Tradition ends

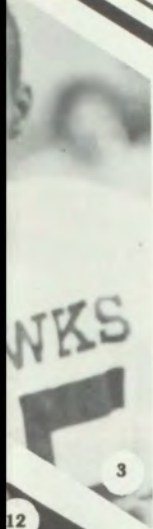

30 years of excellence has made Jefferson High what it is today

White sands, blue skies, and past memories of summer were what students had on their minds as they once again entered the silent hallways of Jefferson. It was not long before teachers began assigning homework, football games occupied Friday nights, and the fall play was performed. Once again school was in progress but this year was like no other. Jefferson celebrated its 30th birthday. It also marked the last year that we would be a three year high school. As the year continued on J-

Hawks old and new showed their spirit by participating in athletics or by joining one of the numerous clubs that were available. Thirty years of pride and excellence have made our school what it is today as we once again turned over another year in Jefferson's history, watching a tradition go out in style.

Each J-Hawk's dedication and pride is evident in whatever activity or event they're involved in: 1) Sophomores displaying school spirit 2) Sherrie Crane 3) Clark Brewster 4) Karen Boyd, Greg Lewis, Christi Dyrland and Les West 5) April McHugh 6) Tracy Baird, Joan McGuire and Kim Klink 7) Kurt Darrow 8) Dave Reid 9) Stacia Meade 10) Steve Ehrenberger and Joel Aalberts 11) Phansa Baccam 12) Tracy Walker 13) Troy Schulte and Dan Swenson 14) Scott Zahner 15) Gerry Groom 16) Tracey Doyle, Dawn Heiken, Denise DeGroote.

We gotcha!

J-Hawks show their winning smiles as they get involved in various activities: 1) Suzanne Druger, Jeri Pealer, Kari Ann Field, Realy Brown 2) Chris Dougherty 3) Jennifer Saathoff 4) Bob Thompson 5) Kim Edmunds, Shelly Crane, Cari Strauss 6) Tammi Dix 7) Tom Mincy 8) Shawn Eige, Michael Kellerman 9) Senior Girls 10) Jay Melchar, Jeff Wright 11) Jeff Braun 12) Jeremy Schultz, Cam Johnson 13) Seniors at a pep assembly 14) Varsity football team 15) Jodi Behrens 16) Russ VanderWiel, Jenny Koehn, Sherry Ernst 17) April McHugh, Tammy Stoneking 18) Jeff Carpenter 19) Pete Eklund.

Getting involved was the name of the game as these J-Hawks showed exactly what Jefferson's student life was all about: 1) Terry Stender 2) Jay Melichar, Ami Heiken 3) Chris Mrazek, Wayne Brandon 4) Pam Bouzek, Shannon Lafferty, Day Barnes, Charlotte Wehr, Michele Waller 5) Jeffy J-Hawk, Judy McLain 6) Jeff Carrol, Mike Novy, Thad Edwards.

"One, Two, Three . . . Got that spirit ya man, let the seniors show it Go! Go! Go Go Go!" The competition yell is something all J-Hawks will remember the rest of their lives. The seniors were masters of it and by the end of the year even all the sophomores had it down pat. The yell was just one way to promote school and class spirit. Throughout the year, no matter what activity they attended, J-Hawk spirit shined through.

"Decorating cars and getting fired-up before the games with my friends is something I will always remember," said Colleen Ottomeyer. After showing support at games and events many fans found themselves going to mixers. They could socialize with their friends and get wild, all at the same time.

A spirited tradition went out in style, with the end of the three year high school, but memories, friends, and good times made enthusiastic students and staff work together to maintain Jefferson as the best place to be.

30 years ago...

Remember that old wedding saying, "Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue"? Just as fads come and go the 1987 school year proved to be just another milestone in Jefferson's 30 year history. This being the final year of a three year high school has meant different things to the 1,400 students. For the seniors relief, anticipation for the juniors, and for the sophomores it meant another new leaf to turn over.

From joining a sports team to attending the spring musical, many J-Hawks old and new alike gave it their all. These students faced the realization that every good thing must come to an end as they planned on going their separate ways. Each slowly watched "A Tradition Go Out In Style", as Jefferson ended one chapter and began another as preparations were made for the incoming freshmen.

Displaying their J-Hawk pride, students old and new show their bright sides as they watched "A Tradition Go Out In Style": 1) Chris Varo 2) Brad Hoeppner 3) Doug Frame, Sue Strawhorn 4) Missy Barkdoll, Tracy Walker 5) Darin Nelson 6) Tammi Dix, Cindy Jones, Brian Kuhlman, Lisa Winckel 7) Erika Perkins, Julie Ohlsen 8) Dotie Curtis 9) Lisa Smith, Stacie Cutler, Christy Stucker 10) Cecile Kalpokdjain 11) Diane Baldus, Debbie Greiner 12) Mr. Hoeppner 13) Dawn Heiken, Karol Ludvick 14) Senior girls 15) Kari Horak, Jenny Koehn 16) Dave Simmons 17) Lisa Mead, Diane Nolte 18) Jon Lewis, Kevin Oellrich 19) Joel Aalberts 20) Matt Koch 21) Greg Ramsey 22) Earnie Jordan.

Elaborate floats, colored leaves, and spirit week added anticipation and celebration to a memorable Homecoming back in 1964.

Fond high school memories include the Statesman, earning a Varsity letter, state championships, prom and the event that caps high school days ... graduation and the beginning of your future.

Unlike earlier days when Jefferson had a strict dress code, Pam Bouzek displays the long sweatshirt/leggings fashion of today.

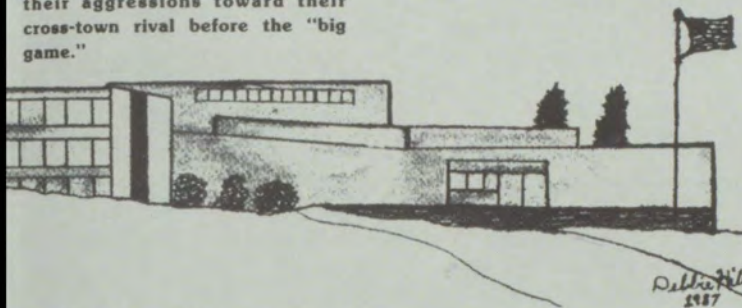

From the days of manual typewriters and carbon copies to Xerox machines and computers, Mr. Jim Cox shows how much Jefferson has advanced over the past 30 years.

If walls could talk

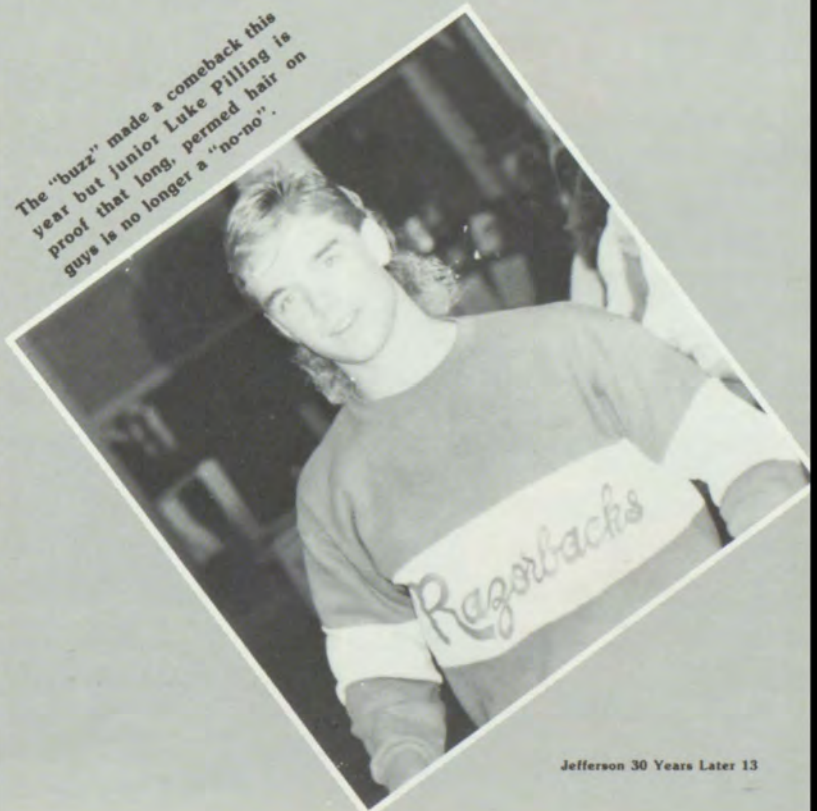

During Jefferson's early years, J-Hawks enthusiastically took out their aggressions toward their cross-town rival before the "big game."

Mr. Jack Pilling models his preference in fashion by wearing jeans, dark glasses and boots that keeps him as up-to-date as his students.

The "buzz" made a comeback this year but junior Luke Pilling is proof that long, permed hair on guys is no longer a "no-no".

"Jefferson High, high on a hill, sing we thy song of praise." It's been thirty years since Ruth and Torie Carlson wrote "The Jefferson Loyalty Song." This tribute displayed already strong pride in the newly built Jefferson High School and the knowledge of great memories that were yet to come.

Back in 1957, when Jefferson first opened its doors, things were different from the way they are now. There was a strict dress code. The boys had to wear a shirt with a buttoned down collar, dress slacks with a belt, and dress shoes. The girls had to wear a dress or skirt that came within a foot of the floor or they were sent home because it was too short.

Jefferson has come a long way to get where it is today. There is an indescribable feeling in the halls of Jefferson... the great sense of pride—pride in who we are and what we can be throughout the school. "School makes you a better person," said senior Melissa Schafer.

The Jefferson athletic department and the fine arts department have received many awards for their fine performances. The Jefferson students also received the "Excellence in Education Award" in 1985.

There is an underlying spirit that was born in these halls, that holds the memories together with the accomplishments of Jefferson. Pride is the spirit that causes teachers to love teaching here, students who return to teach, and students who want to go to school nowhere else. The times may have changed but 30 years of Pride and Excellence make the words, "As time goes by, I realize how much you mean to me," released by Chicago in the early 70's, ring true.

Exciting time for all

Sharing tears of joy, senior Nanci Hanna congratulates Shelly VanBogart upon her selection as a queen candidate.

As the balloons were released, so were the tensions and anticipations as Ami Heiken was named the new queen.

Kris and Jackie Smith share a special moment when both sisters were chosen as semi-finalists.

Ami triumphs

On September 26 all senior girls entered the gym with hopes of possibly hearing their name announced as a top 25 choice for Homecoming queen. As the crowd settled into their seats, junior Tracy Winkler began to announce the 25 semi-finalists.

On October 3 at the second Homecoming assembly, the top ten girls' names were announced. Each of the ten finalist's parents were there to congratulate, hug, and give a flower to their unsuspecting daughter. It was a special time for these ten girls and their parents, and for everyone else.

Finalist Sherry Ernst was asked what she felt was the most memorable part of Homecoming. She said, "It would have to be at the top ten assembly when my parents were there. The look in their eyes ... I could tell they were happy." Seniors then went to homeroom and voted for their first choice for queen.

"It was the best crowd of the year ...," according to Mr. Goettel. It really was a record crowd. The game against Prairie was blessed with a spirited crowd and beautiful weather, that set the mood for the exciting event ahead. The J-Hawks put up a good fight, but ended up losing, 6-0.

The Homecoming dance on October 18 attracted many students. According to Mr. Hoepfner, "It was the biggest turnout for a Homecoming dance that I've ever been associated with." The students danced to the theme song, "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do", in the cafeteria and talked excitedly about the night's events.

Holding a carnation and an even lovelier smile is one excited girl, Roxanne Lee, who was the 17th semi-finalist announced.

Excitement and anticipation were both a big part of the W.P.A. assembly, as everyone awaited the names of the candidates: 1) Robin Threatt, Jeff McAllister 2) Corey Boyles, Erin McNamara 3) Tom Welsh, Julie Miller 4) Tracey Johnson, Parrish Copeland 5) Mark Kellerman 6) Steve Potter, Tracy Winkler 7) Joni Eirp, Tonya Herber, Jeff Sharpe, and Darin Tiedtke and 8) Colleen Ottomeyer, Jay Melichar.

Guys are hit Girls choose W.P.A. Kings

Girls screamed wildly. Guys waited anxiously. Students sang along with "Lean On Me" as the tape player blared! These were just a few of the sights and the sounds that any Jefferson visitor would have experienced in the gym on the morning of March 13, 1987.

What was everyone so excited about? They were waiting for the W.P.A. (Women Pay All) candidates to be announced. Five sophomores, five juniors, and eleven seniors were named as potential kings. When each guy's name was called, he was met by an escort and given a carnation and a piece of paper with a question written on it.

Then he was escorted to his seat in the center of the gym. After all of the candidates had been announced, they had to read their questions and answer it the best way they possibly could.

Questions ranged from, imitate your favorite animal to, Why do you like Jefferson? to, of course, all the girls favorite question . . . Who would you give this flower to?

Parrish Copeland, a senior, revealed that it was exciting and surprising to be chosen as a candidate. He added, "I didn't think I'd win but it doesn't hurt to hope!"

Girls call dates

Nothin' can stop them now

"Nothing's Going to Stop Us Now," this year's WPA theme song by Starship, pretty much summed up the general attitude of the girls at Jefferson. WPA gave each and every girl the opportunity to ask out that special guy that they've had their eye on all year.

It's true that nothing could stop them from asking out who they wanted to, but it was the fear of rejection that the girls didn't have much experience with.

Although the big part seemed to be asking, the actual date involved so much more. Junior WPA King Steve Potter commented, "I liked being able to go out and have fun without having to worry about the details. It's fun watching the girls wait on the guys for once."

The high pint of WPA was the crowning of the three kings. This year's king position was kept in the family. The sophomore WPA King was Mark Kellerman, and his older brother Michael was crowned Senior WPA King.

In response to this exciting event, Mike stated, "I thought it was neat that we both were crowned. I was also thinking of how surprised and happy mom would be when we got home and told her."

This year $881.75 was made on ticket sales from the WPA Dance, but some money was made on other fundraising projects put on by Student Council. A lot of this money was used for decorations, but part of it was used to sponsor a breakfast held in honor of the WPA King Candidates. This year's WPA was definitely one to remember.

Students and their dates enjoy themselves at this year's WPA Dance: 1) Debbie Hill and Keith Lenaburg 2) Escort Sara Winders and Senior King Michael Kellerman 3) Escort Tracy Winkler and Junior King Steve Potter 4) Escort Betsy Zimmerman and Sophomore King Mark Kellerman 5) Cynthia Shedenhelm and Chris Allbright 6) Glenn Groom and Amy Nost 7) Dan Carroll and Ann Donovan.

