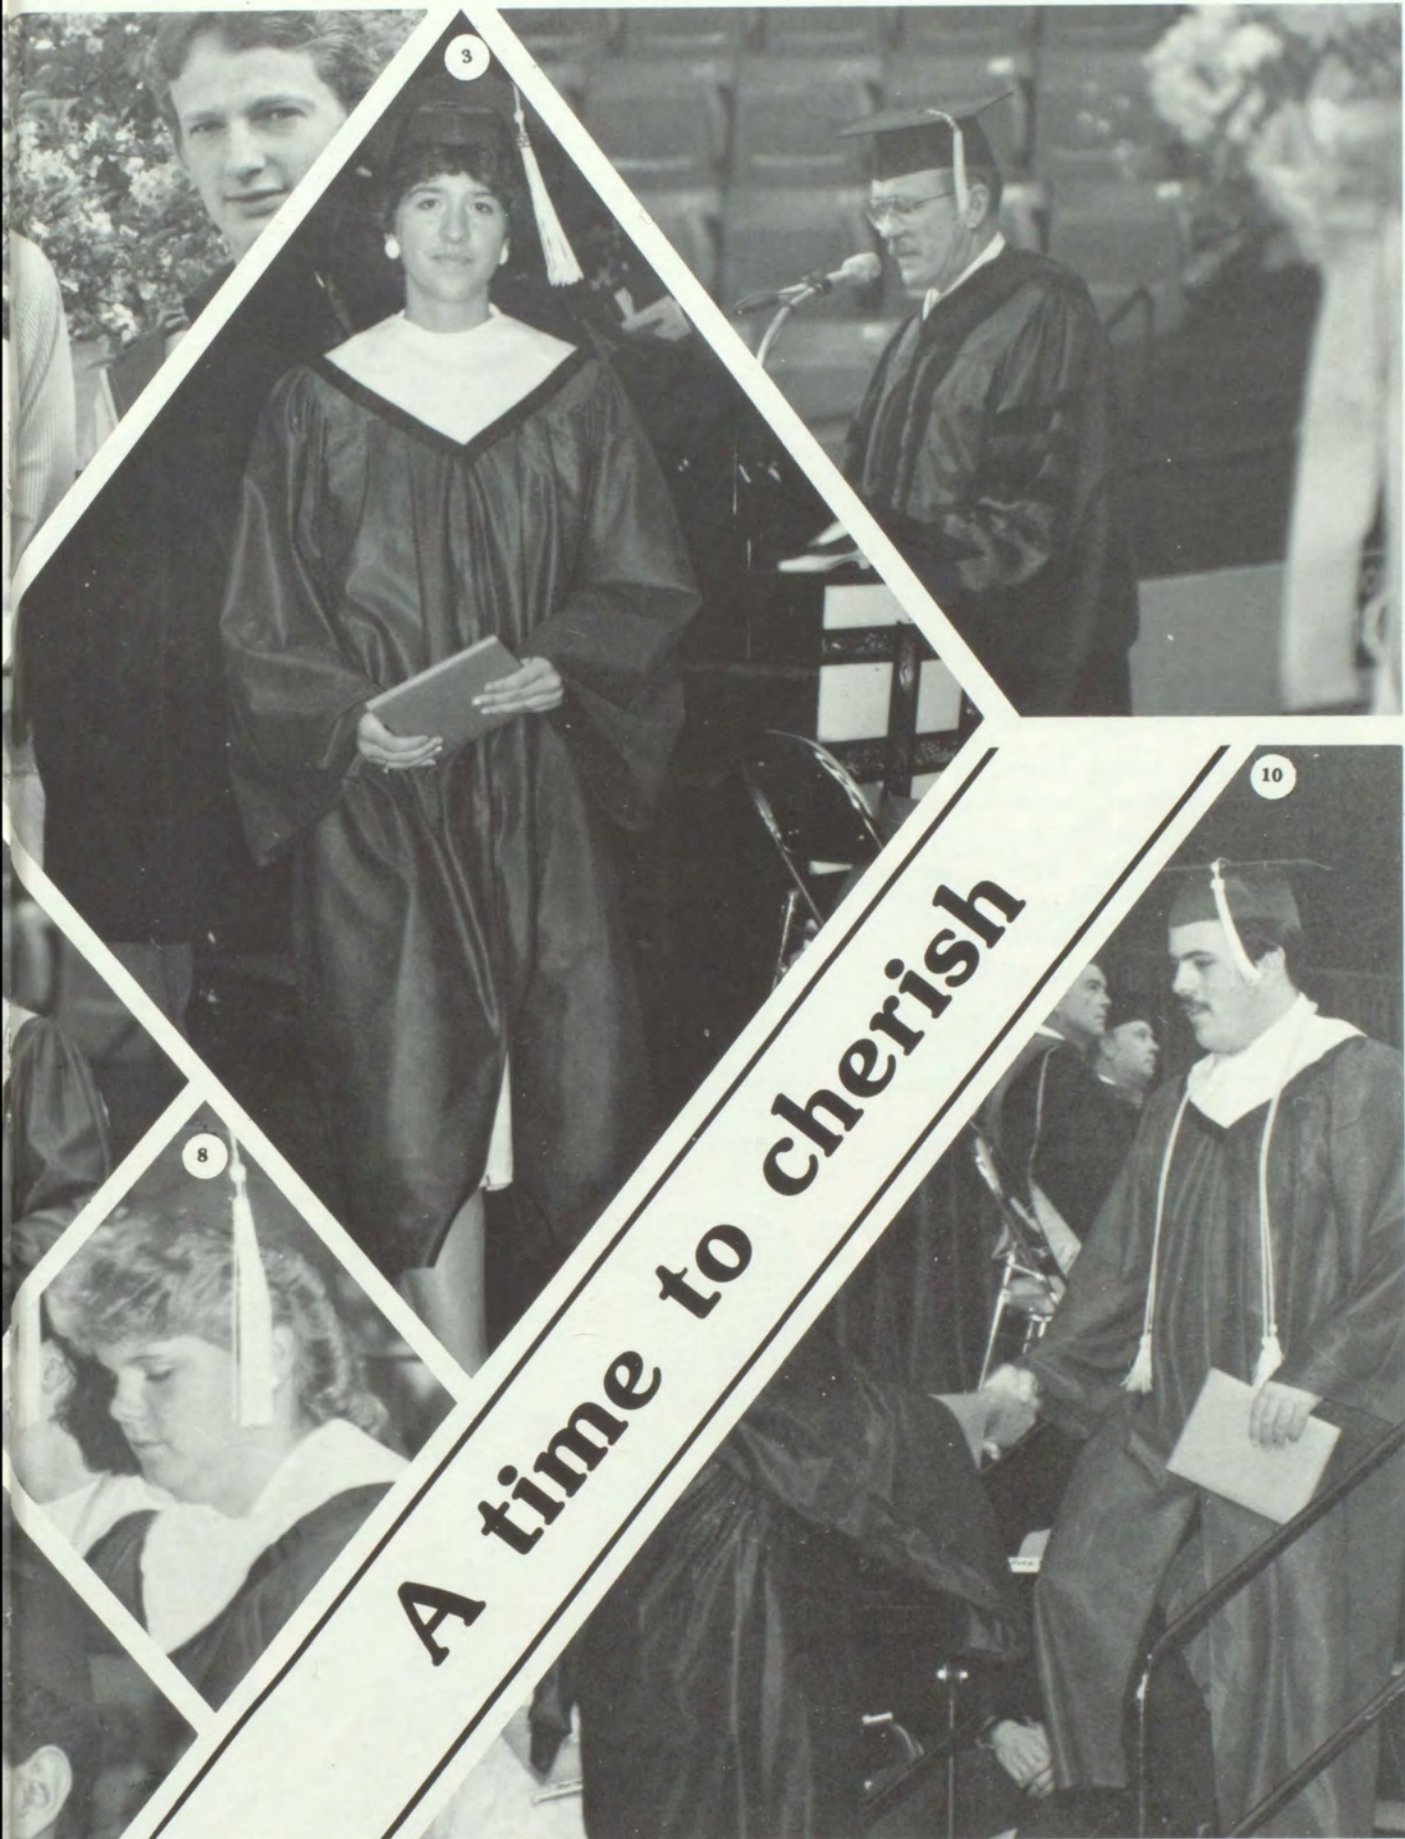

When asked about how she felt about graduating, senior Tracey Brown commented, "I want to, but I'm scared, too. It's an achievement to finally be graduating." As for future plans? "I'm going to move on to college, but I'll miss the security of high school."

