School year opens

Crowded conditions await students

As soon as the bell rang on August 29 and we set foot in Jefferson High School, we all knew summer freedom was gone. Days of sleeping in, going camping, to the beach, or just hanging around will now be replaced by our 1994-95 school year.

Just as feet crowded the hallway and friends conversed with friends, we began to get familiar once again with another school year. Realizing the changes as we push our way through 525 scared and confused freshmen, the upperclassmen once again took their place as rulers of the school.

Not only did the year bring in more freshmen but many other changes were seen through the eyes of the upperclassmen. The adjustments to pop prices, new seating at assemblies, and the administration's new ideas for the year brought great surprise to everyone. Even though the adjustments brought a lot of conflict and stress we all seemed to make it through the first weeks of school.

As always sports will play a big role in our school spirit. Football, basketball, wrestling, volleyball, and track all brought out the school spirit in us, mainly body painting, crazy outfits, and cheering voices.

Many of the new freshmen found this year to be a year in which they had to change from the old and learn the new. Some learned the hard way when it came to giving into the upperclassmen's jokes. Big clue for all you freshmen, you can't use the elevator even with that five dollar pass!

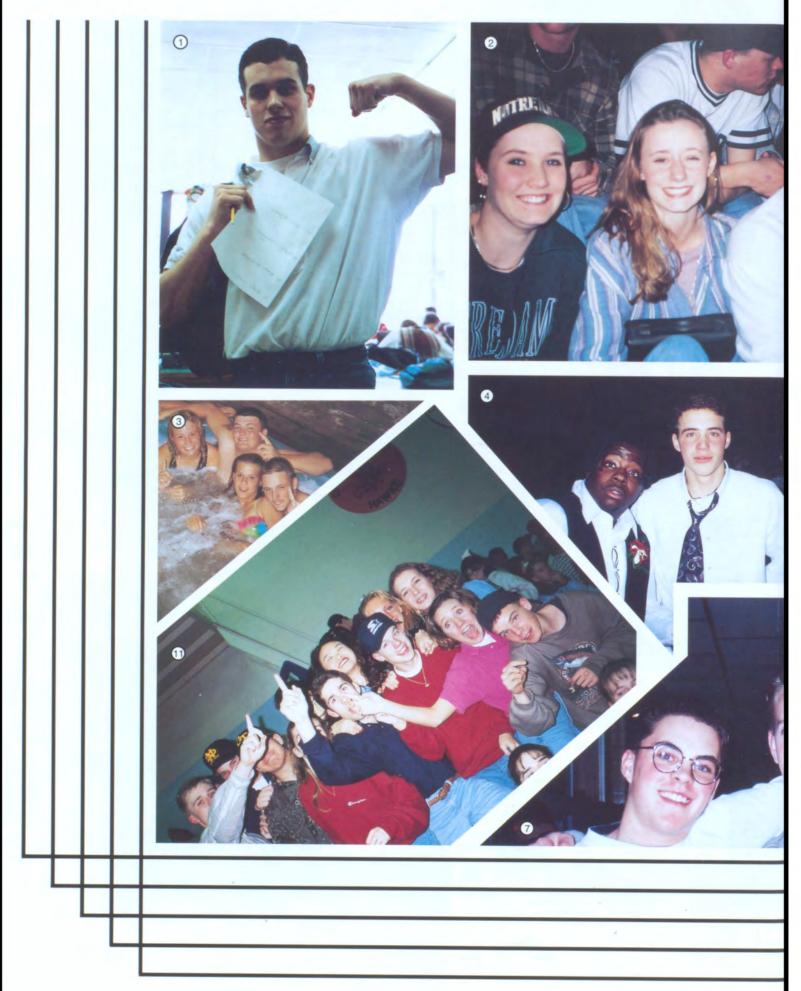

Finally, all you sophomores have learned the ways of Jefferson. We congratulate you, it's almost your turn to be an upperclassman.

Juniors are now considered upperclassmen. It's time to take our places over the younger students and show them who's in charge.

And now for all you seniors, this is your last year. This is your 1994-95 school year so make it a good one. This is the time to rule the school and give the freshmen a hard time.

This year we broke the tradition. Instead of announcing the top 26 Homecoming queen candidates at an assembly, the candidates names were read over the intercom during the daily announcements. However, we managed to keep the tradition of the top 10 assembly alive.

As students and faculty eagerly filled the gym to find out who would be the next top 10 semi-finalists, they were very impressed with the decorations that accented our theme, "Hold on to the Night." The gym was filled with mauve and cream balloons which outlined the walk way for the finalists and their parents. As the 26 candidates waited eagerly to hear their names, the stunning escorts lined up to greet the top 10 and walk them through the ballooned archway for a quick picture.

A week later was spirit week which included the decoration of the halls and cafeteria contests which both were won by the Junior class. But the excitement was not over. We still had the Homecoming game which told us who our next Homecoming queen would be. As the crowd watched Kelly Beauregard, our former Homecoming queen, place her crown on tearful Kim Abram's head as they cheered. It was the start of another great school tradition.

Girls pay for all

The spotlight searches the extra money this year to hire enthusiastic crowd for its next victim. Finaly the guy stands up and walks down to the girl, they link arms, and walk to the stage. This is the beginning of how the WPA assemblies usually run.

This year the event was far more different than some of the past WPA's. During the assembly this year only the junior and senior guys were asked questions, due to a lack of time. The actual dance had some new and exciting changes. An all new high-tech sound system was added to the dance which took place in the gym rather than the crowded cafeteria. The Student Council spent a D.J. equipped with a huge screen showing music videos that synchronized with the music that was playing. The flashing colored lights and a greater variety of music made a fun dancing environ-

The usual crowning of the king took place minus one of the kings, Bruce Sain, who was gone for basketball.

With all of the new changes in the dance, it became a very successful evening. The couples strolled out of the gym, marking the end of a very happy and memorable night.

We've got spirit

From Homecoming to State, students and faculty at Jefferson have shown they have what it takes. The support and pride of the J-Hawk fans reached a new high this year. From painting faces blue and white to dressing up for spirit days, students really got behind their team.

This enthusiasm was also displayed by Jefferson's fans at pep assemblies. Senior Heather Zamastil stated, "Pep assemblies really help pump us up!" At assemblies fans get to yell, and give teams encouragement for a win! Assemblies also give fans a chance to get ready for that night's game.

The spring sports assembly was one that got both students and faculty involved, especially when poms danced to the songs of the Village people. Assemblies such as these are an extremely important ingredient in promoting spirit.

Group has busy year

This year Student Council consisted of 25 hard working students, ranging from freshmen to seniors. These hardworking students worked on many events between Homecoming in the fall to the student exchange in the spring.

In charge of Student Council this year were President Jenna Gardner, Vice President Carolyn Ironside, Secretary Adrianne Young, and Treasurer Kia Chandler. The advisors were Mr. Strait and Mr. Wojtowicz.

Student Council kicked off the fall term by hosting Homecoming. "Homecoming was a big success; it had the largest turnout of any dance," said treasurer Kia Chandler. The United Way was the next event. "The United Way fundraiser was spectacular! We raised a lot of money in a short time," noted Jenna Gardner.

The winter term started off with WPA. Then they had the food drive which collected a lot of food. To end the term, Student Council sponsored Cans For Kids.

The spring term was started off by a fundraiser to buy a new Jeffy J-Hawk costume. Student Council also cleaned up around the campus. They ended the term with the annual teacher barbeque and the student exchange.