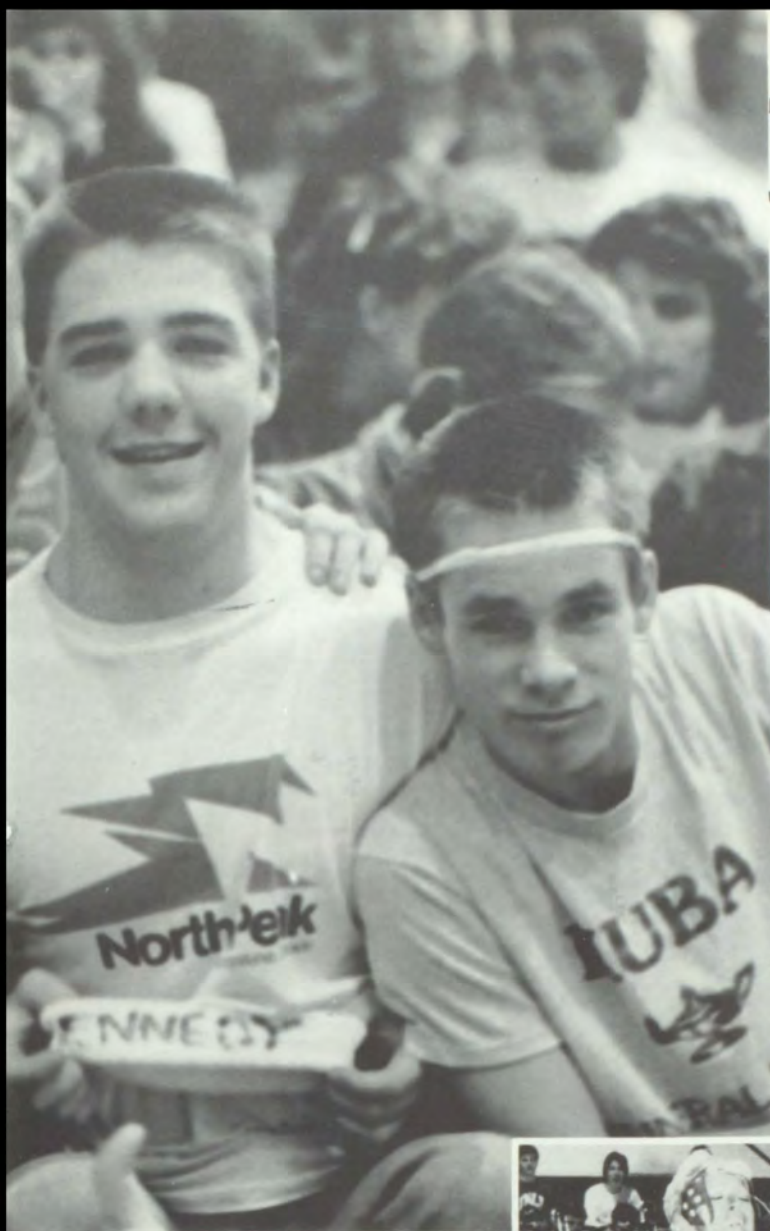

As the Pep Band played, the seniors chanted, "Seniors, seniors," and the gym was filled with a chaotic scene as the student body of Jefferson tried to find their friends and their spots on the bleachers to be a part of that next pep assembly that was about to begin.

When asked how she felt about this year's pep assemblies and spirit days, senior Deb Greiner replied, "Pep assemblies can be really fun, but you have to have the really spirited people to be a part of it. Ms. Walton's skit about Red Riding Hood was hilarious. As for spirit days, I feel about the same way, there has to be a lot of involvement and participation to make it fun."

There were theme days such as Hawaiian day, hat day, shorts day, and the various blue and white days during which students and faculty would wear the school colors to show their support.

"It's nice to have a break in the day to day routine of school," Deb added. "Pep assemblies and spirit days add a little excitement just when you start to feel that school is beginning to get too dull. They're essential for a school year."

J-Hawk spirit and pride add to assemblies

Evidence of spirit and pride was apparent on the faces of many J-Hawks this year including: 1) Dr. Jacobson and spirit yell judges, 2) Mr. Strait, 3) Senior guys, 4) Sophomores, 5) Ms. Walton and Mrs. Novy.

Students long ago discovered a fun way to be with friends, without costing a lot of money, and without parents worrying . . . MIXERS! This year they seemed to be better than ever. There have been five mixers this year and they've been sponsored by groups ranging from Thespians to sports teams. Mr. Walt Hartman, Student Council advisor, stated that anywhere from 200 to 350 students go to mixers, depending on sports and the weather.

Different clubs and organizations that sponsored various mixers came up with themes for them. These themes added excitement and variety for all that participated.

Students go to mixers for a variety of reasons. Junior Lisa LeGrand said, "It's a new experience every time, and you get to meet more of the student bodies!" and Jessica Hopkins, a sophomore, said "It shows you can have a good time in an educational atmosphere."

When asked if she would prefer a band over a D.J. at mixers, junior Jennie Nemecek commented, "I enjoy having a D.J. do the mixers because it provides more of a variety in the music."

Going to mixers gave students a chance to let their hair down and to strut their stuff.

Friends and music . . . We're having fun

Kicking up their heels to the tunes is all a part of the fun and excitement shared at a mixer: 1) Juniors 2) Julie Miller 3) Bill Wilson, Michael Kellerman 4) Tracie Hodina 5) Terry Hill 6) Jodee Albaugh 7) Quentin Dye 8) Wendy Feiereisen, Kevin Nekvinda 9) Kris Pilling, Shelly VanBogart 10) Shawn Eige, Julie Burmeister, and Rick Kellogg 11) Kris Smith 12) Seniors.

Complete with bone in hair, sophomore Amy Fitzgerald does a Tarzan impression at the Volleyball Marathon.

Mr. Pete Eklund and senior Jeff Wright showed up to help Jeffy J-Hawk cheer on our football team to victory.

Keeping busy

"Everybody's workin' for the weekend" or so says the familiar Loverboy tune, but this generalization does not apply to every student at Jefferson.

Spending time with friends is important to most students. Junior Dawn Heiken commented, "I treasure my friends. I try to spend as much time as possible with them."

Some students are occupied with classes, after school sports, fine arts activities, and/or above all, a part-time job. As senior Jeff Wright explains, "I know that there's a certain price to pay when being so involved, and I've learned to accept the consequences."

So no matter what students choose to do after 3 p.m., they all are working to achieve one goal—to create the most memorable moments of high school.

His oxygen supply deleted, a tired and anguished J.J. Henry lays on the tile to catch his breath.

Working the drive-up, senior Jenny Waddilove loads groceries into a car on a snowy winter evening.

When the 3 p.m. bell rings, Mr. John Weld's "homework" begins as he records papers in his grade book.

The shelves at DrugTown are stocked with care by senior Doug NejdI during his time away from school.

After a visit to the Science Station, senior Linda Hein lingers to frolic on the streets of downtown Cedar Rapids.

Express yourself!

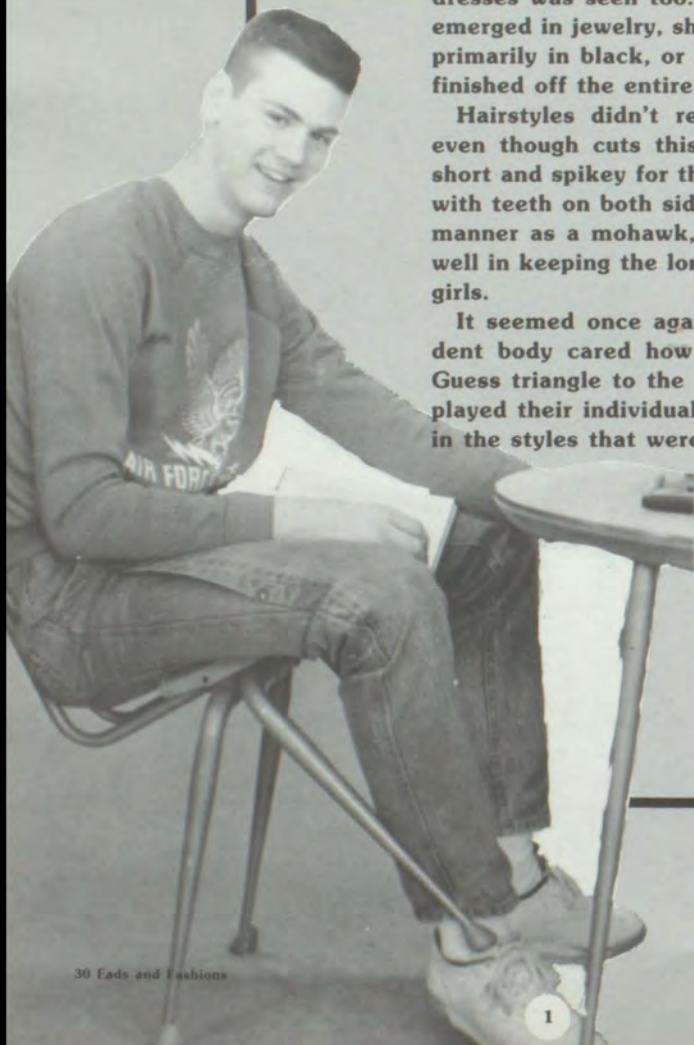

Are Jefferson students fashion conscious? Senior Dawn Augustine says, "I think a lot are. I know most of my friends and I are. We enjoy wearing the latest things." On the other hand, senior Karen Picray thinks, "Jefferson students have a lot of diversity. They wear a lot of the basic fashions, but add their own style to it."

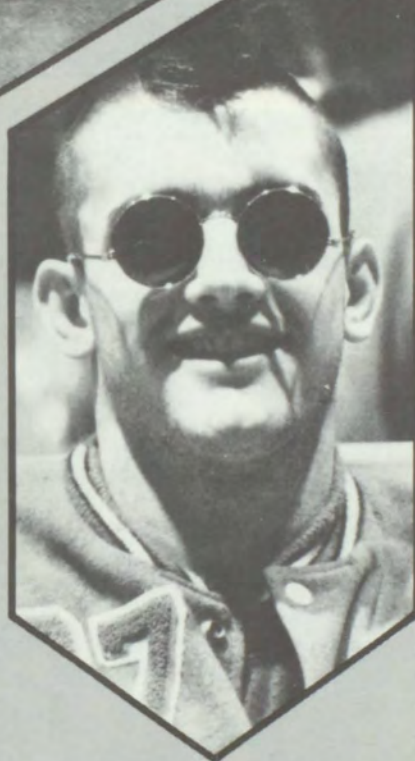

The fashions of this past school year have been greatly influenced by the brand name, as well as the look. Oversized Outback Red sweaters and blouses, were worn displaying the label on the outside. The Guess triangle was seen on a lot of T-shirts, sweatshirts, and denim jeans and jackets. Chambray, the faded denim or stone washed look in blouses, and dresses was seen too. Silver and other metallic colors emerged in jewelry, shoes, and bags. Soft leather boots primarily in black, or Reebok tennis shoes or hightops finished off the entire ensemble.

Hairstyles didn't really change for the most part, even though cuts this year were longer for girls and short and spikey for the guys. Banana clips, a big comb with teeth on both sides that held the hair in a similar manner as a mohawk, along with bows caught on real well in keeping the longer hair back and stylish for the girls.

It seemed once again that in 1987 most of our student body cared how they looked. Ranging from the Guess triangle to the Outback Red label, students displayed their individuality by dressing from head to toe in the styles that were popular.

Sporting some of 1987's hottest fashion trends, these J-Hawks are dressed in style: 1) Michael Novy 2) Tamara Stoneking 3) Julie Wilson 4) Jodi Behrens 5) Barb Frese 6) Rod Ross 7) Kris Piling 8) Dennis Sylvester 9) Joey Savage and R.J. Meineke.

Glancing back!

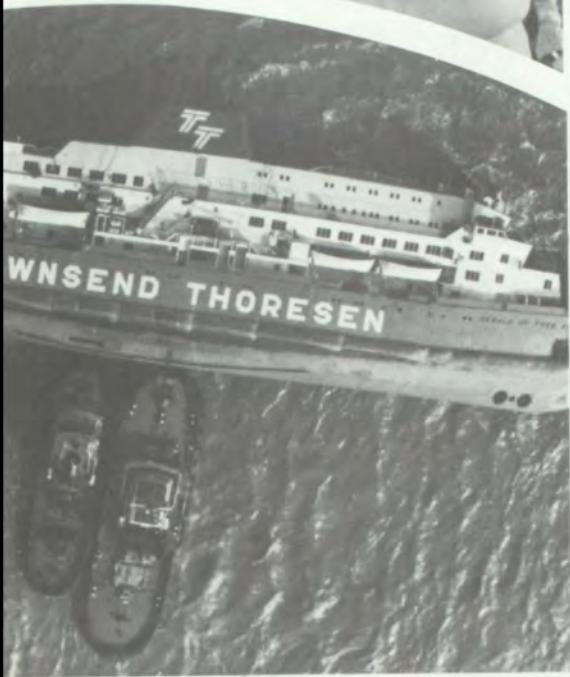

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times." This quote from Charles Dickens novel A Tale of Two Cities seemed to sum up the news events from the '86-'87 school year.

1987 marked the 200th anniversary of our nation's Constitution. Celebrations marking the occasion were planned in Philadelphia and around the country. Iowa's new seatbelt law went into effect, requiring all front seat passengers to wear a seatbelt or be fined. And, in Iowa and across the nation, speed limits on interstates were raised to 65 mph. Another happy event was the marriage of Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson.

AIDS remained in the news, especially after the death of Liberace. Other celebrities who passed away were Cary Grant, Andy Warhol, Roy Bolger, and Hugh Brannum, better known to most of us as Mr. Green Jeans.

Dr. J, basketball great, retired from the NBA. Riots broke out in South Africa due to its policy of apartheid. And, on everyone's mind as the school year drew to a close was the Arms scandal, in which money from the sale of weapons in Iran was used to aid the Contras.

Donna West
Studies Editor

Making the grade is a top priority for all Jefferson students: 1.) Scott Borchardt. 2.) Jeff Schminke, Mr. Joe Keeling. 3.) Jodi Behrens. 4.) Julie Wilson, Suzi Sullivan. 5.) Dave Hadley.

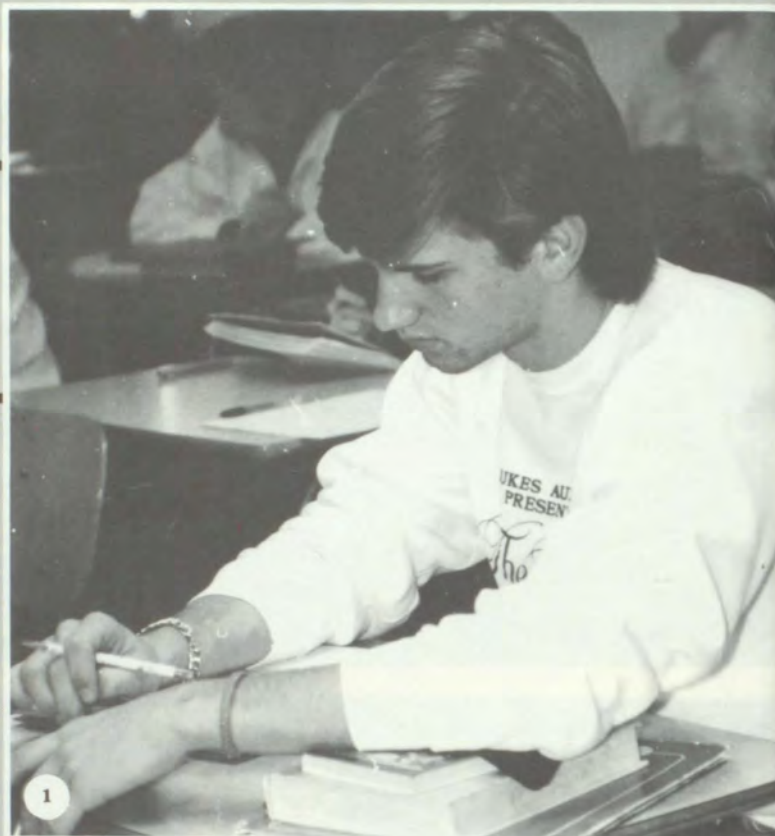

Maybe the J-Hawks don't realize it now, but they are quite lucky to go to a school that places such a high emphasis on academics.

