Friends seek fun times

1990-1991 is just another year, but the memories gathered in that year will last an eternity. These four years will likely be the most important years of our lives; a time of transition from youth to adulthood. What do students think about life here at Jefferson?

Students have mixed views about the new attendance policy adopted this year. Pete Carr, a junior, says, "The new attendance policy is an improvement because you get a reward for good attendance." But Brian Stiles feels that "certain punishments won't change the students attitudes."

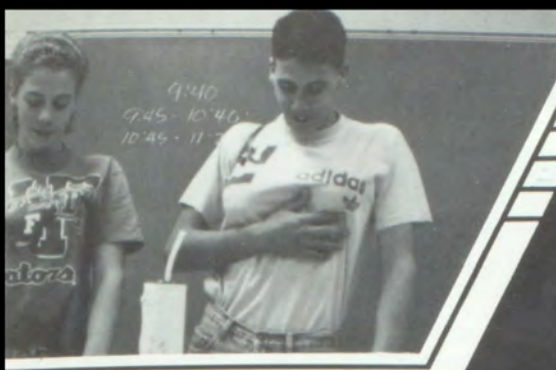

Along with attendance we have a new gym. Senior Lori Riha states, "The new gym wasn't worth it. It's mostly basketball, and it needs to be bigger." On the other hand Mr. Tesar says he loves the new gym. Most agree that the gym is a welcomed addition.

Students feel pep assemblies are an important part of student life. Freshman Melissa Hess says she enjoys pep assemblies because "you don't have to be serious." However, senior Jason Schmidt likes assemblies "because it brings everyone together."

Even though the 1990-1991 school year is over, there are so many good times to remember. The class of '91 will be remembered most as being the very first freshman class to enter Jefferson. It seemed as though that first year would never end, and now we've graduated, and are out on our own. This year brought many good memories, and many smiling faces.

If these walls could speak

Past and future

"Remember the past, dream of the future." As time continues everyone has memories to reminisce about and everyone has hopes and dreams to fulfill. Jefferson students and staff have a lot to remember in pride about memories created during the 1990-91 school year. The fun time with friends, the thrill of victory at a game, and the joy received by helping others. These are but a few of the memories of the year we've captured.

Many other things have affected our lives also. The war in the gulf and many students' efforts to show support and patriotism for our troops affected us all.

Students looked forward to changes after high school and dreams were made. Dreams of jobs, marriage, school, and the many other goals each person strived for to find self fulfillment in their life.

As staff and students reach for the stars and surpassed goals, new ones were set. These goals and ideas are what dreams will be made of in the future. The past we will remember and of the future we will dream.

One classy night

Screams and cheers filled the gym while Mr. Ecklund played a ballad by Air Supply on the piano. The top 26 semi-finalists were greeted by their escorts, who were waiting with a flower to accompany them through an arch of black and white balloons.

Two weeks later, September 14, the gym was transformed into a classical scene with draped cloths and candleabras. When the spotlight hit the crowd and the top 10 finalists emerged, everyone knew the next intense moment would be the crowning at half time of the Homecoming game. One week later the J-Hawks were defeated 13-0 by the Dubuque Senior Rams. The outcome of the game didn't have an effect on the crowning of the queen.

The night of September 21 was a memorable moment for the students as well as the candidates.

"The most exciting moment for me was walking out on the football field," expressed Sue Anderson. As last year's queen, Lori Wilwol, took her traditional walk the tears began to roll. Then the crown was given to the new 1990 Homecoming queen, Melanie French. "Being on the football field with last year's Homecoming queen walking up behind me and seeing her shadow stop as the crown was placed on my head was a very exciting moment," she recalled.

Girls treat guys to dance

"Have you heard about that assembly coming up soon?"

"No, what's it for anyway?"

"Well, I think it's for WPA."

"You know, the dance to which the girls ask out the guys."

This is a dialogue that any freshmen student could have had on January 9. This annual event takes place each winter and gives the girls the opportunity to ask out one special boy for dinner and the dance. WPA is planned by Student Council members.

At the assembly, five candidates were introduced from grades 9, 10, 11 and 10 candidates were announced for the senior class.

Freshman Brad Koch said, "I was surprised. I didn't know they had this kind of event until the day of the assembly."

If he had one wish, and this wish came true, Brad felt he wanted eternal happiness. Brad is glad he got nominated to be a king candidate. He was surprised when he was picked out of approximately 200 freshmen guys. Brad thought it was an honor and he was amazed he was chosen to represent the freshmen.

1) Kellie Klosterman escorts Dave Konigsmark after his name was announced.

2) Mark Ironside looks surprised after his name was called.

3) Smiling, Paul Pickering walks out to the floor from the senior section.

4) Looking very happy, Nick Haiden walks with Natalie Serbousek to his chair.

WPA Kings enjoy free night out

- 1) Senior WPA king, Dave Konigsmark
- 2) Junior WPA king, Dan Rajtora
- 3) Sophomore WPA king, Jon Lympus
- 4) Freshman WPA king, Brad Koch
- 5) Heather Short and Jason Sims hold each other tightly during a slow dance.
- 6) James Erwin is all dressed up and ready to hit the dance floor.
- 7) Mike Kopish and Danielle Steele watch other couples dance.
- 8) Lori Riha and Nikii Bruring await the crowning of the senior king.
- 9) Bri Bowen flashes her cheerful smile.
- 10) These J-Hawks take a rest after a fast song.
- 11) Nita Clay and Troy Bressler represent the true meaning of WPA.

With snow falling lightly outside, the theme "Winter Wonderland" fit the WPA dance perfectly. Couples danced to the song "Because I Love You" underneath the navy, burgundy and white streamers in the cafeteria.

Four new kings were crowned this year. The freshman king was Brad Koch. Sophomore king was Jon Lympus. Dan Rajtora was the junior WPA king and Dave Konigsmark repeated as senior king for the third consecutive year.

When asked how they felt about the idea of Women Pay All, they all agreed it was a good idea because guys have to pay on Homecoming and this was a way to have the girls treat them instead.

Jonny Lympus said being crowned king was "a real shocker." He also commented that this year's WPA was better than the year before. "More people stayed until the end of the dance. That made it more fun."

Brad Koch said that "just being nominated was great, and that winning was a real privilege."

Dan Rajtora admitted that he was surprised that he was crowned king. It was the first year he had been nominated and Dan said it would be an experience he'd remember. Dave Konigsmark confided that being named king for the third year was an honor. He believes that his WPA experience will be more important to him as a high school memory.

Now guys can relax and wait one more year to get a break from always asking the girl out.

The Top Teens

11. Lisa Bartosh (right) strikes a clever pose with her friends while enjoying a day off from her job.

Memories live on

Many memories were created this summer by Jefferson students. Some traveled to far away places while others enjoyed their summer fun closer to home. Senior Andi Buck has many memories from her month spent in Europe as a member of the "Iowa Ambassadors of Music" tour. A memorable time for senior Matt Powell was his cruise in the Caribbean. While Matt was basking in the Caribbean sun, junior Shelby Humbles could be found working or sleeping in.

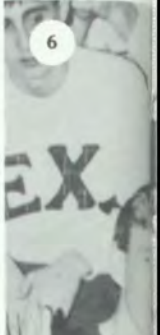

When people like Shelby were at home resting, others like sophomore Joel Donner were out in the Iowa sunshine playing sports. Students could be found many places doing many things...like catching the latest flick at the theater, or working on their various sporting skills, anything from baseball to waterskiing. Others opted to spend some time inside, keeping cool with the central air. They were able to find who was doing what to whom on their "soaps" or spending time improving their hand-eye coordination with a few intense Nintendo games.

Overall, the summer was enjoyed by the entire student body. Whether they were working, playing, cruising the avenue or the Caribbean-or just hanging out with friends, the memories of the summer of 1990 will always be with them. However, it all ended when school resumed.

Spirit stays alive

It's one big rush of students as the entire school heads to the gym for another pep assembly. On their way they wonder how long it will last and whether or not they will have a fifteen minute second and third hour class.

This year's assemblies were held more often to honor those winning awards than for games. Senior Jessie Kelsey feels we don't have enough pep assemblies. She said, "Award assemblies are boring and we can't demonstrate school spirit." When asked what could improve the assemblies, Cathy Rogen replied, "There needs to be more teacher and student involvement to make them more fun."

The feelings toward the assemblies this year aren't all negative though. Junior Mike Schug most remembers the Ninja Turtles assembly at the beginning of the year. The favorite parts of the assemblies to Jessie Kelsey were the spirit yell and the fight song.

1. Coach Lockett and three tennis players present Mr. Tesar with the championship trophy.

2. Racers to your marks ...Get set ...Go!

3. Jason Duffy and Donnie Karr know how to have a good time at an assembly.

4. Mr. Tesar dedicates the new gymnasium.

5. Senior class shows its school spirit.

6. Seniors proudly show with shouts of joy that they have only one year left.

7. Freshmen learn cheers at orientation.

8. Carol Bolter and Steph Bockenstedt talk through an awards assembly.

9. Tangela McCall points out that pep assemblies are a great way to have fun.

10. Mr. Strait entertains all as Dick Tracy.

11. Todd Barger enjoys company of friends.

12. Poms perform pep band routines.

13. Sophomores take time to pose for a photo.

14. The "Turtles" make a debut at the first assembly of the school year.

Mixers

Students from all classes attended the five mixers of the year. Mixers were a way for a lot of students to avoid a boring Friday night.

Senior Dave Konigsmark thinks the best part of going to the mixers are all the new people you meet. Junior Allison Cummings agrees but says it's cool to go and just hang out with your friends.

The first mixer of the year was held just days after we returned from our all too short summer vacation. The theme of the mixer was sixties and prizes were given for the best outfits. Kelley Huston and John Fiemann won ten dollars each for their male and female version of sixties teens.

MORP seemed to be everyone's favorite mixer of the year. Everyone dressed down and tried to look as weird as possible. Senior guys decided to go in togas and everyone had fun trying to figure out what they were wearing underneath.

Junior Dan Rajtora said that the mixers were great because the music kept it exciting. Dave disagreed saying, "They played too much rap music and I can't dance to rap." Allison said that the music was o.k. but it could be better if they played more slow songs that you can dance to. Dan agrees saying, "Slow dancing with my girlfriend is one of the main reasons I go."

One thing they all three agreed on was how much fun mixers can be. "It's a lot better than sitting at home watching T.V.," Dave said. So grab your keys, pick up all your friends, and head to a mixer.

1. An exhausted Josh Bell takes a break to talk to Kathy Benda.
2. Christy Hebert and Natalie Serbousek enjoy a Pepsi together.
3. In a dark cafeteria, Shelly Reid reacts to the camera's bright flash.
4. Scott Fisher has fun dancing at a mixer.
5. Michelle Bentley, Becky Flickenger, Kelley Huston, and Angie Blackburn do the can-can to modern music.
6. Jason Fleck shows his spirit at MORP.
7. Kelley Huston and John Feimann flash their prize for having the best outfits at the sixties mixer.
8. Bryan Fickel and Ted Noring take a break from dancing to check out the girls.
9. A tired J-Hawk catches five winks at MORP.
10. Shawn Kelley demonstrates how to boogie.
11. Senior men show off their hairy chests at MORP.
12. Jason Mahan gives an original expression to the photographer.

As an eager audience awaits the opening curtain, Mr. Don Zeller steps out on to the stage and approaches the podium. He begins with a few short words, then introduces the master of ceremonies, Mr. Jim Taylor. Throughout the night he introduced each act and helped make the event a big success.

If you had the privilege of seeing the talent show, you know it took a lot of hard work and preparation. Mr. Zeller said, "The most difficult thing was getting everyone to the tryouts with all the schedules to work around. Also, unfortunately, we couldn't let everyone participate because of the time allotted for the program." You'd have to say that Jefferson has a lot of talent and it sure showed that night.

No show can be a success without an audience. Everybody knows you haven't seen an audience until you've been to a Jefferson event, even if it's just a game or a concert. Also, Mr. Taylor noted, "The crowd was exceptionally courteous, receptive, and very polite to all the acts." This proves why, "The west side is the best side, and always will be," he added.

Each year you look forward to seeing the talent show and each year it keeps getting better. Tim Smith summed the night up by saying, "The show went smoothly because everyone worked together." That's what makes any show a success.

9. Crowds cheer as the two Germans finally reunited last fall.
10. AIDS still plagues our country.
11. Many California schools closed this year due to a lack of funds.
12. U.S. soldiers patrol burning oil fields in Kuwait.
13. S & L's fall shocked Americans.
14. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher resigned her position in 1991.
15. The 1990 Nobel Peace Prize winner used violence to keep his country in tact.

Coming into this school year, many key issues came to the world's attention. Iraq's leader, Saddam Husien, abruptly invaded the smaller neighboring country of Kuwait, claiming it had once belonged to Iraq and it would once again.

Many Eastern European countries proclaimed their independence from total Communist rule. Yugoslavia, Cezechoslovakia and the Baltic States are some of the countries left in turmoil.

With all of these events happening outside the U.S., there still managed to be important issues that came to our attention. President Bush, due to our troops in the Gulf, was forced to raise taxes. But according to his 1988 campaign, "There will be no need to increase your taxes."

Another national issue came from Los Angeles, when L.A. police brutally battered and beat criminal Rodney King. This incident received much national exposure. Even President Bush commented, "What I saw made me sick." This sparked a national interest in whether the police force had always concealed heated issues.