Officers make decisions

This year's officers and senates have been active. Seniors this year have planned fundraisers in order to pay for senior photos in color in the yearbook and the most important dance of 1995—the prom! Some of their fundraisers included the senior mixer, selling J-Hawk wrestling and basketball buttons, and finally, the selling of t-shirts. When senior Candy Slattery was asked what she had learned from being in senior senate, she replied, "Teamwork, cooperation, and most importantly, having an open mind."

As for the juniors, they have had their annual mixer, which brought in a lot more money than anticipated. Both Mrs. Espe and Mr. Schneekloth said, "We are letting the junior class officers take control." Both believe that since the officers' senior year is fast approaching, they should take on the extra responsibilities now.

Next up, the sophomore officers and advisors have been working on an altogether different kind of fundraiser, a test market, whereby a variety of products were sold.

Finally, the freshman class officers are just getting started. One of the more unusual things to happen to a freshman class happened this year. That was, five officers were elected for the first time this fall. The freshman class officers are: Sonya Erhet as president; both Quintin Garner and Kristi Skala are vice presidents; Aimee Kassem as secretary; and Lee Stahle as treasurer.

The sophomore officers are: Dan Wolfe, president; Scott Fratella, vice president; Traci Koch, secretary; and Cindy Schulte, treasurer. Junior class officers are: Liz Miller, president; Josh Halfpap, vice president; Jennie Benda, secretary; and Kia Chandler, treasurer. Finally, senior class officers are: Megan Ihns, president; Devin Sires, vice president; Mitch Jiroutek, secretary; and Angi Schumacher, treasurer.

This year, as in years past, the yearbook staff here at Jefferson High School has worked hard to create "The Statesman". It takes a great deal of effort and commitment to create a 224-page book. And this year was certainly no exception.

With a new staff of returning and rooky members, and a new publishing company, this book was destined for greatness. Editors, photographers, and general staff had to come together in order to create this memory book. With a staff of over one hundred it is difficult to get everyone working and involved. This year, however, there were no slackers to be found in room 206. Everyone participated and wanted something they worked hard to help create to come out looking good.

When asked what was the most memorable part of this year, managing editor Kendra Denman replied, "Taking part in the creation of my senior yearbook, and knowing that it would be good gave me a great feeling of accomplishment." This feeling is hopefully shared by all who took part in its creation.

'Stop the press!'

Students spent the 1994-95 school year selling ads, taking photographs, and writing articles. These students worked together to produce the Outlook, which came out once a month. "This year's staff amazed me in that we never missed a deadline," revealed Mr. Ron Smrha, advisor. "It seemed like we bonded early in the year and never looked back. It certainly was an ideal situation for an advisor."

Many staff members stressed the importance of the class. Jamie Potter, Opinions Editor, said, "Newspaper was fun because I learned how to do what I want to do for the rest of my life." Not all of the students who worked on the school newspaper wish to pursue a career in the field of Journalism. Most students, however, did appreciate having the opportunity to publish something each month. Joe Wade, Opinions Editor, explained that he liked being able to express his opinions on paper.

This year's staff also earned special honors. Two staff members won the Iowa High School Press Association writing award. Joe Kralik, Back Page Editor, placed in news writing and Shannon Boyle, Editor-in-Chief, won in column writing.

Boyle said, "It was a strange feeling to be responsible for producing the newspaper. At the beginning of the year I was nervous because most of the staff was new. But, everyone worked together and we produced nine issues for this school year."

Fun times in the U.S.

The year went by all too quickly for these foreign exchange students, who are shown here in a variety of poses: 1-2. Aurelion and Kamonhorn get interviewed and have their picture taken for the first issue of the Outlook. 3. Newton traveled to California in January to visit his two cousins. 4. Reacting to a humorous incident in class, Gui tries to hide his expression. 5. Miyo poses for a portrait with some of her new friends. 6. The seven foreign exchange students pose for this first official portrait.

Pascal Grab is from Switzerland. At his school there aren't very many activities going on like there are here at Jefferson. He also said that there are better relationships between students and teachers here. He played football this past fall and he said that had to be the most interesting thing he's done so far. He said that he'll remember the really nice people.

Milena Lima Oliveira Rigo is from Brazil. The main difference between Jefferson and her native school is that Jefferson is a lot bigger and they don't have lockers. They also don't change classes, but the teachers do. The most interesting things Milena has done here are learning to speak English, and she has also learned a lot about our culture. She'll always remember the girls' basketball team.

Guilherme Romano Flevry Da Silveira is from Brazil, Sao Paulo. The main difference between his home school and Jefferson is that they don't change classes and also you can't choose your own classes. They have 14 subjects too. The most interesting thing he saw during his stay here was snow. He will remember the life of the American people and his friends the most.

Miyo Wada is from Japan. She feels that the American school she attended was always very busy. She even found a friend to make her Japanese food, so she wouldn't become too lonely. At Christmas time she made her teachers cookies. The only thing she doesn't like about Iowa is the cold weather. She said she will remember her very good friends and her teachers the most.

Newton Sonnyboy Hallowanger Jr. is from Liberia, West Africa. The main difference between attending Jefferson and his school back home is that we are much bigger in both size and population. The most interesting thing he's done while here is traveling around the Midwest. He's visited Des Moines, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Newton is also a member of the varsity men's basketball team.

Kamonkarn Visessiri is also known by her friends here as Teak. At her school back home, she must wear a uniform. Teak's most memorable time was seeing it snow for the first time and then getting to play in it. In her free time she likes to go shopping or watch t.v. She's really enjoyed Jefferson and especially enjoyed her French class. Someday she'd like to return to the United States to visit again.

Clubs build pride

Five students attended the All State Speech Festival on April 10th at the UNI-Dome. These included Amy Muzingo, Christy DeMeulenaere, Jamie Chambers, Richie Akers, and Tammy Christopherson, who performed with the best and the brightest of Iowa high school students. Mrs. Novy, otherwise known as the "Speech Goddess", said, "The most exciting thing that happens is to walk into the UNI-Dome and their name is up on the banner in lights."

Reader's Theater, Ensemble Acting and One Act Play entries received honor recognition also this year.

The TV team was one of five Iowa schools selected to attend the "Movies To Go Annual Iowa Film Awards," where they were recognized by many top Los Angeles and New York television producers.

International Club spent the year rebuilding membership, noted Shannon Boyle, president. In order to achieve this goal, Mrs. Sayer, advisor, allowed freshmen to run for office. This helped encourage underclassmen to join the club and become more involved at an earlier age.

Vocational training is available to students who either enroll in DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) or OE (Office Education). Both of these programs are not only educational, but also two of the most fun clubs at Jefferson. Office Education deals mainly with clerical work. This consists of data base, word processing, and spread sheets. If you are thinking of working in an office facility you should consider taking this course. On the marketing side of the work force, there is DECA. This class requires you to have a job. It also challenges the knowledge that you learn during class by competing at districts, state, and even nationals. This year they sent 6 students to nationals. Both of these classes take trips and have projects that make the class lots of fun. This year Mr. Neimeyer (OE) and Ms. Upah (DECA) planned activities that helped make their classes a success.

It has enabled me to take a big step and secure a job. OE helps you learn the basis of business education. You get an understanding of computers and how they work. You also get to enhance your typing skills and increase your typing speed. As a student you learn things such as how to correctly produce a resume and data sheet, and other business oriented tasks such as memo and letter writing. I have enjoyed OE because it is the students' class. The success of OE is in our hands."

A year of many changes

"It's very difficult to get 275 people to stay in step," said band director, Andy Houk. The increase in size was just one change facing the Band of Blue.