The class of 1987 was the last to have the privilege of earning 90 of 202.5 credit hours as elective classes. The juniors and sophomores are soaring towards 152.5 required credit hours as part of the new policy.

The faculty had another great year by pulling approximately 425 seniors through to graduation, and getting an early start working with sophomores and juniors to attain their goals.

Everyone enjoyed a casual break in the schedule to go to a pep assembly or a West Side Delegation performance. But, then it was back to the books. This increased productivity in the classrooms.

Looking back on the year, most J-Hawks put academics on the top of their priority list. Even those who were not as "academically inclined" made an honest effort to do the best they could. J-Hawks showed their spirit in studies!

Positive change

As the year moved on the sophomores got more and more comfortable with the surroundings of Jefferson High School. It wasn't hard to do, because like every school, Jefferson has some positive and negative scenes around school. Luckily the positive scenes dominate over the negative ones and the negs can always be improved.

One thing that is just down right "gross" is students who spit out their chewing tobacco in drinking fountains. At the beginning of the year, the absolutely no tobacco on campus rule was put into effect and strictly enforced. Thus, this problem was improved and very rare this year.

Another bad scene is walking into the restrooms and getting the literal meaning of a smoke-filled room. A lot of things have been done to eliminate this problem but it still needs improvement.

At the beginning of spring term some very angry J-Hawks stormed into their first hour classes a few minutes late. Why? The parking lots filled up very quickly and one had to get to school very early to get a spot.

On the more positive side, students who suffer from extreme hunger pangs during the school day found relief at the vending machines in the foyer. Not only do the vending machines provide a great service to the students, they are also great money-makers. Money made from the vending machines goes to help the band, equip the weight room, and help needy students pay their fees.

One positive scene is seeing an Outlook staff member bringing Outlooks to third hour classes. The student body is always excited to see the contents of the latest issue.

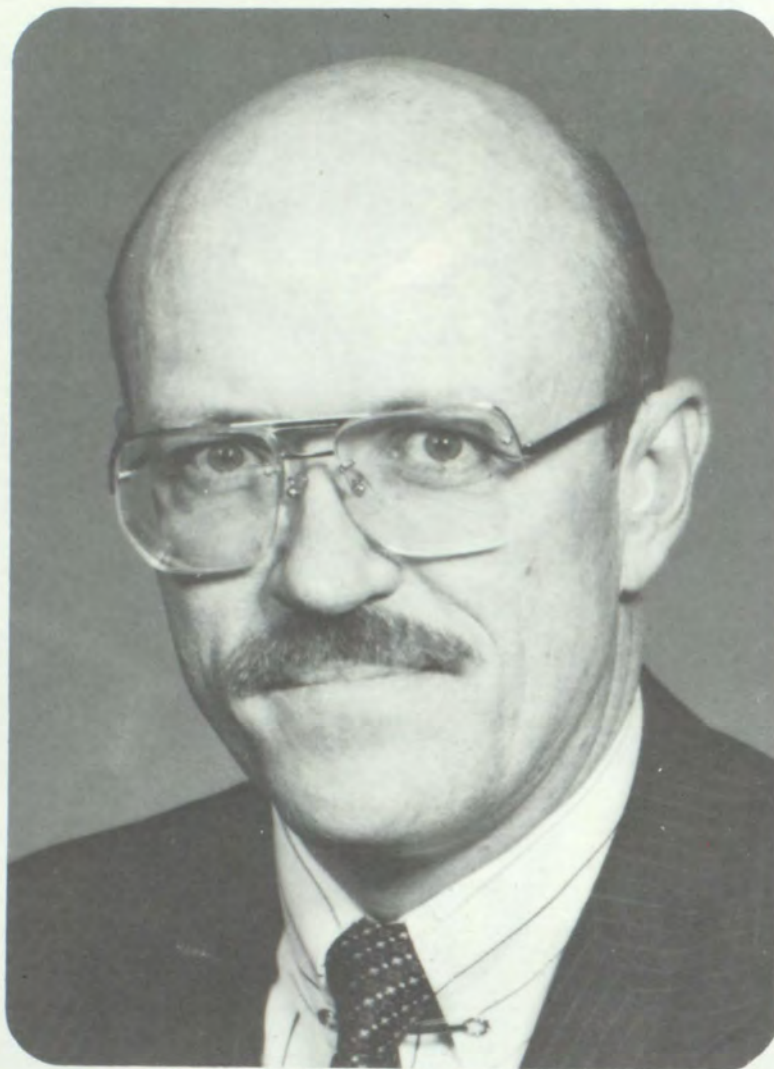

Last but not least, one can look around the halls and see the student body—the J-Hawks! Ask anyone, they'll tell you the people are always smiling here at Jefferson. Everyone is friendly, and they know it helps them get through the day if they are nice to someone. It makes the other person's day go better too.

When Mr. Horton, art teacher, was asked if he thought smiles helped our day, he said, "Of course they do; everyone needs to feel good, and a smile is a nice way to make someone happy."

As you've been taken through some of the scenes around Jefferson, you have lived out the tradition that J-Hawks are "winners."

Courses

change

It was registration day. The students at Jefferson were busy running through the gym from table to table with one thing on their minds, scheduling classes for next term. This year's senior class was the last class that had ninety elective hours to fill. The sophomores and juniors had their total number of electives decreased to fifty. Mr. Abney said that careful planning must be done for each student to get the most benefits from his or her classes.

This year students have decided to take more hours in the fields of math, science, and language arts. Why? "I'd rather take more math here than in college," stated senior Joan McGuire. Miss Peterson noted, "More students are going to college, and they are starting to require students to have more math and science courses."

Classes like home ec, business, and shop have been important too. Mr. Abney added, "Jobs of the future will require us to be flexible. Electives are free. Why not take as many as you can?"

J-Hawks strive toward ...

Good grades

As we work our way towards graduation, there are many requirements we must meet. Seniors must have 112.5 credits in required courses, math, language, science, and physical education. They also need 90 credits in various kinds of elective courses, which range from music to industrial arts.

Juniors and sophomores now must complete 152.5 credits in required courses, and 50 credits in elective courses. Many students like the graduation requirements. "I think they're good and should stay the same," stated sophomore Kim Kilts.

The new school year started out with a new emphasis on academics. Any student with ten excused and/or unexcused absences was dropped from the class. Some students disapproved of this policy and found out the hard way how it works.

"It's a good policy because it keeps kids in school, but it's really strict," stated junior Jason Hansen.

With this being Jefferson's last year as a three year high school, many seniors felt lucky that they graduated just in time. This was the last year of a wide variety in class offerings.

On the more positive side of the issue, juniors and sophomores are eager to see how it actually will affect academics.

No matter which classes you decide to take for credits toward graduation, they're all important.

Lon Michalec. 5.) Dave Reid.

For those who didn't see the J-Hawks in action, you missed some exciting moments! Although attendance declined, the athletes continued to give their best.

The wrestling team sent five to the state championship. The football team fell one short of the state playoffs. Coach Niemeyer's girls made a strong showing, being ranked the number one basketball team in the state. The boy swimmers finished 4th in the Conference and 15th in the state. Meanwhile, the girls' swimming team ended their season, finishing 3rd in the district and 11th in the state. The boys' basketball team had a tough season. Both track teams sent representatives to Drake. And the softball and baseball teams helped to strengthen a winning tradition.

A trait of all J-Hawks was one of excellence and this year was no exception.

Working together

Cheering to a victory

"J rah, E rah, double F E R rah, S rah, O rah, N rah rah!" was just one of the cheers that could be heard from the four varsity cheerleading squads.

When asked what qualities a cheerleader and squad should have, sponsor Ms. Sandee Walton said, "Dedication, teamwork, being a positive person, and being respected by their peers and teachers are key ingredients for any cheerleader and squad."

Cheerleading is a sport, like basketball or football, that requires many hours of work behind the scenes. Cheerleaders are a team. They work together to reach one common goal—to be the best they can be.

Tough season

With the blow of the referee's whistle, the 1986 J-Hawk football season was on its way. Much excitement filled the air around Kingston Stadium as a large crowd came to see if the tenth ranked J-Hawks could defeat the then third ranked Trojans of Waterloo East. This was considered to be a close game by many, including senior J-Hawk standout Jeff Sharpe and Head Coach Bill Calloway. By a 34-26 score the J-Hawks opened with a promising start to the 1986 season. With the addition of Linn-Mar and Prairie to the Mississippi Valley Conference and a sixteen team playoff setup, the J-Hawks looked to the state playoffs.

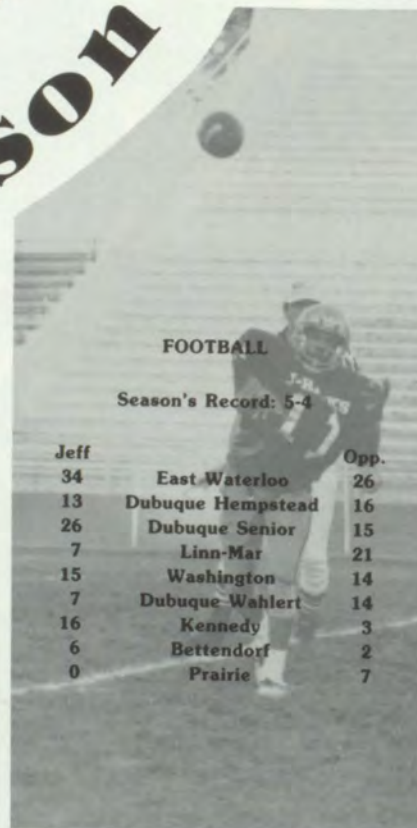

Costly losses to Dubuque teams Wahlert and Hempstead and a Homecoming loss to Prairie all but ended the J-Hawks playoff aspirations. Although the J-Hawks didn't make the playoffs, the season was still considered a success by many. "Not making it to the playoffs was a big disappointment as a team, but a winning season was pretty important," stated senior Damon Robinson. With wins over city rivals Kennedy and Washington, the J-Hawks owned Cedar Rapids once again. By beating Washington 15-14, who held a ten year winning streak over the J-Hawks, Jefferson fulfilled a preseason goal. With these accomplishments, the team recorded a winning season. "It was good from the standpoint that we had a winning season, and bad from a standpoint that we didn't make the playoffs," replied Coach Calloway.

This was possible because of some fine senior leadership from Jeff Sharpe, Dave Reid, Damon Robinson, and Rod Walton. "Jeff and Rod were both extremely vocal during practice and in games," commended junior tackle Dave Quentin.

Next year's team should be fairly deep in talent considering all the fine juniors returning, with added help from a sophomore team that wasn't as successful as the varsity, but still had a fine season. "By the end of the season, they started learning how to play together as a team and won," said Coach Schirm.

Varsity volleyball team is ... Set with success

As the J-Hawks bumped, set, and spiked their way into the new season, they had set high standards for themselves. Rebuilding a team this year was an easy task for Mr. Weld, considering he had four fine returning letterwinners. The unequaled team spirit, total dedication, and undying will to win inspired the team.

Goals set for the 1986 team were to win at least three out of five tournaments. Also, they wanted to win the Metro and beat crosstown rival Kennedy. Unfortunately, winning the Metro championship was the only goal realized. The J-Hawk ladies ended up the season placing fourth in the Mississippi Valley Confer-

Senior Maheaba Baloch received All-Conference First Team, Second Team went to Robin Threatt, and Honorable Mention went to Penny Potter and Crystal Cooper. The returning letterwinners this season were Maheaba Baloch, Crystal Cooper, Robin Threatt, and Penny Potter.

From 1979 to 1986 have been memorable years for the head coach, Mr. Weld. After his 13 years of coaching, Mr. Weld has decided to retire. He commented that, "I'll miss working with the kids the most." He finished with a 226-122-30 career record. This year's varsity volleyball team added 18-10-2 to the record.

Awards were given to Penny Potter for Varsity Serving Champion and she also was named Best Defensive Player. The Academic Award went to Debbie Hill. Most Improved Player went to Maheaba Baloch and she shared the title of Most Valuable Player with Robin Threatt.

When asked about her reaction to Coach Weld's resignation, senior Jenny Crow stated, "It is a definite loss to the program; he was a very good coach with a valuable and unique understanding of the game and he will be greatly missed by everyone."

The sophomores have something to be proud of and that is their first place finish in the Mississippi Valley Conference. Receiving awards were Allison Usher for sophomore serving champion and the outstanding sophomore title for the 1986-1987 season was shared by Dana Rosekrans and Allison Usher. The sophomore team ended it's season with a 12-6-0 mark.

Despite losing their head coach, next year's juniors and seniors plan on having a winning season in 1987. Mr. Weld's thirteen years as head coach of volleyball were appreciated by the team as well as the school. He will be replaced by his assistant coach, Mr. Jim Cox, who has gained much experience over the years as the sophomore volleyball coach.

Coach Jim Taylor and Coach Les Santee, accompanied by first year assistant Coach Paula Kincaid, led this year's "Swimmin' Women" to another successful season. It was also a unique season in that Coach Taylor had his daughter Traci on the team. Traci commented that at first she was a bit apprehensive about swimming for her Dad because she thought there would be a lot of pressure put on her. As it turned out there wasn't as much pressure as she had expected. The pressure she felt made her work harder and swim faster though.

The coaching staff thought this season would be a rebuilding one since there were so many young swimmers. But, this young team proved them wrong. They won the J-Hawk Relays and took first place in the girls' conference meet at the junior-varsity level. One sophomore, Mindy Bodin, broke the 100-yard breaststroke record four times this season. The varsity swimmers finished third at the district meet, which included a surprise first place in the medley relay. The J-Hawks also qualified nine people in ten events at the state meet. That was the most events a team has ever qualified for at Jefferson.

This year's team voted Kim Blackwell as the captain and Karen Sylvester as most improved. The hardest working and most valuable honors were shared by Karla Freshour and Traci Taylor.

Boys' team has very good year

Successful seasons were achieved by both the girls' and boys' cross country teams. Coach Ron Tower was successful in his efforts to recruit five girls needed to have a team. Overall, the girls' record was unpromising since the team had only one returning letter winner, Denise Campbell.

Meanwhile, the boys' team was highly successful and finished in second place at the MVC meet. The boys went on to state where they finished fourth. A high honor came to the squad's coach, R.J. Noonan, when he was named the Conference Coach of the Year.

Three letterwinners returned to see much action this fall. Paced by Jeff Wright, Tony Lewis, and Jerry Ernst, the team had to build a strong and healthy outlook that would help them survive the two mile run.

Ernst remarked, "My coach has been a great help to me during each season, because he is always there in the good races and the bad. I always remember when I do poorly and Coach Noonan is there to encourage me.

"I love the sport and it has brought out the best in me. I love to train hard and it is fun," concluded Ernst.

A habit of success

This year the J-Hawks had one of the best wrestling teams that they have had in a number of years. The J-Hawks placed second in the Conference, with a 10-4 overall record.