Reliving the past

Since early fall over a hundred people have worked together to bring you this 1991 Statesman. From designing layouts to finding the perfect smile, we have worked hard to make 1991 an unforgettable year.

It is guaranteed—Tod Barger, Dan Delaney, and Kirsta Scranton agree that this yearbook is "simply the best". Dan said there is nothing he would change in this book. However, Kirsta thinks there should be more candid senior shots, and Todd wishes everything could be proportional. "I just think that sports such as swimming and baseball should be equal to sports like football."

All three of these students take pride in the layouts they have designed. Dan said he liked the feeling of being part of something people can look back on, and of course, Kirsta and Todd feel great about bringing you this year's boys' swimming season in pictures.

When asked what these students thought of working together, the response was pretty positive. After a snicker, Todd answered, "Definitely a variety of people." Kirsta agreed, "They are interesting." But with a variety of people we were able to bring you a yearbook that is varied in style, as well as people.

It takes hard work, but seeing the results makes the months of hard work worthwhile. One thing agreed upon by this year's Statesman staff is that it doesn't get any better than this!

- 13) Ann Zweigart thinks it's important for this layout to measure up to perfection.

9 issues prove dedication

Dedication and hard work are qualities needed by each member of the Outlook staff as they put together one of the nine issues of our school newspaper. It isn't all fun and games as some people might believe. Although sometimes very little seems to get accomplished, this group of hard working individuals always turns out an anxiously awaited paper each month. For the editors, their free time is limited.

Paul Pickering, editor-in-chief, spends each hour pondering over story ideas and lending a hand to the newest members of the staff. But the reporters are the ones who appear to have it easy. Or do they? After turning in a story, written and typed, the job is nearly finished. They must write a headline, and the rest is then turned over to the page editors. For front page news editor, Julie Hiedeman, laying out the prelim copy, then the final, writing a story and a headline is first priority.

Being on the newspaper staff isn't always a bed of roses. There are some problems faced as with all activities. For example, there is always the person who thinks a deadline is the time before the paper should actually be started. That slows the production, along with stories that aren't long enough. When it isn't long enough, it has to be handed back and extended so that there is no white space left on the page. This seems to come as an inconvenience to everybody.

Through all the tension that is released over the production of the paper, everything always turns out alright. And to celebrate the newest issue that has just been delivered, a monthly pizza party is held in honor of the teacher who makes this all possible, Mr. Ron Smrha.

Council on the move

Student government had an outstanding year once again. Projects as small as the Metro Area Volleyball Tournament to a Mississippi Valley Leadership Conference were planned and carried out by some of the top student leaders at Jefferson.

Advisor Mark Stewart, President B.J. Calloway, Vice-President Kris Vanous, Secretary Michelle Jones, and Treasurer Kate Galligan got the year's activities underway immediately as plans for Homecoming 1990 kicked in during the first week of September. The assemblies to determine the Homecoming Queen candidates and dance were a great success for Student Council.

There was a staff breakfast held on Halloween day. Some teachers came in costume and a great time was had by all.

In October, Student Council took some time out of one weekend to go on a hayrack ride and wiener roast at the Serbousek farm.

When Christmastime came around, many members took some time to visit hospitalized children at St. Lukes. Also, some Council members went Christmas caroling at Westside Estates Nursing Home. Both trips were beneficial for those being visited and for the Council members as they learned more about the hospital and nursing home.

As springtime arrived the Council kept busy working on the Third Annual Jefferson Leadership Conference. In our third year we extended invitations to all Mississippi Valley schools. With an attendance of approximately 85 students from 12 different schools, we considered the project a huge success.

Groups make plans

"We the People of the United States of America, in order to form a more perfect union . . ." This is the beginning of those immortal words of the U.S. Constitution. This historical document gives many Americans their birth-born rights. But just what does this 200 year old document have to do with Jefferson students? Jefferson students have the opportunity to run for class offices. Each student wishing to be considered as a candidate must have a petition signed by classmates. Then they begin to plot campaign strategies. Each of the four classes they casts votes for those individuals they would like to have represent them. After being elected, each representative than begins making crucial decisions concerning the well-being of their respective graduating class. Senior Senate's basic concern is to decide how and what class money is spent on.

Students receive scholastic honor

On April 22, seventy-five students were inducted into the National Honor Society. The National Honor Society is an elite group of students who not only have excellent grades, but also show good character, leadership, service, and scholarship. Schools from all over the nation induct thousands of students every year.

To be considered for N.H.S. at Jefferson, a student must be a junior or senior and have a 3.5 G.P.A. or higher. Students who meet that requirement are then sent an application to fill out. On the application, students must show what they have done in the four above areas. A committee of teachers then considers the applications and decides who is to be inducted. Those students are then notified of their acceptance.

Senior inductee Dan Delaney remembers waiting for his acceptance letter. "It was agony. Everytime an office runner came in to one of my classes with a note, my pulse would begin to race, wondering if this was it."

The induction ceremony was the culmination of this process. The old members of N.H.S. each had a part in the ceremony. Kay Hegarty was the keynote speaker. The inductees were presented with a pin, a membership card and treated to a special reception afterward. The inductees will also have a special honor cord to be worn at graduation. National Honor Society induction is a special evening for all involved, Dan concluded.

Students Explore Foreign Cultures

The main purpose of the International Club is to provide its members with an opportunity to explore new traditions and ideas from different cultures and ethnic groups. During the 1990-91 school year, some of the activities that club members participated in included a Spanish-Mexican dinner, a Christmas banquet—complete with a snowman pinata, and a trip to St. Paul, Minnesota, for the Festival of Nations.

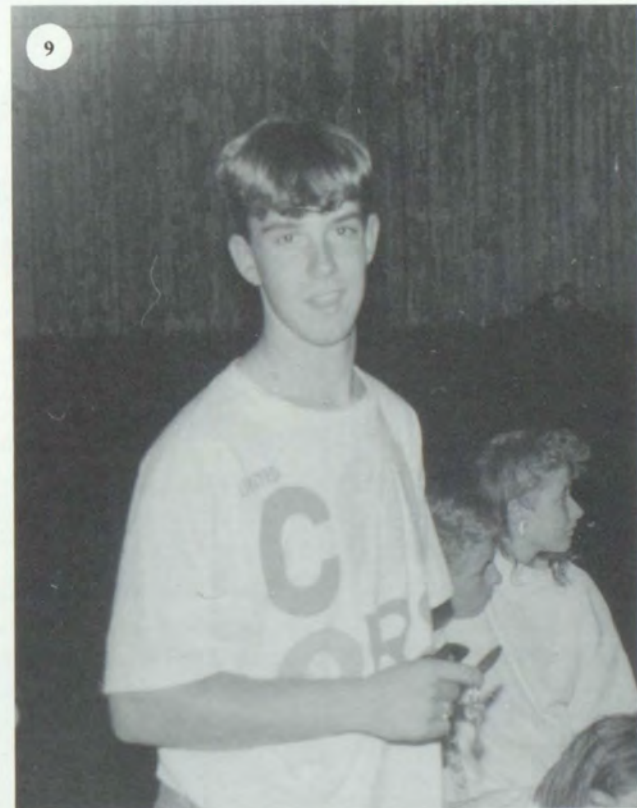

When asked which of the events she most enjoyed, club member Cathi Merritt said, "I think that the Mexican dinner was the best. Everyone got to meet new people and each of the foreign exchange students stood up and answered all of our questions."

Club co-sponsor, Mrs. Carol White, said that her favorite activity was the Festival of Nations. The festival included exhibits, food, and dances that represented many diverse cultures throughout the world.

As can be seen, the club had a very exciting and eventful year. Each member made new friends and became more aware of customs that other cultures have to offer.

Being turned down for a job or not being prepared for an interview can be a real bummer. Students in DECA, under the leadership of Ms. Upah, and Office Education, under Mr. Niemeyer, get a head start in learning and experiencing the responsibility of having a job.

Along with responsibility, students gain self-confidence and great work experience. Students in DECA learn to conduct interviews and gain professional speaking skills. OE students gain great advantages in typing letters of application. They also get a good chance to take a realistic look at the world of business and secretarial work. As Mr. Niemeyer said, "They hire a mind, not a body."

Although many hours are spent on fundraisers and practicing for state and national competitions, students still find time to have a lot of fun. Early spring, DECA sponsored the annual MORP dance. They also go on Ski-athons and they get a chance to see new states on their way to national competitions.

To sum it all up, Sue Halm revealed, "It's more than a class or a club, it's an experience that will last you a lifetime!"

Ilka Suhren—Germany

"This experience gave me a stronger will to reach my goals in the future. The changing of the classes was pretty weird because in Germany you always stay with the same students for the whole school year. I didn't know anything at all about stage craft, so when I was in a play, I found it interesting to get a backstage look. Traveling to Washington D.C. and to see a little bit more from the U.S. made the Christmas holiday very special for me."

John Feimann—Netherlands

"I think it is good for everyone to be on their own for a year; you get really independent. It was fun here, but I liked to go to Florida and to Chicago better. I was lucky I already graduated back home, so that I could take fun classes like graphic arts, year-book design, and driver's education. At the beginning of the year, I was kind of lazy, but I got involved during the spring, and I really enjoyed playing soccer. Thanks for a great year."

Friederike Schultz—Matthiesen Germany

"This experience made my need not to become superficial stronger. It also gave me the power for the years to come. In school, I have a lot of classes here I couldn't have taken in Germany, which gave me ideas for a job later on. I was also amazed by the sports enthusiasm. Above all, I feel like a part of my host-family. But I dislike the underspread superficiality as far as the American culture is concerned."

Julia Beisswenger—Germany

"This experience made me more independent because I had to make different decisions on my own. Here I can take a large variety of classes and I can do activities with the International Club. The holidays I enjoyed most were the days I went to Michigan with another exchange student. I also feel like a real part of my family; I really like them. As far as American culture is concerned, I like the school system which provides so many activities."

Fanny Weber—France

"I think this experience has made me more responsible and mature for the future. As far as school is concerned, a big change was that I could choose all my classes and teachers. The importance of sports at school surprised me, because in France I never had time to go out for any. I really enjoyed going to the games and liked the school spirit. To get along with my host-family and to feel like a real part of it helped me a lot, and I won't forget it."

Violaine Marin—France

"This experience changed a lot about myself. I feel more responsible, mature, and independent. I know my goals and my desires for the years to come, which makes me feel stronger about myself. The most important thing of my stay was my host-family. If I didn't have them, I would have gone back to France right away. As far as culture is concerned, I dislike the school system which appears empty to me. Above all, thank you Nikki Marie Morris."

Linda Alfvegren—Sweden

"I learned throughout this year to know myself better and I realize how much my family and friends mean to me. Here I am able to belong to a team at school which I can't do in Sweden. The biggest change was probably how hard Americans put the accent on sports; it's too much. I enjoyed absolutely all the holidays, which provided a lot of new spirit to me. I really feel like a member of my host-family. Saying good-bye to them will be very hard."

Blanca Gomez Menor—Spain

"This experience made me feel more responsible as I realized things were different without my parents. I really appreciated the fact that I can practice sports at school. I was surprised you can choose your classes and teachers; it's impossible in Spain. I enjoyed Christmas as my host-family made me feel at home and a real part of the family. They will always be a part of my own family. Overall, I like the school system, but it has weak aspects."

Carlos Garcia—Spain

"This experience changed my point of view towards sports. The biggest change compared to my own school is that I can't choose my classes and teachers in Spain. But I think that American high schools are too easy. The holiday I enjoyed most was Christmas. I learned a lot about American culture. But the thing I appreciated the most was my host-family. They helped me a lot to adjust, and I really felt like a part of the family."

Building a dream

Throughout the 1990-91 school year, three dedicated students spent their time and energy building a home to sell at the end of the school year. Seniors Brian Barth, Steve Hollan, and Dan Nelson spent nine months in the Building Trades program learning how to build a home. This course provides students with the chance to meet students from other schools and gives hands on experience in the field of construction. Students who feel they may want to build houses for a living can enroll in this course to see if it is what they expected.

Brian Barth believes it was a good experience for him. "It helps you learn about the world around you and what it has in store for you." He also feels it is a good class because it does let you see for yourself if this is the sort of thing you want to do with your life.