Another change was having four female and one male drum major. As senior David Eckert said, "What more could a guy want - one guy and four chics." Having more drum majors helped the band stay together.

A new colorguard instructor was added to the group. Julie Yanda was the guard instructor for Nite Express Drum Corp. As Jamie Potter said, "Julie has brought a fresh style similar to drum and bugle corps."

Another change facing the band this year was the addition of freshmen to the pom squad. As senior Ami Prull put it, "If you are ever in the mood to pick on anybody, they're always there."

A change that had little effect on the drumline was its increase in size. Overall the drumline had a great season. They placed second at the Eastern Iowa Drumline Festival and the Ankeny Drumline Festival. As Jon Dyrland said, "If you take away all the trophies and awards and just look at how we played ... we played as good or better than any line that has come through Jefferson."

Although the band faced many changes this year, they continued the sixteen year tradition of excel-

Band program gets changes

This year has brought many changes to Jefferson's concert band program. An increase in membership, expectations, and the music's difficulty have all contributed to this change.

With the addition of almost 90 freshmen to the program, two concert bands were impractical. For the first time in Jefferson's history, three exist: the freshman Concert Band (76), the 10th, 11th, and 12th grade Symphony Band (94), and the Wind Symphony, in which the top 62 players are chosen by audition.

Mr. Earle Dickinson, director of the Concert Band and Wind Symphony, says that directing two bands is "Twice as much work." With the competition to be in Wind Symphony, Mr. D. added, "Students know they need to produce — people are waiting for their chairs." Hard work and practice are a must to achieve what's needed — Wind Symphony's music is at an advanced college level.

This year's Symphony Band is also able to play more difficult music due to the elimination of freshmen. This year, Jazz Band (18) has also undergone a change. "There are a lot of freshmen, but they're working hard. This is a fun group to work with!" remarked Mr. Andrew Houk, director of the Symphony Band and Jazz Band.

Overall, improvements in our concert band program have resulted in better bands. With all of these changes, the program is truly better than ever!

New director guides

Someone was added to the Orchestra department this year and her name is Ms. Laurie Busch. She is a graduate of Northwestern in Evanston, IL. and she has held teaching assignments in Chicago and Cedar Falls. Ms. Busch is the new director of the Orchestra and along with her new face, she has brought some very definite changes.

One of her new ideas was to start quartets to improve the skills of the Orchestra on a personal level. "I've discovered that the Orchestra members have a high level of energy and are extremely dedicated to the group," she revealed. It's statements like these from her that give encouragement to the members of the group.

She also tries to encourage Orchestra members to join Strolling Strings. This group is comprised of select students who enjoy performing for large audiences. This talented group, which is made up of 37 students, has not only performed for the student body and parents, but also for major corporations such as CRCC and Aegon.

Symphony Orchestra is the main group in the Orchestra department and is comprised of 62 students. There are 24 freshmen, 10 sophomores, 16 juniors, and 12 seniors. The Orchestra enjoyed a successful year and earned a division I rating at large group contest.

Members went on a trip to Chicago this year where they had the chance to take in the sights.

Groups earn fame

Being a member of Meistersingers is not as easy as it sounds. To be in Meistersingers one must be at least a sophomore and a member of Concert Choir. Devin Sires says that you need to be "an easy person to work with and a quick learner." The qualities that Dr. Pete Eklund looks for are a good ear, a pleasant voice, and most importantly, dependability.

This year the group has performed at various company parties and at the Dorian Festival on the Luther College campus. It is an honor to several due to the fact that a group must be invited to perform at this prestigious event.

There are several accomplishments that many are proud of. One of these is learning challenging difficult music fast. Another accomplishment is studying some very difficult music. A third accomplishment was receiving a Division I rating at the state contest. Once again, this year's Meistersingers had a great year along with earning many tremendous praises and honors.

Again this year, noted Dr. Eklund, director, the vocal and instrumental groups earned the highest number of All-State awards of any school in the area. All in all, there were a total of 31 members — 23 in the vocal music area and 8 in the instrumental music department.

The Jefferson men and women's select choirs make up two of the most professional performing arts groups in Iowa. The men's choir took a trip to Washington D.C. at the beginning of spring term. Jefferson was one of fifteen choirs in the nation selected to attend this convention. There were over 3,000 choir directors attending each concert. The first performance was at Constitution Hall where they received a very prestigious standing ovation. After Constitution Hall it was on to

Kennedy Center, where they also received a standing ovation. Altogether, the trip was a success. Dan Erbe, a senior, said he enjoyed the trip very much. Most of all, Dan said he enjoyed being with his buds one last time before graduation.

During spring break, the women attended a convention in Minnesota. On their way they stopped at Wartburg College. Jenni Barker, a junior, said, "Everyone really enjoyed singing there because they got the excitement of singing in the brand new chapel." After Wartburg it was on to Luther College in Decorah. The group sang in the Dorian Festival along with the Meistersingers and two other high schools. After that it was on to Minnesota, to sing at two high schools.

Learning the basics

Three choirs at Jefferson that don't get very much recognition are the Jefferson Singers, Sophomore Singers, and Varsity Singers. These choirs, directed by Dr. Pete Eklund and Ms. Carol Tralau, consist of freshmen and sophomore boys and girls who are quite musically talented.

These choirs differ from the middle school choirs because they teach the students the basic skills they need to climb the ladder of Jefferson choirs. One member of Jefferson Singers, Kim Stiles, said, "In middle school you don't learn rhythms or note reading, you just learn the words. In high school you learn how to breathe correctly and how to be a performer."

There are a few major differences between the three choirs. Sophomore Singers is made up of sophomore boys and girls. The next step after Sophomore Singers is Concert Choir. The Jefferson Singers consists of freshmen girls while the Varsity Singers are freshmen boys. Freshmen guys are very happy about having their own choir, according to Zack Wood, who said, "Varsity Singers is all guys so you don't have to worry about being laughed at if your voice squeaks, because it does happen to all guys!"

- Giving directions to the class is Ms. Tralau.
- Stacey Wedemeir and Brock Keiper concentrate on their singing.
- Sophomore Singers give another great performance.
- Practicing for a concert are the Jefferson Singers.
- Sophomore Singers demonstrate their singing ability.

Westside Delegation members ...

A sign of success

Talent. Dazzling sequins. Screaming fans. These, plus endless practices, make up our Westside Delegation. "This group is tremendous!" remarked senior Devin Sires. Although the group didn't compete as much as usual, WSD swept the stage at Urbandale, state, and our own invitational.

This year, Westside risked it all and opened a stunning show with Carl Orff's opera, "Carmina Burana", covered from head to toe with ominous black robes. Senior Richie Akers mentioned that Dr. Eklund selected the German/Latin piece not only to honor the anniversary of Orff's 100th birthday, but because it "was the twist he was looking for to take the normal show choir into a new direction."

Such magnificent performances don't just appear overnight. "When a choreographer comes to town, we usually put in about eight hours a day," said junior Jon Dyrland. A 2.5 credit class is also required along with a weekly night rehearsal that averages three hours in length.

The 79 member ensemble creates lasting friendships and experiences that are unforget-table, as senior Kurt Kroemer noted. "It was quite a time." -Mandy Haster

Thespians active

It has been a busy year for Thespian troupe 561. This year's officers were President Richie Akers, Vice President Mitch Jiroutek, Treasurer Jonathan Dryland, Scribe Jody Andrews, and Secretary Amy Muzingo. This year a combined total of five plays were done, including a Play Time Poppy production (The Reluctant Dragon) and the spring musical (Hello Dolly) in May.