Commencement took place June 1 at 1:30 p.m. at the Five Seasons Center. The Class of '85, 431 people strong, was together for one final time. As the nervous seniors began to file on the stage to receive their diplomas, the smiles on their faces revealed pride: pride in themselves for having met the challenge of graduating.

—Muna Koudsi

The many faces of graduation reflect the special moment: 1) Valedictorians Daniel Aalberts, Sean Benson, Chris Boeding 2) Kristyn Van Note 3) Dr. Jacobson 4) Phil Hansen 5) Mike Watts 6) Rod Myers 7) Janet Baldus 8) Michele Barkdoll 9) Ron Conner 10) Jeff Korn.

Endings

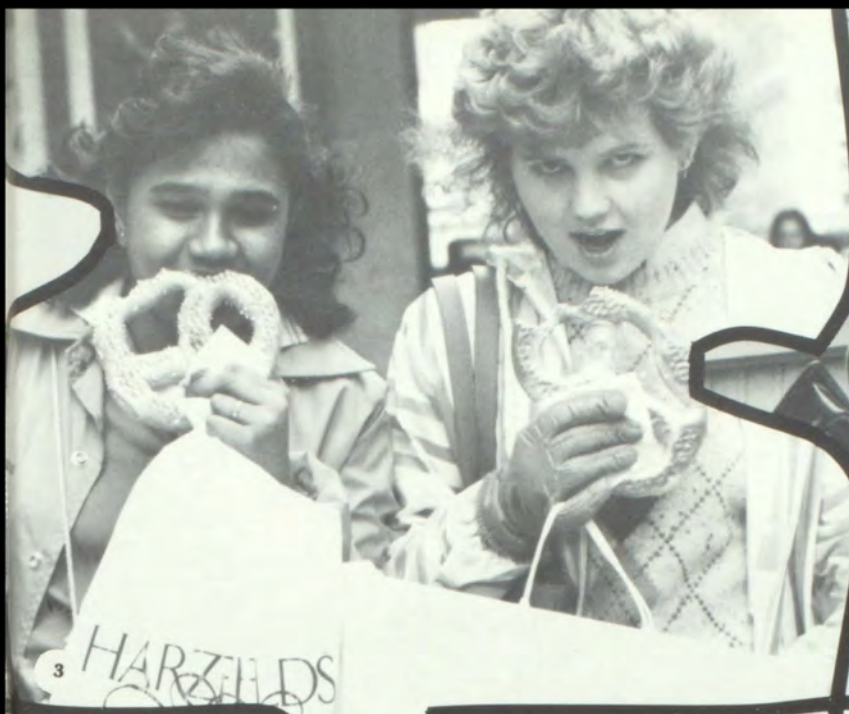

This year J-Hawks have made history, reached goals, and have set new sights for promising futures. For seniors this was a final step and a new beginning. For underclassmen it was another year of accomplishments.

The 1984-1985 school year had a lot of moments the students and faculty will never forget: 1) Heidi Behrman 2) Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pilling 3) Allen Chism and "California Girls" 4) Tammy Thomas and Mark Weber 5) Renae Sullivan, Laurie Bracy and their dates 6) Bill Bode and Don McDill 7) Wrestling Coach Dick Briggs 8) Allen Chism 9) Westside Delegation members 10) Tony Hill and Randy Meier 11) Brad Buck, Greg Roloff, Mike Everhart.

Mixers, games, performances, competitions, and moments shared with friends have created the special memories of 84-85. Individuals have achieved the title of "winners" in athletics, academics, and personal growth.

J-Hawks ended the school year the same way they started it, with lots of spirit: 1) Childrens Theater members 2) Corey Baker 3) Kalpana Ramanathan, Heidi Behrman 4) Martha Boysen 5) Westside Delegation members 6) Amy Homan 7) Dawn Humbert, Muna Koudsi 8) Varsity Football Cheerleaders 9) Dennis Sylvester 10) Varsity Football Cheerleaders and Jeffy J-Hawk 11) Mr. Ken Marsh.