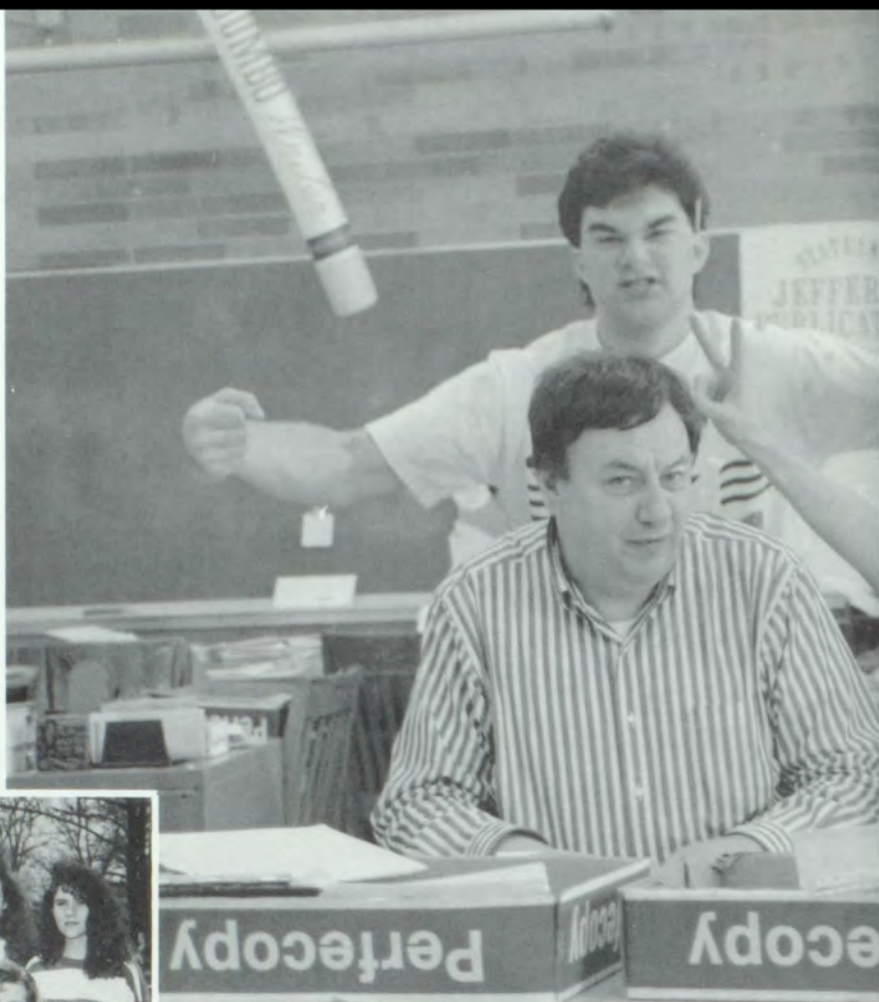

The house is located in Hiawatha on Inwood Ct. It was on the market for $109,000 and was purchased by a retired couple for $117,000. The couple was very pleased with the way the house turned out. They felt the students did a wonderful job and couldn't wait to move in.

The Building Trades course is a unique class because students get to use their bodies as well as their minds. The lessons learned during the hands on experience will remain long after the Pythagorean theorem has escaped their memory. The students enrolled in this course get the opportunity to really experience what the world of architecture and construction is really all about.

Proud of their work

Jefferson's students take pride in their achievements outside of the classroom. The members of Offhand, Quill and Scroll, and speech participants put in a lot of time and effort to make the publications department and speech competitions something all the Jefferson students and faculty can take much pride in.

Senior Julie Hiedeman was involved in speech all four years here at Jeff. Julie was also a member of Quill and Scroll her junior and senior year for the newspaper. Julie stated, "I enjoyed speech because it taught me to set aside my fears and get in front of an audience. I also learned that it was okay to be nervous. It was a great honor being inducted into Quill and Scroll my junior year."

This year the Offhand was put together under the direction of senior Lori Schulte. As the editor of the literary magazine, she spent many long hours with other students who helped out on their own time. Together they decided on the stories and poems to use, layouts to be designed, and the photos and artwork to be used. Their hard work and long hours really paid off. They put together a fantastic literary magazine.

Bats invade field

The smoke rises as a soft murmur of sound fills Kingston Stadium. The audience is in awe as the "Band of Blue" takes the field to begin their "Batman" show. For the first time ever, the band added characters to appeal to the imagination.

It took hours of practice to get where the band was at each show they would perform. We asked drum major Brian Fickel if he thought all the practicing payed off. His reply was, "Definitely, we really needed it to be as good as we were."

The band wouldn't be loud without the drum line. They were a real crowd pleaser. The crowd really enjoyed the different effects the drum line presented.

The crowd also held a very important role in the show. Mr. Dickinson, Jefferson's band director for thirteen years, was asked what he thought about the crowd support. His reply was, "I enjoyed looking up in the stands and seeing not just parents watching, but the students watching as well. They really help the performance."

For most band members, the highlight of the season was state contest. Mr. D. stated, "It was the best performance of the year."

Soon the echo of sound in the Stadium dies down. The crowd is on their feet as the band marches off the field. Most will be eager to be here again next year when the "Band of Blue" kicks off another exciting season of entertainment.

Jefferson Colorguard, Visual Entertainment

"You colorguard on the hill! It's past 7:30, what are you doing with practice flags? I said show flags." "This is a familiar phrase from Mr. Dickinson directed to the poms and other members of the award-winning colorguard. Junior pom, April DeMeulenaere, felt that during the fall term she was always busy, but the time and effort the colorguard and poms put into this season was well spent making this year one of the best ever.

Junior Jenni Kubalek, a three-year guard member, commented that our show was more difficult than that of other schools in the area. In addition to the regular guardwork, Mr. Dickinson choose to add actors, bat capes, new flags, and a bat symbol to tie the theme of "Batman" together. Ashley Smith, a sophomore a first-year guard member, felt that the actors helped the show. "They gave the people something to watch, even if they don't know anything about marching band." Even though the visuals looked easy, the colorguard put many hours of practice into the performance of this year's show.

When asked to sum up the pom's fall season, senior Sherri Suschena replied, "We worked hard and it's paying off, so we're having a great time." With practice starting in August, this gave the group more time to improve the show. Senior Shara Prull does not feel that it was too much practice. "If we want to look good we need a lot of work."

The marching season ended with the annual Band-O-Rama where once again the poms and colorguard put on an outstanding performance. It just goes to show, contest or half-time, the Jefferson colorguard is always ready to knock your socks off!

Get on bandwagon

The Jefferson Jazz Band, Wind Symphony, and Concert Band have always maintained a standard of excellence. This year was surely no exception.

The 1990-91 school year was a year of firsts for the Jefferson Jazz Band. They received their first division one rating at state contest. "This is a big accomplishment for us, especially since only three bands in our class received a one," explained Mr. Houk. This was the first year the Jazz Band competed on the national level too. In Chicago, they received a gold trophy for their efforts.

A major first was Jim Young being chosen for All State Jazz Band. Jim was the first person ever chosen from Jeff, or Cedar Rapids. Finally, for the first time, they performed with the professional jazz trio of Daugherty, Davis, and McPartland.

The Wind Symphony and Concert Band had another outstanding year. At the contest on the Chicago trip, the Concert Band received a silver trophy, and the Wind Symphony received a gold trophy. Only four to five percent of the trophies awarded were gold trophies. Goals varied, but all were positive ones. Mr. D. wanted his students to play to their potential, while Dave Toy wanted to get eight lessons and an A+!

Mark Hindman replied, "A bright future is ahead for the Jefferson band program!"

New director leads

At the start of the new school year, select members of Wind Symphony, along with the rest of Orchestra, experienced a change. A new director was chosen to lead the group, Mr. Wayne Thelander. Mr. Thelander came to Jefferson from McKinley Middle School. Senior James Erwin felt that he has benefited the group in many ways and is a very effective instructor. The new addition to Orchestra has initiated many new and creative ideas.

Orchestra, made up of about 20 strings and 20 wind and percussion members, meets hour three for practice and rehearsals during the school day. Mr. Thelander feels that the group uses its practice time wisely, but as with any music group, home practice is still mandatory.

Junior Jodie Sterns said that it takes between 6-7 weeks to prepare for a concert. "“March Militaire Frances” was my favorite piece and the high point of the year was the Christmas Concert“ Junior Heidi Krejci felt that being part of a group gave her satisfaction. Her goal for the year was to take Mr. Thelander's ideas and turn them into the best they could be.

All the hard work paid off; the group had a successful year.

Poms keep the pace

"...and now for your half-time enjoyment, the 1991 pom pon squad." This is a familiar introduction heard by the crowd at girls' and boys' home basketball games. The members are involved not only in poms, but also most find time for band, clubs, part-time jobs, and regular class homework.

Since poms is so time consuming, many find it hard to squeeze in other activities. Junior Julie Anderson says that finding time for practice in between work and band is quite difficult. Even though being in poms takes a lot of commitment, the many hours of practice helped to make this year's routines real crowd pleasers.

Practice begins bright and early every morning at 7:15. "It takes anywhere from two days to a week to learn a routine," commented senior Sherri Suschena. The choreography was taught over the summer at pom camp.

Although there was no captain, the girls helped each other out and worked hard to get along. Junior Jenny Reck summed up the season by saying, "It was a good experience, I gained a lot of self-confidence and new friends."

Ms. Sandee Walton said,

"There was a personal commitment that made poms special this year." The poms worked hard and accomplished a lot considering what they were up against. Finding time for practice, personality differences, and lack of a captain made it even harder to get the job done. Sherri Suschena said, "We had fun when we worked hard, and I wish we could have worked better to get along." All in all the year went well. Ms. Walton summed it up saying, "Have you ever seen thirteen more beautiful smiles in one place?"

1) Duane takes last minute instructions from "father" Pete before WSD's performance at Hoover. 2) Kerry Carleton and Wendy Shugart strut their stuff to "Curtain Up". 3) Aren't you glad we used Dial? 4) Renee moves yet another audience with her stunning solo performance. 5) Twirl it girls! 6) A——men! 7) Okay everybody, smile the camera is on us! 8) Delegation women show off first place medals at Onalaska. 9) "I can get my leg higher than yours!"

West Side Delegation magic

This year Delegation members took on one of their biggest challenges—themselves. For the first time in several years they attempted to excite and dazzle their audiences with good old-fashioned singing and dancing. It was time to put all of the fancy visual effects, chaser lights, flags, and smoke machines in storage and “get busy”.

Tensions were high leading up to the January 12 competition at Onalaska. Conflicting schedules and trying to get everyone on the same goal proved very difficult at times, but when the day of competition came, West Side Delegation stole the show and remained Grand Champions for the second year in a row.

Now wasn't the time to slack off, for just around the corner was the prestigious Mt. Zion Show Choir Competition. With less than a week to choreograph “My Love Is A Fire”, and the nervousness of never before being invited to this competition, Delegation members had their work cut out for them. Seventeen of the top show choirs in the nation competed at Mt. Zion and West Side Delegation proudly brought home third place.

This year West Side hosted its seventh annual Jefferson Show Choir Invitational. Forty-eight show choirs from all over the state of Iowa and surrounding areas competed for two days in our auditorium and new gymnasium. The event wound down to an exciting close Saturday evening at finals. What an awesome sight it was to see our new gymnasium packed so full of people! The air was filled with such a positive force that it drove all show choirs to perform at their ultimate best.

Seniors Kerry Carleton and Wendy Shugart both agree that West Side has been a lot of hard work this year, but it has also been a lot of fun!

Ovation 'dazzles'

"Everybody stop talking. If they gave out an award for the most talkative show choir you would get it." This is one of Ms. Tralau's favorite sayings when it comes to Ovation. Everybody who knows Ms. Tralau knows she isn't a morning person, so this is kind of how the kids give her a hard time.

Talking isn't all that Ovation does, they also are a pretty spectacular swing choir. Ovation consists of ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders who dance and sing for different events. Ovation helps prepare those kids who want to go on and try out for Westside Delegation.

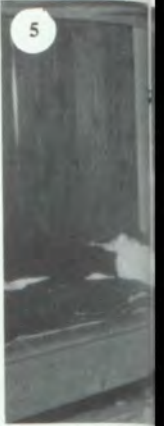

According to Mr. Eklund, the most important ingredient to being a good show choir is working together. He always says, "If you want to succeed you must work as a group." Even freshman Lori Koss agreed totally with him by adding, "If nobody worked together we wouldn't be as good as we are." This is used to enhance any choir.

As the end of the year nears auditions pop up and those who make it into Westside are happy, but those who don't aren't disappointed because they have the chance to be in Ovation again. Like sophomore Jeanice McNabb said, "I'd love to make Westside, but actually it would be a blast to be in Ovation again." To some people it doesn't matter which show choir you're in at Jefferson.

Being in Ovation is an experience never to be forgotten because you can look back on it as being something that you worked hard on. I recommend if you ever have the chance to be in Ovation do it because it's something to be proud of forever.

In D.C., Choir rocks fans

The traditional fall concert kicked off the season for Concert Choir in October. "The 1990-91 Concert Choir is as good or better than last year's choir," was a comment made several times about this year's Concert Choir.

In state contest, men's concert choir, women's concert choir, and Concert Choir as a whole received number one ratings.

When Todd Hauskins was asked what pieces of music sung this year he liked best, he shared that the double choir piece, "Ave maria", and "Pouenc" were his favorites.

Concert Choir took a trip to Washington DC. They say many of the sites including the Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Monument, and the Capitol. Then they sang the National Anthem in front of each one. Julie Byrd commented, "We would have had more fun if we weren't tired." But in all, the D.C. trip was an experience to remember the rest of your life.

In the past the only people in Concert Choir had been juniors and seniors, but this year, there are two graduating that have been in it since they were sophomores. Kerry Carleton and Mike DeWitte have done a lot more than what was expected of them.

1. During the 4th hour, Concert Choir practices hard for an upcoming concert.
2. Jason Duffy and Nick Haidan have fun unwinding at a reststop on the way to D.C.
3. Shanon, Ann, and Susan on a bus in D.C.
4. Kerry Carleton and Linda Eide dry off after being swamped in a canoe on the Concert Choir retreat.
5. Ilka and Ashley get "crazy" on the bus in D.C.