Placing first at the C.R. District Tourney, they qualified themselves for the inaugural state dual meet tournament. Five wrestlers shined during the season. They were Greg Garman, second place winner for 132 pounds at State; Brian Kuhlman, Dennis Dye, and Dave Simmons, all earned honorable mention at State; and Vance Hikiji, who also qualified to go to State.

"Everyone who made it to State wrestled to their ability, even though a few obstacles prevented us from being champions," said Kuhlman.

Jefferson's junior-varsity also enjoyed an excellent campaign. The JV posted a 10-1 dual record and tied for the conference title.

At the first ever junior-varsity conference tournament, the J-Hawks crowned seven champions and three runners-up.

At the wrestling banquet several awards were given. The 1986-87 Tri-Captains were Brian Kuhlman, Greg Garman, and Dennis Dye. Greg also received the Most Valuable Wrestler and the Pinner Award. The Takedown Champion and the Hustler Award were both earned by Dave Simmons. Vance Hikiji received the Most Improved Wrestler and Troy Sund was honored with the Russ Daniels Team Man Award.

As for the sophomores and junior varsity . . . the outstanding sophomores were Jeff Karr, Matt Orton, and Bill Randall. The outstanding junior-varsity wrestler was Dan Hewitt. The Most Improved Sophomore was Trent Donels and the Most Improved Junior-Varsity Wrestler was Ken Kuhlman. At the sophomore M.V.C. tourney, Jefferson High crowned three champs and three runners-up.

Head coach Dick Briggs remarked, "I'm really pleased with my wrestlers, at all levels."

The attitude of the wrestlers was that of true champions, signifying that they were winners.

The 1986-87 wrestling season was very successful, thanks to these competitors: 1) Vance Hikiji 2) Greg Garmen 3) Troy Sund 4) Brian Kuhlman 5) Coach Dick Briggs and Coach Dan Conner 6) Dave Simmons, Dennis Dye, and Troy Sund 7) Ken Kuhlman 8) Vance Hikiji 9) Chris Roman 10) The sophomore wrestlers 11) Quentin Dye 12) Dean Dudley.

Cagers end short

With only two returning lettermen and many positions to be filled, the J-Hawk boys' basketball team entered their 1986-87 season. With a strong junior class and six seniors, the team had eleven players in the lineup. The J-Hawks ended their season with a very deceiving 5-15 record. The team lost 12 of its 15 games by 10 points or less.

Seniors Jeff Hightshoe, Eric Steffen, and Darin Tiedtke were the leading players on the team. By leading the team in scoring and second in rebounding, Steffen was a team catalyst. Thad Edwards and Scott Kinney, both seniors, added extra scoring.

Juniors Mark Padilla and Mike Novy filled important roles for the team. Also contributing to a young team were Tim Wright, Tom Welsh, Randy Schneekloth, and Shane Dunlevy. Although the team suffered many losses, the underlying team spirit was one that only a certain team could share. With all of the junior players returning, the outlook for next year's team is a promising one.

"We may have been a team that others looked by, but only two teams really beat us by a lot," reflected senior guard Jeff Hightshoe.

This year's schedule definitely wasn't an easy one considering the J-Hawks had to play three teams who ended their seasons at the state tournament in Des Moines. With two games being split between 2A state runner up and crosstown rival Regis, the team also lost an early season game against 3A, third place, Cedar Falls.

Everyone thought it would be a blowout, but we had them down for almost three quarters," stated senior forward Eric Steffen on the J-Hawks 62-59 loss to Washington. Washington was eliminated from the state tourney by Burlington, 3A state champions.

"I thought the season was disappointing. We had quite a few games where we came up short. I think the team thought we would do a lot better

By finishing with a 10-4 record, the sophomore team placed second in the conference. Their overall record was an impressive 13-5 for the season.

The sophomores used an aggressive style of play under first year coach Dirk Dunbar. The team was led by guards Kevin Kitterman and teammate Adam Wright. Leading in scoring was Cameron Johnson; extra points were added by center Corey Boyles. The highlight of the sophomores' season was the victory over Kennedy. Beating both inner-city rivals was a high point in the season. Coming one point short of sweeping rival Washington at the Wash. gym was a big disappointment.

The junior-varsity team, also under new leadership by Coach Ron Tower, ended their season with wins in six of the last seven games. The squad was strong with good efforts from many players.

Topsy turvy

Team tops poll then falls

Many thrills of victory and a few agonies of defeat were part of the girls' 1986-87 basketball season. Heading into the season, the Lady J-Hawks were co-favorites with Dubuque Wahlert to win the MVC title. The girls proudly placed second with eleven wins and three losses, finishing with an overall record of 18-5. For two weeks the varsity team was rated as high as number one in the state.

The team didn't have just one dominant player; it was made up of many balanced scoring individuals. Leading the team this year were Robin Threatt, Stacy Wright, Roxanne Lee, and Hope Haidin. All four girls finished as the Metro's leading scorers. Robin Threatt and Hope Haidin were first team All-Conference. Threatt, being on the first team All-Metro for the second year consecutively, also became a first team All-Stater.

Heading into the season the team had very high expectations. "We had a lot going for us, we were all experienced and we almost made it to state last year, so it gave us hope," stated Kari Stieger, senior. This hope was gone after the loss to Regis at districts. "The loss to Regis was very disappointing, we wanted to get by them so we could play crosstown rival Washington again," said Melissa Schafer.

had a successful season. Leading the JV team were seniors Michelle Hebert and Chrystal Moore, along with juniors Alea Phillips, Sue Simon, and Stacey Fessler. The junior-varsity finished the season with a record of 5-5.

The sophomore girls' basketball team could have possibly been Coach Mark Stewart's best team. The girls finished second in the Mississippi Valley Conference (MVC), with a 15-3 record overall. With the help of Carrie Doud, Nikki Mikesell, Allison Usher, Robyn Vanous, and Tammy Millard, the 1986-87 season was regarded as a very successful one by Coach Stewart.

When asked what made the season special, Kari Stieger commented, "Being able to make friendships stronger and meeting new people like Stacy Wright and Jennifer McCabe. We also had the ability to dominate over some teams, and we did, which was a good feeling."

Putting forth their best efforts, all three of the 1986-87 girls' basketball teams succeeded. Whether it showed in the final scores or not, all three teams gave it their best shot on and off the court.

Eight place

At state meet . . .

The 5:30 alarm sounded. Slowly a weary arm reaches out to silence the annoying warning that it's time to get up again. In just 45 minutes he would be on deck and ready to dive into the pool for his hour long practice. Exhausted, the member of the swim team said to himself, "Only 6,000 more yards to go."

Like all things in life, practice makes perfect. Besides the morning practice, 2½ more hours were spent after school lifting weights, swimming laps, and working on technique.

At the beginning of every season goals must be set. This year was no exception with Mr. Taylor's hopes for an increase in the number of time drops over last year, and a good showing at state. Although no records were broken this year, this season was the most successful in time drops. At the district meet, there was a 97% drop in times. The 500 and 200 Freestyle, the I.M., and the 100 Butterfly all displayed significant improvements. "It was mostly due to the willingness of the athletes to train and the faith of the athletes in their coaches," commented Coach Jim Taylor.

Eight swimmers placed Jefferson 15th at State. They were Marc Borchardt, Scott Borchardt, Corey Doeberman, J.J. Henry (voted Most Valuable Swimmer), Tom Mincy (voted Team Captain), Kent Olson (voted Hardest Worker), Dan Schreder, and Dennis Sylvester.

The season was not only outstanding in terms of swimming, but also in the number of loyal spectators and helpers who attended each meet. To keep the fans cheering there were the spirit leaders. These volunteers, Debbie Hill, Diana Nolte, Kristen Ramsey, and Elaine Watkins, made a tremendous effort to make the swimmers feel that their hard work did not go unnoticed.

The team's willpower and dedication to win made this year's season one of the most memorable and successful ever.

Balance and agility

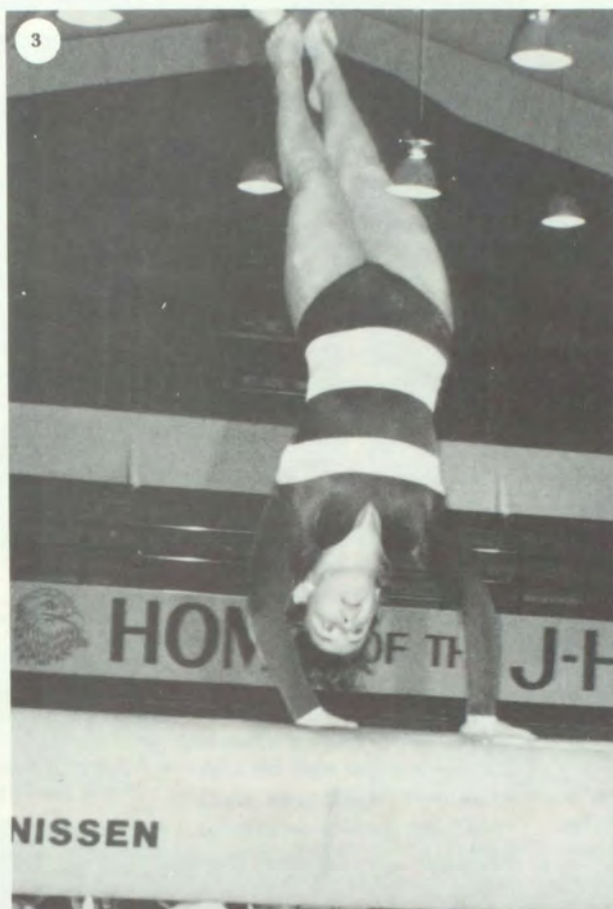

As fall closed in, a group of dedicated young men could be found walking the hills of such places as the Ellis golf course and Twin Pines. This group was the 1986-87 Jefferson mens' golf team. They were led by juniors Mark Smith and Mike Holmstedt. This was the first season mens' golf was played in the fall rather than in the spring as in previous years. Overall it proved to be a good season.

Ms. Sandee Walton was head coach of the girls' golf team again this year. The team had a total of 10 golfers, five of which returned from last year. Sophomore, Marcia Flender plays golf simply for "the fun of it." She likes to get out and enjoy the fresh air. The girls on the team had a lot of fun trying, even though this year's team didn't do real well.

Time and dedication were two essential qualities needed to be an excellent gymnast. Wendy Feiereisen, a fourth year gymnast at Jefferson, said, "The goal I had in mind for myself and the team was to make it to state."

This year's team was the last to compete at Jefferson, since the sport is being dropped from the program next year.

Boys triumph

The 1987 track season looked good as the J-Hawks returned many varsity letter winners. Although the season wasn't as good as last year, the J-Hawks did well against the competition and worked hard to achieve perfection. As individuals, a lot of the J-Hawk track team members did well. Qualifying for Drake were Dave Reid, Parish Copeland, Jeff Sharpe, and Dave Vanous for the 4x400 along with the 4x800 team, including Parrish

Copeland, Jeff Sharpe, Dave Rasmussen, and Jeff McAllister. The J-Hawk distance runners also made it to Drake. Jerry Ernst ran in the 3200 and junior Tony Lewis in the 1600.

Coach Ron Schirm commented, "I was in hopes of a few more medal winners but Iowa track has become extremely tough and as a result we had to settle for only one medal winner, Dave Vanous." He also went on to say that the team could have done much better if team members wouldn't have missed so many practices.

The J-Hawk runners steadily improved and placed higher in meets toward the end of the season, and did well at state.

Runners take your marks ... set ... go! And the 1987 edition of the girls' track season was underway with first year head coach Bill Calloway, along with his assistants Ron Tower and Jim O'Brien.

Senior Denise Cambell and junior Robin Threatt were both returning from last year's state meet qualifying team. This year's team also included many juniors and sophomores who took the places of those members who graduated last year. They included juniors Kim Havlik, Shannon Lafferty, and also senior Sara Winders, who were all sprinters.

Even though the J-Hawks were very well known for their speed demons, they were also very good in the field event categories. Returners were junior shot putter Tracy Walker, and senior discus thrower Michelle Hebert. These two girls led the team in their respective events.

Mr. Calloway's goals for this year's team were to place in the top few teams at the conference, district, and state meets. Calloway stated, "The most important meet to us was the state meet," in which the girls did very well, finishing eleventh with Robin Threatt repeating as state champion in the 100 dash and this year winning the 200 dash. The J-Hawks also had a fifth place finish in the 4x100 relay.

When Mr. Calloway introduced the year as a season full of optimism, it proved to hold true in all aspects of the team. Whether or not it showed in the scores was not an issue. With the talent of the returning girls, next year's team will be a success.

Swinging for success . . .

Players try hard

Every year the Mississippi Valley Conference improves and every year a tougher job is placed in the hands of the Jefferson tennis teams.

Coach Jim Lockett, girls' tennis coach, felt pleased about the season. "The girls played the best they could and never gave up. What more can a coach ask for?" He stressed the importance of summer tennis clinics and practice during the winter, in order to compete competitively within the Valley.

Coach Larry Bowen, boys' tennis coach, was disappointed with the season. "Most of our matches were very close. When it comes down to the wire, we didn't have the mental toughness to pull through." He also felt that in order for J-Hawk tennis programs to improve, tennis must become more prestigious in the eyes of the students.

Both programs are on the way up. In the future, an alumni club is hoped to be established. More awards, such as the Stillion's Award, won by Chris Mordaunt and Jim Harrington, are in the making to reward talented tennis players.

The determination to win makes a winner and that's what the boys' and girls' soccer teams were all about. They both had returning players and several newcomers.

Although these teams were young and inexperienced, there was a steady improvement. The competition was stiff, but by perfecting their skills and by being aggressive, both teams put up a tough fight. "We are coming a lot closer to the competition," replied Boys' Coach Terry Strait.

More than just scoring goals on the field were on the minds of these athletes. Their personal and team goals included: improving with each game, to be winners on and off the field, to accept the weaknesses and turn them into strengths, and "to share my skills with others," as stated by senior Janie Meader.

As the popularity of soccer increased, the athletes found that it was more fun than hard work.

Kenney's crew excels with 7 strong seniors

"I'm really looking forward to working with a fine group of young men," said Head Coach Joe Kenney. This type of enthusiasm was widespread as the 1986-87 J-Hawk boys' baseball team hit the field May 11.

The team was headed by a strong group of senior lettermen that included Denny Schreckengast, Mike Mims, Jay Melichar, Barry Bissel, Bruce Spurgeon, Jeff Hightshoe, and Lanny Downing. A talented junior class also helped back-up these seniors and fill in where help was needed.

"This group of kids we have is willing to make the sacrifice to improve their skills by working hard and becoming a strong club," added Kenney.

"We should have an overall fine ball team. We'll have a strong pitching staff, better overall hitting, and faster running on the bases. We should be an exciting team," commented Kenney.