Remember '85

A great year

Winners have made the difference. The year ends with new records, trophies, and fresh knowledge instilled in young minds. A year of changes and adjustments has challenged J-Hawks in all areas and looking back there is no doubt, "Winners Appeared Out of the Blue!"

Enthusiastic J-Hawks show their true blue spirit throughout the year. Pictured here are: 1) Kristy Beaton, Mr. Bob Reitz, Martha Boysen, and Heidi Behrman 2) Dawn Strait and Julie Sylvester 3) Shelly Miller, Becky Padilla, Wendy Frye, and Janice Sylvester 4) J-Hawk football fans 5) Allen Chism, Chris Lien, and Scott Wischmeyer.

Many imagined all this . . .

WE LIVED IT

Creating the 1985 Statesman began as a dream. At times it was frustrating, but 90 special individuals proved that dreams come true. Thank you seems so underrated for all the hard work and cooperation I received, but I think the reward was best reflected in this yearbook for the 1984-85 school year.

A special thanks to Janis Seaton, Michelle Brundage, and Kristy Beaton for helping me through all those dreaded deadlines and for being great friends.

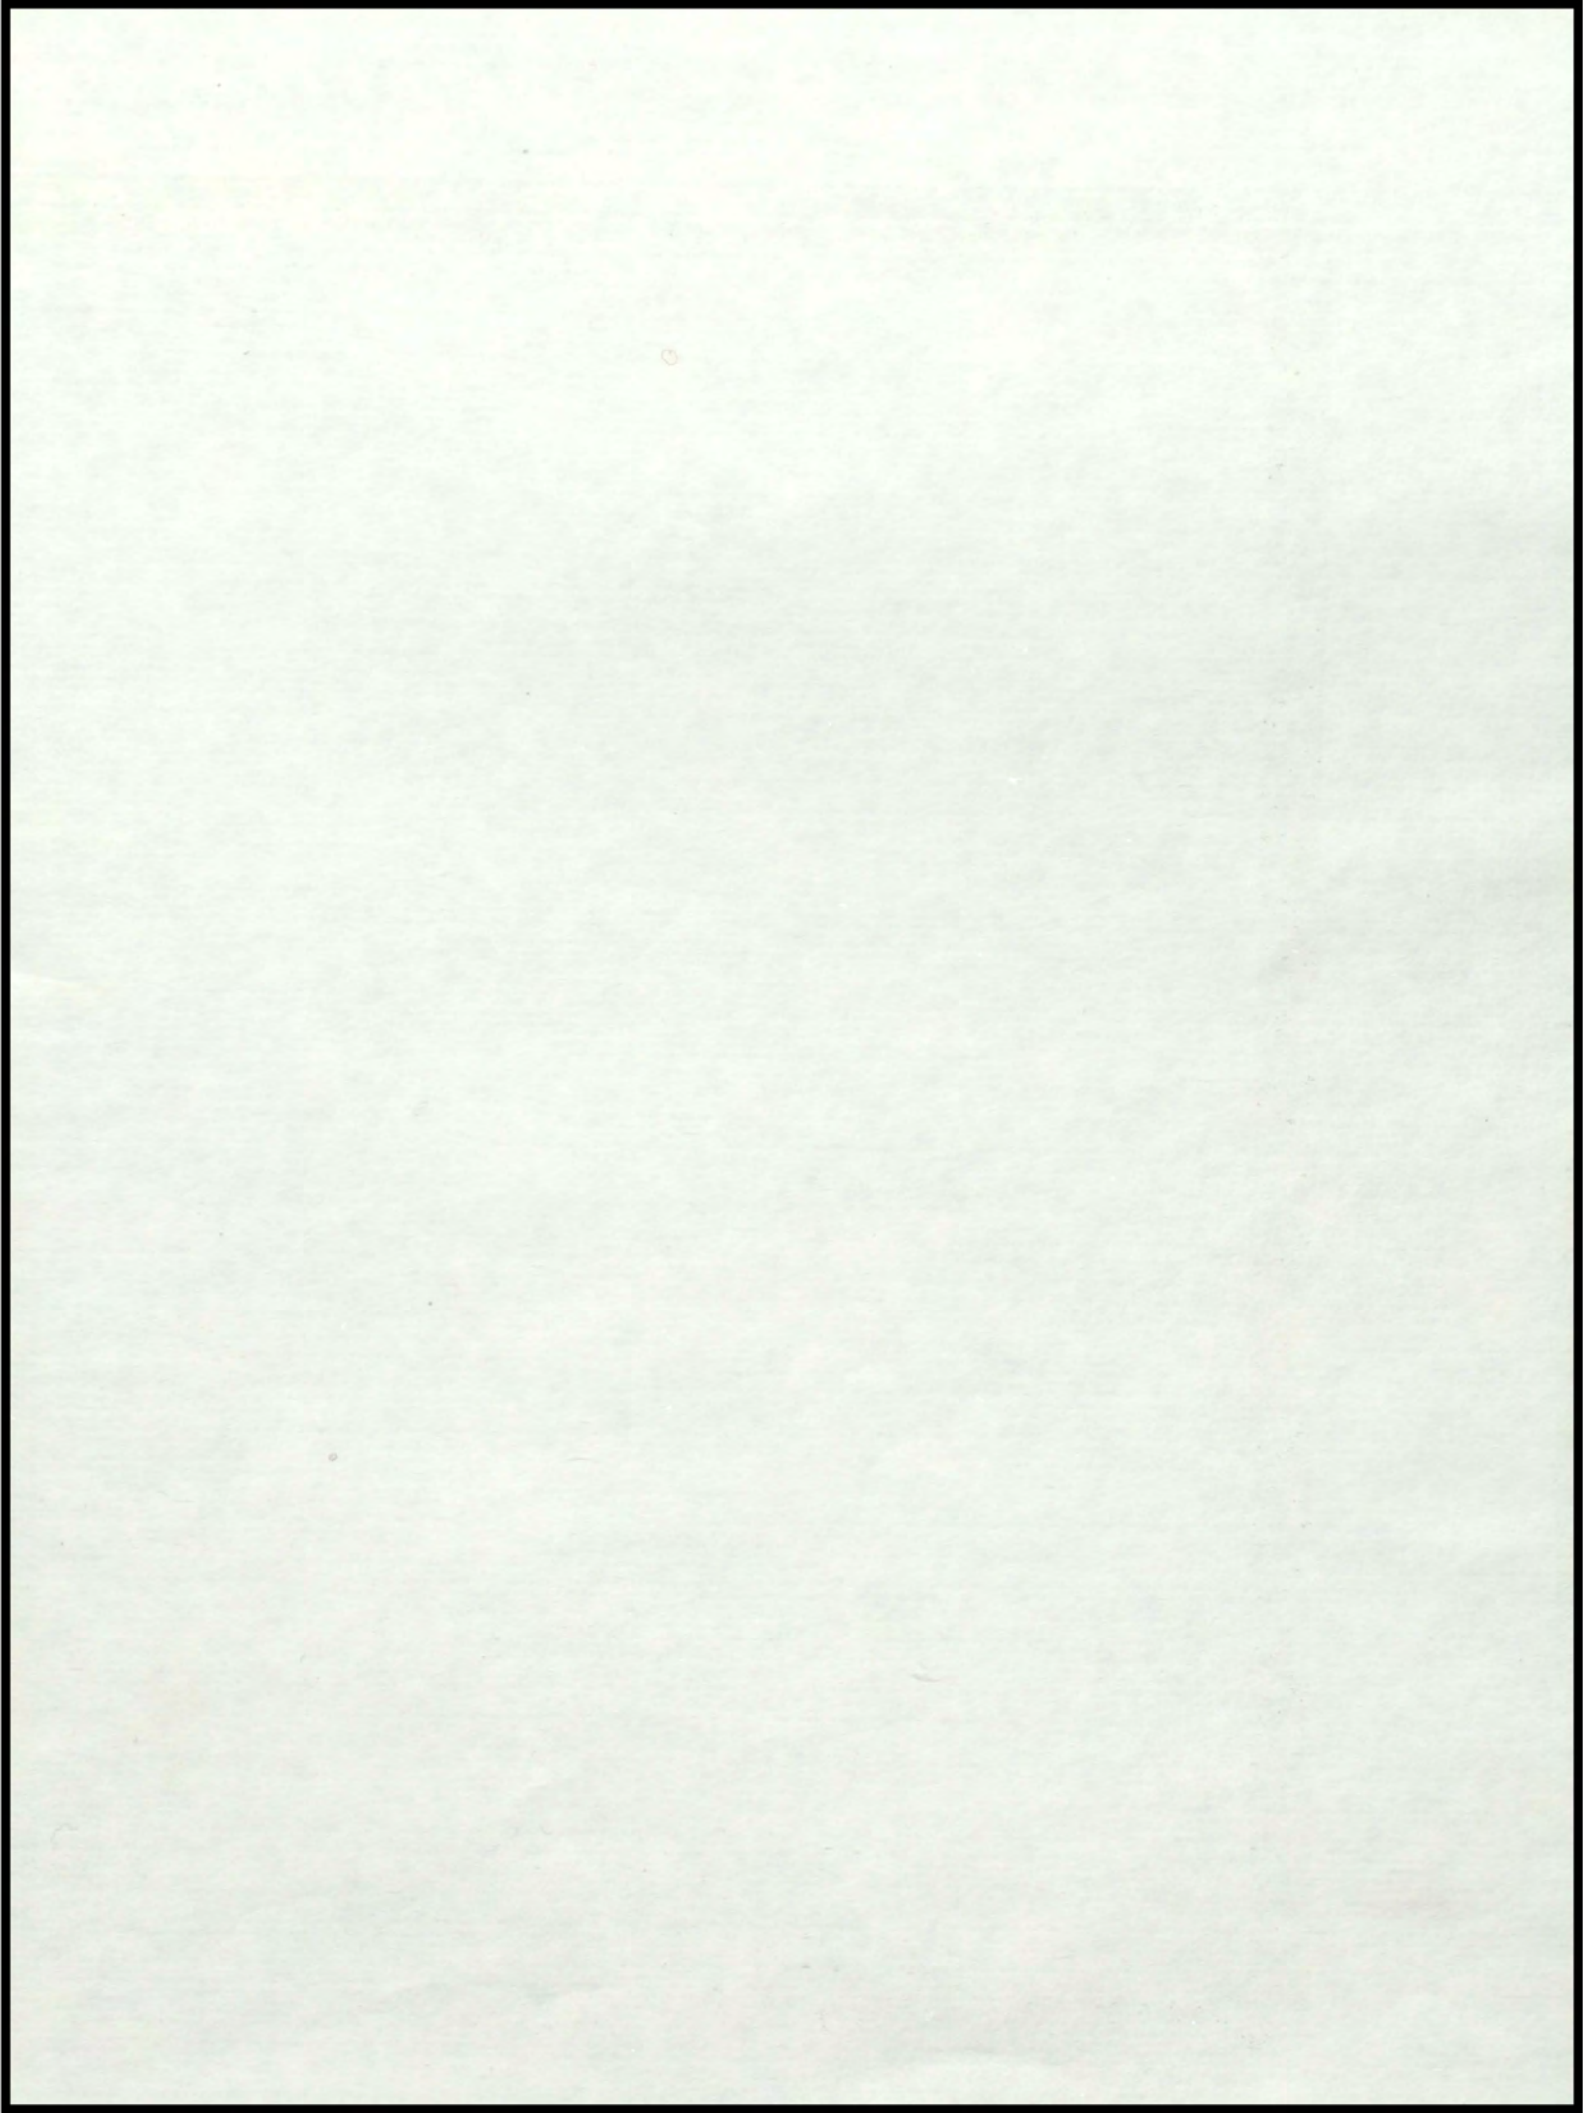

Words cannot express the gratitude I owe Mr. Smrha. Above all he taught me patience. No matter what chaos was at hand he always made me smile. Thank you for being such a fine advisor and a great friend. The 1985 Statesman is a yearbook to be proud of. —Teri Hansen editor-in-chief