Choirs rate highly

Five of the choir groups here at Jefferson High School have accomplished a lot this past school year. Madrigal, Meistersingers, Varsity Singers, Sophomore Singers, and Jefferson Singers all made a name for themselves. They did this by being five of the best choir groups in the Midwest.

The five choir groups were extremely successful. But that doesn't mean it was an easy road for the choir members. They not only spent an hour in class each day rehearsing, but they also put in long hours before and after school practicing for concerts.

The members in these choirs weren't the only ones who worked long and hard this year. Mr. Pete Eklund and Ms. Carol Tralau also put in a lot of time and energy to make the choirs outstanding. But both choir directors agree that it's well worth it all in the end.

Many of the choir members feel that they have reached their goal of success because they had a lot of talent, determination, and great directors. But they also feel that it had a lot to do with the support they got from each other and the audiences at their numerous performances.

The seniors that are graduating this year said they will miss being a part of the choirs. But they will never forget the memories they've made.

The underclassmen who will be returning next year said they are going to work even harder to make the choirs even better, while striving for perfection.

THE OUTSIDERS

Guns, knives, fist fights, rumbles, family troubles, "Greasers", and "Socs". What do these all have in common? Those who attended Jefferson's fall play production of "The Outsiders" on October 25-27 know the answer. With the total cast and crew of 74, this play was considered a smash hit.

Improvisation was a key element in this play. This meant the audience had to imagine that areas of the stage were places like streets, drive-ins, or Ponyboy's home. The play used fences to help the audience to identify the three levels of socialization in a typical school. Mr. and Mrs. Erbe were responsible for the special effects. When asked if he thought the church scene would be cut, because a fire really couldn't be set on the stage, he stated, "Of course not, but we're going to burn that church down."

Relating to the character they portrayed seem difficult for most cast members because their roles were so different from their real life. The cooperation made it easier for everyone. When Brad Bodin (Darry) got sick, Scott Drzycimski took his place. The other actors were more nervous for him than for themselves. Scott stated, "I couldn't have done it alone; it took a lot of help from the crew members."

It was old-fashioned but still fun for everyone. The melodrama ran December 6, 7, and 8. It was directed by Mike Pietz with technical direction by Mr. and Mrs. Erbe. Set in Connecticut, the play was filled with colorful characters.

Mike Barnes played the villain, Munro, who was determined to win the love of Nellie Lovelace (Christina Farrell) and steal her fortune. In order to do so he used his accomplice, Ida Rhinegold (Linda Wacker), to trick Nellie's fiance, Adam Oakhart (Eric Bodin), into looking at her leg. Nellie became heartbroken at this act.

Ida then persuaded Nellie to write a letter to Munro saying she'd go away with him. Eventually, the letter landed up in Adam's hands. Upon reading it to Nellie's mother and friends, Widow Lovelace died and Adam's life turned to ruin.

In the years that follow, Nellie and Adam live very unhappy lives without each other. Then, one day the mischief of Munro and Ida is revealed. With the help of Mookie (Tyson Caffrey), they tie Munro onto the track of an approaching train. Now, "all the clouds of life have passed away," as the final tableau closes.

"Dirty Work" was well received by the audiences. They enjoyed hissing, cheering, and tossing coins onto the stage. All contributions were greatly appreciated!

Circus is fun for everyone

Everyone remembers Playtime Poppy from when they were little kids. Now that they are older, many students are appearing in the Children's Theatre productions.

This year was no different. "The Run Away Clown" was performed by two casts between January 30 and February 2 in the Jefferson Auditorium. There were approximately forty students who acted on the stage and many people helped backstage. There were fewer roles for actors, so with two casts, there were more opportunities for students to participate.

Children's Theatre allows students to play characters that are not as serious as those in other plays. The students found it to be an "enjoyable and good experience."

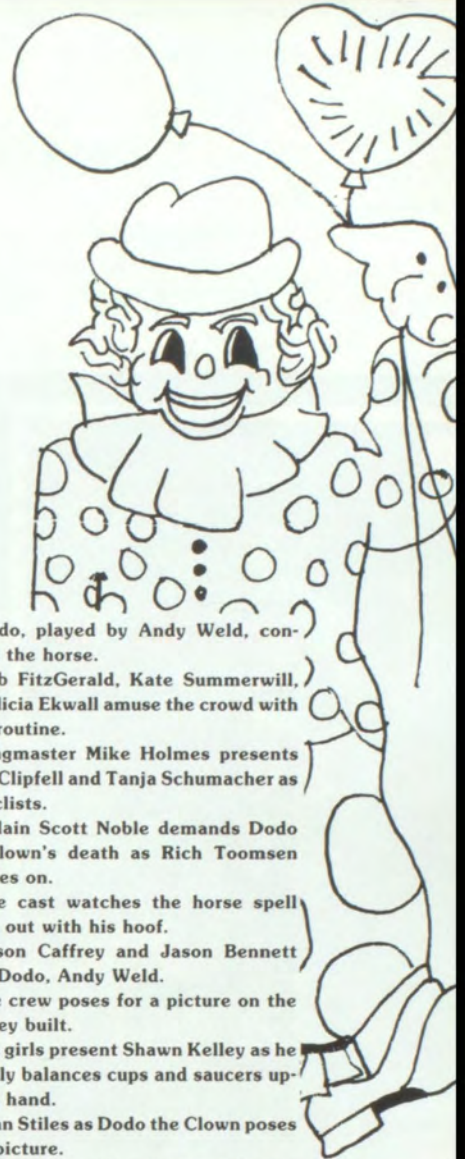

Senior Andy Weld has performed in Children's Theatre all four years here at Jefferson. This year, Andy played Dodo the clown. He stated, "It has been fun, enjoyable, and a good experience each time. The best part of doing the Children's Theatre is the kids. The dialogue calls for interaction with the audience. This gets the kids involved in the show and makes the play more enjoyable for both the audience and the actors."

This year's production of "The Run Away Clown" was a success and again Playtime Poppy brought smiles to the faces of happy kids.

Heartwarming

On March 21, 22, and 23. "David and Lisa" was brought to the Little Theatre stage. Mike Peitz directed the heartwarming drama about two teenagers who overcome their battles with fear and learn what it is like to live.

Mike Barnes portrayed the character of David Clemens. He was obsessed with staying clean and not being touched. Lisa Grant, on the other hand, was schizophrenic. Adrienne Hallet played the two personalities, one of which communicated by writing and the other by talking in rhymes. Because of their problems, David and Lisa, along with other kids, lived in a special home.

Chess board tile and enormous clocks were used to give the play an expressionistic style. This was an important element because it enabled the audiences to understand the reality of David and Lisa's fears.

The end of the drama was the beginning for Lisa and David as she put her trust in him and he held out his hand for her.

Royal Princess

In May, the main auditorium was magically turned into a medieval castle by the master wizard, Mr. Erbe, and his apprentices. "Once Upon a Mattress" was directed by the king of theatre, Mr. Geuder. The play ran the 10th, 11th, 16th, 17th, and 18th of May.

The musical comedy was based on "The Princess & the Pea". Wendy Shugart played the tomboyish princess named Fred (short for Winnifred). Prince Dauntless, Brian Stiles, wanted very much to get married. The queen, however, insisted that each princess pass an impossible test to prove herself worthy of marrying the prince. No one in the entire kingdom could be wed until Dauntless was.

As the story goes, a knight introduced Fred to the court. The queen, Janara Kellerman, tested her by placing a pea under twenty mattresses. When she slept through the night she would fail the test. But Fred didn't sleep! Not even a wink! In fact, the queen was struck speechless. Fred had passed the test! Finally, everyone could get married and live happily ever after.

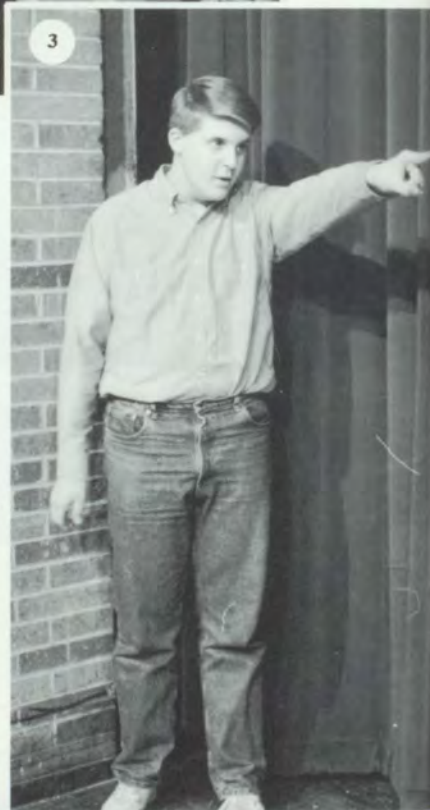

International Thespian Society Troupe 561

Thespian Troupe 561 began the year in class as they cruised to Chicago. Once there, they attended a dinner theatre where they enjoyed "Into the Woods". The following day, they attended Andrew Lloyd Weber's masterpiece, "The Phantom of the Opera".

In November, a number of Thespians traveled to Des Moines where the State Thespian Conference was being hosted. They had the chance to see several performances done by other Iowa troupes. Workshops on all aspects of theatre were also offered.

Throughout the year, Andy Weld held office as president with the assistance of Scott Drzycimski as vice-president. Rebecca Jansen served as secretary and Mark Ring was treasurer. Jason Bennett was the troupe's scribe.

The troupe's five performances brought on an outstanding season. Beginning with "The Outsiders", the crowds filled the auditorium. The melodrama "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" was a favorite for the audiences who participated in cheering, booing, and throwing coins at the actors. Playtime Poppy and "The Clown Who Ran Away" entertained many youngsters in January. March brought the touching tale of "David and Lisa". The season concluded with laughter as the musical comedy "Once Upon a Mattress" took center stage.

Scene Shop

Masters of Creativity

Throughout the year, Jefferson's artists, carpenters, and hard workers created many fabulous sets. They ranged from a burning church to a toy shop to a castle which were designed by Mr. Jim Erbe. Using his plans, students helped build all the scenery for the plays and other special events including Homecoming and the Follies at the Paramount.

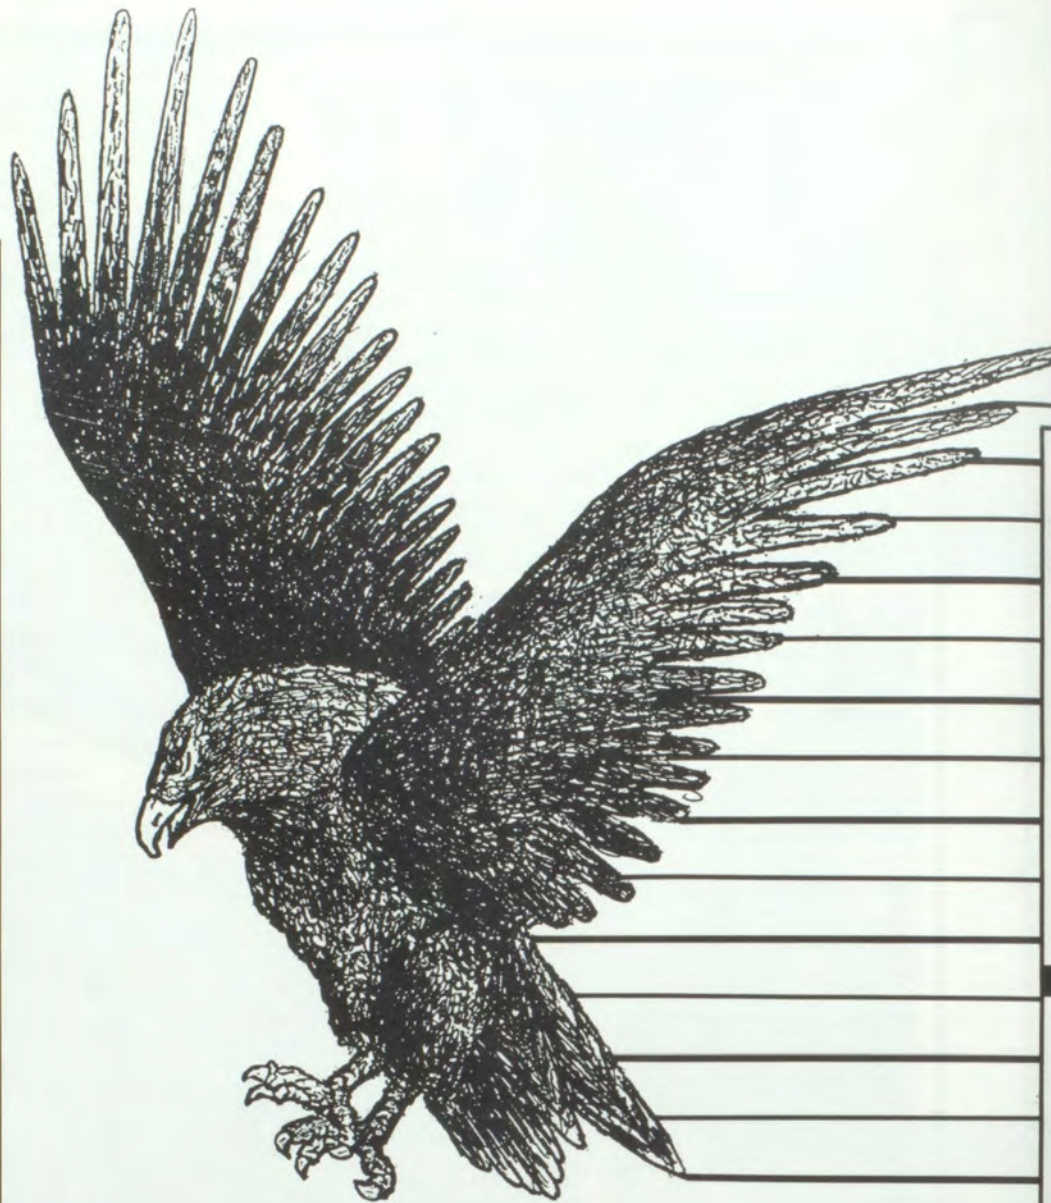

There are many steps which are included in making a set. Construction, dutchman, priming, and painting are just a few of the basics.