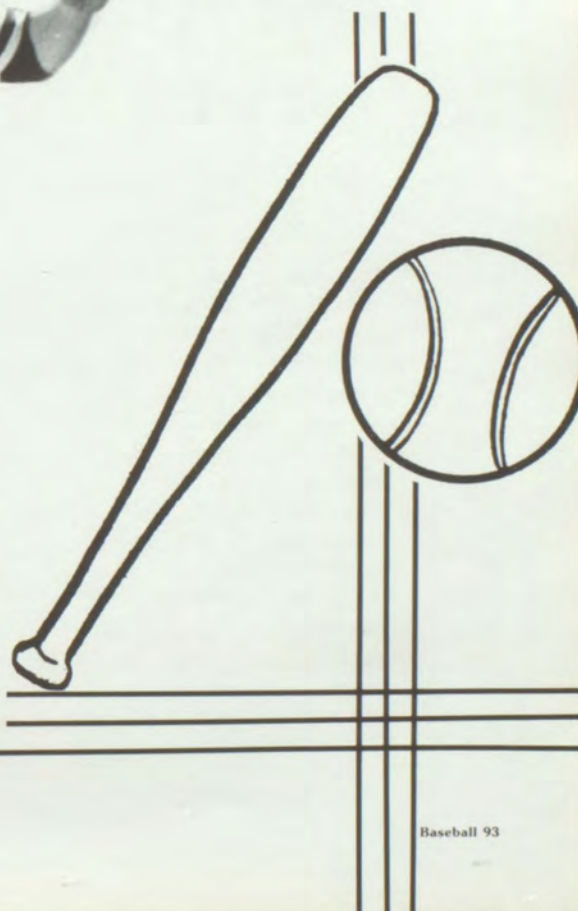

The J-Hawks opened their season May 28 against LaSalle in the Metro Tournament.

With some good senior leadership, Kenney's crew could very easily win a state championship.

J-Hawk determination is apparent on the faces of these athletes: (1) Sam Hill, (2) Tom Welsh, (3) Dave Quentin, (4) Brett Condran, (5) Mike Mims, (6) Coach Joe Kenney, (7) Jay Melichar.

Team spirit shines through as members congratulate their defeated opponents.

"Get that bunt down, hit on top of the ball!" Those were familiar sounds coming from the Jefferson softball complex this year. With only two seniors graduating last year, the team had plenty of experience to help them get through the season.

With the rigorous schedule the girls played last year, they found that they had to get use to playing fewer games. The girls were use to playing up to four games a day during tournament time. When asked about where the team would be strongest, junior pitcher Lisa Lewis commented, "I think our defense is our strongest aspect. We work hard at it (defense) and give up very few runs per game."

The team's goals this year were the same as in the past years, to win the Metro and make it to the state tournament. Lisa also said, "I feel that we can better our record from last season. I think we can win the Metro and we have a chance to go state this year." Finishing 48-11 last year, the team was sectional champions.

The girls made their annual appearances at the Jack North and Urbandale Tournaments where they played up to their potential and Coach Larry Niemeyer's expectations. Hoping for a berth at the state tourney, the girls continued to work hard to excel. The team lived up to the tradition of a good attitude and a successful season.

So she can throw the runner out, senior Geri Stonebraker awaits the arrival of the ball.

A year to remember..

As the school year drew to an end, and the diehard fans from the school of winners left the stands for another fine season of sports, they left with the feeling of complete and utter success. As proven from year to year when the J-Hawk teams take the field, courts, or the mats, they always came out winners, not always shown in the scores but in the attitude of those who participated. The old cliché "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game" was the rule that was displayed by the Jefferson athletes. With this in mind, a J-Hawk team didn't even have to take the field of play to show they were winners. They displayed the type of sportsmanship and attitudes that made us proud to have them as representatives of our school. The J-Hawk athletes were of a special breed, they never gave up and they played with the type of pride that was exemplified by the students, staff, and athletes of Jefferson High.

Not all of us are athletic, or have beautiful voices, so for those who sought different horizons, the various clubs and organizations satisfied their needs.

Students who had leadership qualities often joined Student Council to learn how to use their qualities effectively. The same was true for all clubs.

The groups may have been small, but all were effective. A prime example was Spirit Club. Students from this club chose an athlete in a sport to which they sent letters, gifts, or made posters for them to wish them good luck. Mat Maids helped the wrestlers set up before a meet and stayed to cheer them on.

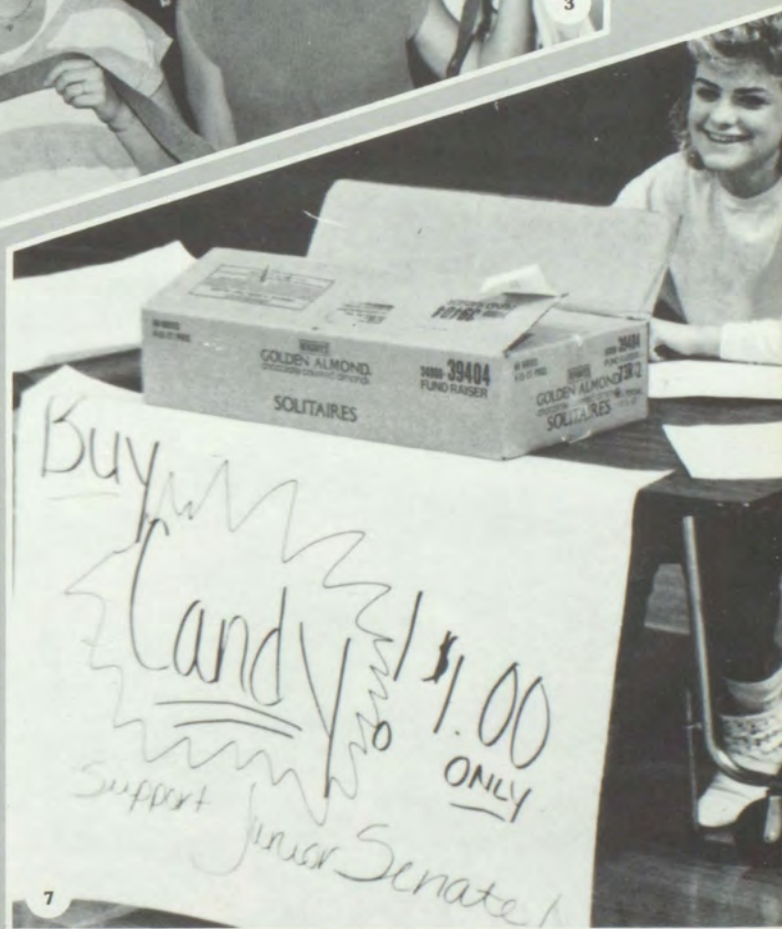

International Club went on a trip to Chicago, where they got to view customs from the different countries.

No matter what the activity was, the various clubs did their best to offer students all they could.

Leadership is the key for these active participants of Jefferson organizations: 1.) Heather Coon. 2.) Tom Mincy. 3.) Joey Savage, Dana Daubenmier, Kim Blackwell. 4.) Tami Swore. 5.) Rob Hyde, Mike Nelson, Mitch Haferbecker. 6.) Karol Ludvicek. 7.) Sue Simon.

Staff accepts work

What makes a yearbook? A staff that has a mixture of all kinds of attitudes and interests. At Jefferson, we've pulled that off with a Statesman that we are all very proud of. People will not only enjoy this book now, but even more so in the many years to come. Many hours of hard work, and long nights of homework, went into the creation of this 1987 Statesman. Spending all this time on the yearbook staff, 95 members put together what they considered to be the best yearbook ever.

Senior Jo Vanek explained, "I took the Yearbook Design class as a challenge, and I have to admit there was a lot of hard work involved. After two years of being on the Statesman staff, and seeing the finished product, it gives everyone a feeling of accomplishment and enormous pride."

Throughout the 1986-87 school year, the staff has had to face the pressures of deadlines, as well as the pressures of selling a required number of yearbooks. The staff holds a major campaign, from fall to spring, to sell over 1,000 books. This is quite a large number considering Jefferson has only 1,300 students. All of the creative sale techniques paid off when they reached their goal. It also keeps up Jefferson's reputation of having the only area yearbook without any type of advertising in it.

After working hard all hour, seniors Julee Ohlsen and Shawn Lakin take a deserved breather.

Working together closely on the '87 yearbook cements a friendship between Joe Alderman and Nanci Hanna.

The Outlook:

The 1987 Outlook staff made many positive changes by working together to achieve a common goal—produce a number one high school newspaper, and that is exactly what they did.

The Jefferson Outlook placed first in the Iowa High School Press Association's Annual Spring Writing Contest in the graphic arts division. In other words, the Outlook was voted the best looking in page design and graphics in the state.

The editor-in-chief of the Outlook was Darin Tiedtke and the managing editor was Jeff Braun. These two, along with the advisor, Mr. Ron Smrha, worked together to lead the staff. The staff was divided into three parts: writers/editors, ads staff, and photographers. Tammi Dix and Karol Ludvick split the leadership of the ads staff and Julie Hearst was the photo editor.

Color was a refreshing addition to the nine issues produced this year. Adding to the overall look of the paper, it highlighted stories on the front and back pages.

Writers were often rewarded with a byline, or if a story was really well written it might have been emphasized in the new "teaser boxes". Teaser boxes were used at the top of the front page.

Alicia Ross was named the Most Valuable Staff member by Mr. Smrha. She received this honor for her excellent writing skills and her positive attitude in the classroom.

Successful writing

This year's STAR, students are readers, reading program was sponsored by Mrs. Sharon Miller and Mrs. Carolyn Taylor. This was the program's second year in existence. The students who participated were required to read five books from four specified categories. After they read each book they completed an index card summary and had a teacher or librarian initial it.

This year's Offhand, a literary magazine that contained poems, photography, short stories, artwork, and essays submitted by students, was sponsored by Mr. John Wojtowicz and

Mrs. Jayne Bernhard. Editor-in-Chief, Julie Hearst, and Assistant Editor, Shannon DeWitt, led the staff of fifteen students. Julie Hearst said of the magazine, "Each year the Offhand gets better. This year we had an overwhelming number of entries. All of the staff was pleased to see the increased interest in our literary magazine. We have a very successful magazine this year."

There were twenty-four seniors selected for Quill and Scroll this year. Quill and Scroll is an International Honorary Society of High School Journalists. Twenty of these students were first year members and the other four were second year members.

These three programs, although often overlooked by other students, were very successful this year.

Students help to organize many different events

At 11:30, same time every other day, students with wide interests gather together in Jefferson's Student Council room to plan new activities and decide old and new business. They were the people who provided a plan for the many activities at Jefferson. This included pep assemblies, mixers, fund-raisers, and student exchanges, to name just a few.

Although any student could join, many requirements had to be met. At the opening of a new tri-mester every student entering Student Council for the first time that year had to get the signatures of 50 students who were non-members. They also had to fill in two requirement sheets at the end of the twelve weeks. This sheet included three in-class activities, three out-of-class activities, and one meeting.

Summing up the qualities of Student Council, vice president Colleen Ottomeyer commented, "It's a club that you benefit from greatly because it helps you to grow." Sara Winders, senior, added, "You have a lot of responsibilities that you're counted on to carry out, but after a big event is over, it's all been worth it."

The over all feeling of the members, once the year was over and all the monthly events at Jefferson High School had been carried out, was an overwhelming feeling of accomplishment and excitement.

"It was a very valuable experience," noted secretary Kris Smith.

Senates raise money

Whether it be fundraising, attending meetings, or getting ready for the senior prom, all three senates worked hard. The main goal of the Sophomore and Junior Senates was to raise money for their prom, class gift, and colored pictures in the yearbook. The sophomores sold big cookies and candy bars. Selling key chains was a big money raiser for the juniors. They also sold candy bars and chocolate covered almonds.

The Senior Senate didn't do any fundraising. The class of '87 had raised enough money in the past two years to cover all the necessary expenses for the most awaited event of the year, the senior prom. They also had enough money for their class gift. For the second year in a row, colored pictures of the seniors were purchased in the yearbook.

Kris Smith, president of the Senior Senate, commented, "My job included calling the meetings, organizing committees, and helping with all the prom preparations. It was a tough but rewarding job."

The Senior Senate also brought forth a new idea, a huge colored photo of the entire senior class. This idea was appreciated by many seniors.

The overall success of this year's Senior Senate was because of the hard work and determination of many seniors, noted Mr. Weld, class sponsor.

Students chosen

When the night of April 28 approached, 31 juniors and 8 seniors waited nervously to be inducted. As the 35 present members entered onto the stage, the audience settled into their places for the ceremony.

Jeff Sharpe opened the ceremony by welcoming everyone. Following were some words of appreciation expressed by Kristi Brown. Troy Cook described the history of the National Honor Society, and an explanation of the NHS Key was delivered by Julie Hearst.

Next, the sounds of music danced throughout the auditorium as Russ VanderWiel played "Air Varie" with his euphonium. Then, the time for the induction of the new members finally arrived.

Kris Smith and Jeff Roberts escorted the juniors to the stage. As the names were read by Mike Kellerman, each person walked across the stage to receive their membership pin and card, which were distributed by Shawn Eige and Jackie Smith.

The senior inductees followed in like fashion, being led to the stage by Denise Cambell and Brad Buck, and receiving their memberships as Robin Martin called their names.

After the members were seated, Dr. Jacobson shared a few words about the NHS, using a candle as an illustration. Then, Greg Morningstar introduced Dr. Stephen Daeschner, superintendent, whose address was "Leadership for Tomorrow".

Following the ceremony a reception in the foyer was attended by everyone to congratulate the new members.

"I was pleasantly surprised to be inducted," commented junior Tony Lewis. "It was certainly a memorable experience."

Groups learn

Many of the seniors were involved in one of two of Jefferson's vocational programs, Office Education or Distributive Education.

As in the past, students had to be accepted into the two organizations, with each having their own requirements. For O.E., you needed to have taken O.E. Prep or have preregistered for it your senior year. The only requirement for D.E. is to have taken the Sales and Marketing class.

O.E. helped the students get jobs at local business offices; the places that you would not generally see high school students working. Meanwhile, D.E. tells the students of openings at local retail stores.

Together the O.E. and D.E. students can be seen working at places from Target to Sea Galley, from People's Bank to Rockwell Collins, or from Adventureland Video to The Educational Services Center.

The main reason that there are organizations like Office Education and Distributive Education, noted Ms. Tesar, coordinator, is to prepare and get the high school students out into the real business world. For many of the students the organizations do not just provide them with 15 credits towards graduation, it also provides them with a good lifetime job.

O.E. students check the name tags one more time to be certain they haven't forgotten anyone.

Clubs active

Students plan events

International Club and T&I have opened a lot of doors to Jefferson students this year. T&I taught students about important skills in the work place. Field trips to Kirkwood, Brucemore, J-TEC, LEFEBURE, and raising money for Taylor school's special kids has given this year's class a first hand look at benefits and job insurance in today's working world.

"The best thing about the T&I program is the different chances people have to learn about the working world and the wonderful experiences," stated senior Jess Jennings.

The International Club, headed by Ms. Maitland and Mrs. Neubauer, also opened doors. The club gave its members a chance to explore other cultures. The trip to Minneapolis was a great success in showing club members the different ethnic groups. President of the International Club, Amy Wieland, said, "I think the greatest part about being in the club is the opportunity it gives you to see and experience things that you otherwise would not get a chance to witness."

Another group that's given Jefferson students a chance to grow is Building Trades. Students from all the three area high schools participated in the building of a house which was sold.

Not only were these clubs a learning experience, but they also brought many J-Hawks together, both in and out of school.