To become a Thespian a student must volunteer a combined total of 100 hours or ten points. For every ten hours, one point is granted. There are many different ways you can go about earning these points. Many students like to work in the shop. The shop hands will help to build the set, paint it, and everything else important to make sure the play runs smoothly on opening night.

Some others choose to be a stage hand. They are often the people who check the many props, open the curtains, run the lights, run the sound board, and do many other equally serious jobs backstage.

Finally, probably the most obvious way to earn points is trying out for a role in the plays. The theater department is always looking for the next Tom Cruise or Demi Moore.

Becoming a Thespian isn't as easy as many think. It takes a lot of hard work, and much dedication. This year's Thespian troupe has proven this.

Play pokes fun

Akers opts for snob appeal

Drama students decided to put on "The Prodigious Snob" for the winter play. The star of the play was Richie Akers, who played Monsieur Jourdain, a gentleman who just recently came into money. He wanted to be more educated so he hired a dancing master, a fencing master, a philosopher, and a composer. His friends told him all the money in the world would not help him learn things and his instructors were only making him look foolish.

When Richie was asked how he felt about acting in the play he said it was an enlightening experience. He also said it was difficult getting up in front of everybody and acting like a fool, but it was still a lot of fun. In the end, Richie Akers played the perfect fool to those in the audience who came to the play to be entertained by the actors.

Play opens eyes

This year's spring play, "The Boys Next Door", was funny yet also emotional. It took a look into the lives of 4 mentally handicapped men. It showed their everyday trials and tribulations, whether it was buying 17 boxes of Cheerios or having all out warfare with the neighbor's pet hamster. The play's strong moral message showed you couldn't turn your back on the part of society that isn't as pretty as others.

The main character, Jack Palmer, played by Jon Dyrland, was the resident supervisor. When asked how the play went, he said, "Of all the plays Jefferson held this year, I feel this one spoke to people. It reached out and showed that people with disabilities are no different than you and I." Jon received a compliment from a disabled student ... "I hope now the kids here will treat us better."

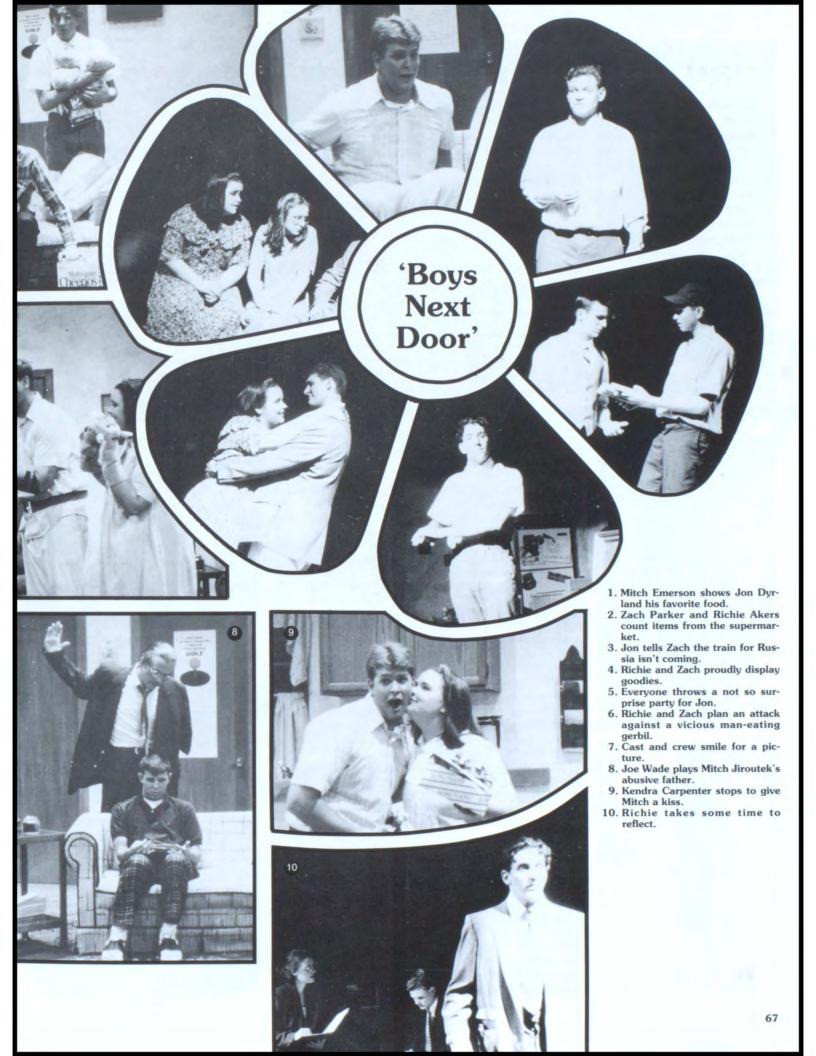

Dragon excites

Many dragon sightings occurred during the week of Jan. 25. Most of these sightings were due to the drama department. "The Reluctant Dragon" was chosen as the Playtime Poppy production.

The play takes place in a far off land near the time of the end of the dragons. A dragon is discovered in a cave on the countryside. Jon, a young boy from town, is the only one who understands the dragon. He quickly becomes friends with it. The townspeople are immediately scared and send for the great dragon slayer, St. George. The final scene is a hilarious battle between the dragon and St. George. In the end they all see how nice the dragon really is, and they all make friends with him immediately.

Josh Anderson played the dragon. Here's what he had to say. "I think it's gone pretty well, It's kind of hard to imagine me a dragon because I'm so small but I think we pulled it off pretty well. I've also had a lot of fun doing it."

This play had a completely different twist to it. Being a student play it was directed by Richie Akers. Never has a student had so much freedom in directing a play as Richie had in this production. Richie was asked how he felt about directing. He said, "It was awesome. It was really neat to be in control of a whole play, being able to paint a picture on stage instead of one specific characteristic." When he was asked which was harder, acting or directing, he said, "Both are equally hard but directing takes on more responsibility and involves more time."

This year's Playtime Poppy had a very important lesson in it. The moral of the story is to not judge a book by its cover. Even though he was a dragon, it didn't necessarily mean he was evil and mean. It was an entertaining play you could feel good about.

'Dolly' entertains

Thespian troupe 561, with the help of Westside Delegation, put on the spring musical "Hello Dolly". The musical ran on the weekends of May 12th and 13th and the 19th and 20th. They also put on a senior citizen's matinee on Thursday the 18th.

The play centers around Dolly Levi, who is known as the town matchmaker. Horace Vandergelder is Dolly's new customer. However, he is unaware of her plans to set him up with herself.

Heading up the cast were Christy Demeulenaere as Dolly with Devin Sires playing the part of Horace. For many the musical was their final farewell to the theater. Christy responded, "I think I brought a youth to her. I also added a little bit of myself," when asked what she brought to the character of Dolly Levi. Mr. Geuder also noted, "I think all would agree that Christy did an excellent job as did all the cast, crew, and musicians that were involved."

When asked his opinion of the play's success, Mr. Geuder responded, "Hello Dolly is a timeless musical to which Jefferson added its own style." by Michael Klein

TEAM: talented but not enough

"J-H-S!" the excited crowd chanted as they were led by the cheerleaders. Although this year's season wasn't the best Jefferson's had, the crowd maintained much spirit. Decorating faces, halls, cars, and even stomachs were a few ways in which the students celebrated their spirit.