People work backstage for a variety of reasons. The majority of people do it for enjoyment and meeting new people. Some work to earn Thespian points. However, a few techies see it as an opportunity to learn stagecraft and gain experience for the future. Senior Aric Hopkins plans to have a career in stage management.

Jefferson has one of the largest theatres around. This provides students with a wonderful chance to get hands on experience.

Squads take charge

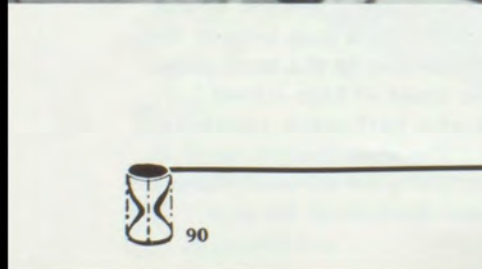

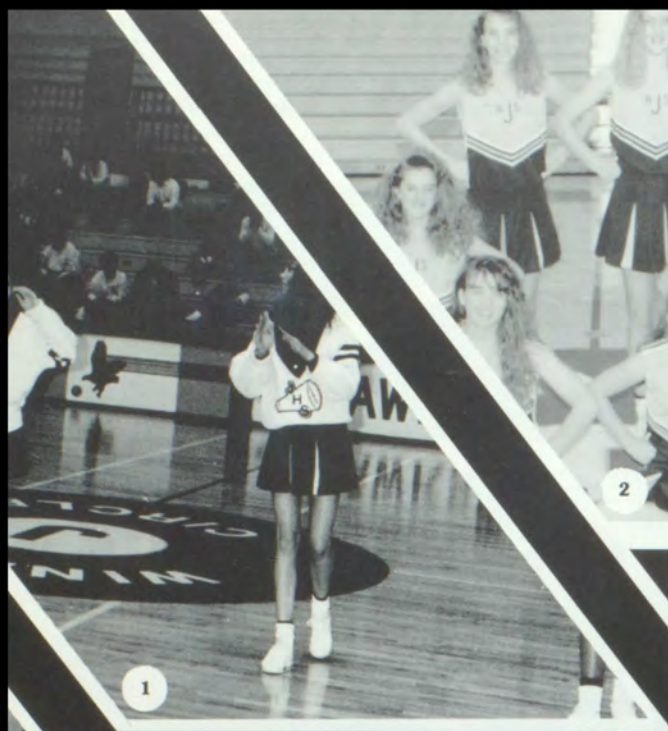

The cheerleaders kicked off another great season. "Awesome!", Ms. Walton commented on her fall cheerleading squads. This group was appreciated when it came to games, pep rallies, and assemblies. "The cheerleaders always took charge and got our school spirit going," said Jessica Fleming. "They were a spirited group."

They all gave us something to cheer about with signs to keep the crowd involved and treats for the players. Senior Dan Delaney commented, "All the cheerleaders showed great enthusiasm, even when the crowd wasn't quite as enthusiastic when our team was behind."

Although these activities demanded extra time, all the cheerleaders have enjoyed the season. To Christy Meyers, her most memorable moment was when "the football players thanked us for getting the crowd fired-up, even when they were down."

The season is best summed up by Tammy Wieneke, "This year, we've seen some ups and downs, but I know I will look back at the season as one of the most memorable times of high school."

Natalie Serbousek concluded that, "The cheerleaders were an important part of each team's success throughout the year."

Cheering for a victory

The 1991 cheerleaders had a very successful winter season. The varsity boys' basketball cheerleaders had the chance to cheer their team to its first district championship in nineteen years. The freshmen and sophomore wrestling cheerleaders led those teams to an undefeated seasons. Six varsity wrestlers went to State with an enthusiastic squad behind them. The other cheerleading squads contributed much to their team's season.

Boys' basketball cheerleader Angie Aumer stated, "The season went really great. I was happy to be a part of a group that really cared about the success of the team."

Freshman cheerleader Angie Hasselbrink stated, "Cheerleading was really rewarding. I learned a lot about teamwork and met many new people."

Big dreams fade

Jefferson's Blue Thunder rocked the Valley the first three games of the season. Beating Iowa City West, Prairie, and cross town rival Washington in the season openers, the J-Hawks hoped they were here to stay. However, the next six games, the J-Hawks were defeated. The record stood 3-6 and a sixth place tie in the Mississippi Valley Conference.

The team was led by senior captains Greg Boyd, B.J. Calloway, and Mark Zahradnik. First team All State went to Greg Boyd and Mark Zahradnik. Second team All State went to Matt Uhde and Kirk Wischmeyer. Receiving Honorable Mention were B.J. Calloway, Nick Haiden, Ted Kramer, and Thad McDowell.

As the season came to a close, the job of head coach came to an end also. Bill Calloway, who has coached Jefferson varsity football for seven years, resigned a few weeks after the season ended. Coach Calloway joined the coaching staff in 1983. He is only the fourth coach in Jefferson's 34 year history. His overall record was 35-45. In 1985, Calloway led the team to a second place tie in the Mississippi Valley Conference. He dedicated his winning spirit and his determination to win to his Jefferson teams.

Sophs down opponents

In the past, Jefferson's 9th and 10th grade football teams have set a standard of winning. This year's team were no exception.

As freshmen, the class of '93 was totally dominant and they held nothing back this year. As sophomores, they ended the season 9-0, clinching the Mississippi Valley title outright.

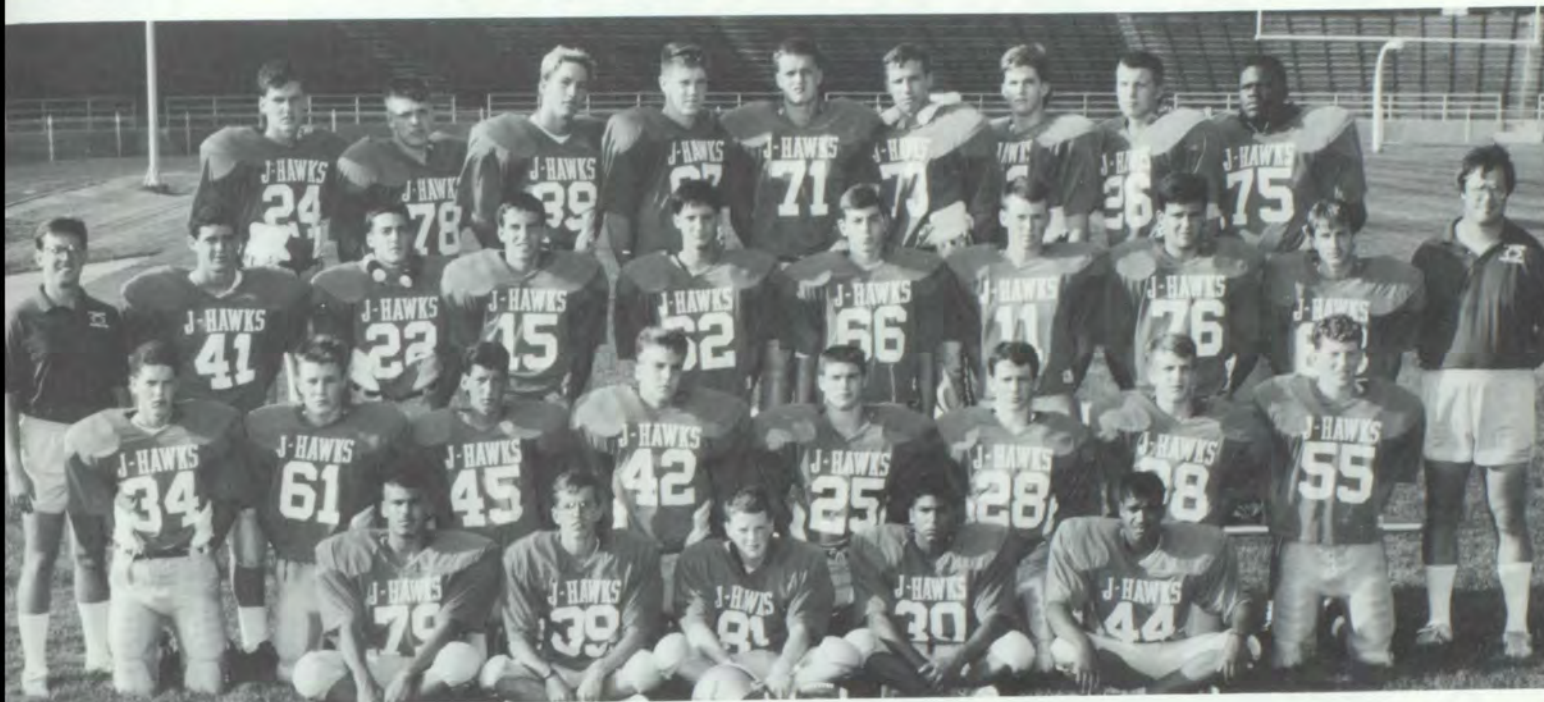

"It was a very satisfying year. It seemed like everything I asked them to do, the team did," said head coach John Hegarty, "No major injuries also played a part in the success we had."

According to Coach Strait, this year's freshmen barely tapped into their talents. "This class is the biggest and fastest team ever at Jefferson," added Coach Strait. The statistics turned out by this team were incredible; such as their total 1,635 yards rushing which averages out to over 200 yards a game.

Team reaches goal

The 1990 volleyball team started out the season with a lot of work to do. With the help of seven seniors, one dedicated coach, and a lot of determination, the "Big Blue Spiking Crew" accomplished much.

The J-Hawks, with a record of 34-8-4, finished 2nd in the MVC, were regional champs, sectional champs, and qualified for the state tournament. The state tournament was the J-Hawks largest goal, and it was accomplished. Both co-captains, seniors Amber Miller and Lori Riha, were very excited by having the opportunity to play at state. Amber further commented, "It's the opportunity of a lifetime. I was very proud of the way we played." Lori added, "I was impressed with the way the team really came together towards the end of the season."

No team could have gotten as far as the J-Hawks did without the dedication of Coach Jim Cox. Mr. Cox commented, "It is an honor to be in the elite eight teams that had a chance to make the state tournament."