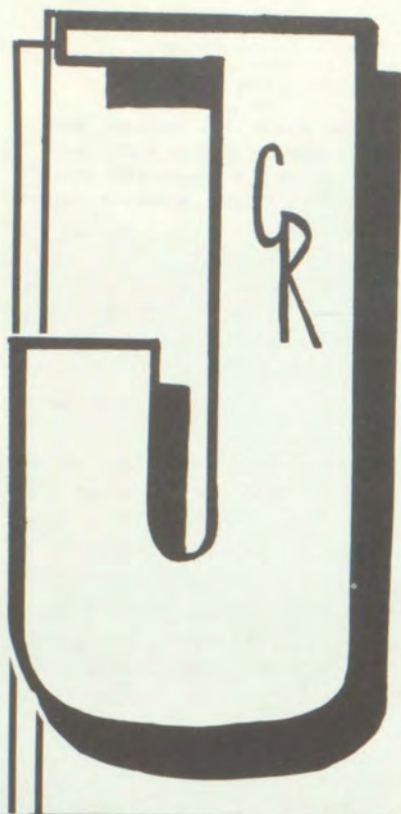

Mike Mastin, R.J. Meineke, Rick McSpadden, and Rob Weeks work on building a house with other Building Trades members from other schools.

Win J-Hawks!

Got that spirit, yeah man, let the seniors show it! Go, Go, Go, Go, Go! This was just one of the many ways that students showed their school spirit. Others took it a step further and joined one of two groups, whose main purpose was to promote spirit. Spirit Club and Spirit Leaders helped the various teams and other organizations feel that they were appreciated.

Spirit Club helped the people who participated in sports, drama, and music feel like they were needed. If they felt appreciated they tended to excel in what they did and even enjoyed it more. President Amy McHugh said, "We colored posters and had members pick a spirit pal and send them such things as notes, candy, or little presents to wish them luck in their games or competition. We also tried to make the school a little more spirited."

Another club which helped to add spirit was the Spirit Leaders. These girls acted as cheerleaders for the boys' swimming team. Spirit Leader Kristen Ramsey said, "This year our job was to provide encouragement and support. We made locker posters, and cafeteria signs, and sent out "good luck" candy to the team members."

Although these two clubs didn't receive very much recognition, the overall feeling of being able to help their fellow classmates was thanks enough.

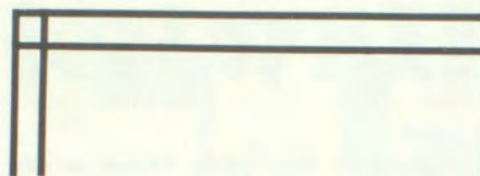

"We received many thanks from the fans, coaches, parents, and swimmers, but the real recognition came from being able to help out," said Ramsey.

Boosters help

Even if you didn't have that certain "something" to be an athlete, or you had some spare time during the school day, you could still get involved in many extracurricular activities. This past year many students found themselves in this situation. To relieve the everyday routine of school, these people got involved. Mat maids, media assistants, and the timers, just to name a few, were some of the groups who dedicated their time and effort to make the school year one to remember.

The mat maids performed various tasks in order to help the wrestlers during the season. These girls kept the wrestling books and wall charts updated. They also brought food to the matches for the wrestlers to eat.

If you were browsing through the library and couldn't seem to find what you were looking for, all you had to do was ask one of the many media assistants for help. They checked out, stamped, and demagnetized your books before leaving the library. They also filed the cards and returned books to the shelves. With the aid of these assistants, your trip to the library was made even more enjoyable.

When the gun went off, the clock began. The people behind these stopwatches were known as the timers for the swim teams. These girls were very important because they were the backup in case the main clock malfunctioned. They might have even wished the swimmers good luck before the race.

If it would not have been for these groups, the school year couldn't have been the same. The wrestlers and the swimmers needed the extra recognition and appreciation to make the season a success. The media assistants helped to make the check out process of books easier for the students and kept the library in order. Jefferson was very fortunate to have three fine groups such as these. They truly lived up to the idea that all J-Hawks are winners!

Linda Hein Fine Arts Editor

The year is 1987. For years now, Westside Delegation has sparkled on stage. Colorguard and poms have added dazzle and spirit to the band, and the beautiful sounds of the orchestra and choirs could be heard up and down the hallways. Thespian Troupe 561 created four outstanding shows during the year. All performances proved to be inspiring, with the students' efforts being paid off with thundrous applause.

Next year freshmen will become a part of the Jefferson student body. New faces mean new talents. They will bring fresh ideas and plenty of enthusiasm to all aspects of the fine arts. Outstanding performances will continue to be recognized. With the support of the administration and student body, the tradition of excellence in Jefferson Performing Arts will continue, with talent and style!

Precision

"Would you please be quiet! How can we get any work accomplished if all of you are talking?" This was what many students heard from two Colorguard instructors, Lisa Sopousek and Dara Boysen, as they walked by the band area at 8 a.m. each morning.

The Colorguard members were usually here at school by 7 a.m., ready to practice their flag routines in the rain or shine. They also spent many hours after school practicing their flag routines. When asked why she decided to try out for flags, senior Cynthia Shedenhelm replied, "It was a chance to get involved in school activities and I made lots of new friends. I was in Colorguard last year and I really enjoyed it."

The Colorguard performed in the same uniforms as the year before, which included white pants and a long blue, silk blouse with silver sequins that went around the waist. Concerning the Colorguard uniforms, Dana Daubenmier stated, "At first I didn't like them, but they really made the Colorguard look sharp and helped us win in some of our contests."

Overall, the Colorguard had a very successful season and helped highlight the Band of Blue's performances.

During long hours of practice or performances, the Colorguard shows both its serious and casual side: 1) Realy Brown after her skit at Band-O-Rama 2) Janet Cummings at Band-O-Rama 3) Members celebrate a great performance after State.

First rate

Starting off the year in band camp having fun and meeting new people, the Band of Blue was looking good. Learning new routines and how to street march, band camp turned out to be a very good learning experience for all of the members of the band. The tryouts for flags were very difficult, since learning new routines and how to count off their march steps and rotating the flag all at the same time posed problems for many of the newcomers.

When asked if all of the time spent practicing was really worth it all, junior Shelly Ellis responded, "Yes, after you win (a contest) you feel like you have really accomplished something." Junior Tara King responded to the same question saying, "Yes, the practice is hard but when you perform for the crowd and they start cheering, I feel like I have really accomplished a lot."

Mr. Earle Dickinson, the band director, stated that the drill was the hardest part to teach the band. Mr. Dickinson also said that the band was very strong and very successful.

Working hard and having fun brought about a lot of accomplishments. The Band of Blue won themselves another Division 1 rating and 1st place at the Marion Invitational. At the Charles City Invitational they received 1st place for outstanding drum major, class 4A parade, outstanding percussion, class 4A field, best overall parade winner, and the Sweepstakes Award.

Working hard . . . Pom Pons are success

"And now we present to you the 1987 Jefferson Poms." Students attending home basketball games heard this at the beginning of each halftime. The poms had a total of twenty-eight performances which included: girls' and boys' basketball, wrestling, and pep assemblies. It was not unusual for them to learn two routines a week in order to achieve this goal. "I found it difficult to learn a routine and make one up at the same time," stated junior Felicia Green.

Fall brought many changes to the pom squad which included: getting new uniforms, adding four girls, and receiving credit for poms being a class. They met every morning during first hour, which sometimes started at 7:30.

The girls learned to work together as a team through many hard times. "Because there were more of us this year we had to learn to compromise and get along with each other," replied senior Lisa Winckel.

The hard work was rewarded after each performance with an applauding audience. "By working together, we were a success!" concluded Lisa.

Exciting Band adds spirit

Walking down the crowded hallway going to a pep assembly, one could hear the pep band beginning to play. Hearing "Rocky" blast from the different instruments one could feel the air of excitement spreading through the gym.

Think about how boring football games, basketball games, or even a pep assembly would be without the Pep Band. Senior Suzanne Druger said, "I don't think people would go to many school activities if the band wasn't there. I'm not saying they all come just for the band, but I think it's a big part of it."

Pep Band may seem like all fun but there is a lot of time and hard work put forth by all band members and Mr. Dickenson. Druger also added, "Hard work is all a part of band, but it makes me feel good. I feel like I've accomplished something when I can make people at games feel good." Sophomore Rachelle Siechert stated, "It's fun because we get to go to a lot of places and meet a lot of people, and you make a lot of friends in the band."

Band members who wanted to go further with their music joined the Jazz Band. Jazz Band met before school to practice playing music that was popular in the 1940's, noted Don Kelchen, senior.

Giving it their all, these students played with spirit: 1) The flute section 2) Pep band members 3) Don Kelchen with the tuba section 4) Tricia Spratte and Jodi Gazur 5) Brent Wilfong, Joe Ryan, and Paul Washburn 6) The pep band 7) Greg Morningstar 8) Danette Funk 9) and 10) pep band members 11) Mr. Dickinson

Groups shine

The orchestra was once again led by Ms. Jackie Halbloom. The 32 member group enjoyed a busy and productive year. The symphony orchestra performed many concerts at various functions. Many 7:30 a.m. rehearsals resulted in a successful year.

Senior Don Kelchen summed up the year, "It was really kind of fun. You got to spend time with privileged people in music. It gave you a lot more playing time to develop your music skills."

Jefferson had a strong standing at All State again this year. Six musicians from orchestra and band were selected. They were Kristi Brown, Heather Foubert, John Rinderknecht, Andy Boysen, Realy Brown, and Henry Stahr. "It was really quite an honor to be selected again this year. Many of us worked very hard and the end results were very satisfactory," commented sophomore Heather Foubert.

Four vocalists composed Jeff's All State Music team. They were John Sabotta, Terry Schneekloth, Derek Leary, and Christi Dyrland. "I was very surprised to make All State in my first year up here at Jefferson. We all put in a lot of work, and though there weren't many of us, we had a very fine standing this year," said sophomore John Sabotta.

Once again this year, Jefferson's fine arts department has had a fine showing.

Let the music play . . .

Band is top rate

"Concert Band takes a lot of practice. You spend from 7:30 in the morning until 9:15 everyday working on pieces that will be performed at a concert. But in all, it is a great experience to go through. It teaches you responsibility, accuracy, and timing. We took a trip to Chicago this year, and received an excellent award for our performance. It has really given me the chance to meet new people," said Don Kelchen, senior.

Concert Band was a continuation of Marching Band. Although they didn't march, members still played to their best ability. Again this year, Concert Band was conducted by Mr. Earle Dickinson.

"This was my best year in Concert Band because of all the success we had as a group," senior Glenn Groom commented.

When asked what he contributes to Concert Band as an individual, Don Kelchen stated, "I'm a tuba player and that is the heart of the band. The lower instruments have to bring out the low notes to make the chords, which makes the tuba one of the most important instruments in the band. Although it takes a lot of practice, it brings a lot of fun to the school day."

Through time and practice, Concert Band succeeded in every thing they did this year.

A way to win:

Enjoying life at the top

"Bit by bit, putting it together." That sums up the efforts of the 1986-87 Westside Delegation, and the finished product was outstanding. They opened the year with two sold out Christmas concerts. Then they headed to Washington D.C. with the Concert Choir. It was an enjoyable trip as well as educational. Westside Delegation also hosted its own invitational in which thirty groups participated, both in junior and senior high divisions.

Westside Delegation went to the McDonald's Show Choir Invitational and walked away with a first place trophy and overall winner for the fourth year in a row. Since they did so well in the McDonald's Invitational, they decided to go to LeMars, Iowa, for the Apollo Swing Choir Competition. Westside took the first place trophy for 4A schools. Going on a seven hour bus trip, and missing a day of school, was worth gaining the first place trophy.

As the year came to a close, the group prepared for their final trip. They performed at the International Thespian Festival in Muncie, Indiana. Westside was the only show choir to ever be invited to perform at this prestigious festival.

This has been a very successful and enjoyable year for Westside Delegation. When asked what she would remember most about Westside, senior Michelle Hebert stated, "I'll remember the fun we had together. We were a big family."

These J-Hawk winners show their spirit in a different way, by singing and dancing: 1) Jeff Hegland; 2) Christy Dyrland, Jenny Koehn; 3) Westside Delegation members; 4) Westside Beach Bums; 5) Tami Swore; 6) Amy Spalding.

Choir shows excellence . . . D.C. trip highlights year

From the start of the 1986-87 school year, the Concert Choir spent time preparing for their week long visit to Washington, D.C. in late December. With the trip being the highlight of the group's year, each member was eager to learn various selections of music that would be heard throughout the D.C. area.

The trip wasn't only intended for fun, but it also served an educational purpose. The group spent a majority of their time visiting historical sights, including the monuments, the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington Cathedral, and the Arlington National Cemetery.

The group also held performances at various locations. To conclude the trip, a stop was made at Mount Vernon—the home of George Washington, before a long bus ride home.

Julie Ohlsen commented by saying, "I enjoyed the trip and I have many good memories to look back on. If I had an offer to return to D.C., I would take it."

In addition to the trip, the group received high honors by being invited to perform at the I.M.E.A. Convention held in Des Moines. The choir also held performances throughout the school year, including the spring musical, Carousel, held in May.

Practice and determination produced success for this year's Concert Choir: 1) Director Pete Eklund 2) the Concert Choir performing during the fall concert 3) Melissa Gordon and Greg Morningstar observe the Old Post Office in Washington, D.C. 4) Senior Jeff Wright 5) Choir members try to bear the cold in Washington, D.C. 6-8) scenes from the D.C. trip 9) Seniors Sherry Ernst and Wendy Feiereisen watch for their cue.

Choirs set goals

The music department at Jefferson offered something for everyone this year. The Jefferson Singers met everyday, or every other day. It was a non-auditioned group that was made up of mostly underclassmen. During the year they gave several concerts.

Madrigal was made up of 25 auditioned upperclassmen. They had a very successful and enjoyable year. Along with the Concert Choir they sang in the National Cathedral and the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C. They also performed for the Iowa Music Educators Association convention in Des Moines. In February, the Meister Singers competed in the Ogden Chamber Choir competition and got a number one rating, along with the overall first place trophy. When asked how he felt about the year, senior Jeff Roberts stated, "We worked hard, and it showed."

Dolly plans blind dates

As an anxious audience settled into their seats, the cast of 16 prepared themselves for what would prove to be a very entertaining play, "The Matchmaker".

Looking back on the play, crew head Darren Olson summed up the production with one word, "Wonderful!" He also added, "I think the cast and crew just did a great job!"

A feeling of teamwork and unity prevailed throughout the entire eight weeks of preparation. As junior Troy Schulte put it, "It was a really relaxed atmosphere; everyone had fun!"

Even though the cast had a lot of fun, there were many long, hard hours put into the show. Sophomore Drew Tiedtke stated, "It seemed like I was putting in 25 hours a day working on the set and show."

Laugh followed laugh as the cast found themselves in one adventure after another. Butterflies from earlier rehearsals were soon forgotten as the cast took their final bows each night.

Drew Tiedtke, Christy Dyrland, Joel Aalberts, Susan Safley, and Dan Swenson laugh it up as they enjoy dinner at the Harmonia Gardens Restaurant.

'Feat' is magical

I held Mom's hand as we walked into the auditorium and sat down in the velvet red seats. The curtain opened and we were greeted by a familiar voice, "Hello boys and girls!" There was Playtime Poppy. The lights dimmed and there before us was the magical, mystical world of Never Never Land. With a sparkle and a bang Peter was before us and off we went into an unforgettable adventure.