Some of the players had comments on how the season went. Zack Young said that he felt many of the players did their best to prepare for the season and somehow, in some way, it will pay off. Chad Micek seemed to be in agreement and he also said that he felt the 0-9 season was very hard to take for the seniors. Captain of the football team, Brian Long, also had some input on the season, "It was hard to watch the guys work so hard every week with no reward of a win."

One final comment came from coach Jim Dostal, "The players were dedicated and I hope they continue to be."

Squads victorious

Although not reflected on the scoreboards or in the record books, the lessons that the 1994 freshman and sophomore football teams learned will be carried with them for a long time.

The 1994 Jefferson freshman football team finished with a record of 4 wins and 4 losses. The freshmen defeated Cedar Rapids Washington, Regis, Waterloo West and Linn-Mar. Coach Chad Szabo said that "the freshmen have a lot of potential and can be as good as they want to be by the time they are seniors, if the commitment is there in the off-season.'

Coach Szabo also noted that they don't necessarily recognize the best athletes, but the players who make the commitment to be at practice every day and are never late. At the end of the season, the players who had never missed or been late to a practice were treated to steaks at Ryan's Steak House.

While the sophomores ended the season with a record of 0-8-1, they improved with each

Perfect ending

The 1994-1995 volleyball season began with seven returning letter winners. The team set goals at the start of the season such as making it to state and having a winning season. The team, which finished with a record of 12-30-3, made a lot of improvement over the season. Lindsay Tower described the areas in which progress was made, "We improved our kills per game, we worked better together, and we learned how to pull through with a win if we were behind."

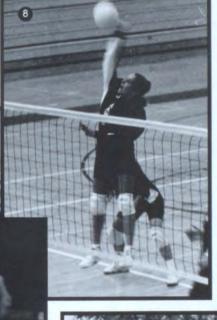

The team showed this improvement well while playing Washington in the second round of districts. The intensity level was high and the adrenaline was flowing when Jefferson stepped on to the court. With the games close it came down to the last game, heavily weighed with state in the future for the team that won. The team ended up losing a close one, 13-15. When asked how she felt about this season, Keri Gaskill responded, "We ended great against Washington, even though we lost, it showed how good we were because they ended up at state."

The team made a lot of improvement, they should be proud.

ENERGIZER'S

We keep going and going

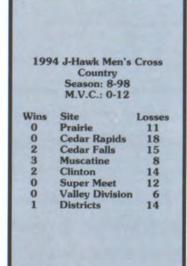

"Ready, set, bang!" The gun goes off and the racers begin their strenuous journey. This is a typical beginning to a cross country race. This year's season usually begins with hot sticky weather and ends with the crunch of snow at their feet and the early chill of winter in the air. This year was far from that description. The ideal weather started out sunny and warm, and followed through the whole season even up to districts with temps in the 50s.

Not only was the weather different this year, but the team itself had many significant changes. One thing was the women's team hit a new peak of sixteen people. "The whole team had the best attendance, worked hard, and was there one-hundred percent. I'm very pleased with the way the season went," stated Coach O'Brien. Other comments about the team came from some of the team members. They said that many of them made their personal best towards the end of the season. All their hard work during practice definitely paid off in the long run, although it seemed impossible to get through at the time, Coach O'Brien reflected.

Also, the team line-up constantly changed since many people got switched around. Many team members were out for part of the season with injuries. For the men's team many of the freshmen came through to put some strength into the team. Even though the team didn't have a lot of strength they placed well overall at districts.

Overall both teams were young with very few senior runners. Many athletes showed improvement and are yet to show more with training in the off season. The team is hoping for bigger and better things next year. The runners will hopefully continue their hard work and continue to succeed in the future to build themselves a successful future.

Sixth at state!

Team scores highest ever

The pressure of state is over and it's time for the women's swim team to reflect on their sixth place finish. The girls who qualified for state were Traci Koch, Laura Marz, Tracie Keizer, Lindsey Raabe, Dawn Joseph, Nicole Fisher, Dani Reid, and Tristen Towe. Angi Schumacher, Carolyn Ironside, and Sarah Smith went as alternates. The team's sixth place finish was the highest ever for a girl's swim team at Jefferson during its 38-year history.

The state meet was held in Fort Dodge on November 4 and 5. Forty-eight to fifty teams competed at this meet. Jefferson was entered in the medley relay, 200 free relay, 400 free relay, 200 free style, 100 free style, individual medley, diving, butterfly, and backstroke.

Coach Heather Feuerhelm was very happy with how the season turned out this year. She explained that a large number of girls went out for the team this year and that most of them stuck it out. Everyone had time drops and the team became a unit instead of just being individuals on a team. Four school records were also broken during the season, she beamed.

Coach Feuerhelm knew her girls were ready to swim fast at the state meet. It was just a matter of what they believed. Their goal was to place in the top ten, which they did.

The swim team has worked hard all year which helped them earn their sixth place finish. "If a person has a positive attitude and believes in what they are doing they can do anything," the head coach concluded.

Get fired up!

The 94-95 cheerleading season was one to remember. This year the squads not only took on new challenges, but they also improved throughout the year. The football season may not have been a winning one, but the cheerleaders didn't lose their spirit. The weather wasn't the best to cheer in, but they kept the crowd pumped. This year also brought them to new highs in their mounts. Freshmen, having a new coach, accomplished more than in past years. Sophomores had a great year also. Then comes the Varsity. They took on and achieved mounts never attempted before by past Jefferson squads. Winter season was not only a winning season for the teams, it was also a success for the squads. Two out of three of the Varsity squads going to state meant devoting their lives to practice. This year, unlike past years, Jefferson put together a competition squad. It consisted of about 18 girls who competed at Prairie. They took first place. Senior Tiffany Smith says, "This year was one of the best. We went in with high goals and we wanted to achieve them. Seniors knew that this was their last year to make an impression and we definitely did!"

SPLASH!

Practice, practice, and more practice. That's what our men's swimming team spent most of their time doing when they weren't at swim meets. Coaches Les Santee and Dick Wilson were joined by newcomer Chad Wilson, while spirit leaders Becky Pomeroy, Angela Blood, Hattie Wright, and Chrissy Cassidy traveled with the swimmers. They were there to give the swimmers a built in crowd to cheer them on.

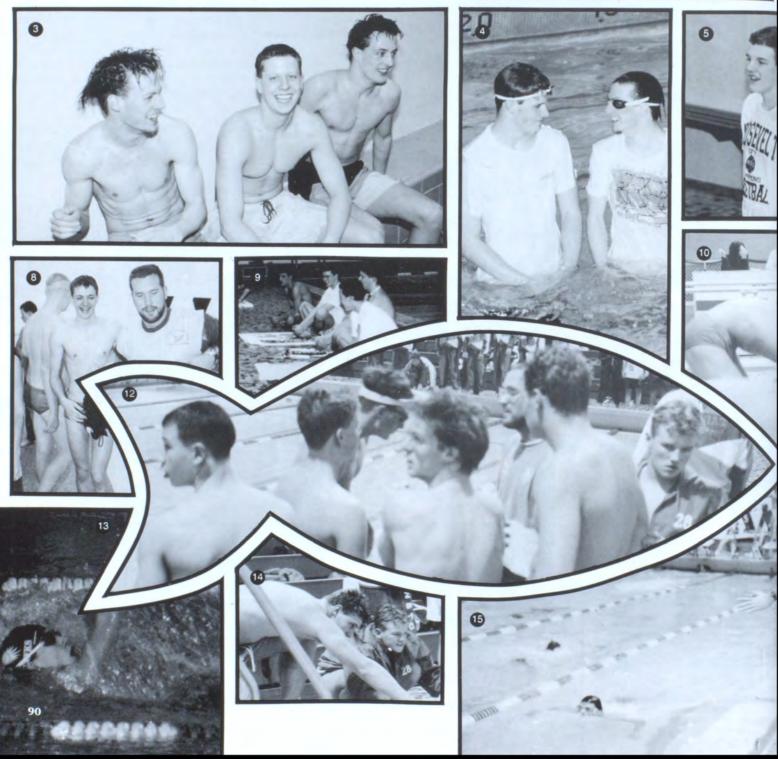

Nathan Lueck placing sixth in the 50-free and Ryan York placing second in the individual medley helped the swim team to place fifteenth at state.