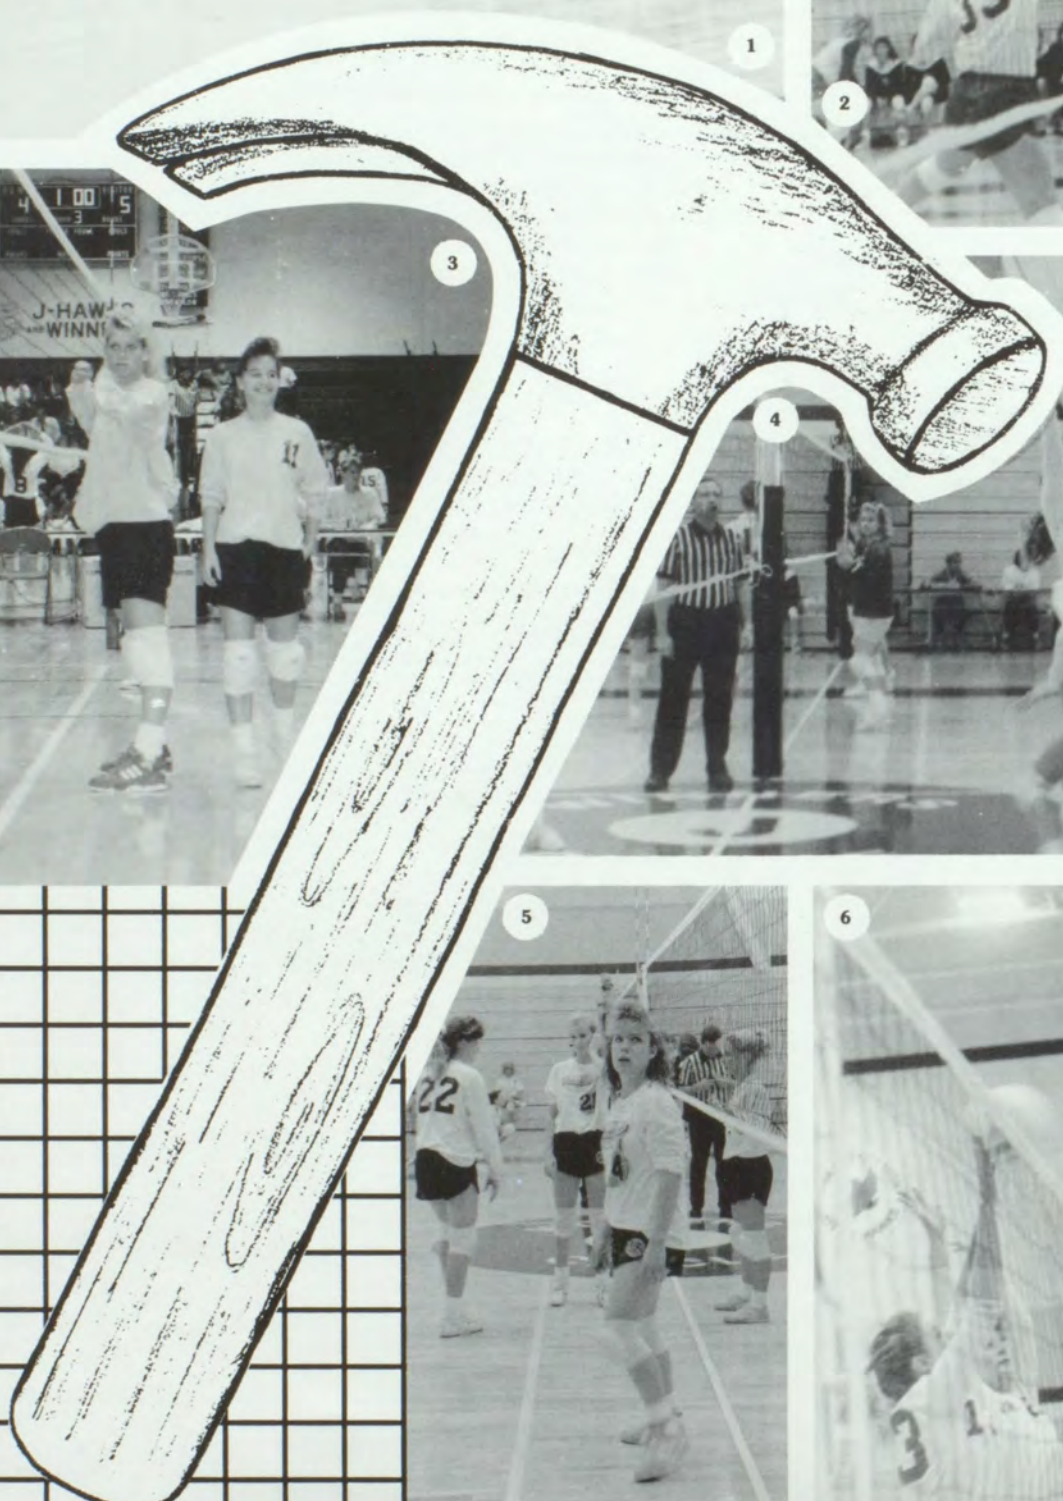

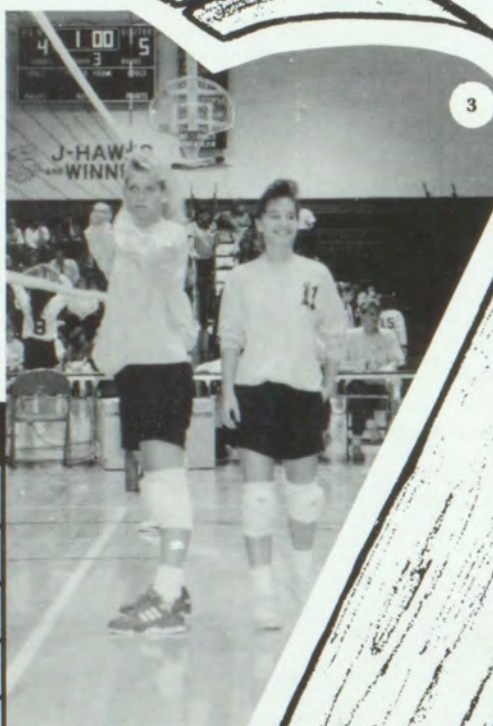

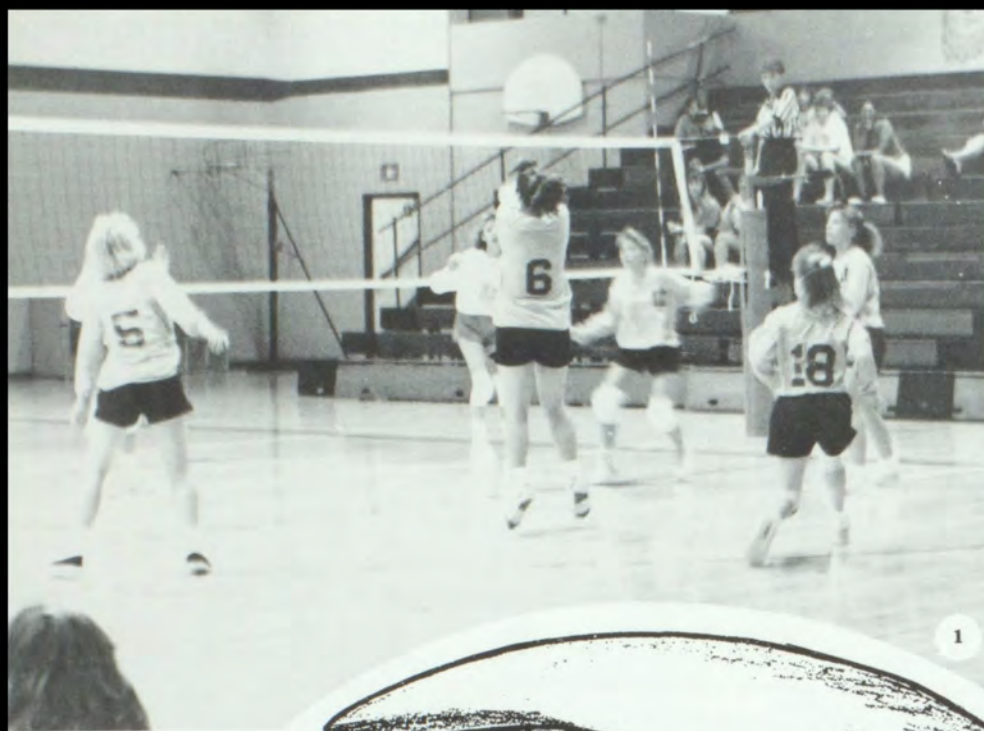

The J-Hawk "Big Blue Spiking Crew" is truly a team to be looked up to. They were only the fifth team in the 17 year history of JHS volleyball to go to state. This truly was an outstanding accomplishment.

"Jefferson High School is proud to have a team of this caliber. Way to go LADIES!", concluded Coach Cox.

TEAM CLOCKS MILES

It takes endurance to be a cross country runner. Athletes get ready before the season begins. During the summer, they spend their time preparing for the season. Dan Woods, a senior co-captain, went to a cross country camp to help him prepare. When practice began, each member was ready to give it his all. The hard work and determination of each member helped the team get through a tough season.

Everyone on the team had to go to practice daily, running about 25 miles a week, to places like Jones and Ellis Parks. Leadership changed throughout the season, varying from meet to meet. Mark Ironside was an important member who brought responsibility and determination to the team. The team lost a couple of key runners early in the season. But despite this setback, they did well at districts. Everyone was in top form, setting new personal records at districts, helping the team to achieve the goal of going to state.

Although the team lost key members, they finished the year proud of their accomplishments. This year's team was made up of a lot of underclassmen. They all look forward to next year. "We'll do better next year," predicts junior Kevin Darrow, "being so young, we have a lot to work on."

Girls triumphant

Now that the season is over, the memories aren't. The 1990 girls' cross country team will never forget this year. They placed as runner-up in the state at Ames.

These girls are very dedicated. They practiced six times a week. They do different types of running, drills, and lift weights.

The season started off slowly because of injuries but after conference, the J-Hawks pulled themselves together and worked even harder. It took a lot of effort and determination, but that's what the team is all about.

Coach Jim O'Brien is very pleased with the team this year. He stated, "The team has truly risen to a powerful cross country level." Mr. O'Brien has high expectations for the team's performance next year.

Despite all the injuries during the season, Andrea Lehew commented that, "It was a really good season because we had several strong runners returning."

Although the team will lose three seniors next season, Mr. O'Brien said, "I think we'll be very strong next year. The J-Hawks are looking forward to bringing home the state title next year.

The girls' hard work and determination is what made their success possible. They worked together as a team, overcame obstacles, and it all paid off.

Team aims gun at state

The 1990-91 men's swim record is another for the record books. This season saw the J-Hawks take down four impressive records. Senior diver Brian Rawson claimed the six and eleven dive records, sophomore Matt Betterton took down a nine year breaststroke record, and the 200 free relay consisting of senior Todd Barger, juniors Nick Haidin and Jason Segriff, and sophomore Jay Raabe pulled down a fifteen-year-old record. Despite these accomplishments this year was looked at as mainly a rebuilding year for next season.

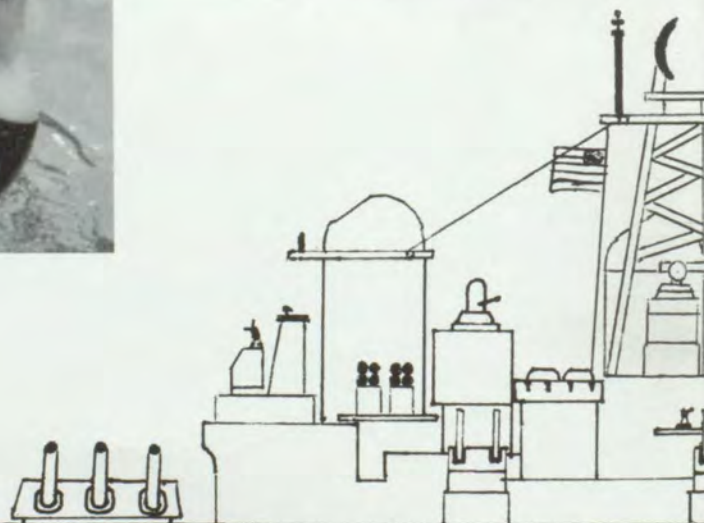

Head Coach Jim Taylor stated, "Of the twenty-one members on the team, twelve were first-year members." This team was by far the youngest that the Jefferson swim team has ever had. This season saw the J-Hawks bring in a four and four dual meet record. The first meet was a hard-fought dual with cross-town rival Kennedy, but in the end the Cougars prevailed, 96-90. Other key meets found the J-Hawks slipping passed the Dubuque Senior Rams by a score of 94-92, and a trouncing of the Iowa City West Trojans.

At the district swim meet the J-Hawks qualified five swimmers and one diver to state, in a combined total of seven events. Qualifiers included Brian Rawson in diving; Todd Barger in the 200-yard medley relay, the 200-yd. free relay and the 100 fly; Nick Haidin in the 100 and 200-yd. freestyle; and the two relays, Jason Segriff in the 200-yd. medley and free relays; Jay Raabe in the 100-yd. breaststroke and the medley relay.

Matt was also crowned district champion in the breaststroke. At state, Brian took sixth place and Matt finished a respectful tenth. The team's overall finish was twenty-fifth. At the awards banquet Todd Barger was named captain, most valuable, and sparkplug; Nick Haidin most valuable and sparkplug; and Matt Betterton claimed the hardest worker award and sparkplug. Swimmers succeed

The 1990 girls' swim team had 43 swimmers and divers; twelve of which were seniors. The team ended with a winning season of 8-1, with its only loss being to Washington.

The J-Hawks finished second at the Burlington and Tiger Invationals. They also placed second at MVC and at districts. Coach Jim Taylor was named MVC and District Coach of the Year.

"The most important think I tell my swimmers is to be the best they can be," he explained.

Eleven team members advanced to State: freshman Cindy Robeson, sophomore Sara Zeller, juniors Kim Staab and Angie Robeson, and seniors Carol Boelter, Jeni Dircks, Kellie Klosterman, Nikki Ranard, and Cher Weaver. Jenny Pope and Wendy Heaverlo went as alternates.

The 200 free relay was made up of Cindy Robeson, Angie Robeson, Kellie Klosterman, and Nikki Ranard. This relay broke the pool and school records as well as earned an eighth place finish at State.

This year was full of many surprises, from the 200 free relay to the third and eighth place finish at State Diving. Senior Carol Boelter, fellow record holder in the 200 Individual Medley and the 100 backstroke, said the best part about swimming is the friendships you have with everyone. As for freshman Cindy Robeson, competition was her favorite part of the season.

Overall, the "swimmin' women" had a great season. This year left the team with many memories and it was difficult to end a season with so many talented swimmers and divers.

Varsity dominates

The 1990-1991 mens' wrestling season ended victoriously. The team ended its year by finishing third in state and out of the twelve varsity wrestlers on the team, six qualified for state. Among them were sophomore Mark Ironside, juniors Darin O'Brien and Eric Baker, and seniors Matt Ironside, Nathan Means, and Anthony Johnson.

Matt Ironside brought the state title home in the 135 weight class. He ended his season 35-1 and his career 112-13. He broke five records and tied two in season and career. Coach Dick Briggs said, "Matt is a very complete wrestler. He had the most dominate state meet of any J-Hawk State Champion that I can remember."

Nathan Means had a remarkable season. He was undefeated until his upset at the state tournament. He came away with honorable mention. "Nathan Means has been everything that a coach could ever want in an athlete," said Coach Briggs, "He will always be considered as one of the best wrestlers that I have coached." Although Nathan had one of the best records at Jefferson (33-1), he can't help but feel a little disappointed.