This child, along with other kids and adults, shared the excitement of Pete's Feat, an updated version of the fairy tale Peter Pan.

Jenny, Tyra McCullough, wonders why and how she ended up in Never Never Land.

"My favorite part was working with the kids. They were delightful and made me feel good to be a part of the play," said senior Michelle Billings, who played a lost kid in the production. Sophomore Ann Bouton went on to say, "I got so many mixed reactions from the kids, some were scared of me, some liked me, and some just wanted to touch my costume."

Booing the evil Captain Hook, responding to Peter Pan, and singing to the hip-hoppin' crocodiles were all a part of getting both children and adults to participate in the show.

Captain Hook and Pete battle for the freedom of the hostages.

Les West carries "her husband", Bedora Sheronick, because he has sore feet.

Inspirational play intrigues audience

Silence. Darkness. A lifetime spent in each.

"Helen, Helen, the chick has to come out of its shell sometime. You come out, too."

Jefferson High School's production of "The Miracle Worker" deals with pulling a girl out of the world of the deaf and darkness. The play also enlightens the audience about the handicap.

Anne Sullivan has the seemingly impossible task of calling Helen out of the depths of her handicaps and teaching her to communicate.

"It's different from other plays. You have to keep in mind the characters are real people, not fictional characters," stated senior Christi Dyrlund.

The roles strain the actors, both mentally and physically. Hitting, fighting, kicking, and throwing are all part of the struggle that brings the characters into reality. The clash centers primarily on the characters of Anne Sullivan and Helen Keller. Anne's battles with Helen's handicap parallels the problems within the Keller family.

James, Helen's half brother, is trying to adjust to his father's new wife. This causes stress between James and his father.

"The Miracle Worker" deals also with these problems. The angles this play takes in dealing with Helen's handicap gives light to the depth of each character, noted Christi.

"The play is a lesson in commitment and in understanding that people with handicaps are humans too," commented Mr. Bob Geuder, director.

A combination of strong leading roles and supporting cast, along with tolerance, helped the production succeed in teaching a lesson and touching the audiences that experienced it, concluded Mr. Geuder.

As fiance Steve Ehrenberger watches in dismay, Tami Swore is swept off her feet by Michael Kellerman.

Dancing in the Louise Ballet are Kari Sydnes, Bedora Sheronick, and Mark Meythaler.

Amusing the audience, Chip Martinson glides on to the stage.

Christi Dyrland mourns the loss of her loved one, Russ VanderWiel.

As a European beauty, Becky Shedenhelm prepares for the carousel waltz.

Christi Dyrland and Tracie Hodina watch on as Tami Swore practices for her wedding day.

Show moves

The packed house in the Jefferson auditorium rose to its feet to applaud another fine performance by the cast and crew of this year's musical, "Carousel".

"Carousel", like previous spring productions, involved students from all areas of the fine arts department. It included the Thespians, concert choir, and band and orchestra members.

Preparation for the musical was difficult. Students involved had a mere four weeks to learn lines, songs, dance routines, create a set, and paint scenery. Kori Foss, a dancer in the program, said, "Even though everything got a little hectic towards opening night, it was all worth it."

"Carousel" was presented on May 8,9,15,16, at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium. The show proved to be a success, thanks to a dedicated cast and crew. Stacie Cutler, a senior choir member, remarked "This year's musical was a credit to our talented seniors, and all who participated in it."

Christi Dyrland begs Russ VanderWiel not to leave the clam-bake with Michael Kellerman.

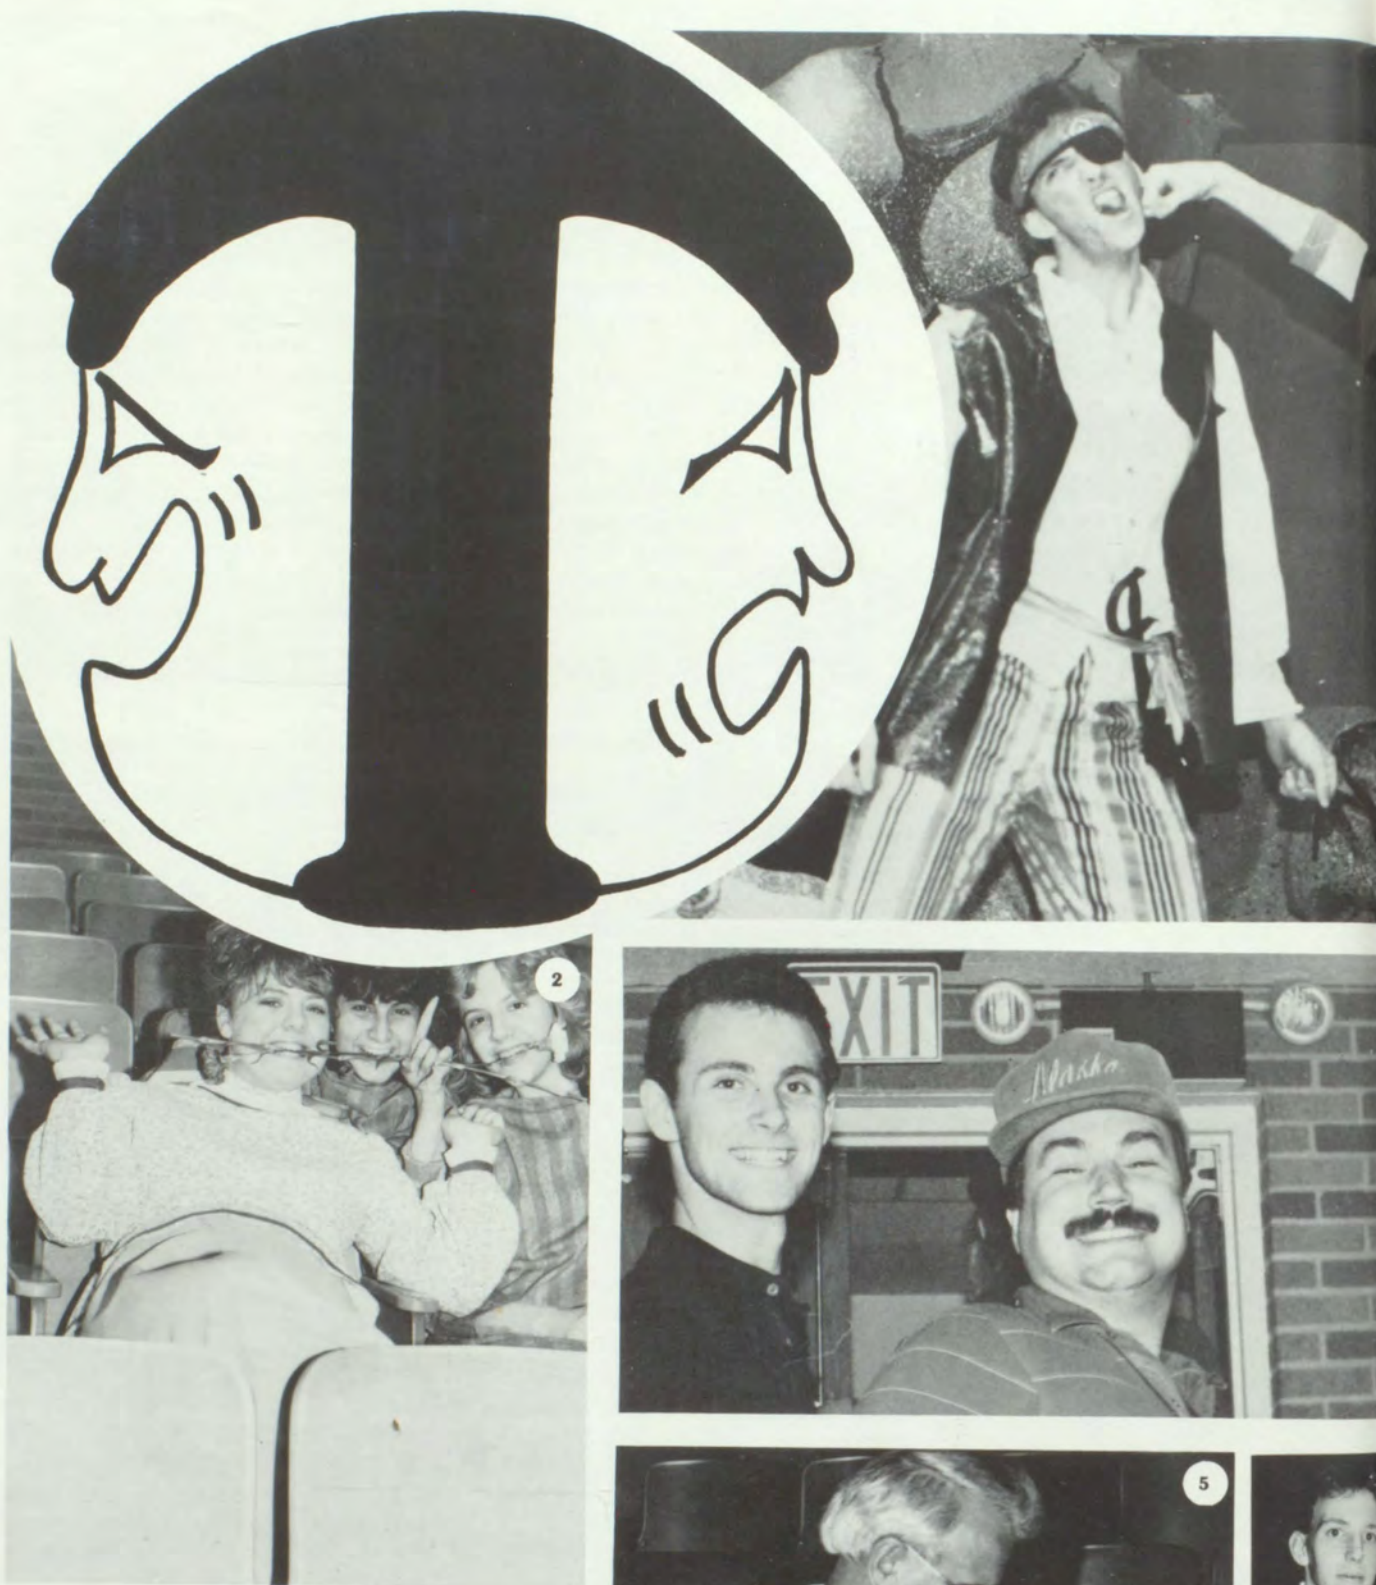

As the barker, Russ VanderWiel adds to the enjoyment of Christi Dyrland's ride on the carousel.

Being young and in love, Steve Ehrenberger and Tami Swore are excited at the thought of getting married.

Thespians who displayed dedication and smiles onstage and behind the scenes include: 1) Russ VanderWiel and Steve Ehrenberger 2) Julie Wilson, Bedora Sheronick, and Linda Hein 3) Darren Olson and Mr. Jim Erbe 4) Mr. Bob Geuder 5) Mr. Bob Geuder 6) Dan Swenson 7) Elaine Watkins and Christi Dyrland

Troupe's extra work results in successful year

The members of Thespian Troupe 561 joined together to produce another successful theater season.

Their activities began with their annual open house that was held September 11 in the Little Theater. This gave interested students a chance to tour the Jefferson theater facilities and see what Thespians were all about.

In December some members traveled to Minneapolis and saw "A Christmas Carol",

"Beatrix Potter's Christmas" and "My Fair Lady". "Even though it was freezing cold, the productions we saw were worth it," said Christi Dyrland.

But being a Thespian was not all glamour and travel. To become a Thespian a student had to put in 100 hours of work a year. Thespians got these hours by working on a crew or portraying a role in a production. Steve Ehrenberger confessed, "Working in scene shop is a requirement, but it's fun and doesn't seem like work."

With all of the hard work, Thespian productions were a success the entire year, including a sock hop mixer complete with a king and queen of the hop.

Thespians were busy both onstage and behind the scenes this year, but they never lost sight of doing their best. Thespian secretary Bedora Sheronick will always remember being a Thespian fondly.