During the awards banquet, various accomplishments were acknowledged. Ryan York was named Captain and the Most Valuable Team member, and Nathan Lawrence received Most Improved, while Joel Shugart was the recipient of the Hardest Worker and the James C. Taylor awards.

Team snaps streak

The 1994-95 wrestling season was a good year, ending with a record of 11-1. Among the highlights were beating the state champions — Prairie Hawks, Cedar Falls, and Iowa City West. There were three wrestlers who qualified for state — A.J. Williams, Jake Smithhart, and Russ Tollefson.

This year's wrestling team beat the state champion Prairie Hawks for the first time in 19 years. Russ Tolleffson got the most improved wrestler of the year award. "I was happy about the dual season, particularly because we were a young team, with several underclassmen and even the seniors had little varsity experience," said Coach Briggs. A.J. Williams and Jake Smithhart earned the most outstanding wrestler award.

A.J. Williams' highlight of the year was beating Prairie his senior year. "The finals at M.V.C. I went out ready to wrestle instead of waiting for the end of the first period to wrestle like I usually do," said A.J. Williams.

Ben French wrestled varsity as a sophomore which gives him two more years to wrestle varsity. "I was happy that I beat Jason Sage of Bettendorf because he pinned me earlier this year," said Ben. Ben's greatest highlight of the year was beating Luke Gibson of lowa City West. Ben wants to stay intense the whole six months so he can perform at his best.

Next year's team should be a good one since there will be a big number of underclassmen returning to varsity. There are a lot of hard workers for next year's team. The returning lettermen are, Ben French, Ryan Roff, Casey Hewitt, Roger Crippen, Brett Richardson, and Brian Newhard. So, next year looks to be a good year for the J-Hawk wrestling team.

Looking to future

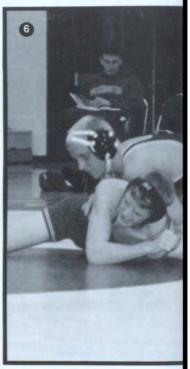

Before the season, Coach Hegarty was anticipating domination during the '94-'95 season, but when the first day of practice came, seven of his wrestlers did not practice due to grades, injuries, and two who decided to end their wrestling career. Instead of quitting, the team moved on, thanks to freshmen Jesse Hewitt, Ernie Trasp, Dillon Kuda, Kris Ehlinger, and Brad Rickard filing holes of sophomores. At first the team struggled to a record of 2-5, but after the winter break, they won eight straight, finishing the dual meet season at 10-5, including beating Cedar Falls who was 12-0 at the time.

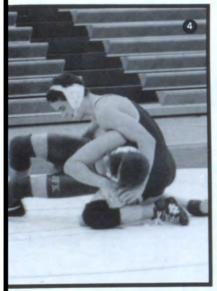

Then came the MVC tournament, where 9 of the 12 who entered finished in the top four of their weight class. As a team, the guys finished in fourth place, just 13 points out of 1st place. The season end banquet handed Lucas Neilson and Ryan Roff with Guts Club honors. Ben French, Ryan Roff, and Dan Newhard received the Most Outstanding Sophomore wrestler awards. Most Outstanding Freshman wrestler was Tim Ironside, and Most Improved Freshman wrestler was given to Lucas Neilsen.

Improvement shows

The 1994-1995 girls' basketball season was one of tough games and disappointing losses but one which ended with great improvement. The season began strong with a big win over Des Moines North at a tournament. However, all too soon the team found out that with a close loss to Johnston in overtime, this would foreshadow the rest of the season.

The girls played some good b-ball but still ended up losing some close ones to Cedar Falls, Wahlert, Regis, Iowa City West, and Linn-Mar. With a record of 4-11, the girls came back strong and determined to win — and they did, improving their record to 8-13 overall.

Keri Gaskill responded, "Our record doesn't show our improvement because we really were playing some good b-ball, yet losing some close ones!"

The season had its ups and downs, but with a lot of improvement being shown.

Success for girls

This year's freshmen teams began with something a little different, instead of just one team, there were two. They did this so that more girls would be able to get in some playing experience. Katie Stein, when asked how she felt about this season, replied, "It went pretty well. If we would have had one team, we could have done better, but it was fun."

The freshmen established various goals such as winning the conference title and working together as a team. By the end of the season they were working well together. She added, "I'd have to say the first game against Kennedy's gold team was the best game of the season. It was pretty close; we worked really hard and played well together as a team."

This year's sophomore team struggled with their season, yet pulled through with a big win against Waterloo East. When asked about the best game, Jill Larsen replied, "Dubuque Wahlert, they were undefeated and even though we didn't win we held them to their lowest point total."

Both teams worked hard and ended with much progress.

The road to state

STATE

Des Moines

It's the time that everyone's been waiting for - the "Big Blue Hoopin' Crew." The boys' basketball team had a season to remember. With returning lettermen Jeremy Howard, and 6'10" Jake Crane, the year was looking very promising. Newcomers were a rim-rocking junior, Bruce Sain, and "Rookie of the Year," Jackson Jones. With the confidence of point guard Tim Schroeder, the J-Hawks were on the right path to state. Taking a 7 and 0 record into winter break, the second part of the season really showed this team's talent.

A high point of the season was the team defeating the #1 ranked Trojans of West High. Senior guard Jeremy Howard said, "We couldn't have done it without the fan support at that game and at all the rest of them." Howard said that it was great playing at home." From then on the J-Hawks were ready to take on any team in the conference. Washington took that challenge and succeeded twice. However, Jefferson got revenge by beating the Warriors in a sub-state final which officially sent them to state, where they lost to WD Valley.

- Andy Courtney, senior tri-team captain, posts up strong and calls for the ball.
- Point guard Tim Schroeder takes it to the hoop.

This year's freshman and sophomore basketball teams were led by coaches Scott Kibby, Steve Hilby, and Dirk Dunbar. The freshman blue team had a record of 7-9. The freshman white team had a record of 3-13.

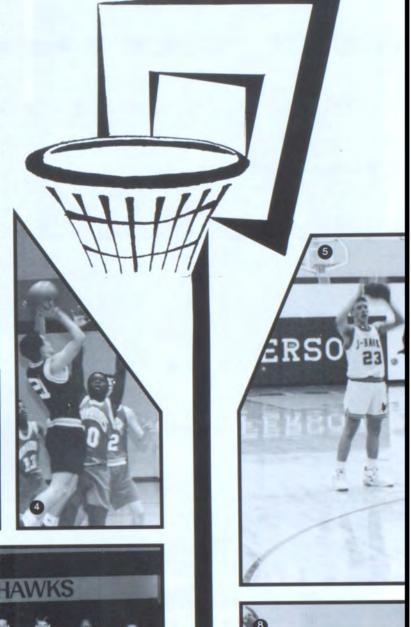

The sophomores had a record of 12-6. Highlights of their season included a 3 point win over Washington in front of a full house, a 61-54 victory against Dubuque Hempstead at Hempstead, and the final game of the season, when a 3pointer with no time left defeated Iowa City West. They placed third in the Mississippi Valley Conference.