Mark Ironside, the only sophomore on varsity, had an impressive season, finishing 32-3 and taking third in state. "I'm very happy because I still have two years to wrestle after this," says Mark, and with the pressure from his brother, he will achieve much more.

Juniors Eric Baker and Darrin O'Brien also placed at state. Eric received fifth place and Darrin received sixth. Anthony Johnson, a senior, received honorable mention.

At the banquet at the season's end, Matt Ironside and Nathan Means were named co-captains. Matt was also cited as the Most Valuable Wrestler and along with his brother, Mark, earned the Hustler Award.

Blue takes 'em down

J-Hawk wrestling requires a high level of concentration as well as dedication. Members of the team spent countless hours running, lifting weights, and doing everything they could do to make weight. Sophomore Brian Barnard accomplished this with "lots of hard work and a strict diet." Although wrestling involves commitment and hard work, and the practices can get long, it paid off.

Freshman Donnie Karr felt that the high point of his season was winning the Mississippi Valley Conference in the freshman division, and having an 8-2 record for the year. Mark Pendergast, sophomore, met his personal goals for the season, by making it to the district meet, but also had his toughest match against Prairie's Matt Hatcher. Wrestling, unlike other sports, is mainly individual. The sacrifices, however great, made the team the best they could be.

Wrestling is not all rewards. In order to "make weight" you have to go on a limited diet to either gain or lose pounds. Donnie trained by "working hard, concentrating, not eating, and doing everything that the coach says." Brian wished that he could have won the two matches that he lost, and saw his match with Iowa City High's Greg Kindle as his toughest match.

All in all, the season ended on a high note. The J-Hawks walked away with the Mississippi Valley Conference title and finished with an impressive record for the season. Brian Barnard summed up the season by saying, "I had fun, and it was a pleasure being associated with Coach John Hegarty."

J-Hawks nab title

The Jefferson varsity boys' basketball squad struggled through the early part of the season but ended on a high note by winning its first district title in nineteen years. The J-Hawks started the season by winning their first two games over tough non-conference foes, but needed a late season surge- winning five out of their last eight games- to finish the season, 10-12. Matt Giddings, a junior guard and the top returning defensive player for next year, said, "Towards the end of the year we played not as individuals, but as a team". He thought this accounted for the team's late season success.

This year's squad was led by the team's tri- captains, seniors Sean Tighe, Jeremy Lewis, and junior Colin Mattiace. Although competing against players as much as six inches taller than himself, Colin was a force in the middle, leading the team by averaging fifteen points and nine rebounds a game. He had a Jeff team high when he scored twenty-nine points against Marshalltown. Colin plans to lead next year's squad to a higher level.

Sophomores please the coach

This year's sophomore boys' basketball team finished 13-5 with a third place finish in the MVC. Coach Dunbar felt that this year's team was a very fine athletic group which played very well together. "They were a high-scoring team averaging 70 points a game and managed to hold their opponents to an average of 52 points with a strong defense."

As the season wound down to a close, the players left with some pretty good feelings. Tony Winkler comments, "I think our greatest accomplishment as a team this year was our ten-game winning streak." "During that time we beat top-rated Dubuque Wahlert which was a real boost to our team spirit," adds Jason Rose. Jason, who was the team's leading scorer and rebounder, felt that the best word to describe the season would be, "Teamwork. It wasn't a one-man stand, everyone pitched in." With a winning season under their belts, the sophomores can now start planning for a bigger challenge that lies ahead under Coach Landis. We wish them well. Congratulations to the freshmen on a winning season. They finished the year 24-10.

Lady J-Hawks excel

The J-Hawks' season started out with a lot of competition to fill in positions on the team. While Kate Galligan was the only returning starter, the seniors, juniors, and a few sophomores stepped up to the challenge. With the leadership of seniors Brandie Allnut, Tangela McCall, Amber Miller, and Darcie Usher, the girls' basketball team accomplished a lot this season.

Two of the most exciting wins for the season were the defeat of Regis and Kennedy by 2 and 5 points respectively. The J-Hawks had been beaten previously in the season by both opponents. The highlight of the team's season was the overtime win of #2 ranked Kennedy. Brandie Allnut agreed, "It was an awesome game, we played really well."

The J-Hawks then went into the regional playoffs with a lot of momentum. They had the feeling they could go all the way. Yet they fell short with a second round loss to Iowa City West, 68-61. Brandie felt, "We could have gone farther."

The J-Hawks had a great season with a record of 18-5. While learning to step into new positions, the team managed to stay ranked most of the season. With already experienced players and upcoming undefeated sophomores, the J-Hawks look forward to the '92 season. While losing only four seniors and one starter, the J-Hawks look very promising for the future.

Sophomores excel on the court

The ninth grade girls' basketball team broke the tradition of having two teams. This year coach Stewart and coach Kincaid combined the blue and white teams into one squad. The girls were led by Sheila Goeke, who played point guard. Sheila said there were both advantages and disadvantages to combining the teams.

An advantage was it gave the starters more playing time, but that took away playing time from the non-starters. According to Sheila, the highlight of the season was the win against Linn-Mar. They gave Linn-Mar their only loss all season.

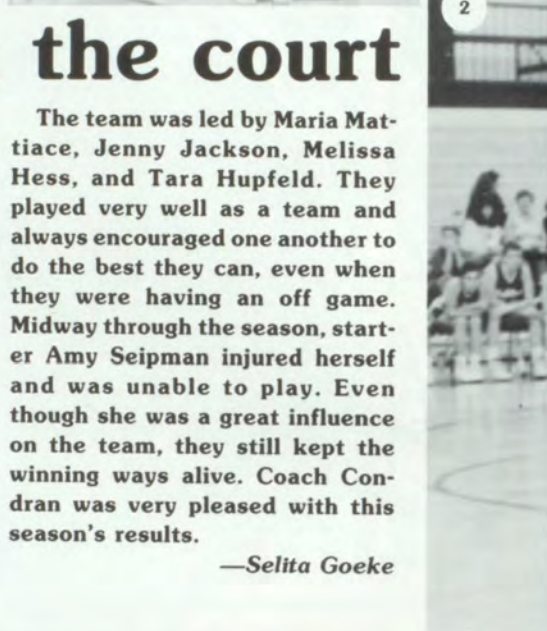

The ninth grade girls played well all season despite the absence of Melissa Hess and Jenny Jackson, who were moved up to the sophomore team. Even without these two girls, the team finished the season with a record of fifteen wins and eleven losses.

The sophomores continued the tradition of last year's undefeated season. The girls finished with a record of seventeen wins and no losses. The dream of a perfect season almost came to an end when they faced Muscatine. The game was too close for comfort, but the J-Hawks pulled off the win by one point.

The team was led by Maria Mattice, Jenny Jackson, Melissa Hess, and Tara Hupfeld. They played very well as a team and always encouraged one another to do the best they can, even when they were having an off game. Midway through the season, starter Amy Seipman injured herself and was unable to play. Even though she was a great influence on the team, they still kept the winning ways alive. Coach Condran was very pleased with this season's results.

Acceleration

The boys' track team did very well this year despite graduating some very talented seniors last year. This team is fairly young, with only five seniors. The team qualified the 4x100 and 4x200 relays, and Eric Hale in the 100m dash, to the Drake Relays in Des Moines.

Eric Hale, a junior, had this to say about the team. "The highlight of the season was qualifying as many people as we did to state. This allows the younger members to receive experience." The high point of the season for senior B.J. Calloway was running at the Drake Relays.

Junior Ambullai Cassell, along with Eric Hale, ran the 100m and 200m dash at the state meet. The 4x100, 4x200, and 4x400 relays, and the low hurdles, also made the trip to Des Moines.

At the beginning of the track season, Coach Calloway was confident his team was going to be a big success. How right he was—the girls were J-Hawk Relays champions, Cougar Invitational champs and runner-up at the Warrior Invitational. The J-Hawks proved to everyone that they were definitely a team to be reckoned with when they walked away from districts with the championship trophy and thirteen events qualified to compete in the state meet.

Senior Alishia Williams enjoyed track season this year because the team's total attitude was toward success. If Alishia could do something differently, she would try to motivate the younger team members more.

The Big Blue Throwing Crew experienced much success this year also. Junior Amber Atkins was undefeated in shot-put all season and teammate Christy Hebert pushed Amber every meet and added valuable points to help the J-Hawks win meets.

At the state track meet championships came from Amber Atkins in the discus, Cyndi Olson in the 1500m, and the "Brown Sugar Express" 4x100m relay, which consisted of Tangela McCall, Alishia Williams, Keisha Williams and Brandi Brooks. The girls finished third place overall at state.

Soccer sets goals

This year's men's soccer team had a most eventful season. "One of the biggest highlights," according to Mike Derlein, "was shutting out the high scoring I.C. West team." This hasn't been done in two years.

There were many key players on this year's team. Leading the offense was Joe Sample. He broke his own record, ending his career with 47 goals. Joe was honored best offense and first team All-Metro. David Daniels was also a key player. He was unanimously named first team All-Metro as a fullback, and best defense by his teammates. The third key player was Kerry Carleton. He was honored second team All-Metro as the goal keeper. All three seniors were tri-MVP's for 1991. "Ashley Brannan is the key to next year's team," predicted David Daniels. Ashley was first team All-Metro.

The whole team consisted of many valuable players. Receiving honorable mention were senior Jason Schmidt, junior Scott Rowsell, and freshman Chris Sarchett. Second team All-Metro were fullback Brad Poock, midfield Mike Derlein, and utility player Matt Ihns. Jason Schmidt was voted best attitude and Adam Day was most improved. With all of these valuable players, the season was labeled a success, and one which was victorious in the eyes of all players.

Girls gain experience

With high hopes for success in the future, the J-Hawk girls' soccer team, "Can be thankful for the foundation laid down this season by the four seniors," speculated Coach Paula Kincaid. Hard work and learning to have fun doing it was instilled into the many younger players. These traits were exemplified by the seniors at all times, in games and at practice.

This year the J-Hawks went 5-9-2, with an inexperienced team. Every game was a learning experience. Junior Dawn Shultz felt, "At the end of the season, everyone knew each other and how we played; if we would have had one more week, we'd probably won all our games."

Team unity was the main goal for the year; the underclassmen played a major role in achieving this. Other goals included scoring three times a game, and giving the younger players the much needed experience.

"We're looking forward to seeing next year's team expand on the knowledge they gained throughout this year by standing on the excellent foundation," concluded Coach Kincaid.

Team exceeds goals

For the 1991 boys' tennis team, Mother Nature was not too kind. She brought rain, strong winds, and cold weather, all of which set the tennis team back. With practices shortened and games postponed, it was a miracle that anything could get accomplished. But somehow they managed to improve with each meet and practice. Coach Bowen said that the team had already surpassed his expectations and he could only hope for more success.

The guys performed to the best of their abilities when they met their cross-town rivals. Dan Levi was one of the most improved members, according to Coach Bowen. Josh Wilford, captain of the team and top seeded player, said that, "We are building for next year and so far, we have already out done ourselves." With the weather problems the guys showed that anything is possible.

Since the beginning of the season Chad Kriegermeier, seeded seventh in singles and third in doubles, has improved on his ground strokes and serves, and feels that his strengths in tennis are his volley and overhead. Chad summed up the season by saying, "It was fun, I tried hard and met a lot of people."

Players ace goals

The girls' tennis team has once again won the MVC championship for the third consecutive year. Returning letter winners this year were Amber Miller, Angie Becker, and Nikki Uelze.

The team started out slow this year because of several rain outs, but they did win sectionals. Nikki won first in singles and Amber and Angie placed first in doubles.

The team's goal this year was to win state and they feel very confident in accomplishing it. The varsity season was undefeated and finished 11-1 overall. The team's solo loss came against Waterloo West.

When questioned about the most memorable moment this year, Nikki commented that, "It was beating Walhert because they have a pretty good team."

The girls' tennis team hopes to be strong next year. They will only lose one letter winner, Amber Miller. With the loss of one outstanding player many more will step up to get the job done on the court, Kathy Ligouri predicted.

At the end of the regular season, district play was the next challenge for the J-Hawks. Nikki, Angie, and Amber all were district champs. As regionals passed by, Nikki was left ready for the challenge of state play—pressure Nikki has felt twice before. This team has continued to show that J-Hawks are winners.

GIRLS

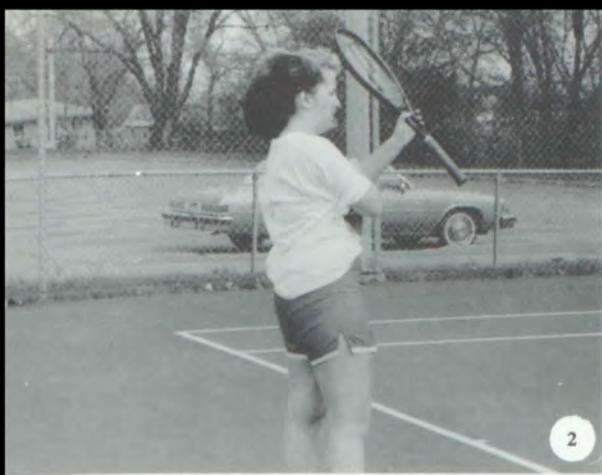

Much of the girls' tennis team's success was due to their hard work and determination:

- 1) Angie Becker serves to her opponent,
- 2) Nikki Uelze awaits her next serve,
- 3) Angie Hasselbrink smiles after scoring,
- 4) Nikki and Amber wait for a return,

Golfers hitting par

The girls' golf team had their best season ever this year. Although the weather was often cold and rainy these girls put in many extra hours of practice time. With dedication from all ten members they were able to have an outstanding record of 12-2 overall. Coach Sandee Walton commented that she, "Enjoyed working with this year's team the best." Ms. Walton was very pleased with how well the team did.