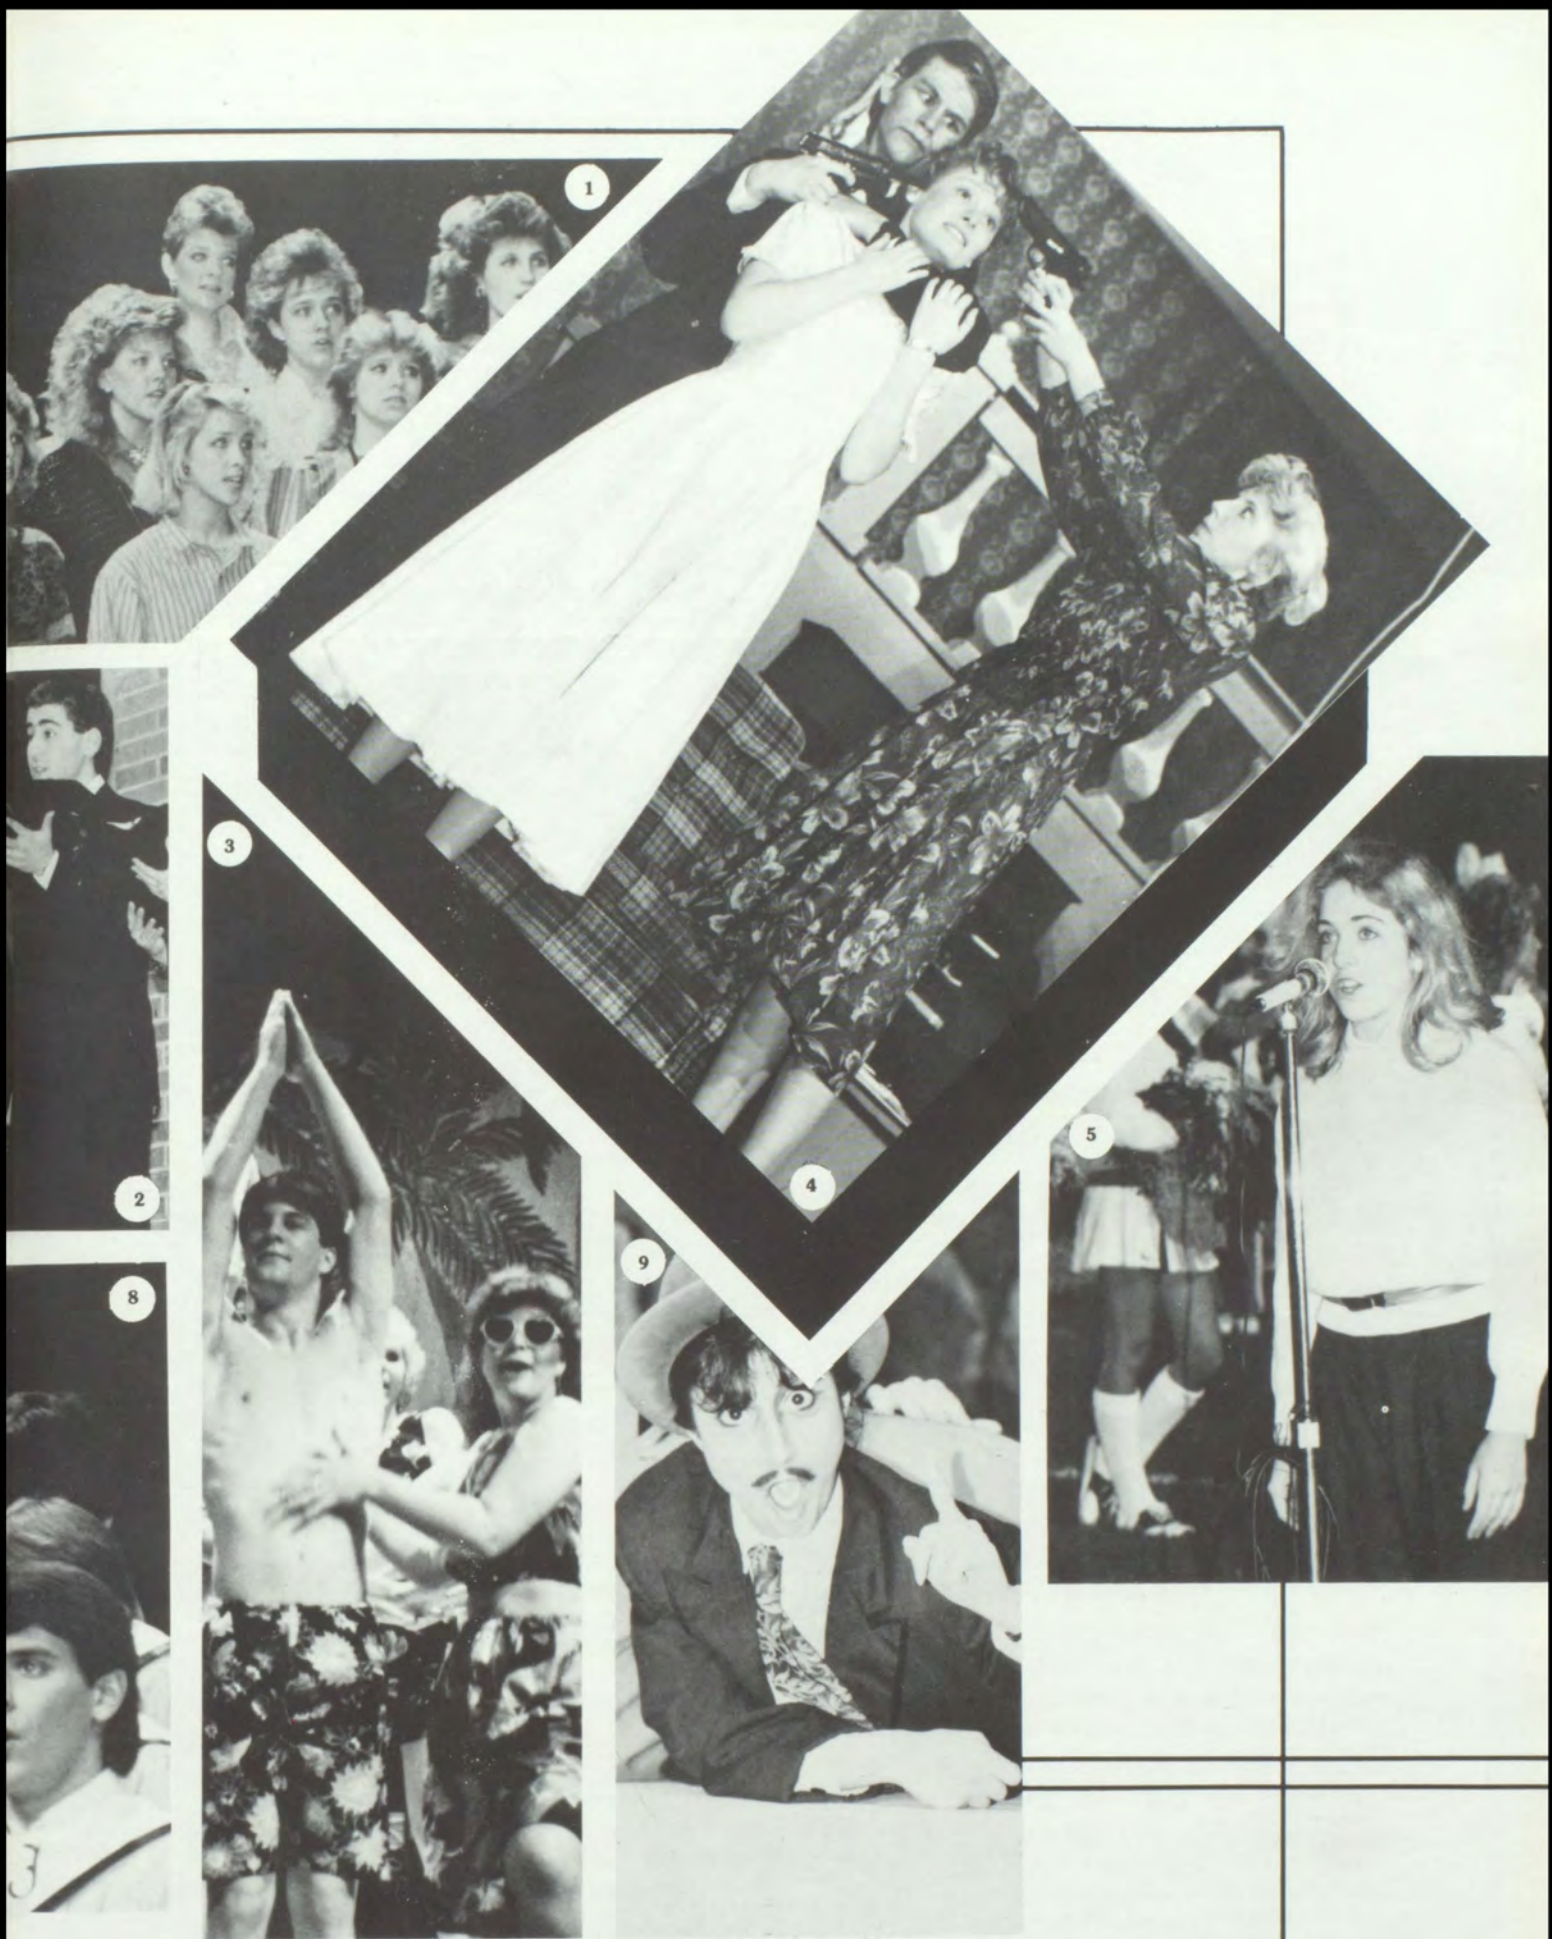

Step by Step

From being a wacky pirate in "Pete's Feat" to Westside's wet and wild beach party, these are moments performing arts students will remember: 1) Jefferson Singers 2) Meistersingers 3) Tracie Hodina and Jeff Roberts 4) Elaine Watkins, Darin Nelson, and Linda Hein 5) Christi Dyrland 6) Members of Orchestra 7) Mike Frank, Steve Ehrenberger, and Russ VanderWiel 8) Members of Concert Choir 9) Bedora Sheronick 10) Glenn Groom.

An Expression,
curved into a smile, hushed in a pianissimo, or wrapped in the bend of an arm.
It is within each of us to create the mood that these offer.
It must come from within us.
To convey sadness, we must have it in ourselves and present it to those seated before us.
For a scene to weave its way into their hearts, we must feel it in our own.
Performing is becoming.
An Expression, is our own. We all have different talents as we have different expressions.
It is truly our own. A group is special,
because it has individual interpretations.
To one, the decresendos are special.
They should be delicate and teasing.
For another, the cresendos should be bold and brilliant:
becoming the most touching part.
Together they have made a song filled with sensitiveness and brilliance.
Because of these two parts it becomes memorable.
We have expressed ourselves.
We as individuals have come together to form a group.
Through our interpretations we have conveyed ourselves to the audience.
—Elaine Watkins

UNDER

Life for underclassmen is rough. Getting picked on, laughed at, and trying to fit in are a few of the problems sophomores and juniors face.

Even though they have many troubles, they still have fun. Meeting new people, and attending school events, make up for all the humiliations they feel.

Some of the good points of being an underclassman are looking forward to next year, not having the worries about college that the seniors have, and making their high school years the best they can.

Not all of the underclassmen are ashamed of their position. April McHugh, junior, said, "It's really gonna' be fun next year when I'm a senior, being able to pick on the freshmen. With the addition of freshmen at Jefferson next year, underclassmen will have the chance to get to know more fellow students."

1987 will be an unforgettable year for these and all members of this year's graduating class: 1.) Seniors at a pep assembly. 2.) Debbie Hill. 3.) Jay Melichar. 4.) Maheaba Baloch, Jeff Hightshoe. 5.) Tracie Hodina, Robin Havlicek.

Remember that ole' rhyme—
No more school, no more books,
No more teacher's dirty looks?
Well our time has come to say goodbye.
The class of "87" was really great,
We can't believe how time did fly.
Remember all the mixers and the dates?
We just can't go back in time
To relive the assemblies and the games,
To hear that old fire bell chime.
Can you possibly remember everyone's name?
We are the end of a thirty year tradition.
Many memories will the halls hold true.
We are full of pride and ambition
The future has given us our final cue.
New challenges will be in our lives.
The thoughts of fun times will never perish.
The class of "87" won't forget Jefferson High,
Friends and teachers we will cherish.
It will forever remain in our minds,
Yes, it's now our time to say goodbye.

In memorium . . .

This tribute goes to senior Brett Benson, who was killed shortly after 9 a.m. on February 5, 1987, when he lost control of his car.

Just a young man, he was only seventeen. His death brought much sorrow and pain. He left friends and family who now cry. A face and place we forget, but not his name.

People and places he will never see. Memories and treasures were left behind. He is in no more worry or hurt. He is protected in a world in the sky.

His death to many is still a mystery. Brett died without reason or without cause. This is not a stopping point. But in our life, just a short pause.

We will never forget Brett. He was a bright spot in many people's lives. His memory will live on. We will see him in our thoughts and eyes.

Cherished memory

As seniors walked into the IBEW Hall, they could feel an air of excitement all around them. The dimly lit room, with pink, silver, and burgandy decorations and a running water fountain, all added to the air of elegance.

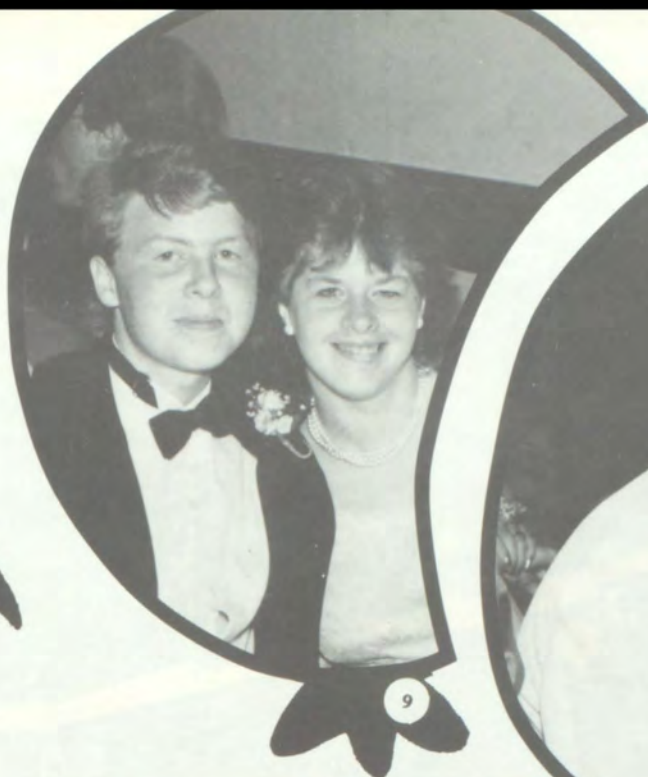

Most couples started off their night dining at a fancy restaurant, then at 8 p.m. went off to the dance.

As each couple entered the door, the class of '87 took complimentary photos, while Mr. Briggs also took candid shots to be ordered later.

Everyone joined in and danced to the music provided by FM 108. A song that most will remember dancing to was the theme song, "Somewhere Out There." As the evening concluded everyone had a feeling that it would be a night that they would never forget.

Graduation

Career Marriage

As Dr. Jacobson, principal, read off the names, graduates became nervous. They then walked across the stage to receive their diplomas, their faces aglow with joy.

Commencement was held at the Five Seasons on Saturday, June 6th, at 10:30 a.m. Valedictorians Julie Hearst, Darin Tiedtke, Darin Nelson, and Andrew Boysen, led the class of 428 seniors.

Graduation was an end for some, and a beginning for others. These happy seniors showed what graduation meant to them: 1) Julee Ohlsen, Darren Olson, 2) 1987 Senior Class, 3) Angel Langguth, Michelle Schroeder, Kari Horak, Julie Wilson, 4) Sherry Ersnt, 5) Sherrie Crane, 6) Julie Burmeister, 7) Bob Bevins, 8) Lisa Jordan, 9) Mike Fleischacker, 10) Kim Blackwell, 11) Dawn Augustine.

With the cheers still echoing in our ears, we shall recall the exciting times we had throughout this year. From gatherings at Burger King after games to dancing with that special someone at school dances, this year has been memorable. Students returning in the fall with experience the biggest change in Jefferson's 30 year history, as the freshmen join the student body. They will also find that the standards that were set, along with the goals that were met, in the 1986-87 school year made J-Hawks not always champions, but always winners.

The Era Ends— We bow in style

As the doors closed to the 1987 school year, many things went through students' minds. To each person this year had a special meaning.

For the athletic teams it was a game of trial and error. The fine arts students could recall their works, ranging from the Children's Theater to the spring musical. Different clubs looked back on the year to see if they had met their goals. And the school in itself reminisced about the growing spirit and participation in all fields that the students put forth.

Thirty years have passed through Jefferson High School—years that will be cherished forever.

As we turned over a new leaf to begin another 30 year chapter, we watched, "A Tradition Go Out In Style", as the final bell rang to signify that the 1987 school year was at a close.

These J-Hawks ended the 1987 school year with smiling faces: 1) Roxanne Lee, 2) Tom Murphy, 3) Robin Martin, 4) Mike Stafford, 5) Dustin Ernberger, 6) Jeff Braun, 7) Juli Wieland, 8) Mr. Ron Smrha, 9) Student body at a pep assembly, 10) Amy Fitzgerald, Kristen Fleagle, Emi Dyrland, 11) Julie Wilson, Suzi Sullivan.

Creating a yearbook was something to be desired at the beginning of the 1986-87 school year. Teaching how to draw layouts, crop photos, and write copy were just a few steps that each staff member had to learn.

As the school year moved forward, layouts began to get chosen and photo selection began. The long and tedious job of putting together the yearbook was in its first stage. Each and every staff member helped in this process, ranging from the section editors, to the photographers.

Without the 80 member staff the yearbook wouldn't have been possible. These people put together the different pages. From choosing the photos, to writing copyblocks, to writing headlines, the Statesman was slowly created step by step. Creativity was a big plus with the 1987 Statesman staff. Many talented people contributed to the yearbook. Staff members Kris Smith, Julie Wilson, and Kim Blackwell were chosen Most Valuable Statesman staff members at the year's end.

I would like to extend a big thank-you to the photographers. Without their photos the Statesman would not exist. The quality and perfection that each put into their photos made it even more special. A special thank-you to Julie Hearst, you made deadlines bearable for me.

Last, but not least, Mr. Smrha. You taught me to believe in myself, and more importantly to be a responsible, organized person.

The school year finally came to an end, and the 1987 Statesman was completed. A sincere thank-you again to everyone who made this book a reality. —Sherrie Crane.