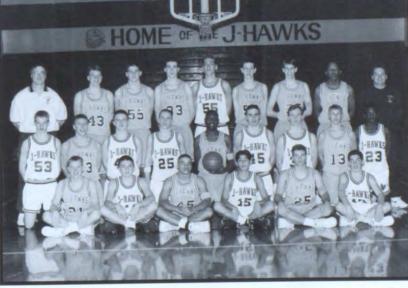

Key players for the sophs included Brad Hamann, Adam Sadler, Corey Young, Justin Jones, Curtis Dennis, and Drew Munson.

When asked about the future for the sophomores, Dunbar commented that, "Some guys will help out on the varsity level next year in supporting roles, and others could develop and help out as seniors."

Season goals were to place high in the conference, to have a winning season, and most importantly, to play as a team.

- 1. Ian Mattiace shoots a 3 pointer.
- The J-Hawks block a shot against Washington.
- The sophomores wait to see if the ball goes in.
- Jeremy Brown shoots for a victory. Ian Mattiace stalls for the J-Hawks.

Team has strength

The men's track season started out with high expectations. Returning to the team were A.B. Cassell and Jason Ringler. The J-Hawks were ready to take on the M.V.C. and the rest of the state. Preparing for one of the biggest meets, the Drake Relays, A.B. Cassell said, "it's very nerve wracking because when you're doing an individual event all eyes are on you." Jason Ringler commented on Drake, "Without the running it was great, because we got to see all the different colleges compete."

Both A.B. and Jason feel good about this year's team. With sophomores Corey Young and Dan Wolfe and the addition of four year runners in A.B. and Jason Ringler, the J-Hawks are on their way to a wonderful season. The team ended its season in 30th place at the State meet.

Pride guides team

As the rain came and the winds blew the women's track team was on their way to the track for practice.

Led by head coach Bill Calloway, the young team grew close as the season progressed. In spite of the bad weather, the team showed great determination and pride in every thing they undertook.

Between warmups, build ups and challenging workouts, each girl got very familiar with the word "work". The positive view to each workout seemed to be the way to deal with every practice. "It's the winning that just seems to keep you going. You know you have to work hard in every practice to get the full benefits. I believe running tough is what makes Jefferson track better than the rest," said Kelli Schlotterbeck. Even though track took a lot of time, it all paid off in the end when several girls made it to state.

Just as laughter filled the lockerroom and girls ran tough, each and every one of them will always remember the track season and the fun they had. The years ahead look promising as the team had many girls who will return next year. The coaches hope they will continue to condition themselves in the off season.

Hard work pays off

The rain beat down on the field with lightning crashing in the sky as the soccer players looked on with dismay. The 1995 soccer season began with many days similar to this. As the season progressed the weather stayed the same — even in the tournament the rain kept coming. The weather didn't do anything to deter the happy and hardworking spirits. Even in the worst of the games the girls learned to keep their heads up and keep on fighting. The tougher the team, the harder the girls worked.

One factor that helped the girls was Coach Jandik's positive attitude. Even after a 0-9 loss against Kennedy, the girls were just about to let the defeat get to them. But Coach Jandik came through with some positive remarks about the game and the girls left feeling good with smiles on their faces.

Of course the team wasn't all work and no play. The girls took as many opportunities as they could to have a good time. On the rainy days the brave girls practiced slide tackling in big puddles. On the muddy days the girls combatted against each other in mud wars, defending one another off the ball, laughed Kia Chandler.

The year ended up with the weather turning beautiful just in time for the men's and women's soccer canoe trip. The day was a perfect way to end a great season.

Squads love sport

The 1995 men's tennis team, with a record of 3 wins and 10 losses, was led by seniors Eric Modracek, Steve Quang, Eric Augustine, and junior Scott Graves.

The three victories came against Waterloo East, CR Regis-LaSalle, and Dubuque Hempstead. The men were led by Coach Mike Schneekloth.

The season goal for the J-Hawks was to improve from last year. The team's toughest opponent was the defending state champions, the CR Washington Warriors.

Highlights for the season were the three victories that the team achieved. Goals for next year are to continue to improve steadily.

The women's tennis team, under the leadership of Coach Jim Lockett, won 11 matches and lost 3 matches during the season. "We had an outstanding year in girls' tennis. Our varsity #1 sophomore Kendra Lindeman, #2 junior Melanie Becker, were picked for first team All-Metro and won the Regional doubles title to qualify for the state tournament," explained Coach Lockett. "Hopefully next year, we'll even be stronger," said Melanie Becker.

Great minds at work

by Ryan Howard

Many things changed during the fall of 1994 but one of the major changes was the Erbe-Rosteck joint classes. Mr. Rosteck teaches AP World History and Mr. Erbe teaches advanced Language Arts. Together they formed two corresponding classes 2nd and 3rd hour. Mike Tschopp said that he enjoyed the idea and he felt that he understood the material better. The main difference this had on the students was that when they did something in L.A. it was on the same topic as what they were studying in World History. For example when the class read Julius Caesar, they were also studying Roman history. Many students enjoyed this change and felt that once again Jefferson High School has raised its standard of excellence.

- Before Class begins, Tina Longie enjoys socializing with Mr. Simmons, a student teacher.
- It may be hot, but these freshman choir members keep on singing.

Learning is great

"I'd say Jefferson students have responded positively to my message, but it still hurts when you can't seem to reach some people," stated Mr. Bryon Stump, a new science teacher. Most students are encouraged by this year's addition of 11 new faculty members and their goals.

Busy schedules are a challenge to many students. They find it hard to balance everything unless they "have a set schedule" as Carolyn Ironside suggested. Others take a different approach to this problem. "I don't sleep!" said Leslie Thomas, voicing the solution many students have found. Noreen Niemeyer agreed that "If grades are important to you, you have to make it a priority. Each teacher expects your best, so you should make a point of giving it to them."

Because of the importance of grades in society, teachers such as Ms. Laurie Busch, our new orchestra teacher, try to give their classes flair. "My goal is to inspire my students to seek out the best experiences and therefore grow and expand their horizons."

Whether you're a teacher or student, Jefferson has a lot to offer. Everyone seems to agree with Mr. Fran Moe, a new I.T. teacher: "It's great to be a J-Hawk!"

RIES...

Jamie,

Thanks for always being there for me when I needed you the most.

♥ ya,

Nicole

Can't get any better than this! whatever ...

Thanks for the past 3, let's make next year even better.