The boys' golf team had 13 returning letter winners and a whopping 28 on the team. While this season wasn't their strongest the guys enjoyed being able to play a lot of golf. The boys ended their season with a 17-42-2 record. K.C. Weber said, "Even though we didn't do as well as last year a lot of the guys improved."

Both the boys' and girls' teams hosted the MVC tournament. The boys' finished eighth, but had two golfers place in the top twenty-five individually. The girls' squad meanwhile finished third in their conference tournament, along with three girls who broke into the top twenty-five individually.

Both girls and boys are looking forward to next year and have high expectations.

During summer months...

Teams earn wins

With six returning letterwinners, the Jefferson boys' baseball team has hopes of bettering last year's record and making a trip to the state tournament as they did two years ago. Colin Mattiace and Jeremy Lewis should be the top pitcher-catcher combination in the conference. Colin, a junior, had a 8-1 record last year as a sophomore, and Lewis, an all-stater last year, hit nine home runs and should break the school record of sixteen this year. The coach of this year's squad is the veteran Joe Kenney.

Another devoted summer team is softball. This devotion payed off last summer. The team finished 48-4 and was district champs, regional champs, and finished fifth in the state tournament. Leading this year's team will be seniors Christa Matt and Tangela McCall. In addition, there will be fourteen letterwinners joining them. With so many experienced players the J-Hawks plan on returning to Fort Dodge with the hopes of being the 1991 state champions. This is Coach Niemeyer's ultimate goal this season.

Having fun in class

The fall of 1990 brought the Channel One news broadcast into the classrooms here at Jefferson for the first time. It was well received because it brought the news close to home in a manner that was simple and direct, making the news easier for students to understand. For those unable to watch the news at home, Channel One enabled them to know what was going on in the world around them each day.

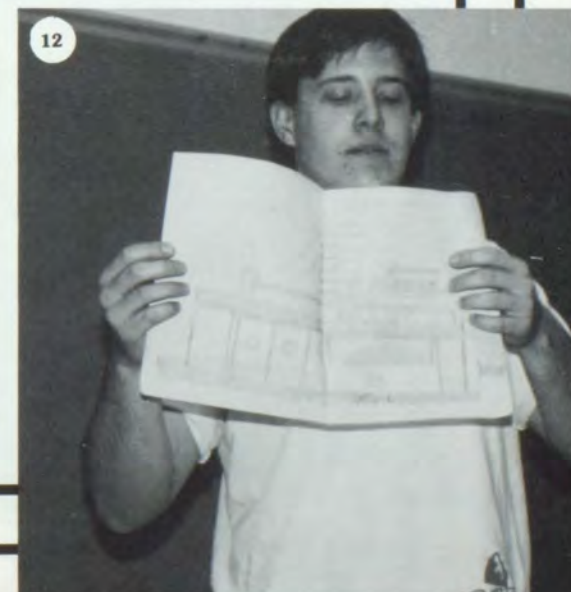

"I don't have time to watch the news," stated senior Wendy Shugart. "Now I have a better idea of what is going on." Many teachers even managed to incorporate Channel One into lesson plans, making it an even more important part of classroom activities.

Another change occurred in classes with the United States' declaration of war on Iraq and Saddam Hussein on January 16th. Teachers were asked, if possible, to incorporate this history making event into classroom discussions. One teacher, Mr. Randy Feuerhelm, took this to heart and gave his class continual updates on the Persian Gulf crisis. "He's always talking about it," remarked Mark Zahradnik, a senior. "Now I have an idea as to what exactly is happening over there."

The Outlook ran stories on the front page about the war, while students with family members serving in Saudi Arabia were asked to share their worries and feelings with their classmates.

Patriotism could be spotted everywhere. From the flags in the classrooms to the pins and flags worn by students and teachers, red, white, and blue decorated the surroundings. There was a renewed love for our country, in the classroom and out. Patriotism was alive and kicking, and everyone was thankful for the freedoms we cherish.

Helping is rewarded

This past school year brought with it an addition of some special J-Hawks. These students are the severe and profoundly handicapped. In past years these students went to the Monroe Developmental Center. The students range in age from fourteen to twenty-one.

Working with the students were two dedicated teachers, two teacher assistants, and many student volunteers. Working with these students has really benefitted senior Tricia Donels. "I feel really good about helping others. I've found myself thinking about them when I'm not there," she explained.

These students did all kinds of different activities, such as going to pep assemblies and even attending athletic events.

The teachers and volunteers all think that the program is very good for kids. It gives them the opportunity to see kids closer to their own age, and to be able to feel a part of the school spirit. It's great for the other students to know what the kids are really like and what they like to do.

These special students prove that all goals can be met. They were a welcomed addition to the J-Hawk family.

A night to cherish

Weeks before prom, seniors started to dream about their magical night on the town. The new gym had to be transformed from an athletic center into a ballroom. Thanks to students such as Jodi Bena, Mark Zahradnik, Matt Powell, Sue Anderson, Michelle Jones, and many others, you couldn't tell that it was once the same place we played ball in.

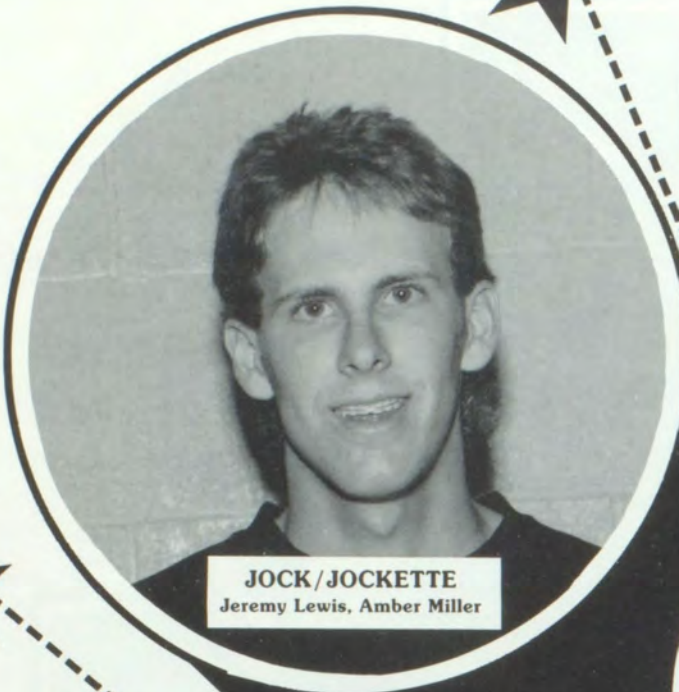

Colors of royal blue, silver, and white were draped over the walls, and couples danced as the theme, "Hold on to the Night" captured the spirit for many. Pictures were taken in front of the New York skyline, and afterwards you and your date could stroll along Broadway and 42nd Street. The dance ended with a bang as over two hundred blue and white balloons fell from the ceiling.

After dinner, dancing, and a little romancing many prom goers went to the after prom party at May City Lanes. This was sponsored by J-Hawks for Life. It ran from 11:00 p.m. until 3:00 a.m., and once again it was a big success. Friends got together to have a chance to outscore one another, and to be together, as the night quickly became early morning.

Prom was definately an evening to remember. Kerry Carleton stated, "The gym looked great. It was very organized and a night I will never forget." Asked to give a general statement, Michelle Jones said, "I'm glad I was a part of putting our prom together. It was worth all of the hard work." Foreign exchange student John Feimann summed it up by saying, "I've never seen anything like it before. It was an experience I will always remember."

Moments of glory

The moment of glory arrived on June 1 as all 345 seniors went across the stage as J-Hawks, and left pursuing their dreams and goals. The ceremony scheduled for 1:30, was the last major event that the seniors faced in their high school career.

Reminiscing our past days, we can look back on being the first ever freshmen at Jefferson. We were the first seniors to sit in the new gym. We were the first class to hold their prom in the gym.

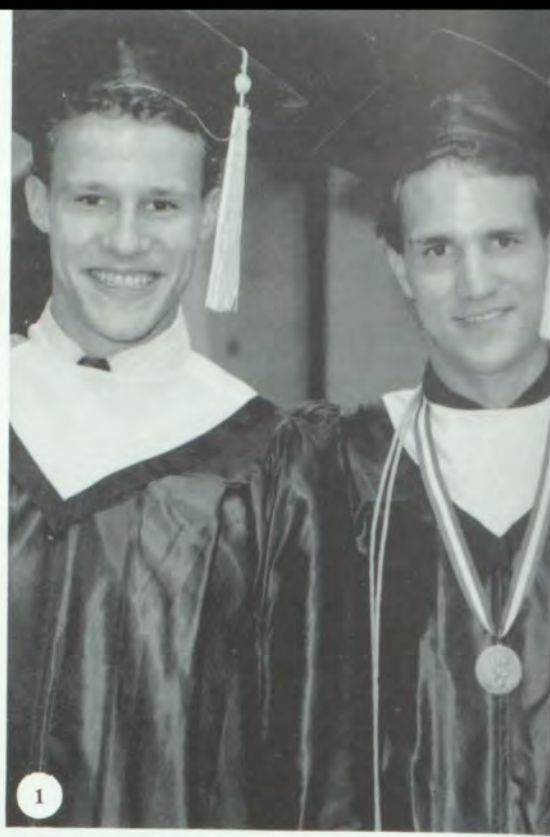

At the senior assembly on May 24, some special awards were given out. The spirit award was given to Lori Riha and Jason Shaw. The valedictorians were Carol Boelter, Mary Hoelz, Rebekah Jeffrey, and Andy Weld.

Success in life is determined by a variety of ways. Clearly success is associated with graduation. To Brad Pooock, success is actually fairly simple. Brad said, "To be happy with what I am doing and to have pride within myself." A man should not be judged by how much others love him but by how much he loves others. Whatever our future holds, it can all be looked back on by graduation.

Senior Nita Clay stated graduation as, "The transformation from one world to another. Before graduation you are forced to go to school and many decisions are made for you. But after you graduate, you make your own choices and you set your own goals."

Many people are looking forward to college in the fall. Many faces may disappear but the memories of this occasion will last forever. Long live the class of '91.

Remember kindergarten?
 You were confident — it couldn't be too traumatic.
 You'd learn to tie your shoes. The worst was over, right? Then came Wilson and you cried,
 "What, no recess?!" The road led to Jefferson, and there was a light at the end of the tunnel!
 Congratulations! You're at the fork in the road and we know you'll choose the right path!!

Congratulations to a friend who's always been there. We've finally made it this far, just 4 more years to go! Good luck in the future!

Friends forever, Rachel

Congrats!

Congratulations Melanie
 and best wishes.
 Love, Mom, Dad & Ben

Congratulations Lori!

It's hard to

*Congrats Kelly, you actually made it! You passed all your classes and did OK. But if you would have studied more and gotten straight A's Dad would have bought you a car of your choice. Sorry but congrats.
Love, Mom, Dad, Dana, Kim & Bob*

Congrats!

Leisa Congratulations

As you can see, things have changed over the last 13 years You've went from being our little honey bee, to a very ambitious young lady. You've met every new challenge with strength and courage. Continue to do this and you will go far. You make us proud to be your parents!

Love, Mom and Dad

JEANELLE

*Congratulations, you have made us proud.
You grew up to be a beauty with confidence and maturity to handle the future and anything life hands you.*

*Best wishes and good luck in the future.
Love, Mom, Mickelle, Raelle, Leelle, and Frank*

TO KERRY

*From Kindergarten through twelfth grade we've been proud of you and the things you've made;
the songs you've sung; the acts you've played; the balls
you've caught and the friends you've made;
But alas! The time has come, to do something where you get paid.*

One day, God gave us a little, tiny miracle, our daughter. We want so many things for her, security, independence, maturity, self confidence, and love. She has a way of making you want to give her the moon, sun and stars because her hugs are the sweetest joys and she's so much a part of us. Our dreams grow with her and so does our love until one day, she's all grown up and we look at her and smile with tender pride. May your dreams lead you wherever you go. God Bless You!

Love Mom & Dad

*As you leave to go your way,
Keep in mind in future days, Lessons learned in school and life,
are tools to be used by the wise.
God give you strength and let you be better carpenters than dad and me.
And let you know
each new day,
That we love you
both in every way.

Quality that surpasses

To all of the seniors who's lives we became a part of for a small moment in time this past year, we sincerely say thank you. The refrigerator is empty, the stereo is turned off, the quietness surrounds us. There are no more laughs, no more hugs or handshakes, no more tears, just silence. We wait, for yet another year will come. We wish you the very best of everything that life has to offer. The road is long and rough and it's filled with a lot of ups and downs. Be strong, for you will always have loved ones that will stand by your side and watch over you. May the blessings from our God above be with you always. To all of you who we care about so very much, we say, Thanks for the memories.

Best wishes,
Gary and Patti Morehouse