♥ ya - Friends Forever, Mona & G. Toad

Congratulations Pudgy Buns You made it! (Gotcha back Jeremy Truemper) Love, Mom

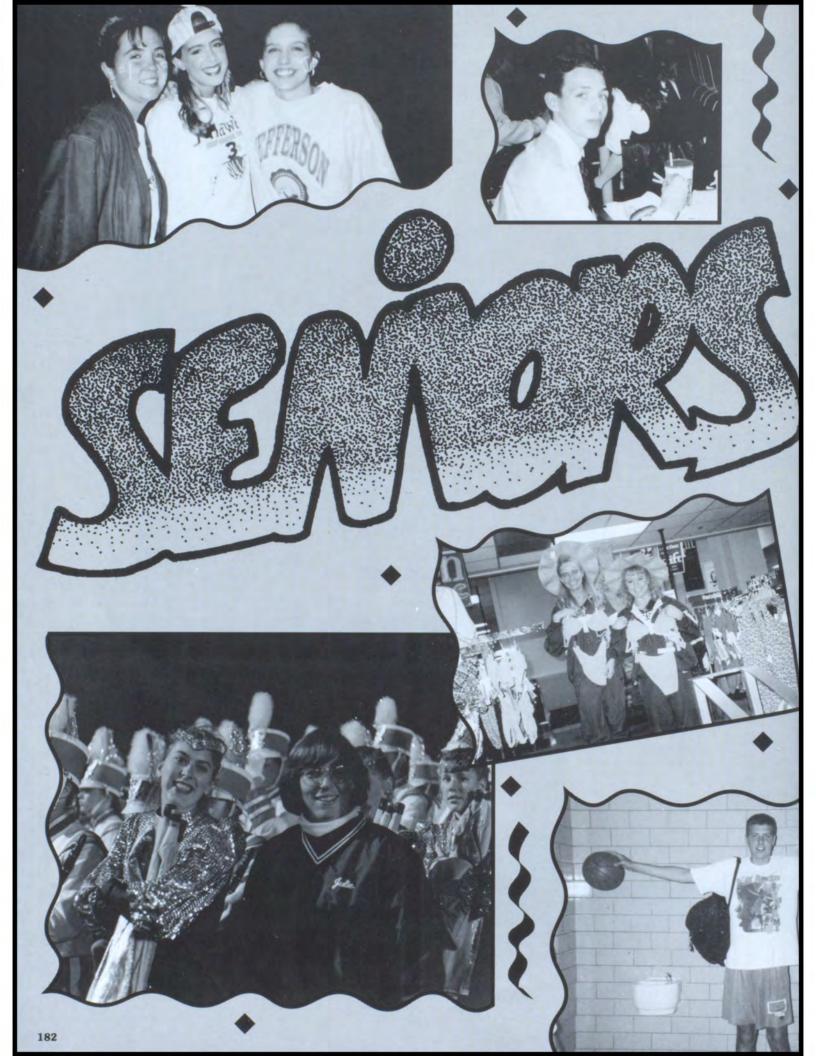

Hey Cuz!

Carrie, I'm really glad we've become such great friends. I know that I can tell you anything and that you'll listen to my feelings. Good luck in the future!

Love, Katie

High school years are

What has been the most memorable experience you've had at Jefferson the last four years?

... My most memorable event came when I was selected to be a soloist in the all-state chorus my junior year.

My most memorable experience at Jefferson has been being a member of the Jefferson drumline.

Karrie Youngbear

... my track seasons. I feel I have excelled during each track season thanks to my coaches and my teammates. I'll remember these days forever.

Shane Kelse

... going to St. Paul, Minnesota, to the Festival of Nation's trip with the International Club ...

Justa Zaruba

... We the football team of '92 were MVC champs and it was the first time that I have ever felt like a champion. I'll never forget that experience and the way I felt.

David Alexander

... Ankeny Marching band competition my freshman year. That year we won it all. We got 1st place!

Brenna Pedelty

What is the most difficult part about being a teenager today?

... I try to be a little different from anyone else. People have a hard time understanding me, therefore they don't accept who I am very much. My years at Jeff have been one long struggle, and maybe one day we'll all look back and respect one another.

... is being able to express openly. It is common in our society to put down those who show emotions in public. Therefore, many hide their emotions to avoid persecution. Perhaps society today wouldn't have so many problems if we were more open with our emotions.

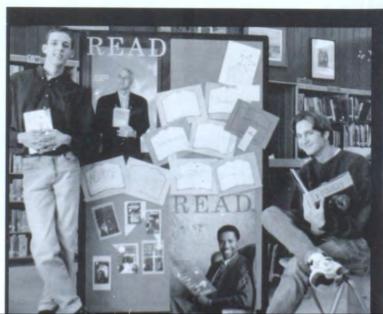

Nathan Coleson ... would have to be living with the stupidity of others. Constant pressure to "fit-in" and the lack of understanding what friendship means.

What everybody thinks you should do and what they expect of you.

Nicole Stastny
Nathan Adams

What will you miss most about leaving high school behind?

As a foreign exchange student I will certainly miss the friends and the teachers who were there all the time and who made living here really easy.

Pascal Gral

Definitely early bird gym, having trouble finding a parking spot, long lunch lines, and most of all the administration's eager willingness to listen to student opinions.

All the friends I made in my 2 /2 years at Jeff. I transferred from S. Carolina and everyone was very friendly and helpful. When we graduate, we will all go our separate ways (college, employment, military, etc.) and have to start all over.

Leaving high school behind is not something that I'm counting down the days to. I like the security of living with my parents and having my friends always by my side. I know what I'm doing in high school and how to have fun but I'm scared about what I have to face in the future. High school is safe but sooner or later I will have to be on my own. I'll miss my friends more than anything and I hope we'll keep in touch through the years.

Bobbi Killean

on minds of graduates

Who has influenced you the most during high school?

The teachers influenced me a great deal, but I think the student body and my friends influenced me the most. I look at the student body and see a lot of them going nowhere and a lot of them going everywhere. I don't lead the way by any means, but I try to follow shortly behind.

John Strommer

Definitely Mr. Rosteck. His teaching doesn't stop when class is over and he'll still remember you and be concerned about you even if you're not in his class anymore.

Summer Turner Linda Patterson. I was deathly afraid of the special J-Hawks until I got Linda as a teacher. Comes to find out I'm a natural when working with them. I plan on working as an occupational therapist, so I can work with the special J-Hawks ...

Coach Dostal has been the influencing teacher/coach. He teaches to you and prepares you for life ahead. He always mentions that life is not fair and that you have to go out there, face it, and do the best you can. Coach Jim Dostal is a class teacher and coach.

Antoine Jenkins

My dad has influenced me the most because he went back to school my freshman year. He always gave me inspiring advice which was somewhat annoying, but also helpful. When I saw my dad graduate I knew I wanted to also.

Erika Olson

What advice can you give upcoming seniors?

If you have Mr. Dostal for gov't you better quit your job and tell your friends you won't be able to have a life for a term.

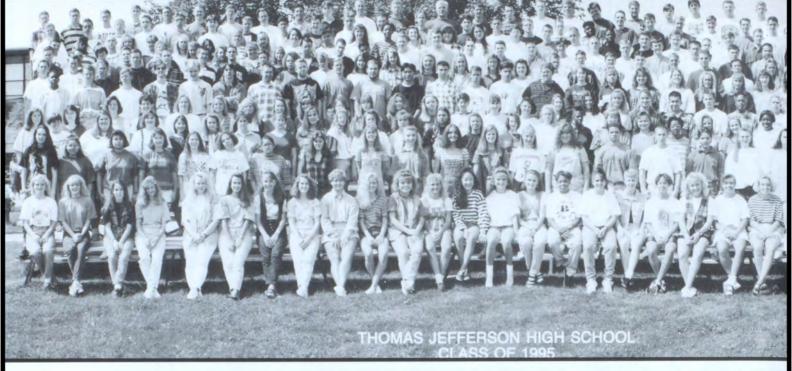

Mandy Miller
If you can survive Humanities, early bird Algebra, and ACT's, and Westside weekends and hold a job. Baby ... You Can Fly!
Mitch Jiroutek

My advice to upcoming seniors is not to take the whole Homecoming thing seriously. Keep in mind that everything gets blown out of proportion and not to take things personally.

Tiffany Smith Being a senior is great, but don't take it too far. Be nice or at least try to be nice to everyone. Even those people that you consider less than you.
